Surgeon General Rupert Blue has reported to the Secretary of the Treasury as follows: "While the studies of the board assigned to that work have not yet been completed the preliminary report shows that the extravagant claims made by its sponsors for the treatment have not been confirmed by the board. The observations of the patients in the New York hospitals are being continued."

NIKOFF ATTEMPT TO CUT HIS BEST FRIEND'S HEAD OFF

Youthful Veteran of Balkan War Sent to Penitentiary for Three Years

Toronto, Mar. 26.—Despite the fact that George Giffio had sheltered and fed him since he arrived from the Balkan war, five months ago, Pencl Nikkof, an 18-year-old youth, stabbed his benefactor so severely that for some time his recovery was despaired of. In the police court this morning Nikkof pleaded self-defence but the Magistrate decided that it was too serious a case to treat leniently and sentenced him to the penitentiary for three years.

The evidence showed that the prisoner had slashed Giffio across the neck and in the head and in the shoulder.

Nearly Severed Jugular Vein.

"How many cuts were there?" asked acting Crown Attorney Hughes.

The doctor who had rendered first aid replied that one of them had almost severed the jugular vein.

"Why, he was trying to cut his head off," said the Magistrate.

The severity of the sentence dazed the prisoner who staggered downstairs. His shrieks and yells from the cells below were so loud and insistent that they interrupted the court proceedings.

The trouble is said to have arisen when Giffio resented the attentions of the accused to his wife, and turned him into the street.

WHY LAKEHURST ROUTE IS CLOSED

The bridge at Gannon's Narrows is out of repair, and the courier refuses to carry the mail to Lakehurst on the Peterborough-Lakehurst rural mail route. A petition of some sort has been forwarded to the Minister, but it is understood that the inspector will ask the authorities to mend the bridge, which is a necessity to the highway.

FAST GROWERS

"P'taters is good this mornin, madam," said the old farmer making his weekly call.

"Oh, are they? retorted the customer. That reminds me. How is it that hem you sold me last week is so much smaller at the bottom of the basket than at the top?

"Waal," replied the old man, p'taters ,s growin' so fast now that by the time I get a basketful dug the last ones is about twice the size of the first.

MONTREAL MUDDLE BECOMES MORE MIXED

Task of Deciding What Shall Be Done With Guilty Officials Shelved.

Montreal, March 26.—The task of deciding what shall be done with the civic officials, yesterday found guilty of irregularities by Judge Fortin in his report on the land purchases of the city, will be left to the new city council which will be elected onApril 6th. This decided by the retiring city council. The report of the Judge, whose investigations it was hoped by the members of the city council adverse to to the board of control, would implicate some of the commissioners has proved a regular boomerang as it completely exonerates the controllers and accuses Alderman Judge of accepting a commission on the sale of land to the city, thereby disqualifying himself from holding office for five years, Alderman Lotourneau of asking for a commission, exAld. Lamoureau of having sold his services while an Alderman, thereby violating a section of the criminal code, a priest with speculating in land, and a number of officials of malversation.

ULSTER WILL NEVER ACCEPT HOME RULE

Toronto, March 26.—Dr. J.J. Middleton has just returned to Toronto from Ulster, where he has been staying since last September, and he is therefore able to give reliable information as to the situation in the North of Ireland.

"It seems to me like Mexico" he told the News. Every town you go into you see Unionists marching in the evening. You go on to some country road and you see a factory yard, and you hear the order of the officers drilling the men. From the shadows you see policemen peering, to see if there are any guns. The way i look at the situation is this Strife has got to such fever heat that there is little logic on either side, and every outrage by the Nationalists or the Unionists is exaggerated by their political opponents. The Unionists declare there will have to be a fight before it is finished. It was rumored before I left that the Government were about to make the concession of giving Ulster countries the opportunity of saying whether they would remain outside Home Rule for six years, and the way the Unionists put it is: Shall we be under the heel of a Dublin Parliament now, or wait for six years? and there answer is: we will never submit to it at any time."

Expects Civil War.

"From your observation do you think there is sure to be civil war? Dr. Middleton was asked.

"I am afraid so unless the leaders keep the people in check," was the reply. Unionists themselves are willing and ready to fight once and for all.

Mr. George P. Graham makes an noise like a motor-cycle, but he does not get on so rapidly .

MR. PATRICK MÓRGAN ADDRESSES LARGE AUDIENCE

PROTESTANTISM NO MERE "NEGATION"

Lecturer Declared That the Roman Catholic System is Founded on Human Inventions

"We Protestants believe in receiving only the pure milk of the Word of God. A few weeks ago an Ottawa dairyman was heavily fined for mixing water with his milk. Roman Catholic priests give a very similar sort of 'milk.' They give some milk from the Word of God, and then they go to the Pope's water-pump and dilute it. What we want is the pure milk of the Word of God. Every one of the distinctive Roman doctrines is so much pollution added to God's Word."

The foregoing was the opening sentence of an exceedingly interesting and instructive address delivered by Mr. Patrick Morgan, editor of The Liberator, Ottawa, to a large audience in the Park street Baptist church yesterday evening. The subject of the lecture was: "What is Protestantism, and where shall we find it?"

"Roman Catholic Priests," continued Mr. Morgan, "boldly assert that a Protestant's faith is summed up in the brief sentence, 'I don't believe in Popery!' according to these gentlemen, everything in and about a Protestant may be looked upon as little else than a thundering No! red hot from the mouth of a bigot. Indeed, one revered father whom I knew very well comically prounced Protestantism to be a religion of 'Don't!'

"It does not require a very extensive acquaintance, I should think, with the Latin language to know the difference between 'pro' and 'con.' In all words where 'pro' forms a part of the compound, affirmation should be expected. 'Pro' signifies something positive. Again, 'testis' is the Latin word for 'witness'; 'stans' is the Latin participle for 'standing'; therefore, it is plain that the words pro-testis-stans—for or openly a witness standing, form the component parts of the word 'Protestant.' This then is the meaning of the word 'Protestant,' which when properly understood, means a 'witness.'

"Here is the principle of Protestantism: I will seek the truth, I will find the truth, and I will hold to the truth.

"Protestantism plants in the mind of every man who receives it the living seed of freedom. It imparts a strength which all material forces of tyranny cannot overcome. Protestantism bears witness to truth. Romanism does not do so. She will very readily, even gladly, allow people to believe what she thinks edifying, what she thinks helpful, what she thinks pious, 'a pious opinion,' she calls it, whether it is true or no. 'Oh,' she says, 'it will do people good—let them believe it. Why not?'

"Pope Boniface VIII. in his celebrated Bull, 'unam Sanctum' declared: 'it to be necessary to salvation for every human creature to be subject to the Roman Pontiff.'

"Where can you find a word about the Pope in the Holy Word of God? How do Roman Catholics account for the silence of the Scripture, which is so eloquent against Papal claims?

"There is a Vicar of Christ upon earth, and He is God the Holy Ghost. Woe be to the man who blasphemously assumes the prerogative of God the Holy Ghost!

"The nearest approach to real Christian unity is to be found amongst the Protestant Churches; it cannot be found in the 'Church of Rome.' There are many points upon which Protestants are united. By Protestants I mean all true Evangelical Churchmen, and they constitute the overwhelming majority. I challenge any Roman Catholic priest to deny the existence of the following marks of real unity between all true Protestants:

1. "Protestants are united in submitting to one Head of the Church only.

2. "We are united in accepting the Bible as the one and only Rule of Faith, and the only infallible Guide from earth to heaven.

3. "We are united in accepting the two Sacraments of the Church—Baptism and the Supper of the Lord.

4. "We are united, those of us who are God's children, in a true spiritual blood relationship with all who are in heart and life children of God. Ours is the real unity of the family life.

5. "We are united in acknowledging Jesus Christ as our only sacrificing Priest, and His Sacrifice as the only one for the sins of the world.

6. "I am sure that even Roman Catholics will admit that all Protestants are united in opposing the 'Church of Rome.' We are all fighting against her claims to spiritual supremacy and temporal sovereignty. But we are not fighting Roman Catholics; we are fighting the system which enslaves them. We pray that with God's help we may be the means of bringing them out of slavery, and giving them something that will satisfy them more than the husks with which they are now fed.

The Bull Unigenitus condemns and punishes those who think or teach that, the reading of the Sacred Scriptures is for all.

"Pope Pius IX. (in Encyclical Letter, December 8th, 1849), says: It is contrary to the rules of the Church . . . to distribute the Scriptures . . . in the vulgar tongue.

"Paul says: the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. (2 Timothy 4:15).

"In Rome, Mass is said every day—(Catechism of Christian Religion, Vol. ii., p. 187).

"Scripture plainly teaches that Christ offered up Himself once for all, and that there remaineth no more offering for sin.—Hebrews 7:27; 10:12, 14, 18.

The Church of Rome has decreed the infallibility of the Pope.

The Roman Catholics confess infallibility to the doctrinal statements of the Pope speaking from the chair of Peter, that is, to the Papal Bulls.

Her theologians have to admit that some of the Popes were monsters of iniquity, as Alexander VI., and Paul III., and John XXIII. The last of these was deposed by the Council of Constance for crimes too revolting to appear in public print.

The Church of Rome claims supremacy over all the churches of Christendom.

The Mother and Mistress of all Churches. (Creed of Pope Pius IE., 10). The Churches of Jerusalem, Judaea, Antioch, etc., were confessedly founded before that of Rome. How can a mother have daughters older than herself?

The practice of Auricular Confession injures the manliness of the character, weakens the sense of moral responsibility, and is frought with danger to the priest as well as to the people.

If "the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7), what need is there of Purgatory? Surely, if anyone ever needed it, it was the dying thief; yet Christ said to him: "To-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise." (Luke 23:43). Paul asserts of the saints, "absent from the body, . . . present with the Lord" (2 Cor. 5:8), and John "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord" (Rev. 14:13).

Roman Catholics pray to the Virgin Mary.

But the Word of God says: Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God and Him only shalt thou serve.—(Matthew 4:10).

Rome has made a new religion.

The Church of Christ has held the Three Creeds from early times, but in A.D. 1564, Pope pius IV. added twelve new Articles to the Nicene Creed, all contrary to Scripture. Besides these, in 1854, the doctrine of the IMMACULATE CONCEPTION, and in 1870, the INFALLIBILITY OF THE POPE, were declared to be Articles of the Faith.

The Liberator, the monthly in which Mr. Morgan pours out his heart, has come to be the organ through which Evangelical Protestants speak to Canada. People look upon it as an unterrified tribune which will expose Roman Catholic shams and air Protestant grievances plausibly and forcibly. The Liberator has a large growing circulation, and keeps Mr. Morgan busy writing and cartooning.

His theme is always Protestantism. A natural orator, he is constantly in great demand. His lecture public is so large that a mere announcement of his appearance always means a full house.

Mr. Morgan is a tall, pleasant-looking man—a scholar and a gentleman. Slight, though muscular of build. He has a large head, covered by a wealth of curly dark brown hair, fringing an intensely intellectual face. Out of it flash two deeply penetrating eyes. He possesses a winning smile, a wonderfully receptive mind, a temperament which is both modest and fiery, and an arsenal of information about Rome, the big men in her communion and the undercurrents of clerical life. You come away from him, understanding why his enemies fear him, and no longer wondering how he counts powerful friends by the score. You hear him called a thundering iconoclast in Ottawa, but Canada would be the poorer without him.

The chair was occupied by the Rev. P. A. Conners, pastor of the Park street church, who in addressing the meeting referred to the splendid way in which the Ministerial Association of Ottawa had acted in regard to Mr. Morgan. On the platform was Evangelist Wilson A. Pugsley, who has been conducting for the past two weeks special services in Park street church. Mr. Gilbert Peter, up to four weeks ago a Roman Catholic, feelingly rendered an excellent solo.

At the close of the meeting, many shook hands with Mr. Morgan renewing their acquaintance [illegible]

SIM SIMPKINS.

Sim Simpkins don't believe in things;
His fancy never spreads its wings.
He says that "two an' two is four
An' so shill be forevermore."
When Morse got up the telegraph
Old Sim read of it with a laugh,
And then says he:
"Huh! Needn't tell me.
I don't believe what I can't see."

And when 'twas said electric lights
Should gleam and glimmer through th' nights
Old Sim said: "Shucks! How'll ye send fire
A-scootin' through a solid wire?"
He proved that it could not be done
By argument that weighed a ton.
When "Humph!" said he.
"You needn't tell me.
I don't believe what I can't see."

When Bell announced the telephone
Old Sim read of it with a groan
And wiped his specs and slowly said:
"Th' feller's plainly off his head.
Th' idy! Talk an' I could hear
Ten miles away all plain an' clear!
Huh! No, sir-ree;
You needn't tell me!
I don't believe what I can't see."

The wireless telegraph made Sim
Deny its truth with language grim.
"It's nothin' but a pesky sham.
Now, who could breathe a tellygram?"
And when the Wrights got up and flew
Old Sim just took another chew,
And "Umph!" said he.
"You needn't tell me!
I don't believe what I can't see."

Don't think this shaft is aimed at Sim
And that there's only one of him.
Oh, gentle reader, you and I
Learn of some truths, but do not try
To make them true, but wisely frown,
And arguments we try to drown
With "No, sir-ree;
You needn't tell me!
I don't believe what I can't see."
—Chicago Post.

Soporific.

"I heard one man," said the playwright, "who attended the premiere of my new play last night complain that it was so late when he got out."

"Yes?" queried the critic.

"Yes, and yet the final curtain fell before 10:45."

"Ah, perhaps he overslept himself!" —Catholic Standard and Times.

In Half Mourning.

"I don't understand you, Linda. One day you're bright and jolly and the next depressed and sad."

"Well, I'm in half mourning; that's why."—Fliegende Blatter.

Lost Both Ways.

"Did you get in without your wife hearing you last night?"

"No, and I didn't get in without hearing her, either."—Houston Post.

Opera in Dumb Show.

The late Clara Novello in her reminiscences tells how Malibran once appeared in "Sonnambula" without uttering a note. She had taken cold and was prevented from singing at the last moment, though crowds of early comers already filled the house. "On the manager telling her, in despair, that, besides loss of money, these disappointed people would be dangerous she said, 'I can't speak above my breath; I should have to do it in dumb show.' Bunn at once caught at this outburst as if seriously meant and on his knees begged her to try this, and she, fired by the novelty, did so. The grateful public raved in praise of this surprising tour de force, and the sensation it made filled the papers."

The Lesson She Learned.

A fair western co-ed and one of the male seniors fell violently in love and neglected their studies shamefully. Both were expelled. The fair co-ed thereupon wrote this interesting reply to the faculty:

Gentlemen—You have expelled me for neglecting my studies, yet I have learned at your institution more than you will ever know. I have learned the meaning of love. What is the use of studying botany if I am not allowed to gather roses? Why should I devote myself to astronomy if I may not look at the stars? What does it profit me to spend years on mathematics and neglect my own figure? You have expelled my fiance also. Do you think he is unhappy? We were married last evening.

Sand Swept Asia.

In the arid lands of central Asia the air is reported as often laden with fine detritus, which drifts like snow around conspicuous objects and tends to bury them in a dust drift. Even when there is no apparent wind the air is described as thick with fine dust, and a yellow sediment covers everything. In Khotan this dust sometimes so obscures the sun that at midday one cannot see to read fine print without a lamp.

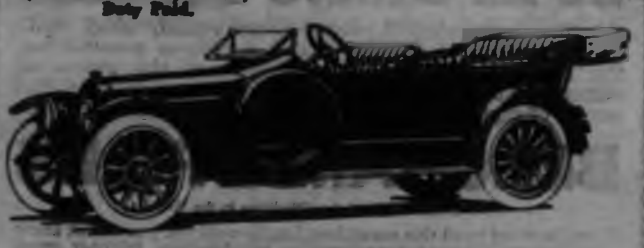
The Hudson Six-54, $2950
(f. o. b. Detroit, Mich.)
Duty Paid.



Cost of Running HUDSON Six is Less Than a Four

Prove it for yourself. Make the best record you can with your Four. Don't deceive yourself. Be fair about it. Then come to us and ask us to show you what we can do with the HUDSON Six of proportionately the same class and horse-power. We will show you that it will cost you less to own and run a HUDSON Six than to continue the use of your Four. This may surprise you, in view of the vehement assertions of dealers who want to sell Fours. Nevertheless it is a fact capable of easy demonstration.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realize its great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheelbase, motor 4½ x 5¼, developing 55 horse power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4650. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3½x5, developing 47 horse power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $2300, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. Catalog on request. Demonstrations as arranged. Prices f. o. b. Detroit, Mich. Duty paid.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose entirely [illegible] a cure. Further information free. [illegible] [illegible] Parkdale [illegible] [illegible] Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Not a Novice Manager

The business of bossing a gang of ball players is not an entirely new thing for Charlie Herzog, new manager of the Reds. Herzog managed a bunch of Giant rookies a number of years ago with some success until he was punched out of his job.

A gentleman by the name of Cocash, who has figured on Canadian League teams, did the punching. He objected to some criticism Herzog made to his playing during an exhibition game in Dallas, Texas. sought out Herzog after the game and promptly dislocated Herzog's teeth with one mighty swing to the mouth.

When McGraw arrived in Dallas next day and learned of the row he chased Cocash back into the minors and relieved Herzog of the job as rookie manager.

No Remedy Like Old "Nerviline" to Cure Pain or Soreness.

That terrible ache—how you fairly reel with it—that stabbing, burning neuralgia—what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nerviline, it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nerviline among the people of many different nations. "There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgic headache than old-time 'Nerviline,'" writes Mr. G. C. Dalgleish, from Evanston. "It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pain in a minute. My family couldn't get along without Nerviline. We always keep the 50c family size bottle handy on the shelf, and use it to end chest colds, sore throat, coughs, earache, toothache and pain in the back. My wife swears by Nerviline. For cramps its effect is astonishing and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy."

Addressing an audience of Toronto ladies, Dr. Roberts, of the Immigration Department of the New York Y.W.C.A., described in detail the many dangers besetting young girl immigrants entering United States cities. He denounced employment agencies for conniving at attempts to get girls applying for positions into questionable resorts. Cautioning words along such lines, dealing with any specific set of conditions, are never amiss. They draw attention to the need of special protection for girls whose friendlessness and unfamiliarity with New World ways make them the unwitting prey of villains. But it is scarcely just to do as most persons hearing Dr. Roberts would do—conclude that Canadian conditions are necessary a duplicate of those in New York or Philadelphia. The Borden Government not long ago took action to bring all employment bureaus in Canada under license one of the conditions of the license being a recommendation of the local chief of police. Several prosecutions of employment agents have been initiated for offences under the new regulations. The Dominion Government also, at the request of several social welfare organizations, appointed special officers to watch for "white slave" traffic in connection with immigration and railway transportation. So far as Governmental agency can be effective, victimizing of immigrant girls is most carefully suppressed. It is, of course, impossible to supervise the comings and goings of any class of immigrants when they become established as part of a community. Social rescue and vice prevention work are so personal that much of the responsibility in connection therewith must rest upon the organizations devoted to the purpose. The Criminal Code in relation to "white slavery" cases is now as thoroughly severe and comprehensive as similar law in any country.

THOROUGHBREDS SHOW STEADY IMPROVEMENT

The light of other days always shines more brilliantly for some of our instructors, and each generation finds someone to lament the past and exalt the worthies who then flourished. The superiority of the horses of the preceding generation is a favorite conviction of writers of this turn of mind, and it is easy to find in turf chronicles of fifty years ago the exact repetition of lamentations over the changes for the worse that are not uncommon to-day. Yet there is no good ground for believing other than that the merit and quality of horses of every breed are steadily improving. The thoroughbred may be best compared because of the practical uniformity of the supreme test, that of speed on the racecourse. By this standard the progress is up, not down, and horses are improving, not deteriorating. Tracks are faster to a certain extent than 50 years ago, but not nearly so much as to account for the difference in the times recorded. No other sport can be cited in which, under similar circumstances, deterioration would be claimed. As a New Zealand trainer not long ago put it: 'I have yet to hear it contended that the man capable of running a hundred yards in 10½ seconds is superior to the man who can do it in 10 seconds and yet that is the position taken up by many people in respect of racing. If the horse of 20 years ago was better than the one of to-day the same line of argument might be carried back still further. Perhaps the present-day horse may not be as tough as the oldtimer, but as a speed machine he is [illegible] ahead of him."

TROUSERS FOR WOMEN

"The blossom cannot tell what becomes of the odor, and no man can tell what becomes of his example, that rolls away from him and goes beyond his ken on its perilous mission."—H. J. Beecher.

• • •

It is stated as an actual fact that the first pair of trousers have actually been worn by a woman in daylight and undisguised. The new costume is invented by a Parisian tailor, of course. It consists of a short coat, and a wrap-over skirt which fastens in front over the trousers. The latter are creased as a man's and turned up around the ankle. Its inventor claims that the costume is practical and convenient, and the trousers being made of the same material as the skirt are not nearly so conspicuous as are the silk stockings which are visible through the slit and slashed skirts and only the turned up ends of the trousers can be seen when the skirt is fastened. There is no doubt that something of the sort is bound to come before long. All women's dress is tending towards the elimination of the skirt. Nowadays with so many professional women, athletic women, women engaged in men's trades, etc., it is inevitable that some form of practical dress will have to be designed to meet their requirements, and a general simplification has been going on for some time past. Skirts without fulness, plain coats, the disappearance of the petticoat, and so forth all show the trend of ideas, while for some time past in Alpine sports, in riding, in mountain climbing and in other occupations where there is risk to life and limb the skirt has been altogether dispensed with and no one has seemed to be greatly agitated or shocked about it. The change has come about so gradually that it has scarcely been noticed, and the eccentricities and freaks of fashion keep the attention of the public rivetted upon them while all the time the real and vital changes are taking place and by the time the public wake up to the fact have become accepted. Bicycling for women was the beginning of it, and sports and professions have developed it. It is no uncommon thing for little girls nowadays to be dressed exactly like their brothers when at the seaside or in the country, and it will not be long before the older girls and women adopt the same costume if they find it practical and comfortable, and so by degrees it is likely that a mannish style of dress will be used for everyday wear, though I doubt if the skirt will ever be abandoned for house and smart wear. But you never can tell.

KEEPING ACCOUNTS

Enter Each Item and Thus Avoid a Muddle

Most women are not nearly sufficiently particular about keeping accounts—they are apt to think it is dull and unnecessary work. It is quite a mistaken attitude to adopt, however, for it is only by keeping accounts that a woman can learn how to manage her money in the best and most advantageous way. Certainly women of every degree and position will find their money covers much more ground when they see the wisdom that lies in keeping regular accounts.

Accounts must be kept in the right way, but that does not necessitate a great deal of work, and any elaborate book-keeping is misplaced. One large account book and a set of small ones are required—the large one to be balanced up once a month, the small ones being for weekly accounts. The small books must be divided up under various headings, according to the various calls that are made upon a woman's pocket. The latter vary so much according to individual responsibilities that it is impossible to generalize. Anyway, one book should be devoted to each department in which money is chiefly spent, and quarterly or monthly or weekly (as the case may be) the money which has to cover certain things should be systematically divided among them. This must be entered into each of the respective books, on one side as "Money received," and on the opposite side must be entered a full and complete account of "Money spent." It is most essential that every item should be regularly entered in the right little book on both the credit and debit sides. It is not an atom of good for women to follow the example of the schoolboy who kept his accounts like this: Collection, 10 cents; car fares, 25 cents; sundries, $3.50; total money spent, $5. That is only waste of time and energy. Accounts are kept so that one can tell exactly how every cent has been spent—the importance of entering each item immediately cannot be too strongly emphasized. The items, however, should not be enumerated when balancing the small books into the monthly one—then it is only necessary to put the covering heading which appears on the outside of each little book.

It is wise to keep all old account books. If some one item of expenditure is shown for no apparent reason, a reference to last year's books will often show where the reason lies. The advantages of keeping accounts are many, and such that no woman can fail to appreciate once she determines to give up a little of her spare time to keeping the books in order.

DAYLIGHT SAVING GROWING POPULAR

The late King Edward himself practised daylight saving on lines similar to those proposed in the Parliamentary Bill. For many years at Sandringham he caused clocks to be advanced thirty minutes during the summer months, and in the last two years of his life he caused the same rule to be observed at Windsor and Balmoral, and said he was favorably disposed towards the Bill.

So far 285 members of the House of Commons have expressed their approval, including Liberals (Mr. Churchill, Mr. Lloyd George, and Mr. Birrell amongst them), Conservatives (Mr. Balfour, Lord Charles Beresford, and Mr. Austen Chamberlain), Labor members, and Nationalists. Fifty members of the House of Lords have also said "Aye!" including Lord Roberts, Lord Rosebery, the Duke of Devonshire, and the Bishop of London. Many railway companies support the Bill which Mr. William Willett is pushing vigorously while favoring resolutions have also been passed by four county councils, 655 city corporations and town and district councils, 78 chambers of commerce, and innumerable other important bodies.

Everybody now knows the scheme, or should. On the third Sunday in April it is proposed that standard time shall advance 60 minutes, and on the third Sunday in September recede 60 minutes. The little change would be done in the early hours, and we should know nothing about it—except that on every day between these dates we should move about in one extra hour of sunlight. This would mean a yearly gain of 154 hours of daylight, equivalent to 17 holidays of nine hours each. In artificial light alone Mr. Willett estimates that we should save at least £2,500,000 a year.

SPELLING REFORM

Authors Listen to an Appeal For Simpler Spelling

The Authors' Club of London discussed with considerable seriousness and occasional hilarity the subject of "Spelling Reform." The chairman, Professor Walter Rippmann, said authors and writers would welcome the proposal to determine what is good English speech, because a little reflection showed that a well-established standard alone would prevent the splitting up of English and restore the dialects to honor. He would not talk glibly about the "natural growth of language" in connection with spelling and standard speech without a careful study of linguistics, which showed in how limited a sense the expression was true. Being accustomed to the present look of the printed language, the first appearance of words in their own guise would distress the author, but his common sense would tell him that there was no intrinsic beauty in the printed word, and that those accustomed to words in a garb more fitting to the sounds would consider that spelling beautiful—with better reason. On the other hand, the author would recognise that the long hours now spent in our schools over the mechanical drudgery of learning to spell would be better employed in learning to speak clearly and in reading good literature; that, instead of the distaste for reading often engendered by our irrational spelling, the taste for good literature would be fostered; that the writer would come to think more of the sound of his words and make them more pleasing to the ear; that with a spelling that consistently represented the sounds it would become far easier to teach our language to our fellow subjects of alien race and the great obstacle would be removed to English as the language of international communication. Thus the adoption of a rational spelling would bring about a more intensive and a more extensive appreciation of our literature; there would be more time for its study in our schools, more care for its beauty in speech and writing, and a vast increase in the number of those who read English books. No man of letters could afford to remain indifferent to such an appeal, coming as it did not from a body of cranks and faddists, but from men and women whose ability and judgment none would dare to question.

Boy Attacked by Bulldogs

A lad, ten years of age, was set upon in a small garden in Dundee by four bulldogs. A fifth dog, a large retriever, was also on the scene, but took no part in the attack. When help arrived the boy was found to be severely lacerated and utterly exhausted. The dogs were ultimately driven off, and the boy taken to the infirmary. The bulldogs were removed to the premises of a veterinary surgeon, to be kept under observation in case of complications.

Automatic Motor Signal

Of English invention is a signal automatically operated by the clutch pedal to display the word "slow" or "stop" beside an automobile rear light as a warning to following drivers.

BISHOP'S PLEA FOR SUNDAY

The Bishop of Willesden presided over a conference called by the Harrow and District Free Church Council to consider the question of Sunday defence. The Bishop said that it was absolutely necessary to stir up a large body of opinion in favor of keeping Sunday as a day of rest, for owing to the apathy of electors, time after time the legislation on the subject was not being carried out. With regard to the question of Sunday cinemas in Middlesex, he rejoiced at the action taken by the county council, and could assure the members that they had the solid support of all the religious bodies behind them. In Canada public opinion had been so far influenced as to preserve the Sunday for the working man, and the churches had successfully protested against the opening of any places of amusement.

They wanted to see to it that in England Acts of Parliament were carried out, so that the working man should have his recognized day of rest. The appalling monotony of going on day after day without a break led to terrible results, and he welcomed the proposal to form a committee for Sunday defence.

Dead Wife's Letter

A retired captain named Barrett, living at Plymouth recently received a letter from his wife, who has been dead for ten years.

This letter was written by Mrs. Barrett twenty years before she died, and posted at Redruth, Cornwall, where she was then living, to Captain Barrett, who was in Spain. The letter never reached Captain Barrett, and evidently the Spanish Post Office is a most reliable institution, though perhaps a little slow, for the letter was sent back from Spain to Redruth thirty years after it was posted.

The Redruth postal officials traced Captain Barrett to Plymouth, where the letter was delivered to him.

RADIUM'S OFFICIAL LIST

Explained by Head of Berlin Imperial Institute

Like weights and measures, radium preparations are now officially tested as to their efficiency in Germany. This is the task of the Imperial Physical-Technical Institute, in whose custody is a so-called secondary standard, equalling the "normal" radium measure which is kept in Paris. Details of the process are given by Prof. Warburg, the director of the institute, in the periodical Radium in Biology and Medicine.

The method of testing consists in the measurement of the gamma rays emanated by the preparation submitted for examination. This can only be done when the preparation has been kept for six weeks in a thin glass tube, as the radium only becomes constant after that period. After another week the preparation is retested, a differential of 1 per cent. being allowed for natural changes. The certificate of genuineness which is thereupon issued by the institute stipulates that the values stated therein must be understood to apply to radium only, not to any other radioactive substances which the preparation may contain, such as mesothorium.

The reason for this is that when the two substances are combined the radiation gradually increases for two months and then again weakens. Pure mesothorium preparations are similarly "hall marked" by their own standard, while for radioactive waters and salts the French "millicurie" is the accepted unit of measurement.

The Money Grubber a Misfit in Nature

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

Winifred Black

A MAN in a Connecticut town died the other day and left $60,000 in the bank.

He was a watchman. He worked 16 hours a day, rain or shine, hot or cold, ill or well, and he got $2 a day for it. He lived in a little house all by himself and ate three times a day bread and onions. He never had visitors, and he never went visiting. He didn't subscribe for a daily paper; he belonged to no library and he had bought just one book in the last 40 years.

He did not care for the theatre. He never went to the races, and nobody ever saw him buy so much as an ice cream cone for even himself, or anybody else.

He lived like a dormouse in his little house, the world forgetting, by the world forgot. I wonder what he thought about on summer evenings when the moon threw a spangled net of silver over the river that ran close to the little hut where he lived.

And when the meadow larks began to call in the spring, I wonder if he ever got time to go out and look for shooting stars and Dutchman's breeches, or if he thought everything that wasn't good to eat was just a weed, and ought to be pulled up for taking the ground away from the potatoes.

What Good Is His Money Now?

When the June sun made the roses along the railroad track smell like Araby the Blest—though they were just wild and only pink and sweet and not worth a penny in the world—what did he think then of the wild extravagance of the hand that flung them there to seed and blossom, just because they were pretty and made the world brighter to look at.

When the winter stars sparkled frostily in the cold sky, did he ever look up at them, this man who worked so hard and lived so poor—to save a fortune—and wonder why they shone so brightly?

The butterflies, little yellow fellows with white spots of silver on their wings, they grow that way down in Connecticut where this poor rich man lived, and great brown moths with wings of ringed yellow—what did he think of them, I wonder, and of their part in the great plan of creation?

The wild cucumber vine crept up over his lonely habitation and spangled the humble roof with its veil of bubbling lace. I wonder why? There was no money in it.

Of evenings when the lonely old man sat for a while on the hard earth at his doorstep, did he note the grasshoppers fiddling so cheerily there in the dusk?

Queer old fellows, the grasshoppers. I always like to believe that they are the fiddlers for the fairies who live down there in the grass and the clover. They never tire, and when the dancing flags they leap into the air to show how proper dancing should be done. I shall always believe that the man who invented the tango thought of this on a June evening when the grasshoppers were out for a frolic. Did he ever watch them jumping in the clover, poor old man, who died the other day and left $60,000 in the bank—after a lifetime of grudging privation and niggardly economies?

I wonder what his heirs will do with it. I hope there's a pretty niece with cheeks like roses and Irish eyes like violets drenched in dew. I hope she'll buy a pretty hat with a pink rose on it and a soft frock of white, or some such color, to wear to Holy Communion some Easter Sunday.

No Savings Bank for Nature.

I hope there's a strapping nephew, too, with a pair of broad shoulders and two honest hands that can spend, as well as save.

"Bless their hearts, sure it's a fine dinner they'll have the day, and new shoes, too, with plenty of "creak" in them.

The earth where they dug the grave was hard—as hard as the heart of what they call a miser. But the man lies snug and warm, snug and warm, and it costs him never a cent for food or shelter.

No more extravagance in the way of a fire, no more folly of bread at a nickel a loaf, snug and warm and sheltered, who so well content as he?

But when the grass begins to grow, and the birds are at their silly chattering and all the railroad track along which the old watchman used to walk is ablow with wild roses and blue with morning-glories—will it not be well for a frugal soul to be out of the way of the sight of the reckless and wicked extravagance of nature?

Brown will run the water in the brooks and deep and deep will rush the swelling tide of the hurrying river to the brimming sea—all wasted, all thrown away, for what?

Not a savings bank in sight for Mother Nature!

What a mistake it all must have seemed to the honest, hard-working old man—who saved—and died.

In the first menu, if the endive salad is made by splitting the blade of leaves, then stuffing them with the cheese crushed into a paste moistened with French dressing, then pressed together and piled into the salad bowl before putting on the well chilled mayonnaise, it will be found most tasty.

In the second menu the spring salad is made of thinly sliced cucumbers, radishes and spring onions, with some white lettuce leaves cut with the scissors into ribbons. A sour cream dressing, or a light mayonnaise is best with this salad.

The lobster cutlets of the third menu are made by flaking the cold boiled lobster and adding to the meat a half cup of fine bread crumbs, one egg, juice of an onion, juice of half a lemon, pepper and salt. Form into cutlets, dip in egg, roll in crumbs and fry in hot fat; serve with garnish of cress and sauce tartare.

The cream cheese salad in the fourth menu is made by having a bed of white lettuce leaves in the salad bowl, and at the last minute putting a package of cream cheese into the ricer and lightly squeezing it over the lettuce. It looks like spaghetti and is decorative and cool. A French dressing is poured on just as it is served. Pineapple shortcake is made like the old-fashioned shortcake of biscuit dough, and may be eaten hot or cold. Be sure, however, that there is extra syrup enough to serve with it.

For the famous Russian sauce, take a cup of heavy mayonnaise, add to it a tablespoonful of catsup, juice of a half small onion, pepper, salt, one olive, few blades of chives and a strip of green pepper finely minced. Rub the mixing spoon with the bud of a garlic

DINING WITH A PRIMA DONNA

Geraldine Farrar

Geraldine Farrar's Famous Italian Dishes

By Ann Marie Lloyd

TO those who know Geraldine Farrar only by voice it may seem difficult to imagine her as a domestic young woman with a dainty frilled apron tied about her waist and a measuring spoon in her hand. As a matter of fact, fascinating and charming and wonderful as she is in opera, she is all these things enhanced in the home, and the most refreshingly sensible American girl one can picture.

When she wishes to give a particularly beautiful party to her dearest friends she sends out dainty missives in Italian asking a few congenial souls to gather in her home overlooking the restful, picturesqueness of Central Park and eat an Italian dinner which she will prepare herself.

There is no record of a regret having been sent to such an invitation. But there are several instances where the advice of doctors has not only been disregarded, but defied, and bidden guests have left a couch of pain and a bed of sickness to gather around "Gerry" Farrar's hospitable table.

And such viands as are served! Miss Farrar has lived abroad so much and knows Italy so well that she succeeds in transplanting the atmosphere of Naples to America. As a famous composer remarked, "If there is anything better to eat in the whole civilised world than Geraldine Farrar's ravioli it is Geraldine Farrar's Boston baked beans."

Here is a sample menu of one of those Italian dinners, cooked by the hostess according to the rules which she gives. There is always a relish, such as tunny fish, with some of the delicious Italian salad vegetables and a dressing of oil, which requires more knack than rule to make.

Minestra di Stracciatella is a favorite soup. For the base of this use brodo di carne, which is beef stock made with one pound of round beef, half a pound of beef bones, half a carrot, one small onion, two tomatoes, one large potato, a bunch of parsley, all cooked in two quarts of water for two hours with salt and pepper to taste. At the end of two hours add two tablespoonfuls of sherry and strain through cheesecloth.

For the soup add one egg well beaten, a small tablespoonful of Parmesan cheese and an even tablespoonful of bread crumbs to the boiling stock, stirring with a silver fork so the egg won't set.

Here is the ravioli. The paste, or the pasta fatta in casa, which is really ribbons of macaroni, will take two and one-half cups of flour, two eggs, three tablespoonfuls of cold water and salt to taste. Make a heap of the flour and in the centre break the eggs, pour the water slowly, add the salt and stir with a fork till you have a paste you can roll with the rolling pin. Roll it thin.

Take some meat, chicken, veal or turkey, which has already been cooked, and put it through the finest knives of the meat grinder. Mix it with an egg and some Parmesan cheese and a tablespoonful of butter, and dash it with nutmeg. Squeeze a little lemon juice in the mixture.

Have the paste rolled out into a strip nearly an inch wide. Put a teaspoonful of the mixture on the ribbon and repeat at intervals of two inches all along the ribbon. Cut between each spoonful and fold the paste over, making little squares with the paste so firmly pressed into place that the meat is secure. Put the little squares in boiling salted water and boil 15 minutes. These are served with tomato sauce, or with melted butter, and always with Parmesan cheese.

Bocconcini is a favored dish. For this, slices of lamb, veal or mutton are cut about two inches wide and sprinkled with salt and pepper. An equal number of bread slices are cut a little larger than the meat and half an inch thick. Then twice as many slices of ham the same size as the meat. Arrange on skewers, a piece of bread, then a piece of ham, a leaf of sage, then the meat, another leaf of sage, repeat the ham and the bread. Always the meat must be between two leaves of sage, two slices of ham and two slices of bread. Dip them in olive oil and broil 20 minutes in front of a hot fire, turning them till they are golden brown. Or they may be cooked on a pan in the oven. They are served with lettuce salad.

If one wishes hot wine with this dinner, this is the recipe: To each pint of red wine add two heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar, the rind of lemon and orange and a small stick of cinnamon. Heat in a saucepan till the sugar is dissolved. Strain through cheesecloth.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with growing interest.

Facing Household Problems

LEONA DALRYMPLE

I DON'T believe I shall ever forget my sensations when I struck home late that afternoon and heard the steam valve popping like a series of thunderclaps in the cellar. Mary was apparently nowhere in sight or hearing.

I hurried downstairs and lit the gas. The cellar was a mass of dim white fog, through which the furnace was utterly indiscernible.

"Well, Peter," I said, "you're in for it. Get a stick and hunt up your furnace."

The steam-valve went on popping and thumping thunderously, more warm, damp steam poured alarmingly forth into the cellar. The gas flared. Although it was June, the weather was still very chill, and reluctantly enough we had kept our furnace going, waiting for the belated summer to put in an appearance.

I wondered where Mary could be.

There was a long pole just beside me. Armed with this and a grim smile, I started forth valiantly to search for my lost furnace. It struck me as most absurd, this futile poking about to find a furnace enveloped in fog, but I persisted and eventually discovered it. It needed attention and I fell to in approved married style. I was pretty busy when there came a tearful call from the head of the stairs.

"Peter, is that you?"

"It certainly is," I assured her grimly. "Mary, tell me, why did you let this thing get the better of you again? How many times have I explained just what you should do to avoid such a mess as this and what you should do when it did happen."

"Oh, Peter!" wailed Mary hysterically. "Where are you? In that horrid steam? What shall I do?"

"I'm certainly in the steam," said I unhumorously, "and so is this accursed furnace. Moreover, I've been poking about in search of it with a clothes-pole and I've bumped my head on beams and things that seem to have sprung up in the most unexpected places. I might just as well say, Mary, that it would please me considerably if you'd try to keep your head about you when you have a card party on board and fix up the furnace before you depart. Where have you been?"

I might as well say here that, while I was ashamed of my ill-temper, paradoxically enough, I revelled in it, too.

"I came home," said Mary faintly, "and heard it pounding and I was so frightened, Peter. I—I telephoned for the plumber and locked myself in the bathroom. Please do come out of that horrid steam so I can see you."

"You'll see me all right in a minute or so," I assured her. "How was the plumber to get in if you were locked in the bathroom?"

Mary did not reply, but she came timidly down into the steam with a pathetic air of apology.

"Mary," I said more kindly—she seemed so helpless—"tonight after dinner I want you to sit down and listen very carefully to a few essential facts about a furnace. You can understand them if you try to. The appalling ignorance of women about the machinery of things in the home makes me terribly tired. I told you about the furnace before, didn't I?"

"Yes," admitted Mary, "you did—but—but to tell you the truth, Peter, I didn't listen."

How many women know the [illegible] about their fires or [illegible] book for the education of housekeepers? A sea captain knows all about the coaling of his vessel. He knows how to get the best result with the least fuel.

What woman does? Compare the different opinions of the coal it takes to run a house and you'll find what a wilful waste of fuel there is in many homes just through ignorance.

I maintain that it doesn't hurt any woman to have a smattering knowledge of furnaces and simple plumbing. I also maintain that women would understand more of these things if they would concentrate when some one tries to explain such mysteries and not let their wits go wool-gathering, merely because the subject is dry and wrongly regarded as outside their province.

My mother can think out a simple problem in plumbing and apply a temporary remedy. She once fixed a flooding bathroom tap by the application of a washer cut from the leather of a shoe.

If Mary gets in a mess, she locks herself in the bathroom and telephones for the police.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Sagging of One Eyelid Warns of Coming Ills

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. HIRSHBERG

YOU have two pairs of twin screens over your most precious possession. The upper and lower eyelids protect your eyeballs mechanically, tenderly, chemically and physically.

When the Sand Man comes around the eyelids begin to droop. Do you know why? Sleep sits heavily upon the lids. It weighs them down. Then you have an exposition of sleep come upon you.

The eyelids begin to droop when the magic wand of sleep waves before your eyes, because the rhythm of lost attention, which induces sleep, paralyzes the lid muscles.

Paralysis is not precisely what happens. The timely dew of sleep creeps into the "oculomotor," or nerves of the eyelid muscles. This squeezes the strength right out of the muscle, nerve and eyelid.

Then it droops and "feels heavy." A sensation of sleepiness is the upshot of this pseudo-paralysis. First the lids, then the rest of the body, then the eyes themselves and the "dreamy brain" last are lulled into slumber.

Be this as it may, whenever you see a droopy eyelid you may set it down as a fact that either the individual is tired, sleepy or weak, or he is truly sick.

Diogenes, who was something of a cynic, besides being an experimental genius and a philosopher, when he fell into a slumber was roused out of it by his physician, and asked, "What ails you?"

"Nothing, sir," said he, "only one brother anticipates another; sleep before death."

Sagging Early Sign.

As a matter of fact, whenever an eyelid sags or seems to be lower than usual something is wrong if sleep, habit and inheritance are excluded.

"Ptosis" is the terrifying, technical name given to the upper eyelid which almost meets its under one. 'Tis said that even Homer nods, but when "ptosis," or a single, droopy lid remains permanently down over the wakeful eyeball, deep-seated physical trouble must be sought.

The imitation paralysis found in eyelids that are drowsy becomes an honest-to-goodness, really and righty paralysis of the eyelid under certain but various circumstances.

An early sign of eye muscle trouble, swollen eyebulbs, locomotor ataxia, paresis and true paralysis is a sagging of one eyelid.

When "goitres"—those saucery swellings near the Adam's apple—take on certain kinds of malicious activities, the eyeballs protrude and the eyelids are inclined almost to close.

When you go into a rage you are, as the novelists say, apt to "shoot a steely glitter of your eyes 'twixt well nigh closed eyelids."

Like Window Shades.

When you wish to improve your gaze, sight a distant object or clear a haze from the landscape, you are prone to squeeze your eyelids together. This is an intuitive method to cut off all unnecessary parts of the landscape from your retina.

The eyelids are, after all, only double collapsing window shades. They fold up like an accordion. They are made of muscle, nerve, flesh and blood.

When sore, sick or soggy with lymph they lose the natural elasticity. Instead of shrinking from your sleepless eyes they fail to widen and remain an interference and a nuisance.

For any man with half an eye,
What stands before him may espy;
But optics sharp it needs, I ween,
To see what is not to be seen.

C. J. H.—What will increase the thickness of eyebrows?

If you will gently rub sulphur ointment in one night and ammoniated mercury ointment the next night—be careful that they do not go on the skin outside the eyebrows—they will grow darker and thicker.

At times near-sighted eyes, eyes that are "astigmatic," and defects of the eye muscles cause this. You should wear glasses constantly. At times the spots are in the juices of the eye. A tonic also helps.

Witticisms of Children

"Spell ferment and give its definition," requested the teacher.

"F-e-r-m-e-n-t, to work," responded a diminutive maiden.

"Now place it in a sentence so that I may be sure you understand its meaning," said the teacher.

"In the summer I would rather play out of doors than ferment in the schoolhouse," returned the small scholar with such doleful frankness and unconscious humor that the teacher found it hard to suppress a smile.

A class in grammar was reciting, and one of the younger boys was asked to compare "sick."

He began thoughtfully: "Sick"—paused while his brain struggled with the problem—then finished triumphantly, "Sick, worse, dead."

"My paw's going into the chicken-raising business," said Freddy. "He's goin' downtown tomorrow to buy an incubus or an indicator, I forget which you call it."

A lady taking tea at a small company, being very fond of hot rolls, was asked to have another.

"Really, I cannot," she modestly replied. "I don't know how many I've eaten already."

"I do," unexpectedly exclaimed a juvenile upstart, whose mother allowed him a seat at the table. "You've eaten eight. I've been countin'."

HOW did you know I was coming?" asked Mister Plymouth Rock in surprise as he neared Dobbin, the horse, who was feeding in the field.

"I did not hear you coming," said Dobbin. "I saw your shadow."

"You are very observing," replied Mister Plymouth Rock.

"I have to be," answered Dobbin. "The bigger an animal is, the more he has to be on the lookout. Besides, a horse has to take people on his back or draw them in a carriage and he must be careful on their account."

"You make me feel as if I were no use at all," said the Rooster.

"You are useful," said Dobbin. "Everything, everybody, is useful in some way or another. You mustn't stand still and try to be useful. Do something."

"What shall I do to be useful?" asked Mister Plymouth Rock squinting up at Dobbin.

"Well," said Dobbin, "don't go a mile away, look around you. There is Mrs. Rhode Island Red trying to get something to eat for her brood of chicks. Go and scratch a few worms for the little things."

"What good would that do?" asked the Rooster.

"It would keep you busy and that would be a good idea. Idleness never helps any one."

Off went Mister Plymouth Rock to where Mrs. Rhode Island Red was busy clucking to her chicks. He began to unloosen the mud.

"Hold on!" exclaimed Mrs. Rhode Island Red. "Are you trying to dig a hole to China?"

"No," answered Mister Plymouth Rock. "I was trying to dig some worms for these babies of yours."

"How kind of you. May I ask what happened to you that you stopped being so lazy? You never helped me before," said the hen.

"I find I am happiest when busiest," said the Rooster as he began to tear up the earth.

Madagascar's Two Climates.

The island of Madagascar has two distinct climates, two classes of natives and two classes of fauna and flora. The island is about the size of France. Along the coast it is tropical and malarious, and the natives are darker than in the interior. The interior is a high tableland and mountainous. There the climate is cooler and the natives smaller and lighter in color than on the coast. But in the interior they are more intelligent, and they rule the island.

Not Surprised.

"Funny thing about Bellver," said Wiggins.

"What's that?" asked Bjones.

"Why, they operated on him for appendicitis the other day, and, by ginger, when they came to look there wasn't anything there," said Wiggins.

Whistler's Friendships.

That Whistler, the man of famous enemies, had faithful friends is recalled by Ford Madox Hueffer, writing of the pre-Raphaelites in Harper's Magazine. Madox Brown had a circular printed drawing the attention of all his old patrons to the merits of Whistler's etchings and begging them in the most urgent terms to make purchases because Whistler was in indigent circumstances. The story is that upon one occasion Madox Brown, going to a tea party at the Whistlers in Chelsea, was met in the hall by Mrs. Whistler, who begged him to go to the poulterer's and purchase a pound of butter. The bread was cut, but there was nothing to put upon it. There was no money in the house, the poulterer had cut off his credit, and Mrs. Whistler said "she dared not send her husband, for he would certainly punch the tradesman's head."

Would Serve Useful Purpose.

On the opening of the New Brunswick Legislature in 1897 the speech from the throne referred to the expected development of salt wells in the County of Kings, and the mover and seconder of the address spoke of the matter in glowing terms.

Dr. A. A. Stockton, the then leader of the Opposition, congratulated the Government on the anticipated development of this important industry, "because," he gravely announced, "the statements of honorable members opposite generally have to be taken with a good many grains of salt."

Two New Expressions.

Of the making of many new expressions there is no end. A man who considers that "going to see a man about a dog" is out of date, recently explained his leaving a little gathering by saying: "I'm going to give a music lesson to a Chinaman."

Another new one shows that our navy is beginning to affect our speech. A man who swore off indulgence in strong wet stuff declined a drink, with the remark, "I'm in dry-dock now."

CONGO WITCH-DOCTORS

How the Spirits Are Made Amenable to Influence

Witchcraft prevails throughout the whole of the Congo territory, said the Rev. J. H. Weeks, in a lecture at the Horniman Museum, London, upon Congo witch-doctors and their methods. You pay the witch-doctor a certain fee, said Mr. Weeks, and he will bring a disease on your enemy; or if you want to be rich he will give you a spirit fetish or powerful charm which will draw the monkeynuts from your enemy's land, or take the fruit from a neighbor's tree and put it on your own tree. Another superstition held by the natives is that no shark, or crocodile, or leopard will harm you unless it is bewitched to do so. "I have seen a man jump from a steamer on top of a shark," said the lecturer, "and he was fortunate enough to escape injury." Had anything happened to him, however, two or three other natives might have been done to death for having bewitched the shark.

There are fifty different kinds of witch-doctors in the Lower Congo alone. Each one has his own work with his own fetish or charm. They [illegible], so that there is a fetish and witch-doctor for every emergency in life and for every kind of disease and every sort of good luck or bad luck. If a man loses something by theft, he hires a fetish, and beats it with a stick. The more he beats it the better it works, and after he has lifted it three times in the air and laid it three times on the ground he takes it into his house. The spirit of the fetish is then supposed to go after the man who stole the goods. Meanwhile the [illegible], hearing that a powerful fetish spirit is after the thief, goes off at once to the witch-doctor, and buys a charm to protect him from the curse. Hence the witch-doctor takes a fee from one side to bring down the curse on a victim, and from another to remove the curse, so that he stands to win either way.

If you desire to become a witch-doctor in the Upper Congo you must belong to the family of a witch-doctor, or, if you do not, then you must begin by bewitching all your relatives to death. The Lower Congo witch-doctor handles things differently, for he places the novice—one of his relatives—in the centre of a crowd, and then beats a drum. If the man begins to sway to and fro to the beat of the drum and then rushes wildly and climbs up the roof of a house [illegible], he is duly made a witch-doctor. But his initiation is not complete until he finds the grave of a person who has died by witchcraft, and as such victims are buried in obscure graves the task is not an easy one.

Another easier method is by paying the witch-doctor a thousand strings of blue pipe beads, or one can even be a witch-doctor by being cute enough, like a man whom the lecturer knew, who pretended he had spent days under water communing with the water spirit.

GREATER BRITAIN

Royal Colonial Institute to Change Its Name

The Royal Colonial Institute proposes to change its name to the Royal Britannic Institute. When the society was first founded some fifty years ago, it had two rooms above a shop in the Strand; it now occupies a large building in Northumberland avenue, and has the best library of colonial information in the world. Since its foundation, however, the Institute has extended its work so greatly that the word "Colonial" is felt to be no longer applicable. In the first place it does not include India, although a large portion of the library is devoted to Indian literature. In the second place, Canadian and Australian members resent the word "Colonial." And, finally, the institute has a large number of members in South America, which is in no sense a British colony.

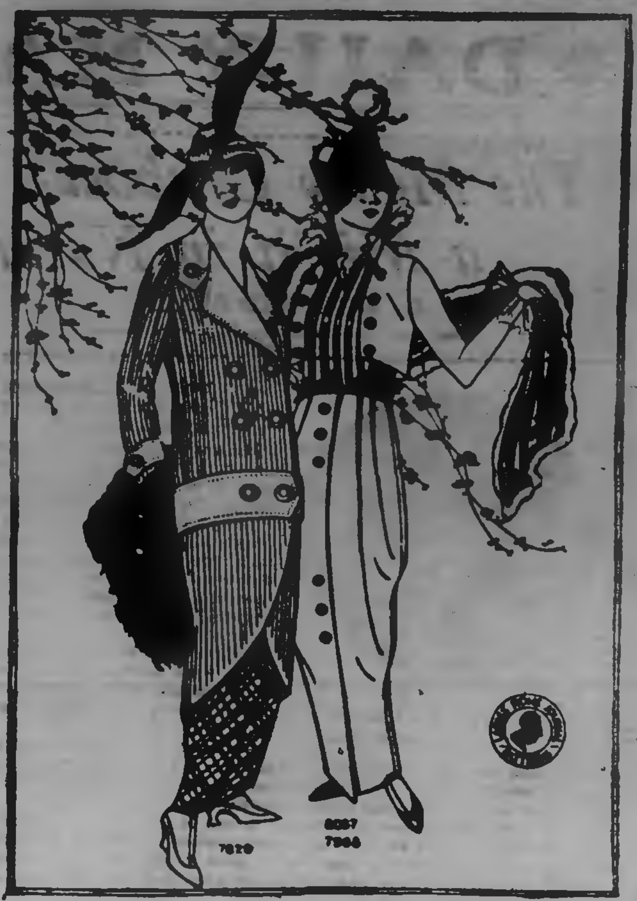
SKIN WILL CHANGE

Scientist Declares That It is Growing Whiter

Professor Daniel Berthelot, the eminent French specialist, declares that the skin of the human race has undergone great changes since our primitive ancestors. He states that, while the whitest of modern skins reflect almost all the colors of the spectrum, the skin of the more primitive races absorb the colors of higher and finer vibrations and only reflect the stronger colors at the spectrum's lower end.

For instance, the skins of the primitive negro races reflected practically no colors at all. The red-skinned races reflected only the reds at the lower end of the spectrum, and the so-called yellow races only as far as the yellows in its centre. The white skins of the races of to-day are able to reflect not only the blues, but also the violets at the top of the visible spectrum, although the strength and clearness of the reflection varies with each individual skin. But no skin has been found so far capable of reflecting the ultra-violet rays, which vibrate at a rate too high to be visible to the human eye.

It is therefore believed that the past evolution of the human skin foreshadows the existence in the distant future of an ultra-white race, which, in addition to its other capacities, will have a skin capable of reflecting the invisible ultra-violet rays.



THE TOP COAT AN EXTREMELY POPULAR MODE

Fur coats seem to be taking a back seat, as it were, this season in favor of the light weight model in one of the soft new wool fabrics. It is a practical idea and a becoming one. These coats may be carried over the arm and slipped on over a tailored suit if occasion requires it.

They are fashioned mostly in rather vivid colors. An unusually attractive coat, designed by Bernard, is made of duvetyn in marigold yellow. Another imported coat is of dark red velours de laine trimmed with white.

No. 7829 features a smart collar, a low belt and a set-in sleeve. Striped velours de laine is used in a dark terra cotta. The buttons, belt and revers are of white duvetyn. Buttons are very much in demand for decorative purposes and come in every imaginable shape and color. Some are carved; some are painted; many of them show the cubist idea.

This top-coat may be made in size 36 with 4 yards of 42 inch material.

Most of the new suits show the short coat or coat blouse, and the bolero influence is strongly marked.

A soft tan faille de laine, a silk which closely resembles silk poplin, is used in this costume with a vest of striped velvet in black and gold. The skirt is a peg-top, and, aside from the vest, the only trimming is the large round, bronze buttons.

For size 36 this design requires (for the blouse) 2 yards of 36 inch material with ½ yard of silk or satin for the vest and 3⅜ yards of 36 inch material for the skirt.

No. 7829—sizes 32 to 42.
No. 8037—sizes 32 to 42.
No. 7968—sizes 22 to 30.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

A NEW FEATURE IS THE SOFTLY DRAPED JAPANESE COLLAR

The demand for something new, something different, allows of few monotonous moments in the life of a designer of women's clothes. When drapery first came into vogue it was comparatively easy to evolve new designs, but again we are looking for something novel.

Premet is trying to rejuvenate the bustle. A frock of hers in blue silk poplin shows a bustle effect brought about by a clever cut and arrangement of drapery that is really quite attractive. It is a three piece suit, and an extremely smart little coat is another feature. Several other imported models give indications of the bustle, and several display draped collars after the Japanese style.

No. 8104 shows a draped collar and shaped trimming bands on the skirt that give the effect of a three tiered skirt. A soft green mohair is used, with the blouse of chiffon in the same shade of green. Each of the flounces is lined with chiffon, which softens the mohair considerably.

To copy this model in size 36 it requires 5⅝ yards of 36 inch material with 1⅝ yards of contrasting material.

No. 8102 is a smart little frock, which is unusually effective developed in one of the bordered crepes.

The dress closes in the back, has a kimono blouse and a one-piece skirt with a double tunic.

This frock may be copied in size 36 with 5⅝ yards of 36 inch material.

No. 8102—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8104—sizes 32 to 42.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

Masquerading as a Man

A case of an unusual character was heard at Forfar, when a woman hailing from the neighborhood of Arbroath was charged with assaulting another elderly female, a married woman, by striking her on the face and head with a stick. The remarkable feature of the assault was that in order to escape observation the accused donned male clothing and sallied forth in the early hours of the morning. A fine of $25 was imposed.

Three Mutiny Veterans

General William Bannerman, who served in six campaigns and forty fights, died at Cheltenham in his eighty-sixth year. He was over forty years in India, and served in the Indian Mutiny and in the Afghan War. Two other Indian Mutiny veterans have also just died at Cheltenham—Private R. Hobbs, of the old 66th Foot, who was at the relief of Delhi and Lucknow, and Private James Herbert, of the 60th Rifles.

Rugs and Gowns to Match.

There is a woman at one of the hotels near Fifth avenue who has her own furniture in her rooms. In her possession are six fine oriental rugs, each of a different shade. She entertains a great deal, and on each occasion she has a rug put down that will harmonize with the coloring of her frock. There is said to be no shade that will not harmonize with the color of one or other of the rugs.—New York Sun.

NORTHWEST BRONCHO

Old-time Pony is Replaced by Finer Types

A rather pitiable thing about the advance of civilization is the shutting out of the broncho. The range horse of to-day is no more like the broncho of 10 years ago than the nerve-strained thoroughbred is like the Indian cayuse. All are passing away. Eastern methods of breaking are now used and gentler horses are the result. There is no longer a demand for the tough pony of 10 years ago, and so having passed the period of usefulness he is vanishing, but, as a reward of his fidelity, to reappear in a higher type.

The "mustang" combined with the ordinary horse produced the real broncho of the Northwest. There is not a phase of Western history that has not been largely influenced by this animal. Pioneer, cowboy, sheriff, Indian, prospector, all have used the broncho. He has been the cheerful companion of each of them. In fact he was the "sine qua non" of the exploitation of the West. The broncho has a good deal of treachery about him still, though not so much as the mustang. He is a rugged, useful animal that can travel along mountain ledges and live on next to nothing.

When the Western broncho is broken he often becomes the gentlest of horses. No one, it is said, has ever successfully taught a wild horse to buck. As a matter of fact, it is not necessary. Bucking is a part of the animal's stock-in-trade. It has learned it instinctively. It is possible to break a horse of bucking, but to do it is not necessary to break its spirit, and the "wrangler" does that when he thoroughly conquers the animal. The broncho-buster who wants to preserve the spirit of the horse does not ride it to a finish. Horses are intensely human and "cheety." Feeling that they have conquered makes them buck harder the next time the cowboy attempts to ride them.

A Big Night for the Local I.O.O.F.

Last night disciples of Friendship, Love and Truth, on the triple linked fraternity had a big time. It was Field night with the Oddfellows here. Some 300 Oddfellows from Stirling, Millbrook, Lakefield, Havelock Lindsay and other places were in the city. Lindsay Lodge ran a special train here. After the degree teams had given those seeking advancement in the order a pleasant ride on the lodge goat (this is only a metaphor) a big banquet was held.

Pleased With Peterborough.

Yesterday Mr. Read, of the Toronto Incinerator Co., was in the city with a deputation from Lockport, N.Y., who came here to inspect the local incinerator plant. McCoy, John M. Hosing, Julius Fescher, Michael Mulvaney, and E. W. Rooney. They registered at the White House. During their visit the Lockport men visited the lift lock. They were so well pleased with Peterborough that they are going to return in the fall for a couple of weeks' fishing.

An Ennismore Philosopher.

Yesterday morning a man who lives in Ennismore had a whole basket of trouble. In the first place he had the result of Wednesday night's drunk to bear. Secondly, the balance of $20 he drew from the bank was gone. Thirdly, his valuable horse and cutter had seemingly vanished in thin air. He told a Times scribe, "I don't care a—— about the money, but I'm sorry about the horse. I think I know where the money went." When asked, "Why don't you go after the money if you know who took it?" He replied, "No! Let it go! I made a mistake getting full and when a man makes a mistake he should stand by it."

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT
BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make it thick, glossy, wavy, luxuriant and remove dandruff—Real surprise for you.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any Druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 708, and the average assessed value was $4,592.52 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,668.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I. who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $600 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $336,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

STOPS SNEEZES, CURES CATARRH

You Get Instant Relief by Inhaling the Soothing Vapor "Catarrhozone."

Catarrh is bound to come with this weather. Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head. Soon the ears begin to buzz and ring. The head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile, filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMATIC CATARRH which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till consumption is the unhappy result.

There isn't the slightest use in trying to cure this condition with tablets, snuff or spray. Such treatments are wholly inadequate. You must employ Catarrhozone the only remedy that possesses power to kill the germs of Catarrh. The healing vapor of Catarrhozone is carried by the air you breathe to the most minute cells of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. It's antiseptic medication goes everywhere that air can go. No case is too chronic, no person too old—everybody that has catarrh of any kind can be cured by this grand treatment which is endorsed by thousands of physicians throughout America, who say: "The only way to permanently get rid of Catarrh is to use Catarrhozone."

FUTURE OF COALITION INSECURE CABINET INVITES ARMY OPINION

London Feels Certain His Majesty Took Active Part in Negotiations

London, March 27.—The resignation of Field-Marshal Sir John French and Lieut.-Gen. Sir John S. Ewart have not yet been withdrawn, and Premier Asquith, after deferring his statement twice, was able only to announce in the House of Commons this afternoon that the Government was still awaiting the reply of the army officers to the Cabinet's request that they remain in their posts.

Premier Asquith reached the House of Commons straight from the second Cabinet meeting held to-day, both of which were attended by the Chief of the General Staff, Field-Marshal Sir John French. The Premier said matters in the question involved great complexity and difficulty, and seemed to the Government to require very full consideration. A partial or provisional statement would be unsatisfactory.

Mr. Asquith's Statement.

Sir John French and Lieut.-Gen. Sir John S. Ewart, had intimated a wish to be relieved of their offices, Mr. Asquith said, not because of any difference between their views and those of the Government as to conditions under which the army should serve or should be employed in the aid of the civil power, but having issued the memorandum to Brigadier-General Gough they thought this course incumbent upon them. Premier Asquith then added:

"The Government has conveyed to them its wish that as there is no difference of opinion on any ground or policy they should not persist in their request, the carrying out of which the Government would regard as a serious misfortune to both the army and the State. We still are awaiting their final reply.

A Genuine Misconception.

"These two gallant officers believe that in the circumstances they were justified in believing their action was in accordance with the instructions of the Cabinet, and that they were transmitting those directions to the officers concerned.

"It is clear to us and to them that there has been a misconception — a genuine misconception—in regard to the intention and purport of the proceedings in Ireland, out of which these difficulties have arisen.

"In view of these misconceptions and to obviate the possibility of their recurrence in the future, the army Council has to-day—Field-Marshal Sir John French and Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Ewart being present—unanimously determined to issue a new army order."

MACKENZIE PREFERS TO WAIT; C. N. R. DEADLOCK AT OTTAWA

Rumor That Magnates Have Refused Adequate Security is Presistent

Ottawa, March 27.—There is said to be a deadlock in the C.N.R. situation at Ottawa. It is rumored to-day that C.N.R. magnates have refused to make the concessions or to put up the security which the Government is demanding if there is to be any aid to the railroad. It is believed that Sir William Mackenzie is depending upon the pressure which is being brought to bear upon the Federal Government by the Provinces involved to pull him through and is refusing to concede an inch more than he is forced to do. One story has it that all the securities he is prepared to put up is fifty-one per cent. of the common stock.

May Ask Aid in Vain.

As for the Government, it is understood that they are standing firm and unless Sir William shows a more reasonable spirit than he is at present credited with the C.N.R. may knock at the door here in vain. The Government will not give any assistance until the C.N.R. throws its cards on the table and makes extensive concessions to the country. In the meantime the Government is carrying on its own private inquiry into the financial and physical conditions of the system and upon the result of that inquiry will largely depend the action to be taken. That there is a strong feeling in the Conservative party that the Government should take over the whole system is undoubted. It is claimed that any aid at the present time could only be a temporary expedient and that sooner or later the C. N.R. would be in an equally serious condition.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Windy and a little cooler.

WONDERFUL POSSIBILITIES OF WESTERN OIL FIELDS

Attention of our readers is respectfully drawn to an advertisement in this issue of the Herron-Elder Gas and Oil Development Co. Ltd., of Alberta.

This company has possession of a large number of properties which indicate an immense flow of oil.

That the Calgary Petroleum Products Company when the new Benesmer condensing plant is installed will derive from Well No. 1, a revenue of approximately $1,200 per day was the statement made to The News-Telegram Friday by W. S. Herron, a director of the company.

Oil is the coming fuel of the future. Oil will and with its by-products form power for the rapidly growing army of automobiles, auto-trucks, agricultural machinery, steamships and in short be the coming source of universal power. Alberta is developing wonderful oil wells.

The Natural Gas and Oil Record of Calgary shows, in its issue of March 14, a cross-page photograph of seven outfits now pumping oil in the Okotoks Field.

Now is a chance to get in one the ground floor and secure a block of stock in the Herron-Elder whilst "the securing is good." See adv. in this issue.

GRAND RIVER IS FLOODING

Brantford, Ont., March 27.—The actual break-up on the Grand River started this morning. The big block at Wilke's dam above Brantford, has broken up, the ice being honeycombed by the warm weather of the past week and the rains of yesterday and to-day The water has risen considerably and is still rising, but it is not expected that damage will be done this year, owing to the amount of ice which went out a week ago.

SPENT THREE YEARS IN KINGSTON JAIL

Toronto, March 27.—For the past six days, Salvino Martini, a Spaniard has been in jail on a charge of vagrancy, while the police have been making inquiries regarding his antecedents. This morning he appeared in police court, and in broken English explained that he had been six years in Canada.

"Three of them were in Kingston," he said.

"What were you doing in Kingston?" asked Slerk Webb.

"Me went there for fire," said the prisoner.

By dint of repeated interrogation, it was elicited that Martini had undergone a three years sentence for being concerned in a fire in Quebec—whereabouts he could not say.

He was sentenced to 30 days in jail in default of paying a fine.

LADIES ARE TAKING "CIGARETTE CURE"

All Respectable Persons Who Are Anxious to Get Rid of the Habit

Toronto. March 27.—A dozen or more Toronto ladies are taking the cigarette cure which is being administered by doctors who are associated with the Boys' Dominion. They do not take with the treatment at the branches of the institution where the boy smokers are attended to, but go to the residences of the medical attendants. All the lady patients are reported as good, self-respecting, respectable women, although they smoke and they all sincerely desire to get rid of the habit. They are of good position, and character, and some are well known in society.

Doctors are Busy.

Drs. Morrison, of Wilton Crescent, and Dr. C. R. Phipps of Queen street east, both gave ladies cases calling for periodical treatment. In only a very small degree are the patients girls, most of the number being wives and mothers. Originally there were merely one or two, but recommendations of the success met with has caused a daily increase. They are all shy at first about telling what they have come for, but once the ice is broken they freely tell all about their case in a desire to aid the doctors in helping them. In one case the habit has become so strong that when the lady awakes in the night she cannot, much to the annoyance of her husband, go to sleep again without having smoked a cigarette.

THE REAL CAUSE OF MOST BAD COMPLEXIONS

(From Family Physician).

It is a stern fact that no truly beautiful complexion ever came out of jars or bottles, and the longer one uses cosmetics the worse the complexion becomes. Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must expel, through the pores, its share of the body's effete material. Creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-ruined complexions. If they would use ordinary mercolized wax instead of cosmetics, they would have natural, healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unclogging the pores. Result: The fresher, younger under-skin is permitted to breathe and to show itself An exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggist's and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream, for a week or so, washing it off mornings.

To eradicate wrinkles, here's a marvelously effective treatment which also acts naturally and harmlessly: Dissolve 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel and use as a wash lotion.

BELFAST FIRMS ARE BOYCOTTED

"Cripple Ulster's Trade" is Slogan of the Nationalists in Ireland

Toronto, March 27.—"Cripple Ulster's trade," is the slogan of the Nationalist part in Ireland, who have initiated a movement to boycott the leading firms in Belfast, the executive head of which are opposed to Home Rule. In pursuance with this scheme lists have been prepared in cities and towns in the other three Provinces, enumerating the firms in question, and calling on all persons favorable to Home Rule to withdraw their patronage. Over 120 firms are named in the circulars, and every branch of industrial endeavor is represented.

Unionist Traders.

The memorandum which has reached Toronto begins:

"Here is a list of the Belfast Unionist traders who have either encouraged or failed to condemn the recent outbreaks of Orange hooliganism in that city," and concludes with an impassioned appeal to boycott them. After the 120 names are given, a list of half-a-dozen business firms with Home Rule tendencies is furnished, whom, Nationalists are urged to patronize

LORD KITCHENER TO REPLACE FRENCH

Montreal, March 27.—A cable to the Daily Mail says one of the most persistent rumors in political circles last night was that Lord Kitchener is to be brought back from Egypt to replace General French in the War Office and restore order in the army.

Another report stated that Mr. Asquith is contemplating the appointment of John Burns, now president of the Board of Trade, as Secretary of State for War. Mr. Burns worked in a London factory as a boy and his appointment as the head of a Government Department whose tendencies are all on the side of the aristocracy will be a severe shock to the army clique.

There also is a rumor this morning that Col. Seely will go to the Colonial Office, in place of Mr. Lewis Harcourt, who like John Burns, is named as a possible candidate for the War Ministry.

20 BELOW AT REGINA SECOND WINTER IS ON

Winnipeg, March 27.—All points in the Prairie Provinces registered below zero weather last night, Regina taking the honors with 20 below. Lethbridge was second with 16 below, and Calgary and Edmonton, eight and six respectively, Winnipeg reported a comparative mildness of four below, although Minnedosa held up the Manitoba average with 12. Continued cold is predicted with snow in most localities.

THE RATE FOR THIS YEAR'S TAXES WILL BE 26 MILLS

Committee of the Whole Council Wrestled With This Question Last Night--A Raise of a Mill Above Last Year Seems Unavoidable

At a meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council last night, Finance Minister Ald. Anderson submitted his report on the amount of revenue required to meet the estimates for this year's municipal expenditure, based on the estimates submitted by the several civic committees, and other demands.

The debate on these estimates continued, Ald. Stratton and Gordon leaning toward the long end (in which view Ald. Green concurs, although absent) on the ground that economy in regard to existing conditions would prove penny-wise and pound-foolish. Ald. Anderson, as before, was anxious that each committee should have sufficient working capital, in the interests of all citizens alike, especially so as the amounts in dispute would not keep the rate below a 26 mill mark.

The rest of the debate points to the conclusion that the rate must be 26 mills, although the committee decided to postpone the question pending negotiations with the School Board and Police Commissioners in the hope of securing a reduction in their demands. This, however, seems to be a forlorn hope, as both these bodies are governed and endorsed by legislature.

MR. FINCH W. MILLER APPOINTED INSPECTOR OF INDIGENTS

The City Fathers met in Committee of the Whole last night, Mayor Buller presiding. All the council were present, excepting Ald. Green, who was absent owing to sickness.

Hourigan & McClean's application for permission to erect a sign at their premises on Hunter street was referred to the Mayor and City Engineer to report. The sign in question would extend some 2½ feet further over the sidewalk than allowed by law, but committee thought that the time has arrived for amending the sign by-law to provide for such a sign.

Indigent Patients Officer.

Mr. F. W. Miller was appointed an officer to report on the standing of patients claiming admission to the local hospitals as indigents. Mr. Miller in his capacity, will be authority as to whether such patients should pay for their hospital attendance or not.

The object of this appointment is to prevent the city from being imposed upon, as in past years, and to collect from all patients able to pay, either in time or otherwise. Mr. Miller's salary will be $700 a year, for which he will continue his duties as Relief Officer, assist the Sanitary Inspector as occasion offers, and fill the duties of his new office as Inspector of Indigent Patients, before outlined. A by-law to this effect will be prepared and passed. Mr. Miller will resign from his position as Immigration Officer.

DeLaval Drain.

Ald. Duncan, chairman of the Board of Works, was authorized to arrange for relieving the DeLaval Co. of water flowing into their premises.

Governor-General Coming.

The Mayor submitted a letter from Mr. Arthur F. Haden, Private Secretary of the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, stating that His Royal Highness will visit Peterborough on Monday, June first.

The City Clerk will acknowledge this intimation, expressing the city's pleasure at His Royal Highness' coming visit.

CITY SEEKING MORE SCOPE IN EXPROPRIATION PROCEEDINGS

Bill to Correct Past and Future Mistakes, But Company Must Abide by Own Default--Need Not Appeal to the People Again if Bill re Hydro-Electric Expropriation Passes Legislature

No one questions the beauty of the electric white-way on George and Charlotte streets, and no one questions the earnest desire of our City Power Committee and Council to consult the interests of all citizens by installing Hydro-Electric. Still, the new street lighting poles and lights as far as they go, are the products of private manufacturing concerns, now the property of Peterborough City, the installing work was done by Mr. Johnston Greer of this city, and the current used is as yet supplied by the Peterborough Light & Power Co., as of old. And as Hydro-Electric really means power supplied by that Commission to a municipal distributing plant, this city awaits the expropriation of a complete distributing plant and acquisition of power by the Hydro-Electric Commission, before it enjoys, in earnest, the advantages of a municipal-owned distributing plant fed by state controlled current.

It is now three months beyond the time fixed for acquiring the Peterborough Light & Power Company's distributing plant and expropriation proceedings hang fire pending the passage of the city's private bill before the present Legislative Assembly of Ontario, seeking wider powers in this connection, and defining exactly what the city wants to expropriate, and amending any past mistakes in application to Legislature, and allowing opportunity to adjust any possible mistakes in the future.

CITY'S MISTAKES MAY BE RECTIFIED.

From an unbiased standpoint it does seem in looking through the bill that in regard to mistakes all the advantage lies with the city. For instance, subsection seven of the measure now under consideration reads as follows:

7. The council of the City of Peterborough shall have the right and power to amend, repeal or re-enact any by-law passed in the exercise of any powers conferred by this Act at any time before the entry into possession by the city on the property so taken and upon the repeal of any such by-law, it shall be deemed and considered as if the same had never been passed and the powers conferred by this Act shall not be deemed to be exhausted or affected in any way by the passing of any such by-law.

This points to the conclusion that mistakes are very much in evidence in past applications to Legislature, and are quite liable to crop up in subsequent transactions, in which event the city is placed in the enviable position of being authorized to repeal or re-enact any by-law which does not advance the city's interests. This is a very comfortable position in which to be placed; but how about the other parties to the transaction? Those parties whose vested interests are to be absorbed whether they like it or not. Those parties who are handling the investments of others. The bill in this connection is not at all equitable inasmuch as it provides that the company whose property is to be expropriated must pay a hundred cents on the dollar for any mistake in the inventory of its property submitted, whereas the city may correct its errors.

COMPANY'S MISTAKES MUST STAND GOOD.

This is explicitly provided for in the following subsections of the bill, which calls for the company furnishing the city with a valuation of its plant to be expropriated, with no redress, as in the case of the city, for unpremeditated oversight. The clauses of the bill in this regard read as follows:

4.—(1) The company shall within one month after the passing of this Act furnish the city council with a complete list and inventory of the property as herein defined by the company, showing what was owned by, conveyed to or vested in the company or erected, placed or acquired by it, prior to the 12th day of April, 1912, and also full particulars of any and all additions made to the distributing system of the said company since the said date, but the said inventory shall not be conclusive or binding in any way upon the city corporation or in any wise prejudice the rights of the city corporation in the exercise of the powers conferred by this Act.

(2) If the company shall make default in furnishing the list and inventory above provided for or if any mistake be made therein, such inventory shall as against the company be deemed to be the whole property of the company as herein defined and in that event the property taken by the city corporation under the powers conferred by this Act shall be deemed to be the whole property of the company as herein defined and the city corporation shall not be bound to pay to the company any compensation for or in respect of any property of the company not included in the said inventory.

INDEPENDENT VALUATION.

It does seem that, in fairness to all concerned, the city would have done well to have secured an independent valuation of the Peterborough Light & Power Company's plant—one rigidly unbiased [illegible] either the Hydro-Electric's [illegible] or that of the company to be expropriated, in which [illegible]

NO CONSIDERATION FOR DAMAGES.

While the Peterborough Light & Power Co. has during the delay in transference of their plant to the city shown an earnest desire to meet the city half-way in catering to the interests of the community, they are in the bill held down to the strictest letter of the law, and allowed no damages for the severance of their several interests by reason of the expropriation of their electric plant. For instance, the writer would judge that in a concern where the operations of an electric plant, gas plant and street railway are all operated from one office and by one clerical staff, the absorbtion of one branch of utilities would entail a loss upon the conduction of the remaining branches. However, the bill, rightly or wrongly, in this regard reads as follows:

6. Section 2 of said chapter 117 is amended by adding at the end of the said section the words following: "nor shall anything be taken into consideration or allowed for or on account of damages resulting from or occasioned by severance of any lands, works, or any other property of the company by the exercise of the powers conferred by this Act."

RATEPAYERS HAVE NO VOICE.

As a ratepayer it does seem that subsection six of the bill overrides the prerogative of the ratepayers entirely. Heretofore it has always been advanced that money by-laws must go to the people. Subsection 6 of this bill, however, reads as though the city council has full power to take over the electric power distributing plant in question, at no matter what cost, without consulting the ratepayers. The subsection reads as follows:

6. The powers conferred by this Act shall be deemed to have been sufficiently and validly exercised by the passing of a by-law of the council of the City of Peterborough reciting the powers hereby conferred and containing a general description of the property intended to be taken and it shall not be necessary to submit such by-law to the electorate of the City of Peterborough for their approval.

WHAT WILL THE COST BE?

Ever since Ald. Green's advent to the council he has been anxious to know what will be the cost of introducing Hydro-Electric into this city. Well, no one seems to know, quite naturally, as the power company's valuation of their plant wanted by the city exceeds by many thousands of dollars the Hydro-Electric Commission's estimates. Making all fair comparison in the natural order of things, it is pretty safe to say that the money voted by the ratepayers will fall considerably short of what the Board of Arbitrator's award will be. The by-law passed by the ratepayers permits an expenditure of some $120,000 for this purpose. Of this amount about $30,000 has been spent on the street lighting of Central City, leaving $90,000 for acquiring the Peterborough Light & Power Company's distributing plant. Then there are extensions and improvements to the plant to be provided for out of this sum. Whatever the award is, it is conceded that a measure of fairness will be exercised toward those bound to dispose of their property, and in accordance with conditions already brought to light at the arbitration proceedings everything points to the Council's having to find a sum considerably in excess of that provided for by by-law, which may probably be overcome by taking advantage of subsection six of the city's bill above referred to, without any further reference whatever to the men who pay the piper, Peterborough's ratepayers. Whatever the outcome, however, it is an open question if there are not other means of securing to a city all the advantages of municipal controlled public utilities without recourse to legislative commissions.—(Contributed.)

Too Careful.

In politics as well as in business it is sometimes necessary to do things with a rather free hand, and it was perhaps the lack of ability to so rise to the occasion that made a former occupant of a Cabinet position in the Ontario Legislature not altogether suited to his position.

When this man was appointed, a newspaper man got from him some information for a write-up. The Minister was asked if he would like a few copies of the paper in which the write-up was to appear, and he said, "Yes, send me a dozen."

The newspaperman saw the Minister a few days later and said: "I've given you a pretty good show in that write-up. Don't you think you ought to get quite a number of papers and send them to some of the country editors?"

"It's a splendid idea," said the Minister enthusiastically. "How many papers did we arrange for you to send me?"

"Oh, we said about a dozen."

"Well," said the Minister in a tone indicating great decision, "send me two dozen, and send the bill to me."

A Lucky Find.

Charles T. Currelly, the well-known Canadian archaeologist, tells of a curious piece of luck which befell him on one occasion. He was working with a party of one hundred men on the excavation of a number of important tombs in Egypt, when a native came to him with the story of an interesting discovery some distance away. Leaving the work on which he was engaged, he went to the place described by the native, only to find that it was a wild-goose chase. On the way back, however, from this fruitless expedition he noticed a pile of gravel which appeared to him to be of an unnatural arrangement. He stopped and sunk a pit. To his surprise and delight, a tomb was discovered which proved to be that of the Pharaoh "which knew not Joseph." This monarch had completely hidden his tomb, building it in an out-of-the-way place, and like that of the poorest peasant; underground, however, a veritable palace had been constructed.

Mercury Troubles.

Frost-bitten men are dropping into Edmonton these days. The trails are cold, the nights are long, the snow is deep—all of which may tend to confirm certain phases of western conditions, sketched by a certain literary lady, who recently got into a brawl with Trade. According to despatches in Edmonton papers, the extreme rigor of northern temperature this year has kept many a mother's mail from its destination in the frontier places. When snowshoes have to break trail for the dogs, "it's very charming weather."

FRONT DOOR NIGHT BELLS.

Doctors Are Not the Only Ones Who Have Use For Them.

At 1 o'clock in the morning a man who was looking for a doctor found a door plate on which he distinguished the words, "Night bell," and rang the bell. When the door opened and a figure appeared in the semidarkness of the hall he said:

"Hurry up, please. There is a sick woman at No. 132."

The man inside said "All right," and in a few seconds both men were racing down the street to No. 132. In the top floor front room lay a very sick woman. The newcomer pulled a small table to the bedside and took from his pocket a sheet of paper and a fountain pen.

"What on earth are you doing with that?" said the man who had summoned him. "You're a nice doctor, you are."

"Doctor?" echoed the man. "I'm not a doctor; I'm a lawyer. Didn't you read the sign, 'Lawyer's night bell'?"

"But what does a lawyer need of a night bell?" the other man asked.

"To enable the people who want to make wills in the dead of night to find him readily," was the reply.

"Once in a while I'm called up to straighten out more serious entanglements, but most of the legal papers I write after 10 p. m. are wills. A lot of people who take sick suddenly recollect that they have never made a will and they want to repair the omission while there is time. When you said there was a sick woman here I naturally thought of wills, not medicine. There is a doctor in the corner house."—New York Times.

"Magic" Cloths.

Many housewives gladly pay 25 cents for so called "magic" cloths, as they are very useful for silver and other metals. Being dry, they do not soil the hands or clothing and do their work until the cloth itself wears out. To make such a cloth take one quart of gasoline, one-half pound of whiting and one-eighth ounce of oleic acid, mixing all together and shaking well. Soak pieces of woolen cloth in the mixture and hang them in the open air in a shady place to dry. When the cloths are dry the "magic" qualities have been given to them, and these they will never lose. The material must be wool.—New York Globe.

A Statesman's Queer Ambition.

The great Lord Grey had an ambition far above politics. He had passed the reform bill, but that did not satisfy his soul. There was talk of Taglioni, and Grey said quite earnestly, "What would I give to dance as well as she!"

The statesman who had been prime minister and had left an indelible mark on the history of his country was actually envious of an opera dancer!—London Globe.

The Hudson Six-54, $2950
(f. o. b. Detroit, Mich.)
Duty Paid.

Cost of Running HUDSON Six is Less Than a Four

Prove it for yourself. Make the best record you can with your Four. Don't deceive yourself. Be fair about it. Then come to us and ask us to show you what we can do with the HUDSON Six of proportionately the same class and horse-power. We will show you that it will cost you less to own and run a HUDSON Six than to continue the use of your Four. This may surprise you, in view of the vehement assertions of dealers who want to sell Fours. Nevertheless it is a fact capable of easy demonstration.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realize its great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheelbase, motor 4½ x 5½, developing 55 horse power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4050. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3½x5, developing 47 horse power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $2600, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. Catalog on request. Demonstrations as arranged. Prices f. o. b. Detroit, Mich. Duty paid.

EMPRESS OF RUSSIA

The Czar May be Succeeded by His Daughter

Strong representations are being made to the Czar to have him issue a proclamation revoking the Salic law, and declaring the Grand Duchess Olga heiress to the imperial throne, according to a report current in diplomatic circles in Paris.

The Grand Duchess Olga, who would thus succeed to the throne, now is nineteen years old and is remarkably clever. She has evinced a striking aptitude for taking hold of the interior affairs of the imperial palaces, and in view of the semi-anarchical condition of Russia, political refugees here say by enforcing constitutional humanitarian measures, she would have a superb opportunity of outshining Catherine the Great.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale [illegible], or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

HOW THE PEOPLE WERE DECEIVED

On June 23, 1908, Mr. Lumsden, then Chief Engineer of the National Transcontinental Railway, gave out his estimate of the cost of the Eastern Division as $114,400,000, exclusive of the cost of terminals, shops and any double tracks. This amount exceeded by more than 100 per cent. the highest estimate that had been given to Parliament. Never were the public of Canada more abused by a Government than they were in this matter. They were shamefully misled, at the outset, and it was only when they were heavily committed to the scheme that the late Ministers began to disclose the startling truth as to the magnitude of the cost. Mr. Lumsdent resigned on account of the high cost.

ARSON SQUAD NOW MOVES TO THE "EMERALD ISLE"

Country Home of Major General McCalmont on Belfast Lough Destroyed

Belfast, Ireland, March 27.—A militant suffragette "arson squad" is believed to have been responsible for the destruction by fire early this morning of Abbeylands, a splendid country residence belonging to Major General Sir Hugh McCalmont, near White Abbey, on Belfast Lough.

The house, although fully furnished was not occupied except by caretakers. The damage is estimated at $75,000.

Blame the Women.

No evidence of Suffragette handiwork were found but as the women recently threatened to start war against the Ulster Unionists leaders because of the refusal of Sir Edward Carson to support the movement of the suffragettes the authorities lay the blame on them.

The grounds of Abbeylands which is only four miles from Carrickfergus, a British army station have been used recently for drilling the Ulster Unionist Volunteers.

General Sir Hugh McCalmont took part in the Red River expedition. He is retired from the army.

MAN ON CAR TRACKS SAVED BY THE FENDER

Toronto, March 27.—It was a lucky escape that J. Geager, 39 Chicora avenue, had last night. The motorman of a Church street car noticed a huddled object lying on the tracks at Bloor and Church streets but owning to the fog he was not able to make out what it was until he was almost on top of it. Then seeing it was a man he hurriedly dropped the fender and picked the man up and carrying him for a distance of a few yards. On inspection it was found that Geager had only sustained a deep cut on the scalp. He was taken to St. Micheal's Hospital where thirteen stitches were needed to close the wound. His injury was not serious.

Rheumatism Goes Quickly Its Virus Forever Destroyed

EVERY CASE IS CURABLE.

Good-bye to Rheumatism!

Your aching joints, your stiff sore muscles, those sleepless nights and suffering days—good-bye forever—your day is gone.

Sufferer, cheer up, and read the good news below.

"A man met me a month ago and said, 'don't stay crippled, quit complaining, limber up.' My answer was, 'I'm rheumatic, I can't do it.' He looked me over in a pitying sort of way and told me to go to the nearest drug store for Nerviline and Ferrozone. The combination had cured him. I was convinced of his sincerity and followed his instructions. I rubbed on Nerviline three times every day—rubbed it right into my aching joints. The pain quickly lessened and I became more limber and active. To draw the virus of the disease from my blood I took two Ferrozone Tablets with every meal. I am well today, not an ache, not a pain and no sign of stiffness at all."

What Nerviline can do in a case like this it can do for you too. For nearly forty years Nerviline has been recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica and Lame Back. It is the one remedy that never disappoints.

FINAL THAW ATTEMPT FOR FREEDOM IS MADE

Concord, N.H. March 27.—The final brief on behalf of Harry K. Thaw, on pushis petition for a writ of habeas corpus and for admission to bail pending a decision on the matter of extradition, were filed in the United States District Court by counsel to-day.

The document lays stress upon the claim that the statute under which Thaw originally was committed to the insane asylum at Matteawan, N. Y., is unconstitutional and there fore it was not a crime for him to escape from custody that an insane person cannot commit a crime and, accordingly cannot be extradited on a charge of committing a crime that Thaw's sanity or insanity must be decided before it can be determined that there is jurisdiction to extradite him and that he is not a fugitive from justice within the meaning of the Federal Constitution.

As to bail counsel maintains that bail in a misdemeanor case in a matter of right. They "confidently" asking his release.

Lucien Bonaparte and Wellington.

Lucien, whom I had never seen before his arrival in England, as he was in disgrace with the emperor, was said to be at least as able as his brother and to have more decision of character. I have heard it said that it was he who saved Napoleon on the 18th Brumaire, and, in fact, I had heard him greatly praised. My actual meeting with him, as often happens, did not come up to my expectations. He seemed to me cringing in his manners and false in his look. He is like Napoleon in the outward shape of his features—not at all in expression. I saw him last year, at a concert at the Duchesse de Canizzaro's, beg her to introduce him to the Duke of Wellington, who was present. I saw him cross the room and come up bowing and scraping to be presented to the victor of Waterloo, whose reception was as cold as such baseness deserved.—From Memoirs of Duchesse de Dino.

Dainty Tools Attract the Rose Grower

By Anne Marie Lloyd.

THE woman who gardens has been well remembered this year by the maker of tools. The gardening basket offers every necessary implement for making a complete garden, arranged in the most attractive manner. Just to look at one of these garden baskets makes you crook your arm and long to seize it and fly to the sunny slope, where your dream garden has been blooming these many years.

The baskets are generous, strong, substantial, efficient looking. They are of heavy wicker, lined with leather in green, red, brown or blue. Fixed in leather straps around the edge is a row of tools. There is the trowel, the bulb planters, the little steel hand which scratches around the roots of shrubs and plants and helps make the soil of the flower bed soft and fine and free from weeds. There is a tube-shaped implement which cuts out its fill of soil and leaves a deep and symmetrical place for setting out plants, and there is a dibbler, a blunt pointed tool, which will make holes for the planting of tubers, or roots, or will draw a trench deep enough for the sweet peas, or make a shallow bed for the smaller seeds that lie nearer the surface.

Charming Rose Baskets.

Two spading forks are in the baskets. One with four prongs is fit to turn the turf, or deepen the root spaces, or turn over the earth for a fresh sunning. The other, with two narrow prongs, permits the gardener to lift a single plant from a row without disturbing its neighbors. There are also shears and clippers. In the corner of the basket is a hand spray. Fastened on each side are spools of wire and twine.

"Gather ye roses while ye may," takes on a special significance when the charming rose baskets are considered. Some of these are in brown wicker, open at the ends with high sides and a wicker handle. Others have curving sides and still others are almost flat trays with handles at each end and are supposed to be slung about the neck of the flower picker by a rose-colored ribbon, leaving both hands free for her fragrant task.

Tall sticks topped with wooden birds in gay colors are the latest fancy for supporting roses where there is no trellis. They are fascinating for the purpose and three or four scattered through a rose garden would have the effect of wonderful plumaged birds hovering over the perfumed blooms.

The real birds are well provided for in the various shops which deal with country home furnishings. For their protection are complete little houses with roofs which overhang in Swiss chalet style, or end in towers like some German schloss. These cunning homes have all the modern improvements, and any birds looking for rents would be most fussy creatures if they were not content to settle in them. Moreover, they are ornamental, either placed on cedar posts or tucked away in the leafy boughs of the trees.

Magic Weather Prophets.

There are also quaint houses in which live two old weather prophets that for years have been foretelling with surprising accuracy the weather of the immediate future. These dwellings are of painted tin in gay hues. There is a tiny piazza and two doors, always open. On one side of the house lives a little old lady with a blue and yellow dress and a flower-decked hat. If you see so much as a glimpse of her out on the piazza you may safely leave your umbrella at home, no matter how lowering the skies. She has never been known to venture out in a storm.

On the other side of the house dwells a little old man. When you see him come out of the door with his coat collar turned about his ears and his hat drawn down over his eyes, look out for rain or snow or whatever kind of bad weather is seasonable. Queer little tin couple, they have the faith of people all over the world and the actual affection of all the children that know them, and they are of never failing interest, if giving a niche in the corner of the piazza, or placed out in the pergola.

EXPERT ADVICE * * * * By Michelson

THERE are rush seasons in every business, and in the Spring—well, you know about the Spring, with June coming and all the rest of it.

One's clients do not always consider how rushed one may be, and the result is that one has SOME business at such a time.

Ah! but it is a fascinating business—this business Prof. Cupid has on his hands! These clients are so earnest! They don't know JUST what they want, but Prof. Cupid, HE knows, and despite the simply appalling strenuousness of the work he contrives to hit the right partnership advice in an amazing proportion of cases.

But you shouldn't hurry the Professor. Don't intrude on a consultation. You'll know when your turn comes!

Secrets of Health

True Wit Is an Antidote for Many Ills

By Dr. L. K. Hirshberg

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins.)

DR. HIRSHBERG.

TO be sane is to be witty. If you have wit in your skull, you have sense in your flesh. Providence is gracious to the witless, because they need health and sympathy. A sense of humor is, after all, only common sense.

Whoever has humor has wit, although it does not follow that whoever has wit has humor. Humor is wit, which has to do with character. It indulges in drollery rather than in brilliancy of playful thoughts.

"Great wits are sure to madness near allied
And thin partitions do their bounds divide."

Yet a man who is out of his wits is unbalanced. Men must often depend upon their wits when their strength fails. When you come to your wits' end you are, forsooth, in a bad way.

Serious wit is after all only alert wisdom. The mental efficiency of a man is increased by winding up the watch of his wit. Wit is that precious vehicle of sense which is the antidote and preventive of dire disease. False wit abounds when separated from wisdom, true wit is eternally linked with it.

The pseudo wit of the wine cup, of madness, of passion is not like the wit of Sir Roger de Coverly, namely, wise, pure and genial.

Men famed for wit of dangerous talents vain,
Treat those of common parts with proud disdain.
The powers that wisdom would, improving, hide,
They blaze abroad, with inconsiderate pride.
While yet but mere probationers for fame,
They seize the honor they should then disclaim.
Honor so hurried to the light must fade
The lasting laurels flourish in the shade.

Wit is usually suggestive of delicate incongruities and quaint analogies. Prof. Bergson says wit is an effervescence of the stiff and rigid into an unexpected elasticity and looseness.

Prof. Sigmund Freud explains wit as the unlooked-for appearance in your mind of something that has been outlawed and barred by education, habits, discipline, religion and conventionality.

Wit has been likened to Father Time's blade. It cut down friend and foe, and is a two-edged scythe which destroys its wielder.

Great wits and valors, like great states,
Do sometimes sink with their own weights.

It is far better to have a sense of humor than to be forever using it. Be patient, and pity, however, those who wholly lack true wit.

True wit is like the brilliant stone,
Dug from the Indian mine,
Which boasts two different powers in one,
To cut as well as shine.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

(Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Dear Miss Laurie:

Just a few remarks, which I hope won't take up too much of your time. I am 19 years of age. Not at all what one would term ugly, but it seems whenever I meet strange boys I lose all power of speech, and can't make up with them at all. My girl friends are not at all like this. I have noticed different times when I meet boys that they stare at me nearly all the time and I blush and appear foolish. I wish if it were in your power to tell me what I could do to avoid these awkward ways and not appear foolish, as I think I do.

ANXIOUS.

WELL now, Anxious, you've chosen the right name for yourself—for once.

You're too anxious; that's all that's the matter with you.

Don't you worry about the strange boys who stare at you. Just notice how they stare at the other girls, too.

How do you know that you blush and appear foolish; has somebody been kind enough to tell you of it?

Are you thinking about yourself all the time so that you know every time you change color? If you are, no wonder you are embarrassed.

The reason you "appear foolish" is because you are foolish. There's no great mystery about that.

What is there so overwhelming about the mere presence of a boy, pray tell me that?

Boys are made of just exactly the same kind of stuff as you are; they don't know any more than you; they can't read your mind any more than you can read theirs. This, I suppose, is after all an excellent, wise provision of Providence.

Why on earth should you "appear foolish" just because a great, hobble-de-hoy of an awkward lad comes into the room?

He isn't thinking about you at all. Get that out of your head right now.

He's thinking about himself and wondering what foot to stand on, and what on earth to do with his hands. He's probably just as "foolish" as you are—and a little bit more so.

Why don't you help him out of his predicament? Talking is your business, not his.

A man has to be 30 years old before he knows how to talk at all. What shall you talk about? Why, what you are thinking about.

Words aren't magic things; they just stand for ideas. Haven't you any ideas of your own?

What would you talk about if the man were your brother—skating, sleighing, the new steps of the tango, the book you've been reading, or the book you wish you could read and can't get time? Well, then, talk about it, but don't talk so fast you scare the poor man to death.

And, whisper, men are the most timid animals on earth; they hate to be pursued; they want to do the chasing themselves.

Don't hunt a man down into some corner and refuse to let him get away. Sit in your own corner and look pleasant, and the first thing you know you'll have to run pretty fast to keep away from most of the boys that you are afraid to speak to now.

And when you want to talk to a man, think of what you are saying, and don't keep wondering what he's thinking about you.

He's probably wishing he knew what there is going to be for dinner, and that far away look in his eyes means nothing more than a high hope that it will be roast beef with plenty of gravy and all the potatoes perfectly well done.

The whole world isn't sitting 'round gazing at you, little sister.

Very few people, indeed, are interested in you at all.

You are just one little wheel in the great machine of the universe. Stop thinking so much about yourself, and people will think a whole lot more about you.

Annie Laurie

New Kiddies' Bonnets To Be Made At Home

By MADGE MARVEL

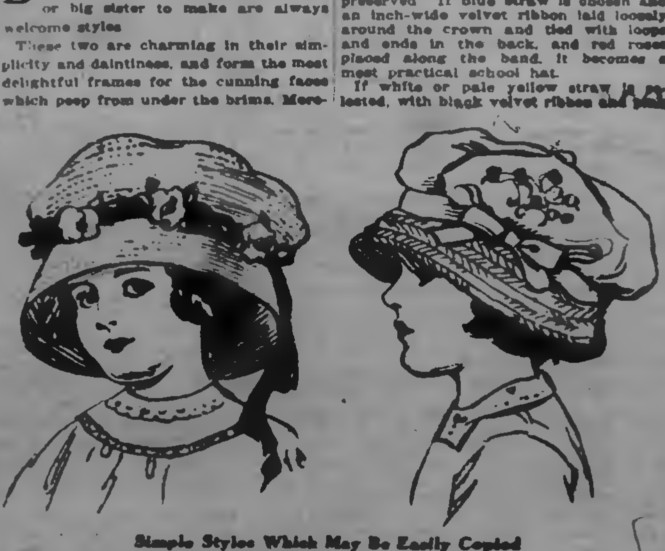
BONNETS for the little folks which do not tax the skill of the mother or big sister to make are always welcome styles.

These two are charming in their simplicity and daintiness, and form the most delightful frames for the cunning faces which peep from under the brims. Moreover, they will give excellent service, for the more elaborate one may be of sturdy materials and practical color, and the other will clean easily.

The more elaborate of the two may be bought as it is and trimmed at home, or a "shape" may be bought and soft [illegible] sewed so as to give it the effect of a very expensive and exclusive bit of millinery. In either case the pliability and lightness of effect must be preserved. If blue straw is chosen and an inch-wide velvet ribbon laid loosely around the crown and tied with loops and ends in the back, and red roses placed along the band, it becomes a most practical school hat.

If white or pale yellow straw is selected, with black velvet ribbon and pink posies, it has a gala appearance.

The other hat gives an opportunity for embroidery skill. The crown is made in sections of linen. One section, or each alternate one, may be embroidered in solid or outline stitch in colors or white. A linen button joins the sections. The brim may be corded or machine stitched to give it body, or it may be made of straw braid. There is a band of wash ribbon with a bow at the side.



Simple Styles Which May Be Easily Copied

Daddy's Good Night Story

By [illegible]

BANG! Bang!! Bang!!!" began Sammy as he started to tell a story to the Rabbit boys.

"The Giant of the Blue Forest was knocking at the door of a hut which was surrounded by trees.

"'Who is it?' asked a tiny voice from within.

"'Open the door!' commanded the Giant. With that the door opened and Tulip Heart, the Fairy of the Forest, appeared. She smiled pleasantly at the big Giant and said in her silvery voice.

"'Come in. You are welcome.'

"'Are you not afraid of me?' asked the Giant in his gruffest voice.

"'No, indeed,' answered Tulip Heart. 'Why should I be afraid of you?'

"'Well, well!' exclaimed the Giant. 'I am glad to find some one who is not afraid of me. Do you know, if you are not afraid of me, I will come in and have supper with you. I will just have time enough, as some hunters are after me.'

"'Are you afraid of them?' asked Tulip Heart.

"'Well,' said the Giant, 'I was looking for some place to hide.'

"'You should not be afraid of them and then they cannot hurt you. Nothing can harm you or hurt you unless you are afraid of it.'

"Just then there was a knocking at the door.

"'Where can I hide?' asked the Giant in alarm.

"'Do not fear,' said Tulip Heart as she touched the Giant with her magic wand and made him disappear.

"The hunters came and couldn't find him and went away. Tulip Heart touched him again with the magic wand.

"'There you are,' she said in her silvery voice. 'I told you not to be afraid.'

"'I shall never be afraid again,' said the Giant in a voice that w a bit harsh."

Useful Hints for the Careful Housewife

Beds should not be against a wall. It may be damp, without any outward indication, and many mysterious colds are due to this. Some papers, too, contain arsenic, especially green ones. There should be no carpet under the bedstead. It collects dust and germs.

Beds should be stripped directly the occupant is out, and the sheets and blankets flung over a chair back.

Finally, some "dont's." Don't hang any more clothes in a bed-room than you can help. Don't use grooved toilet ware. Sediment collects. Don't store anything under the bed. Nor blankets without pieces of yellow soap in the folds. Moths!

And don't forget that you spend nearly five months out of every twelve in your bed and bed-room, so it ought to be the most healthful place in the house.

A mixture that will remove grease from the finest fabrics is made of one quart of rain-water, two ounces of ammonia, one teaspoonful of saltpetre, and one ounce of shaving soap cut up very fine.

To make tough steak tender, put three tablespoonfuls of salad oil and one tablespoonful of vinegar on a large flat dish. Lay the steak on the mixture and let it rest in this way for half an hour. Then turn it over, and let it rest another half-hour in the same quantity of vinegar and oil. The toughest steak will yield to this treatment and be nice and tender when served.

Lemons may be kept a long time without becoming dry if put into a jar of water with a lid. The water should be changed once a week if the lemons are to be kept long. When used, they will be quite as firm as when fresh and, if anything, more juicy.

When a cup of strong tea is required, instead of putting an extra spoonful into the pot, add a spoonful of sugar. This opens the leaves and makes the tea stronger.

Funny in the Wrong Place.

That Prussian police officials are devoid of humor is the firmly rooted opinion of a traveler for a Berlin cotton firm. His business took him to the little town of Nordenburg. When the hotel register was placed before him he filled in the various columns and when he came to "Aim of the Journey" he wrote, "The wide, wide world." Fourteen days later he was charged with having committed a public outrage, for which he was fined six marks, one day's imprisonment being the alternative.

A SKILFUL ARCHITECT.

The Canadian Muskrat Is Cleverer Than the Beaver.

When it comes to ingenuity in construction and system in domestic arrangements the beaver, master builder that he is, can give the little Canadian muskrat few pointers. In building its house the muskrat selects a spot on the low marsh land that will be flooded at high tide or high water if on non-tidal margins. The animal tunnels from the bank of the stream or lagoon or pond, as the case may be, beginning below the edge of low water mark, to the site it has selected for its home.

These preliminaries completed, the muskrat cuts with its chisel-like teeth the broad, strong stalks and leaves of the flag and long, coarse grass. These materials the busy little builder carries to the building site, where it braids and twists them together in circular form and builds them layer upon layer, gradually narrowing the structure until a firm, cone shaped house is the result. This is further strengthened and made comfortable by a liberal mixture of mortar made by the muskrat out of the marsh mud.

The interior of a muskrat's house is always divided into two floors or stories. Sometimes it will have as many as four apartments, one above the other. The number is believed to be regulated by the expected height of the water. Access to them from below is by a chamber or gallery built around the inner edge of the house and rising like a spiral stairway. The muskrat expects and wants the ground floor of its house to be flooded, but there must always be a dry, warm room at the top. The interior is lined with a sheathing of dry grasses and leaves. The only entrance and exit to the house is the subterranean passage from the bank of the water, the ground floor being on a level with that tunnel.

Bouncing Betsey.

There is an old fashioned flower called "Bouncing Betsey," which every one should love for one trait. We have noticed that it grows on all neglected graves, as if trying to cover up the fact that some one who once lived is forgotten. It may also be found in corners of old fashioned gardens, where it grows and blooms and protests against being pushed out entirely. There are some dear old fashioned people who suggest "Bouncing Betsey."

Our Sermon for the week

BY REV. BYRON H. STAUFFER

Pastor Bond Street Congregational Church, Toronto

HOW SOME TORONTO MEN GOT THEIR START

Text: "How do ye advise?"—1 Kings 12:6.

• • •

Successful men owe a duty to youth. This sermon is not preached by the pastor but by sixty leaders in business and professional life, who have made good. I addressed a hundred leading men as follows:

"For the benefit of some young fellow who is to-day where you were many years ago, will you be kind enough to tell me and the hundreds of young men in my down-town congregation, how you got your start? I desire one outstanding thing that contributed vitally to your getting a grip on your life-calling. Was it an early investment, a piece of advice, some man's example, a maxim, some new discovery of power within you or some new line of industry without? What was it that sent you going?"

That I received sixty replies is a tribute to the sense of responsibility among big men. A few were sick and quite a number away from home. A few others, very few, forgot to answer. The evident loyalty of these busy men to the interests of young men is well expressed in a personal letter from Mr. James Ryrie: "I sink my personal inclination to decline answering because I know from experience that such testimonials are not without value for young men."

That is the Christian's burden: Responsibility for others! If you have discovered a secret of success, if you have been blessed by some advice, book or person, hand it on!

Good Sound Business Advice

Doctor William Briggs, Methodist Book Steward: "My earliest and best investment was spending several years in a large mercantile office learning thorough business principles before I entered the ministry. Another advice was: 'Do not waste time on profitless business.' Heed the old saying: 'To lather an ass's head is only wasting soap.' A maxim I preach and try to practice is 'Do it now.' It is the rule of my house. Attempt to do the best work within reason and expect the same from employes or subordinates. To look for more would be as foolish as a tax collector expecting a Christmas box."

Mayor H. C. Hocken: "Circumstances compelled me to be a very hard worker when I was a young man, and hard work became a habit with me. Being in an occupation that was congenial, hard work became a pleasure."

Mr. G. Tamblyn: "A desire to succeed and hard work."

Sir Edmund Walker: "I should think that a lad starting out in life needs a strong interest in whatever kind of work he is called upon to do and plenty of industry."

Mr. Hugh Blain: "Hard work, keeping the interests of the firm and its customers always properly in view secured a partnership with my first employers. The same policy has kept me in business."

Mr. John R. Bone, Managing Editor, Toronto Daily Star: "I simply got a job I liked and did my best to make good. I would say that the ties centering around home furnish one of the strongest motives in men's lives."

Hon. A. E. Kemp: "I find it very difficult to give details but I would say to young men not to be too easily discouraged but to be determined to succeed by all fair methods. The world is not very kind to those who fail and on the other hand it unduly lavishes honor on those who succeed. Whether a young man fails, or whether he succeeds, he should be able to retain his self-respect, and after all this is perhaps as important as anything else.

Tenaciously Clinging to an Idea

To the great majority of youths appear the air castles of some mighty project. Only a few transform the castles into those of stone and mortar. Faith being the substance of things hoped for is the link that joins the dream to its fulfillment. Many a boy, and man too, has day-dreams enough but does not help them to come true. What we need to do is to make a start. Apropos is this testimony:

John A. Paterson, K.C.: "I got my start by an inbred desire to get an education and to find some place to make it useful to myself and others. Stern necessity to work for the best was my compelling course. A general Scotch terrier characteristic to get a grip on something that I had a right to grip and never to let go till I got another strangle-hold on the next better thing. All this to be subject to those eternal principles of truth which we are all bound to obey."

A veteran statesman of Canada, who withholds the use of his name, but whom everybody would regard as the outstanding figure in the Dominion Parliament answers:

"I commenced my career . . . and stuck to my work."

The same testimony is given by Dr. Alexander McPhedran: "I chose my profession from preference and without counsel or advice from anyone. Such success as I have had in it is the result of persevering hard work, an essential to success in almost any walk in life."

Indeed I am struck with the fact that many of these testimonies show that success was reached through love for the work. For instance:

Sir John Willison, Editor, Toronto News: "A clear conviction from boyhood that I wanted to be a journalist, perservering application and love of the work. If one finds himself there is no drudgery. The work one likes is pleasure."

More testimonials show childhood's dreams fulfilled in maturity.

William C. Michell, Principal, Riverdale Collegiate Institute: "Clergymen and school teachers were the most highly respected of all in my native village. I could not aspire to the necessary degree of goodness of the former, so I decided to join the latter. Admiration of an uncle, a very successful teacher, had much to do with this choice. At about seven years of age, I remember reciting 'When I am a man, a man, a teacher I shall be if I can, and I can.' I made up my mind and stuck to it."

Reverend Doctor W. F. Wilson, Pastor Elm St. Methodist Church: "An inclination was my inspiration. I was preaching when I was six years of age. Tell the boys to cultivate an inclination."

Charles McD. Hay, Managing Director, Lyman Bros.: "Although there never has been a druggist in our family, I had a desire from a boy to be one. Writing to my sister when I was about seven, I signed myself 'Chemist and Druggist.' This natural desire has been fostered by a healthy ambition to rise to the top and by insistent, persistent and consistent work. But all this was made possible by Godly parents and, later in life, by the loving, helpful inspiration of a Christian wife.

Even an initial failure did not dampen the enthusiasm of Reverend Dr. W. S. Griffin: "After my conversion I could never think of anything except preaching. I was called on to preach at a Wednesday evening service—a trial sermon for a local preacher's license. At the close the committee kindly informed me 'that I had better stick to exhorting.' That failure was the outstanding thing that gave me the right grip. I felt I could preach and ought to preach and would preach. So I have preached ever since."

The Value of Initiative

Making a start when one does get sight of an opportunity is the great thing. Elbert Hubbard says: "The world bestows its big prizes, both in money and honors, for but one thing. And that is initiative. What is initiative? I will tell you—it is doing the right thing without being told." Here is the testimony of one whose faith reached from London, England, to Toronto. No wonder that he has been and is a captain of industry, and that he has had big success.

William Harris, founder Harris Abattoir Co., and other industries: "When I was a boy in my teens, working in London, I became seized with the notion that it would be profitable to go to Canada, gather and prepare the by-products of the packing-houses, which I had understood were thrown away in the new world, and ship them to England. I held to this one idea, saved my money, and when I was barely twenty I arrived in Toronto to put my theory into practice, shipping my product to my old employer in London. I had to do this after hours so I had to work eighteen hours a day to get my start. But that night work gave me the foundation of my investments."

Maxims and Books Were Spurs Here

G. A. Warburton, General Secretary Y.M.C.A.: "Never choose your intimates from among those below you, but from those as much above you as possible'—this was my mother's counsel. A sermon led me to devote my life to Christian work and contact with cultured people aroused my ambition."

Doctor D. J. G. Wishart: "My late professor of Clinical Medicine in McGill University advised me 'To get into the centre and take hold of whatever offered with all my might and main.' This and the instructions and prayers of a Godly mother furnished a starting point."

Doctor L. E. Embree, Principal Jarvis St. Collegiate Institute: "A grandfather's advice: 'Never mind what people say about you; do your duty. If people didn't think you were worth something, they wouldn't talk about you.'"

James Ryrie: "'Be faithful to the present duty' is the maxim I have tried to keep. As I look back upon my life I realize now as I did not when younger the important part my humble but Godly parents had to do in the formation of my habits and character. I would advise young men: 'Fit yourself for your work and keep yourself fit, so that when opportunity comes you may be prepared to seize it.'"

Books are credited with setting mental machinery in motion. Perhaps we do not realize how frequently even a piece of fiction stirs us; "John Halifax," for example.

Edward Gurney, President Gurney Foundry Co., former President Canadian Manufacturers' Association, whose declaration that Canada needed a tariff "As high as Haman's gallows" made a continent laugh and then think. Mr. Gurney's letter is characteristic: "Reading the 'Hoosier Schoolmaster' which says: 'Bud Mean's bull dog never lets go.'"

Stewart Lyon, Associate Editor, The Globe: "A book of travel taken from a book-case at home in an obscure Scotch village, sent me out into the world determined to see as much of it as I could. I am still seeing it."

Reverend Doctor John Neil, Westminster Presbyterian Church: "We had few books but my father left a number which I read over and over again. 'Rollins' Ancient History,' 'Addisons' Works,' and 'A Blacksmith's letters to the ministers and elders of the Church of Scotland.'

The Helpfulness of People

His Honor, Sir John Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor: "When I was a green country boy at the Central school in Hamilton the late Doctor Sangster, then principal, said some things in talking to his class that made a distinct impression on me and struck a spark of ambition. When I came to the University and at the college convocation saw the successful students of the higher years being called up for their prizes, I made up my mind that if I could not be a prize man it would not be for the want of faithful effort. Habit is everything. It grows. The habit of overcoming difficulties grows and becomes a pleasure. Native genius, so-called, is not more important than the genius of industry, which indeed is itself a species of native genius."

Doctor Helen MacMurchy: "Somebody trusted me. I felt an interest in medical work."

Doctor Maurice Hutton, Principal University College: "My father and uncle invested money for me when I was fifteen years of age to get the best classical education then to be had in England—at Magdalen College School, Oxford. To that school I owe my scholarship and a scholarship at Worcester College. All else was largely increment earned and unearned and a chapter of incidents, but I have consistently followed the maxim: 'Don't fail to write a letter for want of paper, pens and postage stamps.'"

Justice John J. Maclaren: "In the fifties a young Methodist preacher was sent from Upper Canada to a backwoods mission in Lower Canada and was the instrument of my being led to Christ. He inspired my widowed mother with the idea, and myself with the ambition, of my getting a college education. Through her great sacrifice and self-denial throughout, aided in the latter part by my own efforts and earnings, my college and professional education was secured and I got my start in life."

Senator Robert Jaffray: "I feel that I owe a great deal to my apprenticeship employer. He was genuinely honest, attentive and capable in business; kind and interested in all his employes. My advice is: 'Believe in your ability to accomplish; persevere in overcoming difficulties; be industrious; live within your means; whatever your hand finds to do, do it with all your might.'"

Mr. R. C. Harris, Commissioner of Works: "A piece of advice received when a lad from the present city clerk, Mr. W. A. Littlejohn, concerning minute preparation for my chosen work, which I followed, affected most vitally my future. More than all, my good mother."

Controller James Simpson: "Getting an occupation fitted to my natural talent, and getting a wife who was anxious and willing to co-operate with me in my success."

Gratitude to Parents

Doctor George H. Locke, Chief Librarian: "Two facts helped me. First, my father's excellent judgment in seeing that an education for a lad meant capital in business. He sacrificed much to give me an education. Second, when I needed a 'grubstake' I got it, not from men with plenty of money from whom I had expected that I might get it, but from a man who had less than a thousand dollars of his own but who was willing to take chances on me. I have tried to pass on his helpfulness and his faith in others. Again I remember that when I left home my father did not make me promise anything, but asked me not to do anything that I should be ashamed to tell him about, or bring any reproach on what he had tried to do for me."

Justice William R. Riddell: "I got my start by selecting parents of sound sense, calm judgment and love of learning. I do not remember any other start or any time when I was different from what I am now in substance."

Honorable W. H. Hoyle, Speaker Ontario Legislature: "A God-fearing mother and the religious instruction in an Anglican Collegiate Institute in England."

Doctor C. K. Clark, Superintendent General Hospital: "A good father and mother and the example of two unusual and great men."

John Macdonald, President John Macdonald & Co.: "My father was a Highland Scotchman whose whole aim and object in life was to serve God, and it would be hard for anyone to forget his example. Perseverance and application were two prominent traits in my early life, based on my father's example and teaching. He encouraged me to straightforwardness, keeping one's word and honesty to one's fellowmen, with a never-failing trust in a Divine Creator who ruleth all things."

Charles G. Fraser, Principal Manning Ave. Public School: "My mother's Bible stories gave me my start. She knew her Bible, not doctrinally but narratively and historically. She was a great story-teller indeed. Bible characters consequently occupied a constant place in our youthful vision. The Bible taught us that right always triumphed. Joseph always finally came to a Pharoah's throne."

Archdeacon H. J. Cody, Rector St. Paul's Anglican Church: "My mother's teaching and example. The stimulating teaching of the late Professor George Paxton Young of the University of Toronto, and the late Principal Sheraton of Wycliffe College."

Doctor J. T. Gilmour, Warden Central Prison: "My mother's inspiration and encouragement. Winston Churchill's strongest sentence in 'The Inside of the Cup' is 'Unless there be in the background a mother, no portrait of a man is complete. She explains him. Is his complement. Thus into the Supreme Canvas came the Virgin.'"

The Conclusion of the Whole Matter

These helps from Godly parents I trust are yours. Very likely they are, for somebody says that: "Everybody's mother is a remarkable woman."

All you need is appreciation of what mother did for you.

Similarly the friendships of good men need to be meditated upon. All of us have high-minded friends and acquaintances enough to furnish us all the ideals we need.

Have pluck! On an advertising card I found this rhyme, not altogether Websterian, true, but nevertheless pointed:

"'Tis grit makes the man
The want of it the chump
The men who win, lay hold,
Hang on and hump!"

Seize your idea, follow it persistently, do not flit from scheme to scheme. Get after your dream when you wake. Wish and then act. Wishing is not a crime, but not wishing hard enough is very wrong.

Cultivate friendships which you would like to continue into old age. Remember Polonius' advice to his son:

"The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel."

Football Enthusiast Robbed

At a football match at Kirkcaldy a West Fife miner returned home the poorer by $60. He had been standing among the crowd. He pulled a bundle of banknotes from his pocket, and, waving them above his head, offered to bet on one of the teams. As no one seemed inclined to respond to his invitation, he restored the notes to his pocket. Shortly afterwards he again placed his hand in his pocket, and discovered that the whole of the money, in $5 notes, had disappeared.

ENGLAND'S RACEHORSES

Kentuckian Tells Why They Are the Best in the World

"England has the best thoroughbreds as a rule," writes Mr. Fred A. Forsythe, one of the best known horsemen in Kentucky. "If she does not, then it is a strange freak of nature, because the breed originated there. It has been carefully studied and fostered by the best and wealthiest patrons for over two hundred years. The Government does not try to hamper it, but encourages the sport; their ruler is a great patron; society is enthusiastic over the sport, and they have a just right to feel proud of the stand of the people upon this question as they recognize its far-reaching benefits. Here with us the reverse has been true. Instead of a turfman who is honorable being respected and honored, he is classed along with the the undesirables of the turf, those who frequent it for the 'greed of gain.' The different State Governments under the domination of self-seeking politicians have to a great extent crippled or killed this great and beneficial sport in their borders.

"We do have to go back to the fountain head to replenish and improve our thoroughbreds. We have not arrived at that state of self-sufficiency where we consider that our methods or our stock cannot be improved upon. We do go back to England and in some cases get their best. That the majority of us are not able to pay the prices of the best in England is our misfortune, and not our fault, but I believe in fair, truthful and unbiased statements, and credit when engaged in sport, in giving every good horse in every country his well earned dues, and not because he belongs to one man to depreciate his worth as a horse. He cannot choose his master; all that he can do is to serve that master, as he is able, faithfully and truely."

Message in the Cheese

Mrs. Allen, Huntingdonshire, was cutting a piece of cheese when she found embedded in it this note: "Whoever eats this cheese, will they let me know when and where, and how they [illegible] Shower to [illegible], [illegible] P.O., Ontario, Canada." Mrs. Allen has written as requested.

Revenue From Motorists

Fines amounting to over $6,000 were imposed on motorists, under the Motor Car Acts, in the Spelthorne division of Middlesex during twelve months.

HIGH PRICES FOR DOGS

English Canine Aristocrats Are Sold to America

When the rage for pugs set in, several enterprising fanciers made expeditions into the East End of London, and picked up for $25 or $40 dogs that they subsequently sold for anything up to $500.

Pekingese fetch astonishing prices. There is money, too, in fox terriers. A Bristol gentleman, while strolling through that city a few months ago, saw in a pigeon shop a small terrier, and, going inside, purchased it for $1.25. It has since won the first prize at a fox terrier show at Bristol, and its value is now, at least $500.

In another case, a fortunate gentleman quickly made $800, plus prizes, out of a fox terrier. Anchor by name, this animal was bought for $25, and knocked down at auction for $500.

Collies sometimes yield still higher prices to their breeders. A well known exhibitor paid $6,000 for Champion Ormskirk Emerald, and more than $5,000 for Champion Southport Perfection.

Even working collies, though generally worth only a fraction as much as the show members of their race, have occasionally realized fancy prices, particularly in Australia, where all the best dogs are of Scottish descent.

A Sutherland gentleman has a breed which has been kept pure for at least 150 years, and he has exported many of the dogs to Australia. For one of these dogs, at the Wangaratta show, a farmer refused a genuine offer of $2,500, the highest bid ever made anywhere for a working collie.

The most remarkable "deal" on record, perhaps, was one which took place at the Dogs' Home, Battersea, London, England. A gentleman who strolled into that institution, without any particular object, took a fancy for a bulldog, which had been picked up in the street, and bought it for a few shillings. And he never regretted it. The animal turned out a wonderful prize-winner, and attained championship honors.

An Expensive Ass

"I have a shed, your honor, but the old ass gets out in spite of me. He has cost me more in fines than would buy a pony," said Jane [illegible], Finedon, amid laughter, when she was fined 25 cents at Drumpsedon Sessions for allowing an ass, her property, to stray on the public field.

Four-legged Chicken

A Plymouth Rock cockerel with four fully developed legs, bred by Mr. S. H. [illegible], of Highfield Mill, was sold by auction in Sudbury Market for 75c. At Mr. R. Moore's farm at Great Wilbraham, Cambs, a duck has been hatched with four legs, and is still living.

Huge Stained Glass

One of the largest windows in stained glass made for many years is nearing completion as a memorial to King Edward at Hove. The dimensions are 40 feet in length by a width of 20 feet, and this huge expanse of beautiful glass is to be the west window in the parish church at which King Edward worshipped when he stayed in the neighborhood.

As a cure for Asthma and a preventative of Grippe every doctor is delighted with Catarrhozone. One eminent throat specialist says it Catarrhozone is used two or three times each day you will never suffer from any disease of the head, throat, nose or lungs. This is good news to many of our readers who must require a safe, sure and permanent cure for their colds and winter ills. Every good druggist sells Catarrhozone, large outfit $1.00; small size 50c.; trial size 25c.

CITY AND DISTRICT

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Local Street Watering.

It is understood that the proposal of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company to arrange with the City for an electric truck sprinkler to water the streets on which the car lines are laid, has reached concrete form.

Murray Street Church.

Last night the annual roll call of Murray street Baptist Church was held. Reports showed that the church membership and finances are in a highly satisfactory condition. Interesting addresses were given by leading Baptists from outside the city.

Knox Church.

The services in Knox church tomorrow morning and evening will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Ramsay, of Toronto, one of the prominent leaders and preachers of the Presbyterian Church. Until recently he was minister of Knox Church, Ottawa. Rev. Mr. Keith will visit Omemee, Mount Pleasant and Bethany appointments on that day, according to the arrangements of the Presbytery.

Local Lacrosse Booming.

Mr. Len Dobson has received a communication from the secretary of O.L.A. containing a proposition by which it will be possible for school boys up to twelve years of age, to purchase lacrosse sticks at 50c each. Youths up to 20 years of age can get a lacrosse stick for $1. Trebilcock Bros. have undertaken the agency. It is not a money-making scheme, as they act merely as agents for the distribution of the sticks.

The Trent Canal Scandal.

Lindsay Warder referring to a bluff put up by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in asking for campaign funds, says: "What about the systematic graft for campaign purposes carried on in connection with the work on the Trent Valley Canal?

Oh, no! The Liberal party is not bankrupt yet. They went out of power with a huge fund in reserve.

Conditions are not what Sir Wilfrid would have the public believe."

Canal Officers on Tour.

Lindsay Post: Engineer Killaly, of Peterborough, Acting Supt. of Trent Valley Canal, and Jas. Garrow, of the Canal staff, were in town to-day on their way to Bobcaygeon. While in town they inspected the Lindsay street bridge where some improvements will be made. Their visit to Bobcaygeon is in connection with the great waste of water at that point.

Good Music, all welcome.

A Wise Horse.

There are those who claim that animals do not think farther than to understand their animal needs and passions. This was disproved yesterday in front of Mr. J. R. Bell's store on Hunter street. A horse was tied there waiting for a tardy driver. To look at the steed, one would think the animal, although awake, was mentally asleep. A pretty young lady, residing on Rubidge street, stepped on the pavement. Now we don't know anything about her higher education or her "culchaw," but, Mr. Walker declares that that horse realized that she had a perfect understanding, and deliberately winked.

An Invitation to Capitalists.

The special series of sermons on Social Problems by the Rev. Robt. Pogue in St. Paul's church, is drawing to a close. His subject on Sunday evening will be "The Duty of Capital in the Present Industrial Order." He extends a hearty invitation to all employers of Labor who may not be worshipping at their own church to come and hear his message. He will preach a week from Sunday night on the "Duty of Labour," and has some pretty plain things to say to both Capitalists and Labourers on their mutual relations and duties. He would like to see a large attendance of all who employ labour in any way at the services to-morrow evening.

Was It a Dirty Deal?

At the wind-up meeting of the Mercantile Hockey League, there was a most stormy session. Language was used that would break any printing press attempting to reproduce the same. It would seem that there are six teams in the league, viz.: Tool Room, Test Room, Bankers, Examiner, DeLaval and Plumbers. President Nelson is said to have been a good reproduction of Russia's Czar in the way of handling the finances. Vice-President Russell, who naturally was interested in seeing that the Examiner bunch got fair play, resigned. It would seem that the Examiners, the De Laval and the Plumbers got soldered up against the proper share of the change. Mr. Russell contemplates testing President Nelson's decision by law. It is not a question of money, but principle.

When Dreams Come True.

Mr. John Murphy lives at 57 Smith street. Mr. Murphy is, and with reason, a firm believer in dreams. Some 24 years ago his grandfather died in the same house. Four years ago Mr. Murphy dreamed that his grandfather, who came originally from Ireland, had left something for him on the kitchen dresser. After getting up, Mr. Murphy made a search. On the dresser under an old clock, he found a copper coin of the year 991. This was issued during the reign of Arthur O'Connor King of Connaught. The coin is the ½ part of a penny and about a quarter of an inch in diameter. The coin was seen by a Times representative. The date 991 is distinctly legible. Mr. Murphy has also a sovereign of the year 1837, the year Queen Victoria ascended the throne. It is in perfect state of preservation. On the obverse side is the Queen's portrait and on the reverse side the white horse of Hanover. These coins are exceedingly valuable.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,892.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $800 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $325,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

The SUNDAY NEW YORK HERALD for March 22 will prove of exceptional interest. The front color page of the Magazine Section is a page of clowns by Jennett, who is famous for his work in this line. To say that this page will be a blaze of color is putting it mildly. The story accompanying the clown pictures is by Jim Rutherford, the great producing clown of Barnum & Bailey's.

The one hundredth anniversary of the battle of Valparaiso in which the then Midshipman Farragut was captured, is given special attention.

Of special interest to women is a page of pictures and a story on the "Hero of the Movies"—and a handsome lot of fellows they are, too; a page on "Newcombe," the new athletic game for girls, which started in the South and has spread over all the country, illustrated by dashing pictures of trim young women, and a story of the suffragette victory in New Jersey.

Other features will be a page of photographs, another detective story, Westover's page of comic strips and the second article of the "Sky Rebel's" fascinating series. The subject of this is "Earthquakes, Explosions and Comets," and it is printed in colors.

The SUNDAY NEW YORK HERALD will, therefore, contain seven pages in colors on March 22. In addition to the foregoing, a sixteen page Fashion Magazine goes free with the NEW YORK HERALD, Sunday, March 22.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD

The present season is the twenty-eighth of Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead." The play is still as eagerly looked forward to by theatregoers wherever it is announced for production. The exceptionally long life of "The Old Homestead" is a striking tribute to its power to entertain playgoers, who find in its homely sentiment, its lovable characters and rural atmosphere a refreshing change from the conventional. It is beyond question the most perfect picture of simple country life that has ever been presented on any stage. The home-bred love of home, of justice of right living, tempered with sunny wit and kindly humor, finds its best exponent in this delightful play. Nearly everybody has seen it and everyone will want to see it again. No wonder, then, that "The Old Homestead" has come to be regarded as the acme of realism presenting a true and graphic picture of New England country life, with Uncle Josh, a shrewd and affectionate and thoroughly human type of American manhood, as its central character. Its story is so familiar as to make any reiteration of it now altogether unnecessary and untoward unwarranted. Uncle Josh will be found to be the same picturesque, typical figure of the prosperous, warm-hearted, God-fearing New Hampshire farmer as of old.

The production and cast will be seen at The Grand Opera House next Thursday, April 2, will be the same as on former occasions. The famous quartette of farm hands is still a leading feature of the production; not forgetting that sterling old character actor Mr. E. L. Snader, who for many seasons has played the dear old New England farmer. Capacity houses will undoubtedly welcome this greatest of all American successes.

STEAMER MAUI LOST AT SEA, FORTY DIE

Honolulu, March 26.—Between 30 and 40 lives are believed to have been lost by the blowing up of the Inter-Islandsteamer Maui off Pearl Harbor.

From Ft. Kamehameha, soldiers observed that the steamer apparently was on fire. A few minutes later the ship was seen to blow up and immediately sink. More than thirty men including the crew and anumber of laborers, mostly Hawaiians, were aboard.

Rumors are current that the Maui struck a mine, but the general opinion is that one of the engines exploded.

The loss of all on board is indicated as it is believed the ship sank so quickly that there was no time to launch small boats. The Maui was a steel Schooner of 631 tons, owned by the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company, and was used in the island trade. She was built in 5898 at San Francisco.

BRITISH PUBLIC VERY CALM WHILE THE POLITICANS RAGE, ARMY REFORM SURE THING

Business in England Proceeds Unconcerned as to Talk of Civil War, Sports Continue to Attract

London, March 18.—This has been a tremendously stirring week in political circles and the party press has been seething into columns of conjecture, speculation and prophecy over such meagre facts as are certainly known. No doubt you will have reached the point by this time of believing that the great British public is moved to its depths at the near approach of civil war, that business is generally suspended and that sport has ceased to attract. But nothing could be further from the truth. The great British public has been singularly successful in maintaining not calmness alone, but indifference. Indeed, it has been far more interested in the Grand National at Liverpool and the university boat race than in the varying fortunes of the government and opposition.

Public Curious and Aloof.

This present attitude of the public has a curious mixture of aloofness and curiosity just as it might be concerned with events in Kamschatka or Timbuctoo. It can only be explained by the conviction that the rumpus is all in the game of politics, carried a little further than usual, through the determination of the opposition to force a dissolution, and the opportunity afforded to do this by Protestant Ulster opposition to Home Rule. What, however, came as a bolt from the blue was the introduction of the army, or rather of the commissioner officers of the army, into the political fray. This was precipitated without the knowledge of the Premier or the Cabinet generally by Col. Seely and the defence committee of the Cabinet, who are credited with the intention of testing the sentiments of the army officers. And the fat was in the fire with a vengeance when Col. Seely, with his own hand, surrendered to Gen. Gough and gave a written pledge that the army would not be employed to coerce Ulster.

King Wracked With Scruples.

It was at this stage that the King also became involved in the controversy. The assurance given by Col. Seely that the King did not take any initiative in dealing with the resignations of the officers concerned does not necessarily mean that he was not consulted or that his advice was not followed. There is no reason to doubt that the King acted with scrupulous regard to the constitutional requirements of his high office. Col. Seely assumed the whole responsibility for adding the fateful clause to the memorandum agreed upon by the Cabinet.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN THE CANADIAN NORTHERN RY

Ottawa, Mar. 28.—The situation in regard to the Canadian Northern Railway has reached a final stage in the House of Commons. The Government's stand against further aid is generally conceded to be perfectly correct and in the country's best interests. It is understood that the banks are falling into line with the views of the Government, whose firmness has succeeded in averting at the eleventh hour big demands on the Dominion's financial institutions. It is not yet certain what will eventually happen the C.N.R.

THREE YEARS FOR LAWYER HAGEL

Man Who Helped Winnipeg Murderer to Escape Sent to Prison.

Winnipeg, March 28.—"Notwithstanding the verdict of the jury I say that in truth and fact I am not guilty." So spoke Percy E. Hagel this morning when asked by Justice Curran if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him. Hagel was then sentenced to three years imprisonment, and John Westlake to two years.

His Lordship spoke feelingly and referred to the fact that strong influences for which he had the highest personal regard had been brought to bear on him in connection with leniency for Hagel. He stated, however, that those who had come to him had not in any way affected his own mind in the matter, for he had been inclined to leniency. He felt, however, that he had duty to perform to society and thus he felt that he could not do less than sentence the accused to three and two years respectively.

ALDERMAN NAMED IN BRIBERY CHARGE PROMISES ACTION

Ottawa Has its Most Sensational Council Meeting at Extra Sitting--Name of Accused Not Given

Ottawa, March 28.—The most sensational scenes ever enacted in the city council here took place at a special meeting to-day, called for the purpose of hearing attempted bribery accusation in connection with the pure water campaign. In a statement issued yesterday Alderman Low accused another alderman and the editor of a local paper of offering him money to change his attitude and oppose the Ottawa river scheme. At the council meeting to-day he named Alderman Thomas Brethour as the man who made the alleged offer but declined to give the name of the newspaper man. Alderman Brethour made a vigorous denial and says he will take action for slander against Alderman Low. Both men represented Rideau Ward in the council.

The water campaign, the bitterest municipal fight ever waged in the capital, ends on Monday with the taking of vote on the plebiscite as between the Gatineau Lake scheme, recommended by Sir Alexander Binnie, at a cost of $8,000,000 and mechanical filtration of the Ottawa River, recommended by Mayor McVeity and City Engineer Currie, at a cost of about $2,000,000.

MONTREAL WOMAN HAS BEEN MISSING SINCE WOODBINE FIRE

Montreal, March 28.—Friends of Mrs. Alexander St. Etienne street, to-day began inquiries about her, and they expressed the fear that she was burned in the fire at the Woodbine Hotel, Toronto.

Mrs. Alexander left Montreal for Toronto about a month ago and she wrote regularly to her friends here, they say, until the very day of the hotel fire, when the letters ceased.

WITNESS CCLLAPSFD

East Nissouri Farmer Had to be Removed From Court Room.

Woodstock, March 28.—A stir was created in the Assize Court at noon to-day, when McKenzie Fodbery, an East Nissouri farmer, who was being cross examined in a minor case, collapsed and had to be removed from the court room. The case was a motion to have R. H. Robbins, of East Nissouri declared capable of handling his own affairs. Judge Kelly will report to Mr. Justice Middleton on the matter.

LETTER CARRIERS ASK FOR INCREASE

Executive of Federated Association Appeals to Minister.

Ottawa, March 28.—The executive of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers of Canada, composed of W. H. Hoop, of Winnipeg; A. McMordie, of Toronto; E. Sergerie of Montreal, and W. Crawshaw, of Ottawa, met the Postmaster-General, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, and Mr. Hector Verrett, the assistant deputy to-day, laying before them the requests as decided upon at the letter carriers' convention.

Among the most important features advanced were: Asking for increased salaries, also one-half day per week holiday during the three hot summer months—June, July and August.

In connection with this request, consent for the same had been obtained from the business houses in the majority of the large cities of the Dominion, and favorable consideration is expected from the department for this concession.

SCHOOL TEACHER MURDERED IN BUSH

Man Charged on Suspicion of Committing a Brutal Crime.

Little Falls, N.Y., March 18.—The body of Miss Lydia Beecher, a high school teacher at Poland, Kerkimer County, was found in a clump of bushes on the outskirts of that village to-day. She had been murdered with a knife, apparently after having been attacked.

A man named Gammel, who was recently expelled from the school by Miss Beecher, was arrested to-day on suspicion of having been connected with the crime. The authorities say that he was seen talking with the young woman last night. He could not be found at his home, but was traced to Newport, four miles from the scene of the tragedy.

The young woman left her boarding house last night to mail a letter. When she did not return a search for her was begun, but it was not until noon to-day that a farmer, driving along the road, sighted the body.

Miss Beecher was 21 years of age, and had taught school at Poland for two years.

WATCHMAN CHARGED WITH BRUTAL CRIME

Man Found in Burning New York Boathouse With Knife in Skull.

New York, March 28.—One of the most brutal murders in the history of the police department was discovered to-day when the body of a man known only as "Red" was found in the ruins of a boat house at One Hundred and Sixty First street and the Hudson River, which was destroyed by fire. The man was killed with a hatchet or an axe. A long knife was found imbedded in victims skull.

Edward McDonald, a watchman, was arrested and charged with homicide. A policeman, who said he discovered the fire, reached the burning boathouse in time to see McDonald coming from the door. McDonald told him, the policeman said, there was no one else in the house. Later, McDonald is said to have told several conflicting stories. He denied wielding the hatchet or ax that killed "Red".

HARD FIGHTING IS STILL CONTINUED IN BESET CITY

Villa Telegraphs That He Expects to Possess Torreon by To-night--Meagre Reports Came Thru

Juarez, March 28.—Heavy fighting continued in Torreon to-day according to a telegram received at one o'clock from Gen. Villa. Villa expected to have the city by to-night. He gave no details.

Rebel officers were silent to-day as to the fighting which began yesterday at Torreon and which was reported to be continuing in the night. They said they had no direct information from the front.

Awaits News From Field.

With the expectation that Torreon would crumble under the rebel attack to-day, officers in Jaurez awaited news from the battle field. The last reports yesterday were that General Mondovio Herrera had cut his way from the eastern side of Torreon through the business quarter to the bull ring on the north side; that General Villa had set out with more troops from Gomez Palacio to join him and take command, and that the federals were making a final stand in the defenses on the west side.

An unconfirmed rumor at midnight had it that the rebels had taken the hill known as Cerro De La Cruz, an important defense, but verification was lacking to-day.

$1000 MUST SUFFICE TO KEEP AMELIA LOVE

Alimony Case Settled by Mutual Consent—Charges Not Borne Out By Testimony.

Toronto, March 28.—The Love case was settled yesterday by the mutual consent of both parties, after a number of out-of-court references, and it was decided that Mrs. Love was to receive per year $1,000 alimony, and out of this sum she was to support two children.

Mrs. Amelia Love was suing her husband a contractor for $1,500 per year alimony, and a share in his alleged $100,000 property, charging him with infidelity and cruelty, while Mr. Love laid counter charges of a similar nature. Mrs. Love has been receiving interim alimony of $1,000 per year, but she did not think that this was sufficient.

In announcing the settlement, Mr. Justice Latchford stated that "the charges against the characters of the parties in this action could not be sustained by the evidence."

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Mostly fair and not much change in temperature.

C. N. R. ANNOUNCEMENT EXPECTED IN A FEW DAYS

Road to Get Aid—List of Securities Being Prepared.

Ottawa, March 28.—The Canadian Northern Chiefs and the Government have been in close touch all Saturday in arranging details of an agreement by which the Dominion guarantees 45 millions of the company's bonds in order to complete the road. A list of securities to be put up as against this aid is being prepared. The Government are inserting a lot of other provisions in the deal. But it is now definitely understood that the Government have come to the conclusion that it is in the public interest that the road be completed and that it would be advantageous to the public credit that an announcement to that effect be made at the earliest moment.

DIVORCED WIFE NOT THE CULPRIT

Declares on Her Honor That She Never Told M. Callaux.

Paris, March 28.—The investigation into the killing of M. Calmette, editor of the Figaro, by Mme Callaux, wife of the former Minister of Finance continued to-day before Magistrate Henri Boucard. Mme Gueydan Dague a former of wife of M. Callaux, declared on her honor that she never directly or indirectly communicated to M. Calmette the contents of any document concerning M. Callaux.

Leon Bailby, editor of l'Intransigeant, testified that he had been a close friend of M. Calmette and that M. Calmette, while at dinner with him, March 12, read to Bailby the Fabre report and two papers known as "The Green Document"—diplomatic correspondence the nature of which was adverse to M. Callaux. The publication of this correspondence was considered impossible on account of its origin. M. Bailby said he again saw M. Calmette March 14, and told him that he could obtain a copy of the Fabre report, but that he would not publish it in l'Intransigeant if Calmette was going to publish it in the Figaro.

M. Calmette, the witness declared, said he had promised not to print the report, but that he hoped to obtain a release from his promise before Tuesday.

NEW METHOD OF MAKING FIFTY DOLLAR BILLS

Montreal, March 28.—With a cigar box label and a five dollar bill of the Bank of Hochelaga, a presentable fifty dollar bill can be made. Two such bills were taken from John Rougaud, of Napierville, yesterday in the store of Napoleon Dacust, Notre Dame street west. Rougard was placed under arrest.

He said that he was a farmer and claimed he had received the bills in payment of stock he had sold in the city. On the other hand, it is said by the police that once in the station he seemed to throw away concealment by saying: "I'm caught. It took me three months to make them."

The method used to manufacture bills apparently was to neatly cut out from a cigar label eight number '50's' and three printed "fifty's." The eleven clippings were then placed on to the five dollar bill, and in a dim light would pass well if no examination were made.

PASSED AS A MAN FOR SIXTY YEARS

When Discovery of Sex of Masquerader Was Made, She Was Sent to an Asylum.

Quincy, Ill., March 28.—After masquerading as a man for sixty years and serving as a soldier in General U.S. Grant's army during the civil war, "Albert" Cashier, whose sex was discovered at the Soldiers' Home recently, to-day was committed to an asylum.

The woman was born in Ireland 73 years ago. She came to America as a stowaway, clad in boy's clothes. When the war between the States broke out, she, having continued to represent herself as a male, enlisted in Company "G" 95th Illinois Infantry. She participated in some of the bloodiest battles of the war and behaved with gallantry.

When the war closed she resumed civil life as a workman until old age, and the results of the exposure during the war made her helpless to support herself. She then entered the soldiers Home, where her sex was discovered while she was under the care of a surgeon. She refused to tell her family history.

GERMANY'S POLICE ACCUSED OF GRAFT

Head of Department Suspended for Blackmailing Immoral Houses.

Germany, March 28.—Allegations of blackmailing caused the suspension to-day of commissioner Schmidt, head of the city police department in control of the suppression of vice.

Investigations of charges that the "morals police" have been secretly receiving money for the protection of disorderly resorts have been in progress in several cities for months.

Schmidt was implicated in the scandal by the testimony of a woman in this city who revealed an extensive system of blackmail by the police.

KICKED A DYNAMITE BOOM INTO STREET

Tenant Did Not Know What Package Contained—Fuse Had Been Lighted.

New York, March 25.—A bomb containing a six inch stick of dynamite with two fuses and a detonator, was found in the hallway of 420 East 76 street, early to-day, by John Battaign a tenant. He kicked it into the street not knowing what the package contained. Policeman O'Connell found it. He turned it over to the bureau of combustibles, who removed the cover from the bomb and found that one of the fuses had been ignited, but that the string which bound it to the stick of dynamite had been wrapped so tightly that it had extinguished the the slow burning fire of the fuse. Detectives were put on the case.

ASSAILS REPEAL AS SURRENDER WITH STRUGGLE TO BRITAIN

Fight Against Sims Bill Proceeds All Day in House, But Wilson Administration Supporters Are Confident Bill Pass Before Tuesday or Wednesday

Washington, March 28.—Debate on the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption continued to-day in the house and senate. The house was proceeding on the Sims bill under twenty hours' debate, as provided in the hard fought battle of yesterday. The senate was debating the subject generally.

In the house, Representative Knowland, controlling the time for the Republicans, assailed the repeal in unmeasured terms as "surrendering to Great Britain without a struggle."

"Is the Panama Canal now the price of the elimination of Huerta?" he demanded.

In the senate resolutions by Senator Lewis and Senator Gallinger were laid aside until Monday. Mr. Lewis' resolution was supplementary to one now pending, declaring for equal tolls, and would empower the president to suspend tolls in his discretion.

Administration supporters are confident the repeal bill will pass the house by Tuesday night or early on Wednesday.

Yesterday's victory for the administration in the house has aroused expectations of champions of repeal in the senate that a favorable report will be forthcoming from the canals committee, notwithstanding the influence of Senator O'Gorman.

The aligoment of the contending forces in the house remained practically unchanged to-day. Representative Adamson, leading the fight for the repeal, declared the Sims bill would pass by a large majority. He predicted that yesterday's vote on the adoption of the special rule for the consideration of the bill to repeal the Panama tolls exemption—207 to 178—would be materially increased in favor of the repeal forces when the bill was finally voted upon.

Representative Underwood, the majority leader; Representative Fitzgerald, minority leader, Mann, and other prominent members leading the revolt against the administration forces, brought every effort to bear. Throughout the day they maintained a continuous attack, interrupting and questioning the speaker's favoring the repeal. Speaker Clark also had announced his intention to speak against the bill Tuesday. A crowd which packed the house galleries was on hand early and remained throughout the day.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE AFTER ACQUITTAL

Brantford Man Jumped Into Lorne River After Facing Charge of Arson.

Brantford, March 28.—At a late hour last night, Peter Adams, who last year was accused of setting fire to the Brantford Cordage Company plant causing a loss of $125,000, but who was acquitted for lack of evidence tried to commit suicide by jumping from Lorne Bridge into the flooded Grand River, dotted with cakes of ice. The life boat was sent for and Adams found clinging to the railing protecting the Lake Erie and Northern Railway abutments. He was arrested and this morning fined $3 for being drunk.

Trent Canal Completion.

Ottawa, March 28.—The last contract on the Trent Valley Canal has been awarded to the Inland Contracting Col, of Toronto. Aylmer & Co. of Peterborough were next, their tender bring $18,000 higher. The amount of the contract is nearly one million dollars.

ONE GIRLS' SCREAM SETS 1000 OTHERS IN A PANIC

Wild Rush to Street in Clothing Factory Could Not be Stopped

New York, March 28.—A girl screamed in the big workrooms of the Howard Ladies' Apparel Manufacturing Company at Nos. 37 to 45 West Twentieth street this morning. She had caught her finger beneath the needle of her electric sewing machine. Instantly another girl and then another took up the scream. No one stopped to investigate. The cries threw nearly all of the 200 girls in the rooms into a panic. Some one yelled "Fire," and there was a rush for the stairway. In other workrooms 1000 girls heard the cries and also ran for the stairs. Isaac Cohen in charge of the fire drill, sounded the alarm, while twenty men employed in the place ran among the girls telling them there was no danger and urging them to be calm. In vain the elevator operators and men employed in the various lofts assured them there was no fire. The girls were panic stricken and stopped only when they reached the sidewalk, breathless and dishevelled. Several fainted, while others had bruises, but none were seriously injured.

THREE ARE DEAD AND ONE WOUNDED IN A LAND FEUD

Little Rock, Ark., March 28.—Three men were shot and killed and a woman probably fatally wounded as the result of a fued at Nogo, Ark., thirty miles north of Russellville, Ark., Tuesday last, according to despatches received here to-day. The tactics of the old-time mountain fued it is stated were used.

The dead are Francis McCuin, G. W. Hart and John Church, Mrs. John Church was wounded.

The fued it is stated, started over the right to use government land.

The country is sparsely settled and a full account of the tragedy cannot be obtained because of the lack of communication.

Reports reaching here say that McCuin was shot to death at his home and that Church and his wife were shot while returning from a visit to neighbors. Later, Hart, who it is said, killed McCuin, was hunted down and his body riddled with bullets. Hart is also charged with shooting Church and his wife.

Officers have been sent to that section hoping to prevent further bloodshed, which is feared will follow the triple killing.

TOBACCO CHEFS.

Experts That Make Sauces For Flavoring the Different Brands.

"I am a tobacco chef," said the sallow man. "I make the sauces that give us smoking or chewing tobacco as a food chef makes the sauces which give us sole colbert or poulet creole.

"Take this dark, sweet, juicy plug of 'navy brown,' so popular among the more prosperous type of teamsters. Well, the flavor of this plug is due to a sauce made of sugar, licorice, whisky and honey.

"Here is a mild, cool pipe tobacco that college boys favor. Smell it. Very aromatic, eh? Well, it has been steeped in a sauce composed of the essential oils of citronella, bergamot and cassia.

"But it is when you come to the high grade Havana cigar, the cigar that sells for 40 or 50 cents, that you see the tobacco chef at his best. He doesn't make his sauces then of such common ingredients as sugar, bergamot, licorice and so forth. No, he makes them of bacteria. The flavors of the high grade Havana tobaccos depend, you see, entirely on their ferments. Each tobacco undergoes a different fermentation, and here the chef comes in, applying the bacteria of yeasts which cause these fermentations to the leaf.

"Yes, the tobacco chef of the highest type, the one who ferments Havana tobacco, handles the various breeds of bacteria as an ordinary chef handles pepper and salt, mustard and cloves and mace."—Buffalo Express.

Getting Back.

"Go, no!" exclaimed the pretty cash girl. "I don't want nothin' to do with you. I wouldn't marry you if you was the last man on earth. Is that plain enough English for you?"

"It is certainly plain enough," said the mortified bookkeeper, "but it isn't English."—Chicago Tribune.

The Dear Girls.

Milly—You know, dear, we've been engaged for two years, and I think it's time we were getting married. Tilley—Oh, I don't know, dear. If you really love him you'll let him be happy for a little longer yet.

Pandemonium.

"Nature knew what she was doing when she deprived fishes of a voice."

"How do you make that out?"

"What if a fish had to cackle over every egg it laid?"—Exchange.

THE SPIRAL NEBULAE.

One of the Terrifying and Mysterious Forces of Space.

The most stupendous manifestations of force of which we have any knowledge are presented by the spiral nebulae, whose mysterious and terrifying forms were first clearly revealed by the Lick observatory photographs made in 1898-1900 by the late Professor James E. Keeler. The heavens are full of them—they exist by thousands—and as astronomical photography is brought to greater perfection their amazing shapes tend more and more to upset all former ideas concerning the processes of creation and destruction going on in the interstellar spaces. They affect in an equal degree all theories about the origin and ultimate fate of our own solar system.

Who would imagine on looking up at the starry heavens some quiet night that the earth is like a person lost in the midst of the whirring wheels and spinning shafts of some enormous mill or machine room, where running belts, whirling spindles, champing pistons, grinding cogs, gyrating governors, dizzying flywheels and leaping rods confuse the eye and the mind and paralyze the limbs with the terror of impending annihilation? We are not aware of this startling situation because, while we see the stars, we do not see what is among the stars. The spinning machinery of the universe is revealed only in photographs, and as far as our senses are concerned it performs its functions with a silence which to the imagination becomes a part of the horror of space.

These cosmic wheels spin with incalculable velocity, but the span of human life is but a second of time in comparison with their periods. If we could magnify time so that a second would become as a century, then an hour would be equivalent to 360,000 years, and the true aspect of the spiral nebulae would burst upon our astonished senses.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York American.

Correct.

"It's easy to find out what time it is," said a married man. "If the hall clock says 5:30, and the drawing room clock says 5:50, and the dining room clock says 6:05, and my watch says 6:25, and my wife's little dinky watch says 6, it's 6 o'clock in our house."—Gas Logic.

Had the Moving Mania.

Sunday School Teacher—What! Don't you want to go to heaven when you die? Little Emma—Well, you see our family couldn't think of living in one place the whole year round.—Puck.

FORESTRY FACTS

Surveys of Timber Lands Have Disclosed Valuable Areas

In Southern Nigeria, on the west coast of Africa, the British Government has done much to encourage the practice of forestry, and eight hundred villages now have communal plantations of rubber trees. The natives supply the labor, the native chiefs supply the land and the Forestry Department supplies the seeds, technical knowledge and tapping appliances. The profits are divided equally among the three co-operating parties.

The largest lake on the east slope of the Rocky Mountains lies at the head waters of the Maligne river, a tributary of the Athabaska. It is twenty-two miles long and from one to three miles wide, and is surrounded by lofty mountains which make it one of the most beautiful spots in the Rocky Mountain region. Yet this lake was practically unknown until a forest survey was made of this region by the Dominion Forestry Branch. Unfortunately, there are no fish in this lake, owing probably to the fact that the Maligne river flows underground for several miles, after leaving the lake.

The revenue from the forests of British India administered by the Indian Forest Service last year amounted to over $14,000,000. The total cost of fire-protection, tree-planting and administration generally, was $8,000,000, leaving a net annual revenue of $6,000,000, which the forests are able to produce continuously, without depletion.

The "Great Divide" is sometimes a very small affair in the Rocky Mountains of Alberta and British Columbia. A forest survey party sent out by the Dominion Forestry Branch, found that the head waters of the Athabaska river in Alberta were separated only by a narrow strip of low-lying land from the waters of a lake in British Columbia which drains into the Columbia river. Were the outlet of this lake blocked and a shallow trench dug for a couple of hundred yards, its waters could be made to flow east instead of west.

A somewhat similar case is seen where the head waters of the Smoky and Fraser rivers, though flowing in opposite directions, have their common source at the base of a great glacier on Mount Robson, which guards the boundary between Alberta and British Columbia.

Rabbits damaged or killed thousands of young forest trees in the West by eating the bark around the base of the stems.

Circular saws of paper are being increasingly used in England for the cutting of thin plates of wood. Veneers made in this way are so smooth that cabinet-makers can use them without further planing.

It is a common superstition among the woodsmen of eastern Canada that many of the "dead" larch trees have come to life again. The trees noticed were not really dead, however, but had appeared so because they had been entirely stripped of their leaves by the larvæ of the larch saw-fly. The tamarack is a valuable tree because of its ability to grow in swamps, and its wood is highly esteemed for fuel, ties, fence-posts and construction work generally. Yet through the continued ravages of the larch saw-fly over one-half the tamarack in eastern Canada has already been destroyed.

Mr. W. N. Millar, District Inspector of Dominion Forest Reserves in Alberta, says: "Along the north fork of the Sheep River is found the largest body of non-licensed merchantable timber which I have yet seen in the Rocky Mountains. It is rather remarkable that this timber consists almost entirely of lodgepole pine—there was in sight at least ten sections (10 square miles) of this timber."

Australian gum-trees have attained the enormous height of 480 feet, which is 140 feet higher than the most gigantic sequoias in California, and twice as high as the great firs of British Columbia. How trees supply their foliage with water at such a height is still a matter of scientific controversy.

Princess Mary's Handwriting

Although burdened with the cares and anxieties of a throne, the King and Queen, "Sunday at Home," states, always find true delight in being with their children, in guiding them in what they do, and in cultivating their devoted love. It is said that on Princess Mary's birthday she has to acknowledge every congratulation from friends with her own hand, the letters being handed to the Queen for inspection before being sent. The typewriter is appreciated for general use in the household, but is not requisitioned for private correspondence. Princess Mary's handwriting is like that of other members of her family, clear as print, and, though not yet quite formed, shows plenty of indication of what experts in handwriting call "character."

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. It is said that she has written 7,000 hymns, the best known being: "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." THE TYRANT CUSTOM

A court martial has sentenced a German lieutenant to 30 months' imprisonment and dismissal from the army for killing a fellow officer in a duel. The dispatches report is as the most serious blow to duelling among army officers." It is a blow, though not an unexpected one, only to the surviving combatant. For the penalty—though severe according to continental standards—entails far less hardship than a refusal to fight.

Although duelling has greatly diminished in Germany, especially in the army, the "code" is as much in force as ever. Through the efforts of the Emperor a special jury now settles many questions of "honor." But the movement, supported by most European monarchs, and by the International Anti-Duelling League, originated in 1900 by Prince Alfonso de Bourbon, has been rather to prevent "useless" duelling than to check the practice. Ostracism and disgrace inevitably follow a refusal to give "satisfaction." Expulsion from the army has resulted. Suicide has been not uncommon. More than once an officer, opposed on principle to the duel, or because the incident leading to it was absurdly trifling, has been forced into combat by public opinion, only to be imprisoned subsequently for killing his opponent. Attempts to alter this code have been vain. Only two months ago the Bundesrath or federal council of the empire refused to take steps in this direction urged by the Reichstgg. The Council adhered to the view that "injured honor cannot be satisfied in any other way." And had the upper house enacted prohibitive legislation, it would scarcely have offset the continental "unwritten law."

In France duels are more frequent than in Germany, but less often fatal because of the heavy damages the family of the deceased can recover by civil process. The French duel has become more largely a form. Death is as unusual as a prize fight in this country.

Under the present system the German lieutenant chose the lesser evil. He may not have to serve his sentence. It may be commuted, at least, in respect to dismissal from the army. In any case he will continue serenely in the conviction that whatever is lost "honor is safe." For such is the conviction of "that monster, custom, who all sense doth eat."

FULL LIST OF THE CITY'S BILL FOR LEGISLATIVE RATIFICATION

Wider Powers in Regard to Expropriation for Hydro-Electric Purposes Asked for--Inauguration of a Public Ulitities Commission in Place of Water Works Commissioners

Appended below is a copy of a private bill respecting the City of Peterborough, and referring to the Hydro-Electric scheme as proposed for this City. The bill is now before the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, and will come up for consideration at the present session of the Provincial House. The first section of the proposed Act, constitutes a measure to change the name of the Peterborough Water Commissioners to that of the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

Wider powers in the matter of securing possession of the distributing system of the Peterborough Light and Power Company is also sought after.

The Bill.

The Private Bill contains the following:

Whereas the Corporation of the City of Peterborough has by petition represented that by section 6 of chapter 82 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario, passed in the Seventh year of the Reign of His late Majesty King Edward VII, the Water Commissioners of the City of Peterborough were constituted a body corporate under the name of The Peterborough Water Commissioners and by section 2 of the said chapter 82 it was enacted that the Corporation of the City of Peterborough might manufacture, generate, receive, rent, lease, transmit, deliver, use, supply, sell and distribute gas and electrical power or energy or either of them for all public and private purposes, upon such terms and subject to such conditions as to rates and otherwise, as the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario might from time to time prescribe, and that the management, control and operation of such business, appliances and plant should be vested in The Peterborough Water Commissioners, and it is enacted by The Public Utilities Act that where the corporation of a city has entered into a contract with the Hydro-Electric Power Commissionof Ontario for the supply of electrical power or energy, a commission shall be established for the control and management of all works undertaken for the distribution and supply of such electrical power or energy, or such control and management shall be entrusted to an existing Public Utilities Commission and the said corporation having heretofore entered into a contract with the said Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for the supply of electrical power of energy, it is desired to declare that The Peterborough Water Commissioners are an existing Public Utilities Commission within the meaning of the said Public Utilities Act and to change the name of The Peterborough Water Commissioners to that of Peterborough Utilities Commission, and that such commission should have and exercise all power and authority conferred on the city under the said Acts or heretofore vested in the said Peterborough Water Commissioners; that by an agreement entered into between the Corporation of the City of Peterborough and The Peterborough Light & Power Company, Limited, incorporated in By-law Number 1497 of the City of Peterborough, it was agreed that if the city should purchase or proceed to acquire the works and property of The Peterborough Light & Power Company, Limited, or any part or parts thereof, that in determining the price to be paid therefor, either by arbitration or otherwise, nothing should be taken into account or allowed to the company for prospective profits because of the granting to or enjoyment by the company of any rights conferred on the company by said By-law Number 1497; that by chapter 117 of the Statutes of the said Province passed in the second year of His Majesty's reign, as amended by chapter 114 of the Statutes passed in the third and fourth years of His Majesty's reign, the corporation was authorised to enter upon, acquire, take possession of, expropriate, and use any land, property, erections, machinery, works, plant and appliances of The Peterborough Light & Power Company, Limited, or any part thereof, in the City of Peterborough at the time of the passing of the said chapter 117 used or operated under By-law Number 1497 and the agreement set out therein, or used or operated in connection therewith or as a part of the system, plant, or appliances used or operated within the City of Peterborough for supplying electrical power or energy to customers of the company, paying for what was acquired or taken possession of such sum as might be agreed upon or settled by arbitration and upon acquisition and payment for the property expropriated, the rights, privileges and franchises of the company under the said By-law Number 1497 and the agreement set out therein, or to the use of the streets of the said city or any of them were to cease, determine and be at an end; and that the council of the said city has passed a by-law which before the final passing thereof was submitted to and approved by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, exercising the said right of expropriation and being unable to agree with the said company as to the sum to be paid therefor, the corporation and the company have each appointed an arbitrator to fix the said sum, but such sum has not been fixed; and that since the passing of said chapter 117 the company claims to have acquired a dam and power-house with equipments thereof, within the city which it was not intended by either of said Acts that the city corporation should acquire and that the same should be so declared and also to have it made clear by what means and in what manner and within what period the said property might be taken possession of by the city corporation and to provide means by which the said corporation might ascertain certain detailed information relating thereto from the company and the time within which the powers conferred by the said Acts may be exercised should be extended and to define what is intended to be an exercise of the said powers; and whereas it is expedient to grant the prayer of the said petition:

Enacts as Follows.

New Ideas for Home Repairing

By Ann Marie Lloyd

It takes time to keep one's toilet silver in good condition, and nothing gives a room a shabbier appearance than to find the dressing table covered elaborately with blackened and tarnished silver.

One-third solution of oxalic acid is as good as anything to clean this silver. That is one part of oxalic acid to three of water. Be sure to allow the solution to touch only the silver. Keep it from the face of mirrors and from the bristles of brushes and the teeth of combs. After it has been applied wipe off with a cloth wrung out of hot water, and give a brisk polish with a mixture of alcohol and whiting applied with a chamois. The final polish should be with a bit of silk, which will remove all powder.

• • •

If there is a worn spot on the carpet or rug that is unsightly, it can be much improved by matching the colors in dye and going over the design with the right colors applied with a stiff brush.

• • •

Excellent mucilage, which leaves no mark after using, is made from gum tragacanth dissolved in cold water. Be sure the gum is perfectly clean and keep it covered after the water is added until it is ready for use. To prevent mold, add a few drops of oil of cloves. This is far superior to paste for scrap books.

• • •

There is no bleach that does as effective work as Javelle water, but it must never be used on colored clothes and it needs to be used carefully on delicate fabrics. Pour a pint of boiling water over half a pound of washing soda. Add to this a quart of boiling water in which is dissolved a quarter of a pound of chloride of lime. Stir till it is mixed. When it has stood long enough to settle, pour off the clear fluid, cork closely and keep in a dark place.

• • •

If there is a dent in your mission table you can easily steam it out. Soak thick blotting paper in water, place over the dent and then dry it by a very hot iron. You may have to repeat the operation several times. If the dent is very persistent, let water stand over night in the depression, then proceed as above.

• • •

Upholstered furniture may be dry cleansed at home if one will only take time to do the work thoroughly. Mix equal parts of whiting and starch and cover all the soiled surface. Let it remain for a day and place in the sunshine. If there are places which show particular soil they should be wet with alcohol before the powder is applied. You need never be afraid of alcohol leaving spots or rings if you use it properly. After the powder has been on long enough to absorb the dust and dirt, brush vigorously. Be sure to remove all of it, even if you have to whisk it off with a soft cloth dampened in alcohol.

AT THE ZENITH OF A PINK SEASON

Fannie Ward and Three of Her Remarkable Gowns.

Fashionable Rose Tint Models Increasing in Favor

By MADGE MARVEL

Although it has been a season of pink in all shades, varying from the palest tint of the seashell's lining to the deep heart of the rose, the springtime will increase the use of this most becoming and flattering color. Even the changeable taffetas, which are increasing each day in popularity, show rose and pink in a variety of combinations, as rose with green, pink and blue, deeper pink and gold. New lingerie emphasizes the use of pink in both crepe de chine and mulls.

New Paris blouses are of pink batiste. New Palm Beach frocks are of rose linen. New lingerie gowns are mounted over pink slips. Pink roses encircle the spring hats that are intended for the southern season. In short, it is a rose-colored outlook for the ones who scan the fashion horizon.

Fannie Ward, whose Paris gowns are as costly as they are beautiful, evidences a decided preference for pink in all its varying tones, and uses it in a variety of materials in the wonderful costumes with which she has dazzled theatregoers in her latest play, "Madame President."

Three of these gowns are shown in the accompanying illustrations. The first one is of pink charmeuse in the loveliest rose shade. The trained skirt is draped, and in the drapings the exquisite soft material catches varying lights and gives the effect of half a dozen variations of pink, from the palest blush to a deep rich tone that is almost cerise. There is a narrow banding of sable on this skirt and at the sleeves that brings out all the beauty of the color.

The minaret tunic is of rose point lace and the same lace forms the bodice with the wide kimono sleeves, and there is a wide sash of the charmeuse wound closely about the waist.

With this gown Miss Ward wears her pearls, long, lustrous strings, going twice around her neck and falling below her waist, and a hat with a veritable barricade of aigrettes at the back.

Also for wear with this gown there is an adorable wrap of rose pink velvet with sable used about the hem, which ends at the knees, as a finish for the sleeves and in a close band about the throat.

The wrap is in one piece, draped so skilfully that it gives the effect of voluminousness without bulk. It fastens with three chenille ornaments in a deeper shade of rose.

With this Miss Ward wears a close turban of black velvet with one saucy upstanding rabbit's ear directly in front and a smaller little ear at each side of it.

The gown shown in the third figure is a gorgeous affair of white velvet, so soft and supple in quality that it seems more like chiffon. It is draped in the softest of folds that encircle the figure without beginning or end. There is the modish curve directly in front and a train which falls almost in front.

The tunic worn with this costume is a marvellous thing of rarest lace sewn with ermine tails so tiny and applied with such skill that they seem at a distance to be part of the lace pattern.

The tunic is draped low on the hips in the Oriental manner, and is fastened at the side with a long scarf end of the lace glittering with crystals. Even in this magnificent robe there is loyalty to the color which Miss Ward declares is her own, for, at the opening of the bodice, beneath the chiffon, is the shadow of pink tulle.

And in the hat, or perhaps it is more correctly termed a headdress, there is a draping of rose velvet to support two most superb osprey plumes, one standing and the other placed at the opposite angle with the downward slant.

A bodice ornament of diamonds is worn with this costume as well as the pearls.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Indian vs. White Man As User of Tobacco

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

DR. L. K. HIRSHBERG

For the sake of tobacco, Sir Walter Raleigh and Charles Lamb, as well as men since their time, have done everything but die. Savants, moralists, psychologists and medical doctors have fought a bitter and an eternal battle over its virtues and its vices. And statistics, like the dragon's teeth sown by Cadmus, can be summoned in martial array over night to prove either side of the tobacco problem.

Tobacco may be either the solace of the bachelor's reveries or the pernicious weed of the ministering angel, but it is as much outside the province of religion and morality as the poisonous habit of taking headache remedies, coal-tar dopes and coffee drinking.

These are all large questions for physiologists to doctrinate upon, decide and discipline the public mind with. But they have nothing to do with ethics.

Fielding was a devotee of the "glorious creature—who first discovered the use of tobacco!" He said its calming influence allows "the industrious to retire from business, the voluptuous from pleasure, the lover from a cruel mistress, the husband from a scolding wife, and I from all the world to my pipe."

What Tobacco Causes.

Just when a number of matchless American medical sovereigns and surprising native scientific "authorities" are pointing with pride to the noble, strong red man of America as the finest type of masculine kind, the originator of tobacco smoking; just when these same experts call attention to the fact that hospital records, mortuary statistics, autopsy chronicles and Domesday Book contain an emphatic absence of all proof that nicotine or tobacco has ever presented any tangible evidence of human misery, along comes a Triton among these medical minnows and demolishes with one blow their physiological house of cards.

Professor Frankl-Hochwart, of Vienna, has established with certainty that neuralgias, absent-mindedness, loss of memory, psychic disturbances, a decreasing capacity to earn money, suicidal thoughts and hallucinations are directly due to the use of tobacco.

Boys and young men are dwarfed in physique and in intelligence if they smoke or chew. Dr. S. Philip Goodhart, of New York, traces instances of awkwardness, mental confusion and inefficiency to the use of tobacco.

Excessive Use Disastrous.

Thus the newer psychological examinations show that the poisonous effects upon the muscles, sensations and thought prove Byron to have been a base flatterer when he wrote:

"Sublime tobacco! which from East to West
Cheers the tar's labors or the Sultan's rest."

As for the self-destructive effects upon boys and youths, who imitate the bombastic demagogery of their elders, who hold cigarettes, cigars and pipes in their mouths, they had better repeat Adam's experience in "As You Like It,"

"For in my youth I never did apply
Hot and rebellious liquors in my blood."

Although I never have smoked, I used to sermonize upon the lack of scientific proof that tobacco was hurtful. Psychologists, not physiologists or ministers of the gospel, have indubitably furnished this evidence. To unprejudiced witnesses without the [illegible] terial influence of prudery, or the sentimental slobbergob of anti-vice [illegible] etic, it must be granted that the excessive use of tobacco often

1. Dwarfs the muscles and bones.
2. Reduces the efficiency of the sen[illegible]
3. Prevents the greatest eq[illegible] ability.
4. Causes lapses of memory.
5. Develops clumsiness.
6. Confusion of thought.
7. Is responsible for absent mindedness.
8. Stirs up neuralgias and does other damage to the living webbing of some men.

Answers to Health Questions

E. P. G.—Is boric acid water good for sore eyes? Which is better for the [illegible] hot or cold water?

For simple eye troubles a wash of boric acid is very helpful. Be sure, however, that there is no ulcer of the eyeball or other serious inflammation. Eye specialists use hot water sometimes and ice water at others for practically the same affections.

• • •

A. D. O.—What is good to remove an excess of abdominal fat?

If you will eat less and avoid eating later than 5 or 6 o'clock in the afternoon—when the body loses its power to grind up the grist which comes to its mill—and exercise the muscles of the abdomen by massage, gymnastics, physical culture and other active movements, you may succeed in reducing.

• • •

V. W.—After I am restored to health from lead poisoning, will I be likely to take it again?

Yes. You are very likely to be poisoned again if you continue to labor where there is lead. It would seem most advisable that you engage in work that will keep you in the fresh air and sunshine.

Great Novels in a Nutshell

"Ben Hur"

Condensed from the WALLACE novel by Anita von Hartmann.

Nineteen hundred years ago a little Jewish boy named Ben Hur and a little Roman called Messala romped together in a beautiful garden in Jerusalem. One day Messala went away to Rome to become a soldier and Ben Hur cried as they said goodby.

Five years later, when Ben Hur was a tall, sun-browned lad of 17, Messala returned to Jerusalem, completely changed. Instead of the boy with kind eyes whom Ben Hur remembered, here was a haughty Roman who sneered at the faith of the Jews.

"You cannot understand me—I am an Israelite," Ben Hur told Messala. "We can never be the friends we have been—never!"

"So be it," drawled Messala. "Love is dead! War reigns!"

Next day Ben Hur and his little sister, Tirzah, watched from the roof of their home a procession in honor of the new Roman governor. As Ben Hur leaned over the parapet a loose tile slipped from under his hand and struck the ruler.

In an instant the house of the Hurs was full of soldiers. Messala pointed out Ben Hur.

"Messala!" cried Ben Hur, "Save my mother and sister, I pray you!" Messala pretended not to hear.

"In the hour of Thy vengeance, O Lord," Ben Hur prayed, "be mine the hand to put it on him!"

For three years Ben Hur served as a galley slave. Then a tribune adopted the young Jew and took him to Rome. When the tribune died he left his riches to Ben Hur, who at once set out to join a war expedition at Antioch. There he heard of a merchant called Simonides, once a servant of his father. Ben Hur found Simonides an old man, broken in body by Roman tortures, but mighty in spirit, and his daughter, Esther, a slender girl, very fair and sweet of face.

From Simonides's house Ben Hur went to the stadium where chariots were practising for a great race. His eyes were attracted to the scarlet-clad figure of one charioteer. It was Messala!

As Ben Hur turned away a herald shouted:

"The good Sheik Ilderim with four horses hath come up against the best. Whoso will drive them to his satisfaction, to him be promiseth enrichment for ever."

"I will drive them," thought Ben Hur, "and get revenge upon Messala."

In the tents of Sheik Ilderim Ben Hur heard wonderful news. His mother and sister were reported to be imprisoned in Jerusalem.

"After the race," said Ben Hur, "I will go up to Jerusalem."

The day for the race dawned hot and clear. The chariots assembled and started. Soon Messala and Ben Hur left the others behind. Messala recognized Ben Hur, and leaning sidewise, with a cruel smile, gave the Arabs a savage cut with his lash.

"Down Eros! Up Mars!" he shouted.

The Arabs broke in a frenzy of terror. On the last round Ben Hur was still behind. Suddenly, with a threatening hiss of his whip, he let his Arabs out, caught Messala's chariot wheel and swept on past the goal. Messala fell under the hoofs of his horses and was crippled for life.

As soon as possible Ben Hur hurried to Jerusalem. He searched in vain for his dear ones, and at last giving them up as dead, set out to join the Messiah of whom all men were talking.

Ben Hur found Jesus preaching to the people and followed Him. One day Jesus rode in a procession that swept down the hill toward Jerusalem, while the people marched before Him singing and spreading palms upon the ground. Ben Hur followed close to the Master. Suddenly the crowd parted with a cry of "The lepers! The lepers!" and two women flung themselves in the dust.

"O Master! O Master! Have mercy upon us!" they cried.

"Believest thou I can do this?" Jesus asked.

"Thou art the Messiah," one replied. "Woman," Jesus said, "be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

"Mother, mother! Tirzah!" Ben Hur cried. For those whom he had thought lost were found.

The law required that healed lepers should remain outside Jerusalem nine days, and while Ben Hur stayed with his mother and sister Jesus was betrayed.

Ben Hur stood with Simonides and Esther at the foot of the cross on Calvary and his heart was near to breaking. By and by, when his sadness had passed away in the glory of the Resurrection, Ben Hur married sweet Esther and went to Rome, where he devoted the rest of his life to helping those who were persecuted.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth, plain and unvarnished, of "the man in the case" distinguishes this series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with growing interest.

A Clinging Vine

XVII.

I have married a clinging vine! And now for the first time in my life I realize just what it means. I have never been an ardent feminist, chiefly, perhaps, because I haven't thought much about it. With the primitive instinct of the male I have admired most the pretty, dependent, effeminate type of woman. And by effeminate I do not mean feminine. There is a difference. I'm beginning to think it's quite as bad for a woman to be effeminate as it is for a man. It's a glory for her to be womanly and feminine.

My married experience, I take it, has greatly changed my views. Much as I love my pretty wife, the constant clinging of the vine has cloyed. It makes me irritable and saddles me with responsibilities of which I little dreamed in my pre-nuptial air-castles about marriage.

Marriage with a clinging vine is not a partnership. It's a one-sided affair with the responsibilities chiefly on the male side. I'm sorry Mary's a clinging vine.

Hereafter I take off my hat to the woman of sanity and grit and independence. The business of being a woman requires more brains and tact and sympathetic understanding than the clinging vine cares to develop.

"Peter," said my wife one evening, "let's take a sheet of paper and a pencil and plan all the dinners for next week. I want so much to know exactly what you want and to please you!"

I was pleased and gratified. To have Mary take such forethought for my comfort was delightful in the extreme. Wherefore we instantly procured a sheet of paper and betook ourselves to the task with much laughter and foolishness.

"That's perfectly splendid!" exclaimed Mary radiantly. "Now I know, Peter, that I shan't make a single mistake, that I'll be having just what you like every night."

Now, the clinging vine is clever, too, in her way. By insidious flattery—and bless her dear heart! Mary is an adept at it—she convinces the misguided male of the species that he is the single object of consideration. And the poor fool doesn't look for an ulterior motive. It was a shock to me when eventually I discovered it.

"Come on, Peter," said Mary gaily a week later, "let's plan the meals again. It's great fun." Now, I was not quite so interested this time and didn't feel in the mood to discuss steaks and chops.

"You plan them, sweetheart," said I. "They're bound to please me if you think they will."

"But, Peter," said Mary, thrown off her guard by disappointment, "it's so hard for me to think. It's steak and chops and steak and chops, and I do wish there was another animal to cut up for food. The butcher and the grocer have to wait while I think—and it's the hardest kind of a thing to do, planning meals when you never had to do it before. It makes me nervous. Men are awfully selfish."

I flushed and bit my lip. It wasn't because Mary wanted to please me that she had me plan the meals. It was because she didn't have sufficient resource to plan them herself.

Mary pleaded and cajoled and kissed me into submission. But now that the thing has become a habit—I'm wondering a lot. My domestic responsibilities are piling up steadily. I get my own breakfast. I plan the meals. Mary, I fear, has no sense of responsibility.

The furnace and the ash-cans I regard as my official responsibilities. And I willingly shovel snow. But it does seem to me that there should be a sharp dividing line between Mary's tasks and mine. I'm willing enough to wipe the dishes in emergency. I don't like the task for a nightly habit. More and more I am appalled at how little my wife knows of the essentials of her business.

A Gain That is a Loss.

"I understand that you have lost a daughter."

"Well, I had hoped so, but it seems I have gained a son-in-law."

Won by His Courtesy.

"Why did she remarry her divorced husband?"

"She said she was sure he would not object if she should want another divorce."

Where the Adage Is True.

Gobang—I attended a spiritualistic seance last night and the spirit of my father appeared.

Grymes—You should remember that appearances are deceptive.

His Status Established.

"I understand he is a Southern planter."

"Well, practically. He is an undertaker in Mobile."

Future Expenses.

"Do you think one can afford to marry on $20 a week?"

"Marry? Yes. But it will take a long time to save up money for the divorce."

Had Parents Guessing.

"What do you mean when you say he was born a diplomat?"

"Well, when he was a week old his parents quarreled about which he loved best."

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

Brer Rabbit was going along the path lippety-clip when he saw Judge Bear coming down the road. He sat right up on his hind legs and waited for the Judge.

"How do you do?" he asked of the Judge as he bowed very low so that his ears almost touched the ground.

"I'm going over to the cotton patch to get some cotton to put in my ears when I go to sleep. You better be glad you haven't big ears like mine," said Brer Rabbit.

"Yes, but I have mighty thick hair that bothers me some times; especially when bumble bees are around," answered the Judge.

"Don't speak about bees so loud," whispered Brer Rabbit. "I don't like those little fellows myself. They have hot places on them which burn my ears."

"Is that why you are going to put cotton in your ears?" asked Judge Bear.

"No, indeed," answered Brer Rabbit. "I'm going to put cotton in my ears so Mister Chipmunk won't tickle me any more when I go to sleep afternoons under the sassafras tree."

"Do you have to fill both ears with cotton?" asked the Judge. "You would be lying on one of them and that would save some cotton, I should think."

"I fill both my ears with cotton, for I am liable to turn over in my sleep and then Mister Chipmunk would be getting after the empty ear."

"Which sassafras tree is it you lie under?" asked the Judge.

"Why do you want to know?" asked Brer Rabbit, pricking up his ears.

"I thought I might want to drop in by and by and see you when you wake up," said Judge Bear.

"I just guess I'll keep that for a little secret. You might tell Mister Jay Bird—not on purpose, of course, but then folks do tell things sometimes; they really do not mean to do any harm, but it is done, just the same."

"Come to think of it, I might want some cotton to put in my ears. Will you leave some under the sassafras tree by Huckleberry Creek?"

"Yes; I'll be glad to," replied Brer Rabbit.

When he went to go under the fence to the cotton patch Brer Rabbit said to himself, "Now, what DO you think of that? Judge Bear got out of me where I was going to sleep. I'll have to fool him," and with that he hopped into the cotton field.

In a certain school a schoolboy of tender years is said to have produced the following essay on the camel: "The cammal is a sheep of the desert. It is called a hunchback because it has a hump on its back. The cammal is very patient and will lie down and die without a groan, but when it is angry it gets its back up, which is called the hump. The shepherds of cammals is called Arabs. When they live in towns they are called street Arabs. When the cammal goes on a journey it drinks as much as it can to last for many days. Such animals are called acquaducts. Those that cannot carry enough are called inebriates."

Beer Slang in Germany.

Even the serious Germans, it appears, have a rich and racy slang. Here are some examples that a writer for the Baltimore Sun lately clawed out of a German dictionary: Bierfisch (beer fish), the little bits of cork that sometimes float in beer; bierrede (beer harangue), a speech made at a banquet; bierbass (beer bass, a heavy, unmelodious masculine voice; bierbruder (beer brother), a barroom acquaintance; biereifer (beer zeal), extraordinary and absurd enthusiasm.

"No; he really quit this time."—Toledo Blade.

Heartless Gamblers.

The rage for gambling at White's and Almack's clubs in London in other days led to most outrageous betting, as to which Walpole tells what he calls a good tale: A man dropped down in a fit before the door and was carried inside. The club instantly made bets as to whether he would die or not, and when a doctor was called in to attend him his ministrations were interfered with by the members because, they said, these would affect the fairness of the bets.

PANNIERS AND RUFFLES ADD WIDTH TO THE HIPS

Just as we had settled down to the straight silhouette along comes the tunic, the pannier and ruffles without number with their added width to the hips to upset it all.

All of these will be worn the coming season; in some instances the peplum, coat-tail or ruffle will be attached to the blouse, but more often it is a part of the skirt.

Sashes and belts also will continue popular and there are many new ribbons and silks designed almost entirely for this purpose. There are Roman stripes, plaids, brocaded effects in bright Chinese colorings and dark, rich looking velours. These sashes are wide, low and loose.

In numbers 8127-8151 crêpe meteor is used for the skirt with the bodice and pannier ruffles of flowered crêpe de Chine. The wide girdle is made of a quaintly patterned silk charmingly colored.

This skirt shows the peg-top design with the addition of a double ruffle which may also be draped pannier fashion.

To copy this frock in size 36 the blouse (8127) requires 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material; the skirt (8151) may be made in size 24 with 4¼ yards of 36-inch material.

Number 8122 shows an attractive new sleeve, a short full, pointed tunic and a smart vest.

A figured chiffon is combined with a charmeuse skirt.

This frock may be made in size 36 with 5¾ yards of 36-inch material.

Number 8127—sizes 34 to 42.
Number 8151—sizes 22 to 32.
Number 8122—sizes 34 to 42.

THE BLOUSE COAT COMBINES THE PICTURESQUE WITH THE PRACTICAL

The plain little dress is altogether too becoming and practical to be replaced by draperies entirely. The draped models are smart and attractive and more appropriate for many occasions than the plain, but for a shopping trip or a motor ride it is a joy to slip into a well cut little dress of serge, ratine or cloth relieved perhaps by a girdle or sash of brightly colored silk. Leaving out the blues—dark, navy and Nattier, which are always good style—there are many other attractive colors this season, among them mahogany, terra cotta and tete de negre brown. 8061 is of duvetyn in this new dark brown. The sash has a blending of brown and terra cotta, which is highly effective. The pockets on either side are a particularly new touch, and the collar is another.

This dress may be made in size 36 with 4 yards of 42 inch material and ½ yard of silk for the sash.

One of the quaintest and smartest of the "practical" modes is the blouse coat, which is usually made in a contrasting color and material. Quite dressy enough for any afternoon affair is the coat of taupe velvet trimmed, if you wish, with mole and the skirt of cloth in a slightly lighter shade of taupe. This would be an effective suggestion for 8057-8041. The blouse has something of a Russian appearance and the skirt is a gracefully draped model. Here it is fashioned of Nattier blue ratine.

This costume may be copied in size 36 with 2¼ yards of 42 inch material for the coat and 2¾ yards of 42 inch material for the skirt.

Temperature of Fish

Using delicate electrical apparatus for his experiments, a German scientist has reached the conclusion that living fish are of the same temperature as the water in which they live.

Broiler Catches the Juice

A broiler for use on any stove that a Virginian has invented holds the meat to be cooked in a vertical position within a casing that catches every drop of juice that falls upon it.

Flavoring Cigars

A resident of Amsterdam has invented a chemical process for extracting the unpleasant flavor from cheap cigars and giving them a new flavor, equal to that of higher priced goods.

Six-Seater Autos

Seats for six persons in the same space usually occupied by but four are provided in a new automobile by placing the center one of each trio of seats slightly behind the other two.

BASEBALL'S ACID TEST

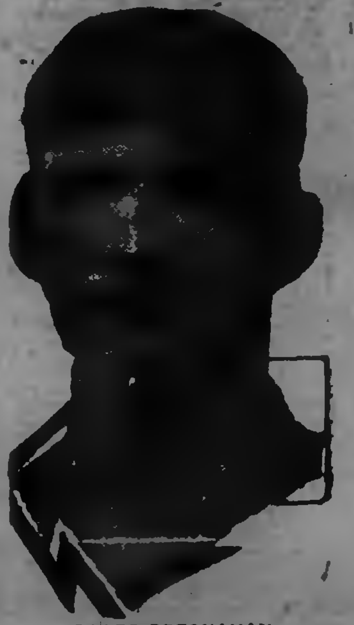
The "Bean Ball" Has Much to do With Batting Efficiency

"Muggsy" McGraw, once or twice, has remarked: "Give me a natural hitter and I'll make him a ball player." To be a natural hitter is demanded of a man who would be a big leaguer, by the little Napoleon. Very few good hitters have been manufactured, although there is the occasional exception, like Clyde Milan. Batting's cardinal sin is to "pull away." Many a youngster goes to the big league full of ambition, and performs like a Jack Glasscock in the field, after which he is given the acid test.

FRANK CHANCE

"Take a turn at bat," says the manager. The chances are the manager has ordered the pitcher to "shoot a fast one at his head." If the batter steps back, or in the idiom of the game, "puts his foot in the water bucket," he signs his death warrant. But if he stands up to the plate, or steps out to meet the ball, pulling aside only at the last moment, when he sees the ball is not going to "break," he gets the O.K. of the boss and his education begins.

McGraw has made stars of many a nervy batter who handled himself like a clown in the field. He spent four years on Fletcher, his sensational shortstop, before Fletcher became a star—but Fletcher was always a hitter. Many batters who refuse to back away from a ball coming at their head, have been "beaned" and made plate shy. After stopping a fast ball with the side of his head, the player who can face speed again and refuse to "pull" is passed as hopeless by pitchers with a tendency to "bean" dangerous batters.



ROGER BRESNAHAN

Roger Bresnahan is one player the pitchers could never drive from the plate. He spent some time in a hospital as the result of being "beaned," but when he returned to the game he was crowding the plate just the same.

"Kid" Elberfeld was another player who refused to be driven from the plate. On the other hand, Frank Chance lost his effectiveness as a hitter, because he was hit so often.

South African Sports

The Committee of the Durban, South Africa, Turf Club had to resign in a body because of the disapproval of their management by the members, who passed a vote of censure for their handling the plans for the club's new building. A number of other matters were also causes for censure, including a complaint of indifferent handicapping.

For Carrying Explosives

An automobile as fireproof and collision proof as possible to make it has been built for transporting explosives about New York.

Veteran Cricketer

Mr. William Caffyn, a member of the first English eleven to visit Australia in 1861, celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday. Speaking, in an interview, of cricket at the Oval fifty years ago, he declared: "It was cricket then. You had to run all out even if you drove to the Vauxhall end of the ground. There was only one boundary, and that was to the pavilion. If the present-day batsmen had to make their runs it would make gallop."

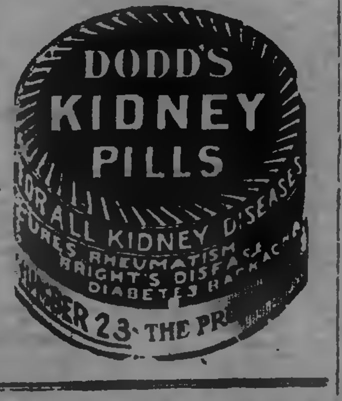
CURIOSITIES OF CHESS

The origin of chess is the subject of an extensive literature. The game was known in exceedingly ancient times both in China and India. The Cyclopedia of the Arts and Sciences published in 1786, quaintly says of chess: In China it makes a considerable part of the education of their females, and seems to take the place of dancing among us. The Hindu game, chaturanga, was played by four persons, two being allied against two, as in whist or bridge. The derivation of the word is from chatur, "four," and anga, "a member." The word chaturanga became modified, on its journey westward, and subsequently by progressive changes turned too; thus giving the English "check," leading to the important and quite different word "exchequer."

All over the world there are countless variants of the game of chess. In a great many games the board has 100 squares, 10 by 10. In the so-called Prussian national game the board has 120 squares. In the Duke of Rutland's game, played in the eighteenth century, the board was 14 squares in breadth and 10 in height. In Alfonso the Tenth's game, played at Seville in the thirteenth century, the board had 144 squares, 12 each way. In the older Turkish game the board had 169 squares, 13 by 13. Three-handed chess is described by a Neapolitan author writing in 1722. A Mr. Cox, who travelled in Russia about the end of the eighteenth century, saw four-handed chess universally played there then. But four-handed chess would appear to date still further back, if we are to believe Les Oeuvres de Sarasin (1663), which stated that it was invented by Palamedes "to prevent the Grecians from being tired of themselves during the siege of Troy."

Judge and Lawyers

Mr. Justice Scrutton, delivering judgment at Gloucester in a case in which $160 was in dispute, said it would have been better for either party to have paid the money originally in dispute and have done with the lawyers. "They will be lucky if they get out of it under $1,500 each," he added. "If ever there was a case in which the plaintiff has reason to wish he had never been born and the defendant to wish he were dead this is one."



Malingerer Sentenced

Malingering under the National Insurance Act was alleged at Devon Assizes, when Alfred Holwell, twenty-nine, wheelwright, pleaded guilty to obtaining sums of money by means of a forged medical certificate at Staverton. Prisoner obtained from a "doctor" a certificate stating that he was suffering from asthma, and received $2.50 a week, although in work at the time and earning money. The doctor's signature was forged by prisoner. Sentence of six months' hard labor was passed.

THE FIGHTER'S PETITION

(Trailing Along to the Strains of "The Raven.")

Once upon a Monday dreary sat a sport scribe, weak and weary,
In the badly heated office on the second floor;
As he fluttered with excitement suddenly he gained enlightenment
Of the presence of a fighter tapping on the office door;
"Come to slay me?" moaned the writer, "and drink freely of my gore;
Maybe this—and maybe more."

How easily I pondered of the columns I had squandered,
Writing jests about this fighter tapping on the office door;
How he'd come to end the matter, aye to batter me and shatter;
To rip my face and scatter bones about the office floor,
With the paste and torn-up copy pitched about the office floor;
Only this and nothing more.

Presently my soul grew stronger, hesitating then no longer,
"Kid," said I, "you've got me; truly your forgiveness I implore,
'Cause you cannot help agreeing that no living human being Ever yet felt glad at seeing such a guy knock on his door;"
But the silence was unbroken and the fighter gave no token
Of his hidden joy of gloating at my rushing fiery gore,
As I sat there, bones aquiver, begged that fighter, all achivel,
"Would you please stop for a moment just to tell me what's the score?"

Nelson's Battered Hands

Battling Nelson, who has quit the fight game many times and has finally decided never again to appear in the ring blames it all on his hands. Every other part of him that counts—his jaw, eyes, heart and strength—they're all there. But the fists that have put many a fighter under an anaesthetic are feeble and broken, and they have become useless as a means of earning a living in the ring. Everyone knows what a wonderful fighter Bat was when going at his real clip. He would be just as good to-day if he had a pair of hands he could use. Every bone in them has been broken at least once. "I've made quite a bit at fighting," says Nelson. "But if my hands had been able to stand up under the wear and tear as well as my legs and jaw and eyes and wind, I'd still be there. There's no fun in being a second-rater—and a man can't fight without a pair of hands."

Maeterlinck on Boxing

Maurice Maeterlinck, the Belgian author, said in an interview on the subject of boxing: "It is the discipline of violence; it is violence civilized by conventions that are almost courtesies. The boxer is never a rowdy. On the contrary, his knowledge gives him self-confidence. Combative instincts are an integral part of our nature; the man who lacks them lacks mental energy."

The Hudson Six-54.: $2950

(f.o.b. Detroit, Mich., Duty Paid)

The Economy of the HUDSON Six

In an automobile motor with 300 cubic inches combustion space (used merely as an example) to divide it into four cylinders means 75 cubic inches to each cylinder. To divide it into six means 50 cubic inches to each cylinder. Yet the TOTAL remains the same. Hence the fact that a Six can burn no more gasoline than a four of equal power. The smooth running of the Six means tire saving. It isn't mileage that wears tires excessively—it's jerks, jars, slips and slides. The HUDSON Six moves smoothly with no vibration. You save gasoline, oil, tires, and general upkeep when you drive a HUDSON Six. We have proved this in public contests against the best Fours built.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realize its great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheel-base, motor 4¼ x 5¼, developing 55 horse power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4650. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3½x5, developing 47 horse power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $2300, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. Catalog on request. Demonstrations as arranged. Prices f. o. b. Detroit, Mich. Duty paid.

Saturday Night's Games.

The basketball games at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday were closely contested and aroused great interest. Belleville defeated the Y.M.C.A. by a score of 36 to 28. The Collegiates defeated the Y.M.C.A. Leaders by a score of 21 to 19.

Local Rector to Lecture.

Rev. Canon Davidson has accepted the long standing invitation to give addresses at the noon-day services at St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, beginning to-day. These services were originated by Rev. Canon Dumoulin, well-known throughout Canada, when he was rector of the Cathedral.

Eugenic Progeny.

Mr. Walter Fawcett, of Orillia, who represents the Acme Glove Works of Montreal, was in the city on Saturday a guest at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Fawcett has two sons. He is a disciple of eugenic marriage. His two charming little boys, under Mr. Fawcett's training have become juvenile athletes. The father of this sturdy pair intends in the immediate future to bring his boys to Peterborough to demonstrate the advantages of athletic training in early youth. He has now, through The Times, sent a photograph of the boys to Toronto to have a "cut" made, which will shortly appear in this journal. Mr. Fawcett served 21 years in the British army.

Minden Wolf Skins.

Mr. Freeman Trumbull brought five wolf-skins to Minden, where he made application for the Government bounty, having disposed of the animals within a short time. Wolves are said to be quite plentiful in Anson township this winter, and are killing off the deer.

St. James' Church.

Rev. H. B. Kenny, of Bowmanville, preached anniversary sermons yesterday at St. James' Church, and this evening he will give an address at a congregational tea to be held in the Sunday School room. Rev. Mr. Kenny is chairman of the Bowmanville District of the Methodist church. He is an interesting and forceful speaker.

Prominent S.A. Officer Here.

Major Hay, of the Salvation Army Montreal, who arrived in the city on Saturday, conducted the meetings of the local corps yesterday, is perhaps the best known for his connection with the social work of the Army in Montreal. Major Hay on Saturday gave a brief outline of the work, of which he is superintendent.

Exams Were Stiff.

Major Geo. Bennett, formerly of this city, but now Superintendent of Government Roads, Toronto, returns home to-day. The Major has been here since Wednesday last writing on the officers' promotion examinations at the Armouries. Eight officers took the exams. It seems that the papers were pretty "stiff." Results will be gazetted in about a month or six weeks.

Work at St. Peter's.

On Saturday a gang of men were engaged on a scaffolding at the West side of St. Peter's Cathedral. It seems that the handsome stone chimney there has become weakened and the men were busy taking it down preparatory to reconstruction work. It was feared that the chimney might fall through the roof, as the mortar had been afflicted by frost. Mr. J. Hayes is the contractor in charge of the work.

His 30th Visit Here.

Geo. Buskin, agent and missionary of the Algoma and Northwest Evangelical and Colportage Mission, is making his 30th annual visit to Peterborough in behalf of the work. He has been engaged 60 years in Christian labor. He has supplied many thousands of copies of the Holy Scriptures in many languages, and published many books and tracts, in 5 languages. He received $24 in Peterboro last year, for the work, which is gratefully acknowledged.

Local Doctors Operate.

Marmora Herald: On Tuesday of of this week, Dr. Crawford underwent an operation for appendicitis. The doctor suffered an attack while in New York, and the trouble has recurred a number of times since he returned home. It was decided that an operation was the only remedy. Drs. McClelland and Moir of Peterborough, performed the operation, which appears to have been entirely successful. Since coming to Marmora Dr. Crawford has made many friends who will hope for his speedy recovery.

Lame Back Strengthened, Stiffness Taken Right Out

Was Relieved in an Hour, and Cured Over Night.

A lame back? Quite unnecessary. All you have to do is to rub on Nerviline. It's simply a wonder for back ache—relieves after one rubbing. "Nothing possibly could cure an aching back faster than Nerviline," writes Mrs. Arthur Kober, of Lower Chelsea, N.S. "I caught cold and was so prostrated with pain I could not bend over. We always have Nerviline at home and I had the painful region rubbed thoroughly with this grand liniment. At once the pain departed. The lameness was rapidly reduced, and in an hour I was able to be about my house work. I was rubbed again just before retiring and awoke as usual in the morning without a sign of my back trouble."

There is no sort of muscular pain that Nerviline won't cure quickly. Thousands swear by it for rheumatism or neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. It sinks to the core of the pain — right through muscle, tissue and nerve —it penetrates where no oily, greasy liniments can go, and invariably cures quickly. If you have an ache or a pain anywhere—use Nerviline—it will cure you. Family size bottle, very large, 50c; trial size, 25c., at all dealers.

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 783, and the average assessed value was $4,292.33 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,682.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,625.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I. who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $800 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $125,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN AND HON. ROBT. ROGERS ENTHUSIASTICALLY WELCOMED TO PETERBORO

Lunched By the West Peterborough Conservative Association--Big Ovation Tender the Ministers at the Opera House Last Night--Crowds Listen to Masterly Addresses on the Issues of the Day--Many Compliments for Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P.

Yesterday, Peterborough was favored with a visit from Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, and Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor-General, members of Premier R. L. Borden's Cabinet, who on invitation from West Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association attended a political meeting in the Opera House last night, accompanied by our local member Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., and addressed the electorate on the momentous issues facing the Dominion Government to-day.

The trio arrived from Ottawa on the C.P.R. evening train, and were accorded a hearty welcome by the big crowd in waiting. The Ministers and our member, on alighting from their car met with enthusiastic acclaims.

A long line of Automobiles were in waiting. The first conveyed the Ministers and the second Mr. Burnham, on a tour of the city. After taking in "the lions," the procession landed at the Foresters' Hall, where Mr. Thos. Hooper, had prepared a splendid luncheon for the distinguished guests and their local supporters.

Major Mills had the musical program under his care, which was a very acceptable feature of the occasion. The 57th Regiment Band escorted the visitors and friends to the Opera House at eight o'clock.

Committee in Charge.

The committee in charge of the whole proceedings was R. Ruddy, W. H. Bradburn, Mayor Buller, W. G. Howden, W. C. Ackerman, J. J. Turner, Jr., John Edgar H. P. Lindsay, Rich. Sheehy, W. H. Lytle, Robt. Neill, L. M. Hayes, Jas. Lynch, Major Mills, Ald. Johnston, Ald. Duncan, W. Stocker, Frank Adams, Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., chairman.

The Luncheon.

This was a recherche function of tasty viands, replete with social amenities and music. The guests who sat down at the tables besides the Ministers and Mr. Burnham, were: W. H. Denham, E. G. Patterson, W. E. Hill, Malcolm McCulloch, A. P. MacLean, W. C. Ackerman, F. Bartlett, W. Kemp, John Bell, J. W. Miller, E. Manning, F. S. Schneider, John Nugent, J. J. The toast to the King was responded to by the singing of the National Anthem. That to the guests was responded to by the Ministers from Ottawa, Mr. Burnham, M.P.; E. A. Peck, M.P.P.; Jas. Thompson, M.P.P. for East Peterborough; J. A. Sexsmith M.P. for East Peterborough.

Mr. Burnham was accorded a vociferous ovation, of which, "what's the matter with Burnham? He's all right," was the dominating key. Mr. Burnham replied in his customary happy and fitting manner.

Hon. Arthur Meighen
Solicitor-General.

A Big Meeting

The Opera House was crowded with a large and demonstrative audience, including a goodly population of the fair sex.

The 57th Band was in attendance, and discoursed very acceptable music preparatory to the speeches.

On the big stage were seated a strong galaxy of representative Conservatives, including the members for both Peterboroughs, in both houses, and Mr. Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., for West Peterborough.

The proceedings opened with "The Maple Leaf," by the band, the big audience standing.

THE MAYOR.

Made a very acceptable chairman, and expressed his pleasure in the presence of two such distinguished statesmen as Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. Robert Rogers. He introduced the speakers in the following order:

E. A. PECK, M.P.P.

E. A. Peck, M.P.P., said he had no intention of making a speech. He, with others, had come to hear the two distinguished visitors. However, he hoped to be heard on some future occasion, when Legislative issues are at stake.

JAS. THOMPSON, M.P.P.

Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., followed the precepts set by Mr. Peck. However, since so much reference had been made of late to the building of a railway at a cost of $100,000 a mile during the Laurier administration, he would point out that the Whitney Government had built one to New Ontario at less than $25,000 a mile. (Cheers). Sir Jas. Whitney had done much to foster public ownership which is a good thing backed up by an honest Government. (Applause).

J. A. SEXSMITH, M.P.

J. A. Sexsmith, M.P said that West Peterborough had made a wise choice in Mr. Burnham as its representative—a man willing to stand up fearlessly in support of his convictions and his country's interests, as occasion offers.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M. P.

The popularity of Mr. Burnham, the local representative in the House of Commons, was substantially evidenced in the enthusiastic reception tendered him on rising to address the audience. In the course of a happy and timely address he said, in part, that as one of those who had been invited to attend a meeting in Peterborough he returned his hearty thanks. He would not take up much time, but leave that to the strangers. He began by relating some amusing experiences in Parliament, and gave a short description of men and affairs there; but said that to him the most serious question before the people of Canada, and the one to which he himself was directing all the energy he possessed, was the question of competition in labour and manufactured goods, and also natural products, developing rapidly in Asia. Even the editor of The Globe, in a recent address to the people of New England, pointed out that this new force threatened all America alike. Mr. Burnham said that we had succeeded in holding off the invasion of Asiatics, which, like that of the Tartars and Huns, had threatened to do for America what the latter had done for Europe. But, though they had been turned back from our shores, their new spirit of enterprise had not stopped there. Asia had awakened from her mighty slumber. One hundred and fifty millions of men had been projected by new conditions into the labour market of the world. The Republic in China was firmly established; foreign capital, which the Asiatics alone needed to make them successful, was pouring in, and along with western [illegible]dustrial world. In iron and steel alone China's output had increased in one year from 22 to 50 millions of pounds sterling. The question of protection for our wage earners from undue competition was the most serious of all those affecting us. Undesirable immigration was inconsistent and dangerous, even from Europe? What would it be from Asia? The evils of Protection are those arising from unequal distribution; but are all within the country affected and may all be easily corrected. The evils of freedom of competition in trade and labour are outside and beyond our power, and once established would put the stronger nations in absolute possession and control of the weaker. The U. S. is astonished to find its capitalists going to China and Africa for cheap manufactures, and cheap meat, which they are now able, through a lower tariff, to send back into the U. S. to the impending ruin of the farmer and the artisan. Great Britain's trade is increasing rapidly, but who is content there? Is it the employer or the employed who is experiencing the so-called benefit of free competition with the cheap labour of the foreign world? Capital never suffers. It can turn any theory of trade to its own advantage, but what about labour, in the machine shop, or on the farm? It is face to face, not with theories, but with facts.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN

On rising to speak was the recipient of an eulogistic address of welcome, read by Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., for the West Peterborough Conservative Association.

The hon. gentleman replied in very suitable and modest terms. His reception by the audience took the shape of an ovation. The Solicitor-General gave an exhaustive review of the Government's policy in regard to the tariff, railways and the naval question, in an hour and a half's oratorical effort frequently punctuated by the commendatory endorsation of his audience.

He offered the tariff as the dominating feature in party politics, declaring that it is no very great concern where Premier Borden stands on that issue—He has had but one policy regarding the tariff—making the most of Canada's natural resources, and seeing to it that they shall reach the highest stage of culture and perfection. His policy is one of protection, but he will never allow the tariff to be so raised as to make a mere shelter wall for the monopolist in order that he may over tax the consumer. (Cheers). He here ridiculed the Liberal's gyrating tariff policy when seeking office—commercial union, unrestricted reciprocity, free trade, restricted reciprocity—anything to get into power, but all pledges to result in a violation of the honor of their party, on gaining the government benches, by a return to the only tariff measure for Canada, the grand old national policy of protection. (Cheers). The speaker here asserted in no uncertain tones that protection has come to stay. (Applause).

In referring to the many vexed problems left the Borden Government by the Liberal administration, the hon. gentleman instanced cases in which great corporations, previously encouraged by Sir Wilfrid Laurier are to-day demanding assistance. In 1903 Sir Wilfrid undertook to foster the National Transcontinental road, without weighing the need for the same. He became infatuated with the scheme and thought he would erect a mammoth monument to himself. (Laughter). And against the advice of his Minister of Railways, he launched into the G.T. Pacific proposition with the result that the country is burdened to-day with a debt of 234 millions of dollars now standing for three years without any returns whatever to the nation. From Quebec to Moncton, N.B., 114 miles of railway are laid parelleling a national line we have owned since Confederation at a cost of 35 millions of dollars. And to-day the rails are rusting, the ties rotting and the whole roadbed is growing up with brush which breaks the car windows as the train runs by. (Laughter). For three years now the country has paid a million and a quarter interest on that construction alone, and two-thirds of the money is wasted as there is not sufficient traffic for one train a day. The Winnipeg-Quebec section, the speaker contended, to have been built before its time, on which is sunk 40 millions to no purpose. Then 62 millions have been buried in the northern wilds of Canada to secure unreasonable momentum grades. Then the contracts for this work only went to a favored few on the ground floor, who pocketed millions of dollars before doing a dollar's worth of work.

Mr. J. H. Burnham
M.A., M.P.

Turning to the Canadian Northern situation, the speaker said the Government is bound by the previous administration's pledge to the tune of $35,000,000 for this line. This problem was left on the Conservative's doorstep by the Liberals, "but we are going to solve it, and in the best interests of the country." (Cheers).

The Solicitor-General here arraigned the Senate for throwing out twice the Government's bill providing $1,000,000 for highways on condition that the money was spent in the Provinces as directed by the Dominion Government. The Senate wanted the cash given the Provinces without any conditions whatever. Why didthey throw out that bill? Because they knew if the money for improving the highways was spent properly, it would show a contrast between the Laurier and Borden Administrations, and that's what a Grit Senate could not stand. (Laughter). The Senate in this and the tariff commission bill has denied the Borden Government the right to redeem its pledges to the people.

The hon. gentleman here treated exhaustively the naval question, which he said will finally be solved by the people. He reviewed the race for armament and Britain's need to lead in defence of the Empire, of which Canada forms a part, and it is this country's duty to contribute to that defence. Britain is taxing her people for sea defence alone an annual amount equal to the cost of the Panama Canal—$6 for every man, woman and child in the Kingdom. Some people say, Canada owes Britain nothing. Well, the Mother Country maintained an army in Spain under Wellington, one in the West Indies, one in the Mediterranean, one in India, and one army in Canada equal to that of the United States, and all in one year. She spent $400,000,000 for land defences in Canada and $125,000,000 on sea defence. And we can't stand up as men within the Empire unless we pay our share towards the present expense of the Empire's defence by sea. Mr. Borden's policy is to build into the British naval service a Canadian fleet under one control. (Cheers). Sir Wilfrid would establish a Canadian fleet in disunison with that of Britain—6 ships never to be at liberty to fire a shot in case of British emergency unless the Laurier parliament met and decided that Britain was worthy of assistance. (Laughter). The Borden Government would build three capable ships without delay, to be under control of the British Admiralty, and then map out a permanent naval policy for approval by the people. The chief corner stone of Mr. Borden's naval policy is that there shall be one control of one fleet for the British Empire, and that will be the corner stone of the permanent naval policy when it goes to the people. The speaker ridiculed Sir Wilfrid's naval policy, past and present, and had no faith in his promises. Sir Wilfrid admitted in Hansard that it would cost 33 per cent. more to build naval boats in Canada. But he (Sir Wilfrid) did, it is true, buy two old discarded hulks for Canada's navy—the "Rainbow" and the "Niobe," and left one stranded on each coast when he went out of office. (Laughter).

In conclusion of one of the most eloquent political speeches ever heard in this city, Hon. Arthur Meighen contended that Canadians are and propose to be part of the British Empire both on land and sea. We will maintain control of local affairs, but co-operate with Britain in Empire interests. (Prolonged applause)!

HON. ROBERT ROGERS.

Minister of Public Works, received the heartiest of hearty welcome, and was also presented with an address of welcome, read by Mr. Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P.

The hon. gentleman acknowledged in fitting terms the compliment embodied in the address, and promised to avail himself—quite frequently, in the near future—of the invitation to visit Peterborough again.

He contended that in Peterborough a city is being built of which its citizens have every reason to be proud. He hesitated to say many kind things of Mr. Burnham, this city's representative in the House of Commons, in case he should overwhelm him with confusion; but he could not refrain from pointing out that no member of parliament takes the place of Mr. Burnham in respect ti his energy in connection with the duty for which he has been elected by his constituents. In this connection he has won for himself a place second to none in the respect and confidence of the government of to-day.

The hon. gentleman here assured his audience that the new public building (post office and customs house) for which the ground has already been purchased, will, he hoped be erected to the satisfaction of the people of Peterborough. It is also, he pledged himself, proposed by the Government to undertake immediately the building of the dry dock, agitated for by Peterborough citizens through their capable representative at Ottawa.

The Transcontinental Railway scandal, he characterized as maladministration on the part of the Laurier Government, and he was heartily in accord with all references thereto made by his colleague, the Solicitor-General.

The distinguished visitor spoke at length on the growth of the West from whence he came and generally speaking, was exceedingly optimistic of the continued prosperity of Canada under the protective tariff.

In the course of a lucid and interesting discourse on the issues of the day, replete with witicisms the hon. gentleman held the undivided attention of his audience, despite the lateness of the hour, at which he rose to speak.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem, and the customary cheers for the visitors and other notables.

Hon. Robert Rogers
Minister of Public Works.

CHURCH TO INTERVENE WITH DRESS TOO OUTRE

Paris Newspaperwoman Interviews Cardinal Merry del Val About the Fashions.

Montreal, March 30.—A London cable to the Gazette says: The Rome correspondent of The Sunday Observer states that the directress of La Mode Illustree has interviewed Cardinal Merry Del Val on behalf the Parisian Modistes and complained that business was suffering as a result of the strictures of the Church on modern fashions, especially with South America, where rigorous instructions on dress were issued. Promising to confer with the Pope, the Cardinal said, it was impossible to keep a corps of artists at the Vatican to decide such points, but when dress became too outre the Church must intervene.

UNEXPECTED TWIST TO SELLY BLUNDER STIRS COMMONS: ARMY LOSES ITS CHIEF LEADERS

Asquith Announcement That He Would Take on Secretaryship of State for War Complete Surprise to Empire --Retires for Re-election---Premier Obliged to Say That Col. Seely Felt Himself Called Upon to Leave Cabinet --Regrets Also That Two Generals Council.

London, March 30.—Colonel John Seely, Secretary for War, resigned his portfolio in the British Cabinet today, and his resignation was accepted by the Premier.

Premier Asquith himself decided to take the Secretaryship of War in place of Col. Seely.

"Colonel Seely's resignation has been accepted." This was the euphemistic expression employed by Premier Asquith in announcing to the House to-day that his War Secretary had paid the penalty of his indiscretions in adding to a Cabinet document the two paragraps which had aroused such feelings as threaten the existence of the entire Cabinet.

The first intimation received by the members of Parliament that Colonel Seely had definitely retired from the Cabinet was when he entered the House and took a seat in the back benches instead of among his late colleagues.

The two paragraphs which caused the crisis were those giving guarantees to Brig-Gen. Hubert Gough and the officers serving under him in Ireland that they would not be called upon for active service against the Ulster Unionists. These guarantees were afterwards repudiated by the Cabinet, and this was taken as a rebuff by Field-Marshal Sir John French, who, as head of the Imperial General Staff was virtually Commander-in-Chief of the army, and by Sir John Ewart, The two generals immediately resign- the Adjutant-General to the forces. ed, and all efforts made by the King the Premier and the other Ministers, failed to induce them to change their minds. Their resignations were made definite to-day.

Premier Asquith's further announcement that he himself would take up the portfolio of Secretary for War, came in the nature of a surprise. Having announced his intention to take up the office, he declared he would retire from the House of Commons in accordance with the law, "until it pleases my constituents to sanction my return."

The Premier dramatically walked out of the chamber amid frantic cheers from the Liberals the Nationalists and the Labor members, the whole body of whom rose to their feet and waved handkerchief and papers as he left.

Mr. Asquith, having accepted "an office of profit under the Crown," must now return to his constituency of East Fife, Scotland, for re-election. On the last occasion he received 5,149 votes against 3,350 of his Unionist opponent, and was thus returned by a majority of 1,799.

MISSING GIRL WAS FOUND IN TORONTO

Bertha Altman,, Who Ran Away From Montreal, Located by the Police.

Toronto, March 30.—Bertha Altman, the 14-year-old Montreal Jewess who ran away from home a week ago and came to Toronto, was this morning discovered by Detective Coster at 18 Gould street, where she had been rooming ever since her arrival in the city. She has been given over to the authorities of the Juvenile Court. The girl stated that she had left home because her parents had abused her, but the police do not believe this story as the girl's mother was in Toronto on Friday, and her anxious desire to find her daughter hardly conforms as to the girl's story. It is generally believed that she came to Toronto to get onto the stage, as before she left Montreal she sent her mother a message to this effect. The young wanderer was not at all abashed this morning when she was apprehended by the detective. She gave ready replies to all his questions, and her gibness dumbfounded the officer.

WHAT'S TO BE THE RESULT OF THE WEEK'S DEBATE?

Momentous Days in the British House of Commons--Big Speeches on To-day

London, March 30.—The Parliamentary week which opens to-day should decide the fate of the Government. A definite statement was expected this afternoon on the subject of the resignations of Sir John French and Sir John Ewart. If they were to refuse definitely to withdraw from the position they have taken it is difficult to see how Col. Seely can remain at the head of the War Office.

At first the two general were inclined to yield to the representations of Viscount Haldane and the other emissaries of the Government that the issue of the new army order and of the statement that the Prime Minister had nothin in contemplation against Ulster that would not be amply covered by these regulations should amply reassure them, but during the week-end they have apparently been convinced that they cannot without a fatal loss of prestige continue to sit on the army council after the repudiation of the document bearing their initials.

The quest.nn was at last narrowed down to this: Were the officers to go or was the repudiation to be recalled? The Government, while willing, as shown by Premier Asquith's speech on Friday, to repudiate the sense of Colonel Seely's paragraphs, was bound to decline to stultify itself so far as to reinstate them. On this rock the negotiations split, and it was scarcely possible that there can be another change of mind before the Prime Minister makes his final statement this afternoon.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Fair and cool.

Discolored, Wrinkled Skin Easily Renovated.

(From the Woman Beautiful.)

Since brown or yellow, over-red or blotchy complexions are decidedly not the fashion, I cannot understand why so many continue to wear them. Surely every woman has heard of mercolized wax. This I know—from my own and others' experience—will positively banish every unsightly tint. The wax really takes off a bad complexion. It gradually, harmlessly, absorbs the thin layer of surface skin with all its defects, as chaps, liver spots, pimples, freckles, blackheads. Just as gradually the discarded skin is replaced by the clear, white, youthful skin underneath. Mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, is applied nightly like cold cream and erased mornings with warm water. One ounce will produce the loveliest girlish complexion in less than a fortnight.

I can't understand, either, why folks will be bothered with wrinkles, since the famous saxolite formula has become public property. 1 ounce of powdered saxolite [illegible] in a half-pint witch hazel, [illegible] will quickly [illegible]

THE BLANKET FISH.

This Dreaded Sea Monster Wraps Its Body Around Its Prey.

The manta, or blanket fish, is common to the warm parts of the Pacific. Around the Mexican penal colony on Tres Marias islands, not very far from Manzanillo, it is one of the most efficient guards for the prisoners incarcerated there. Not a man has ever been known to escape from this dreaded prison by swimming. No sooner does a human body strike the water than a school of these monsters appear, flying like giant bats through the sea. They throw themselves on the hapless swimmer, crushing him to the bed of the sea, and there suck the flesh from his bones with their powerful mouths.

The manta grows to mammoth dimensions, though the one which I saw, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, was comparatively small, not weighing over two or three tons and not being more than fifteen feet across. The fish is nearly square in outline, the wings forming great right angles, which stretch out from the body, giving it a rectangular appearance. The fish swim by flapping these wings and are sometimes called "sea bats" on this account.

Mantas swim with incredible rapidity for what is apparently so ungainly a fish, and once they sight anything in the water, unless it be the speediest fish or shark, they overhaul it and simply close it, wrapping the entire blanket-like body around the unfortunate victim. Even with a sharp knife it is almost impossible to reach a vital point in the manta's body. For this reason they are the most dreaded by divers of all the dwellers in the sea, and the diver's life is not without its perils, take my word for that.

Brutal.

The Wife—I've been to a bridge party, and I have a splitting headache.

The Brute—Well, I don't understand it. Your tongue might ache or your stomach, but why your head?—Cleveland Leader.

No Wedding Day Bargain.

The Husband (during the quarrel)—You're always making bargains. Was there ever a time when you didn't?

The Wife—Yes, sir; on my wedding day.—Variety Life.

The Cynic.

"Married yet, old man?"

"No, but I'm engaged, and that's as good as married."

"It's better, if you only knew it."

Suffering is part of the divine idea.—Beecher.

Soft Toned Bells of China.

The natives of China use large bells of their own make in many of their temples and monasteries. I have noticed all through Japan and China that the tone of the monastery and temple bells is very soft and smooth, due to the superior quality of the material used in their manufacture and to the absence of iron clappers, the result being a marvelous softness and mellowness of tone. The bells are never swung, being always suspended in a fixed frame, and the sound is produced by striking them on the outer edge with a wooden mallet. This makes the soft tones which are so delightfully melodious.—Consular Reports.

Dr. Holmes' Wit.

One of the best repartees ever credited to a habitual maker of happy phrases was that made by the beloved "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" on a certain social occasion.

Going to dine with a Boston neighbor, Dr. Holmes was met by her with an apology:

"I could not get another man. We are four women, and you will have to take us all in."

"Forewarned is fourarmed," he said with a bow.

Flies and Filth.

The fly is born in, lives and thrives upon filth. If no filth is allowed to accumulate in a house or its neighborhood it will not be troubled by flies, for they do not ordinarily stray far from their breeding places and their sources of food. In a thoroughly clean neighborhood they cannot live in the face of screens preventing their access to food and to the absence of manure heaps and other receptacles for filth in which to deposit their eggs.—Survey.

Partners in Debts.

"My tooth is just killing me," she complained.

"Why don't you go to the dentist about it?" asked he.

"Because," said she, "I owe him money."

"You and I seem to be in hard luck," said he. "Now, look at me. Every time I go out in my automobile it breaks down right in front of some store where I owe a lot of money."

Tricks For Husbands.

To tell yellow from green in matching silk. To wash the dishes without breaking more than two. To keep quiet when he's spoken to. To face the cook when she's angry. To find out what ails the gas range. To stand in line an hour for two trading stamps. To set up his wife's brother in business. To get up winter nights to investigate "robbers." To smile when his old sweethearts' pictures are burned up. To prefer balms at home to billiards at the club. To drop his old friends because they are "vulgar." To give up coffee because it disagrees with his wife.—Puck.

OLD NEWSPAPERS AND THEIR USES

Paper Can be Utilized by the Housewife to Save Her Much Work

Instead of grumbling at the constant accumulation of newspapers, the efficient housewife sees in them possibilities galore.

The gas stove may be quickly brought back to its greaseless best if rubbed with a newspaper immediately after the gas is turned off. Half the ordinary scrubbing of kitchen tables can be avoided by laying down a paper or two before preparing vegetables or cleaning fish or the family silver, and furthermore, ice bills are appreciably reduced by laying a few thicknesses of paper on to the ice when it is received in the morning.

For those of us who will never be educated into keeping bananas, fish, cauliflower and other foods with a strong odor out of the refrigerator, the next best thing is to keep a supply of paraffine coated bags on hand to slip over either the strong one or those which are to be protected.

Clean paper bags in which groceries have been delivered should be kept too, as they are invaluable grease absorbers for croquettes, doughnuts and other foods cooked in hot fat.

The absorbent paper toweling which can be bought by the roll will cut down laundry bills. It has been used for some time in the dressing rooms of office buildings and will be found an acceptable substitute for the old fashioned kitchen roller towel. Whether a really satisfactory paper dish towel will ever be produced is less certain. Those available at present certainly leave much to be desired.

As moth preventatives newspapers have few if any rivals. The destructive insects loathe the smell of printers' ink and fight shy of garments done up in the daily news.

Last of all, let us not overlook the fact that paper is serviceable to a modest degree as saving some dishwashing. When dredging meats or fish with flour or meal it is much easier to put a little on a clean paper bag to be later consigned to the garbage pail than to add a saucer or plate to the dishpan. Cooking in paper bags, of course, means an appreciable lessening of drudgery as well as the conservation of food flavors.

KEEP YOUR GOOD POINTS

This is More Important Than Acquiring New Ones

"Keeping the good points one has is even more important than acquiring new ones, I think," observed a well known actress.

True, most of us are so covetous of what we have not that we neglect to make the most of what we have. It is easier to prevent wrinkles than it is to eradicate them, easier to keep the bloom of youth in the cheeks than to bring it back once it has gone.

If the neck is firm and graceful and the shoulders well rounded and white, keep them so by proper carriage of the head and proper exercise and massage. If a woman can preserve the contour of her neck and shoulders, even wrinkles in her face fail to down her charm.

Remember that sleeping on a pillow stretches the neck and that a high collar makes flabby muscles under the chin and enlarges the cords, besides leaving unsightly discoloration. Too tight gloves cause enlarged knuckles, and if they are tight around the wrists, red hands. Misfitting shoes grow wrinkles in the face as a result of wrecked nerves, and standing with the weight on one foot, as is a too common practice, causes one hip and shoulder to become higher than the other.

Biting the lips makes them thin and colorless, and keeping the teeth shut tightly together causes the mouth to assume a straight line and the face to take on a set expression that is unattractive. Twisting the mouth to one side begets a series of ugly wrinkles. Lifting the eyebrows makes furrows across the forehead, and frequent scowling brings others above the nose, producing a most unlovely cat-like expression.

These things seem unimportant and are in themselves, but they are habits which, if regularly persisted in, along with many other little errors we unconsciously commit, will leave their impress upon the face and figure.

As a Background

In selecting wall hangings it is well to treat them as backgrounds against which you must move, and other furnishings play their part. For this reason wall coverings should be soft in colorings, flat and velvety

How People Feel

When They Have

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, [illegible] a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope. [illegible] Parkdale, [illegible], or call at [illegible] Queen Street, Toronto. Open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

SING SING MEN ARE CONFIRMED

Ossining, March 29.— Thirteen convicts in Sing Sing prison were confirmed to-day in the Protestant chapel by Bishop David H, Greer of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York. The bishop was assisted by the Rev. Barton Lee, the chaplain at the prison, who had instructed the candidates for confirmation.

The bishop, before confirming the class, made a short address, in which he asked the convicts not to forget the laws of God, obedience to which and to the laws of the land was necessary if one were to live happily and get along in this world.

Found Complete Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Gray, who was Nervous and Run Down for two Years, Tells how She Found New Health.

Tichborne, Frontenac Co., Ont., March 30. (Special.)— Mrs. H. Gray, the popular postmistress here, is telling her friends of the great benefit she has received from taking Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For about two years," Mrs. Gray says, "I was all run down. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing, and I suffered from shortness of breath and heart flutterings. I finally decided that the Kidneys were the cause of my trouble and decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took four boxes in all and I feel quite strong and like myself again. I certainly think Dodd's Kidney Pills are a good medicine."

The experience of the postmistress is similar to that of thousands of other Canadian women. They were weak, run down, nervous and in bad health generally. They took Dodd's Kidney Pills and are strong and well again.

The reason is that when the Kidneys get out of order they fail to strain the impurities out of the blood and general lassitude and weakness ensues. The natural cure is to cure the Kidneys. The experience of thousands of others tells you that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the Kidneys.

Every Stiff Joint Limbered, Rheumatism Cured!

That Old Family Remedy "Nerviline" is Guaranteed for the Worst Cases.

CURES NEURALGIA, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO.

Rheumatism to-day is unnecessary. It is so well understood and so readily curable that every day we have reports of old chronics being freed of their tormenter.

"I can speak confidently of the Nerviline treatment, for the simple reason that it cured me," writes Albert B. Cornelius, from Kingston. "You can't imagine how stiff and lame and sore I was. Nights at a time I couldn't sleep well. I followed the Nerviline directions carefully —had it rubbed into the sore regions four or five times every day. Every rubbing helped to reduce the pain. The swelling went down. I got a fair measure of relief in a week. I also took two Ferrozone Tablets with my meals. They increased my appetite and spirits, purified my blood and toned up my system generally.

"I am as well to-day, as a man could be—in perfect good health. I give Nerviline all the credit."

A large family size bottle of Nerviline costs only 50c., or the trial size 25c., and is useful in a hundred ills in the family. Whether it's toothache, earache, headache, neuralgia, lame back or a cold, Nerviline will cure just as readily as it will cure rheumatism. For family use nothing equals Nerviline.

CONDEMNS DOLLS FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Says It is Wrong for Children to Exhibit Motherhood Traits.

New York, March 28.— "Motherhood—just motherhood— is not normal; the normal mother will be preeminently human. It is not decent, healthey minded or normal for little girls to show the traits of motherhood.

"The everlasting babies will give them to play with show an abnormal trait that comes through the psychologically over-developed sex idea in woman, cultivaten through the centuries and exemplified in the premature maternal instinct seen by the child with its doll baby."

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman in the last of her six lectures in the "Studies of Feminism" today in Hotel Astor made these startling remarks regarding motherhood.

Continuing Mrs. Gilman said:

"We can at least be thankful for the Teddy bear, for it is something that our little boys, as well as girls, can play with and like to play with. No toy that develops the 'little mother' element in a child is healthy and normal.

"Woman's position of excessive femininity does not advance the growth of human life. But as woman equals man as comrade, friend and companion, she has in her power the power to make the kind of world we want." —Plain Dealer, Cleveland.

CHILD GIVEN SIGHT WITH AID OF PIGS EYE

Formerly Blind as a Stone, Child Followed Course of a Lighted Candle.

Baltimore, March 30.—Sight has been given to the left eye of David Kane, nine months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kane, of Gettysburg, Pa., through the grafting of the cornea of a pigs eye to the childs eye ball, according to a statement of physicians at a hospital here. Certain tests, they declare, have brought out this fact without a doubt.

When the bandage was removed from the eye, it was declared, the child followed the course of a lighted candle, which was moved in front of him. Another test that brings out the fact more clearly is that the child now winks his eyelid if a finger or a small object is waved close to the eye.

The operation was performed last Monday and the cornea of the pig's eye was used because it is said, it more closely resembles the human cornea than that of any other animal.

The child's eye to-day is said to be perfectly clear and free fram inflammation

BLIND MANY YEARS; SEES ON DEATH BED

Aged Man Views Faces of His Family for An Hour.

Willows, Ga., March 30.—Before death took him from his family, W. D. Martin, 86 years of age, after years of blindness had the satisfaction of seeing for an hour the faces of his loved ones and of taking a farewell look at earth.

The aged man had been blind and helpless for years and for a few weeks prayed earnestly that sight should be restored to him for once before he died. His prayer was answered, as for an hour he could see and recognize those around his bed. Then he became blind again.

He had no disease, but was simply wearing out with the infirmities of advanced years

FRONT DOOR NIGHT BELLS.

Doctors Are Not the Only Ones Who Have Use For Them.

At 1 o'clock in the morning a man who was looking for a doctor found a door plate on which he distinguished the words, "Night bell," and rang the bell. When the door opened and a figure appeared in the semidarkness of the hall he said:

"Hurry up, please. There is a sick woman at No. 182."

The man inside said "All right," and in a few seconds both men were racing down the street to No. 182. In the top floor front room lay a very sick woman. The newcomer pulled a small table to the bedside and took from his pocket a sheet of paper and a fountain pen.

"What on earth are you doing with that?" said the man who had summoned him. "You're a nice doctor, you are."

"Doctor?" echoed the man. "I'm not a doctor; I'm a lawyer. Didn't you read the sign, 'Lawyer's night bell?'"

"But what does a lawyer need of a night bell?" the other man asked

"To enable the people who want to make wills in the dead of night to find him readily," was the reply

"Once in a while I'm called up to straighten out more serious entanglements, but most of the legal papers I write after 10 p. m. are wills. A lot of people who take sick suddenly recollect that they have never made a will and they want to repair the omission while there is time. When you said there was a sick woman here I naturally thought of wills, not medicine. There is a doctor in the corner house." —New York Times.

USEFUL NEW INVENTION

Enables Anyone to Play Piano or Organ Without Lessons

A Detroit musician has invented a wonderful new system which enables any person or little child to learn to play the piano or organ in one evening. Even though you know absolutely nothing about music or have never touched a piano or organ, you can now learn to play in an hour or two. People who do not know one note from another are able to play their favorite music with this method without any assistance whatever from anyone.

This new system which is called the Numeral Method, is sold in Canada by the Numeral Method Music Co. of Canada, and as they are desirous of at once making it known in every locality they are making the following special free trial and half-price offer to our readers.

You are not asked to send any money until you have used and are satisfied with the new method. The Numeral Company is willing to send it to you on one week's free trial, and you will not have to pay them one cent unless you desire to keep it. There are no express charges to be paid, as everything will be sent by mail. Simply write a letter or postcard to the Numeral Method Music Co. of Canada, 198B Curry Hall, Windsor, Ontario, saying "Please send me the Numeral Method on seven days' free trial." If you are satisfied after trying it, the Method and fifty different pieces of sheet music will cost you only $5 although the regular price of these is $10. You should not delay writing, as the Numeral Company will not continue this special half-price offer indefinitely. Later on, the Method and fifty pieces of music will be sold at the regular price.

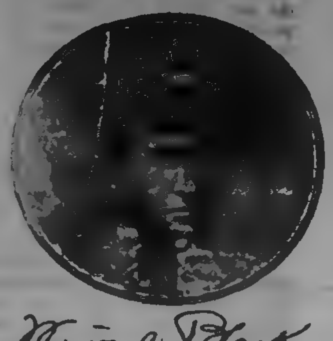
Kidtown, Where Sunday Is "Wide-Awake" Day

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1916, by Newspaper Feature Service.



Winifred Black

THE Little Boy and I went down to Fisherman's wharf yesterday. Fisherman's wharf lies at the foot of the hill, and to get to it you must pass through crooked little streets that look as if the goats that climb up and down them had laid them out.

And on the way there are odd little shops, with strange, wilted vegetables hanging from hooks outside the windows, and baskets that are full of things that you'd never know how to cook in the world.

It was quiet and just a little stupid up on the hill—everybody had come home from church and was either busy eating a large and indigestible Sunday dinner, or had eaten that dinner and was lying down somewhere taking the "nap" that helps to while away the ineffable boredom of a long Sunday afternoon.

The little boy next door pressed his face against the window and looked wistfully after us as we passed.

The little girl next door but one sat primly on the steps with some sort of Sunday school book in her hand. Even the cats crouched on the garden wall, steeped deep in Sabbath propriety.

"Oh," said the Little Boy, "everybody in the whole world is asleep. I hate to be asleep, don't you?"

Where People Were Awake.

Down at Fisherman's wharf it was different, oh, very, very different.

The little boats with their three-cornered sails rocked gaily on the swell of the tide.

The launches puffed busily up and down the still water between the wharf and the shore, and the sea gulls screamed and flew.

The sky was blue, the water was blue, the gulls were gray and white, and the fishermen wore shirts of faded orange and tawny yellow and dull blue, and the handkerchiefs they knotted around their brown throats were scarlet and yellow and magenta.

"Oh!" cried the Little Boy, "oh, what a nice world, everybody's awake, wide awake!"

A river steamer drew up to the wharf and people ran back and forth and shouted and acted as people always do act, as if there never had been another steamer landing in the world and never would be one again. Dogs barked and men appeared from nowhere with great baskets of popcorn and peanuts, and everybody ate and laughed and said "I thought we'd missed you," and "did you have a pleasant voyage?" It was, oh, very exciting.

On our way home we went through "Kidtown," as they call it in the neighborhood, and as we passed through it I knew why it was so named.

Children bubbled out of open doorways like froth boiling to the top of a busy kettle.

Red headed, white headed, black headed, boys, girls, babies—so many children that you couldn't possibly even begin to count them.

Some crying, some fighting, some laughing, some playing, but every one of them alive and every one of them wide awake

The Little Boy was enchanted

It was all I could do to get him away. His feet seemed fairly to cling to the pavement, and when we were close to the top of our perfectly respectable and rather dull hill he walked backward shamelessly and wished and wished.

Why "Kidtown" Attracted.

And in the evening, when the fire was lit and we sat before it, the Little Boy tried to find out, very delicately and without hurting my feelings, why we were so miserably respectable, and if there wasn't any possible way to get out of it.

The next time I go to an uplift meeting and hear all about the little children of the slums and how sorry we ought to be for them, I'm afraid I'm going to remember how wistfully the Little Boy spoke of Kidtown and the fortunate and to be envied children who bubbled and boiled in and out of the dingy houses there. And I'm afraid I shall think, too, of the women who leaned from their windows in such an absolute abandon of interest in every passing incident, and of the big brown men they waited for with such content. And I'm afraid still more, that I will wish sometimes that I could live in Kidtown, where nobody knows that there is such a thing as a problem and where they never heard of an Uplift Club in all their simple lives.

And that's what it did to me to take the Little Boy down through Kidtown to Fisherman's wharf on a Sunday afternoon when the sky was blue and the gulls were white and gray and the brown sails of the fishermen's boats were patched with orange and sienna.

Three Minute Journeys

Where Men Eat Their Brothers

By Jonathan MacFarland

THE cannibal is a most unpleasant person. I'm no vegetarian myself, and once I ate a tender portion of nicely cooked monkey flesh, but the mere thought of cannibalism makes my blood run cold. I have seen evidences of it in Africa, and I know that the practice still exists in certain of the less frequented South sea islands, but civilization, though it doubtless works some evils among savages, is doing much toward curtailing it

Take the Fiji islands, for instance, it wasn't so very many years ago that human flesh was considered a delicacy among the natives there; but now there isn't a man-eater in the group. They have a Carnegie library in the largest town, and the name Fiji is likely to become a synonym for culture.

Most people have an erroneous idea of cannibalism. They believe that the cannibal lives on a diet of missionaries, explorers and other unwary travellers who chance to come his way, and that it is a mere matter of preference for this sort of food. I suppose that the comic papers have fostered this idea with their pictures of a bewhiskered person trussed for cooking in a boiling caldron while a crowd of hungry blacks stand waiting.

Among cannibal tribes, however, the belief is that eating the flesh of a captured warrior induces strength and courage in those who partake And so these horrible feasts generally take place after battles in the camp of the conquering tribe. It is more in the nature of a ceremony or rite than an orgy, for the savages really believe that he who eats a part of a brave warrior will acquire the bravery of the fallen foe.

In some tribes they believe that participants in a cannibal feast are contaminated thereby, and among these people there are certain ceremonies of purification So, you see, these affairs are not without a certain ethical significance.

Cannibalism is so scarce nowadays that it hasn't even the proportions of a problem. And here's a peculiar thing, where it still exists they have no intoxicating drinks.

USE OF MIRRORS IN THE HOME

ANNE MEREDITH

New Ideas in Interior Decoration

By Cecile Manning

EVERY business woman may have a home if she will plan it right, says Anne Meredith, whose directions for home-making have been such artistic and economical successes that she has been asked to plan innumerable homes for women who want to escape the dreariness of the lodging house or inexpensive hotel. Miss Meredith says:

"The mirror is the magic wand of the modern interior decorator. It will make the tiniest bandbox of an apartment seem like a really spacious place. It catches and reflects all the good points of a room, accentuates the harmony of colors, and at the same time softens that which may be undeniably ugly.

"It melts the stern realities of four walls, and multiplies them into a restful series of pleasant illusions. It gives a certain feeling of companionship to the lonely, and offers a sense of seclusion in a crowd. All of which delightful possibilities are, of course, dependent upon an intelligent understanding of the use of the mirror as an artistic element of the home.

"Nearly every woman who makes her home starts with some one treasure as a pivot. I know one girl who had a wonderful Japanese print given her for a birthday gift. It was so charming in its soft tones that it seemed almost sacrilege to hang it on the awful red and green walls of her room in a boarding house. She simply had to make a home for the print.

"Another woman built the dearest nest of a home around an old-fashioned mahogany dressing table her grandaunt gave her. As for myself, it was an exquisite brass samovar I found in an old shop which made me start home-making.

"That samovar seemed to rebuke me from each place I found for it. So I started flat hunting. I came across an old style house in a side street. The rooms were large and light and full of sunshine. They were in the rear of the building, but the houses each side of the apartment building had pleasant back yards filled with flower beds and an occasional tree. There was a wee bit of a hall with four rooms. There were a sitting room, kitchen, two bedrooms and a bath.

"The landlord was willing to allow fresh paper and varnish for the floors. Also he would let me select the paper. I determined to try a gray and blue scheme for the sitting room. This was made possible by the sunshine. I would never advise it for any room which is the least dull. The paper was the softest tint of grayish blue. The woodwork was dark, and I had it rubbed with oils till I got a mellow finish.

"The border of the floor was painted gray with a paint which is generally used for the floors of piazzas. The rug was plain, a dark blue centre and a lighter blue border. I had three gray wicker chairs done in figured denim and cretonne, in which blue and yellow were predominant. I found a dear old mahogany centre table which I did over and placed a bit of Chinese embroidery in the centre and the samovar on that. It was perfect.

"The bedrooms were smaller than the living room. One of them opened out of it. This I made into a library with a couch which was an emergency bed. The papering was like the sitting room. And here is where the mirrors made my little home seem like a palace. I placed a long gilt framed one in the sitting room. It caught the gleam of the samovar. On the opposite wall of the other room there was another mirror, a lovely old one which I bought most reasonably. The two emphasized every good point of both rooms. I put another in the little hall. My flat grew amazingly.

"I had found the secret of making much of little in the home. It is mirrors. Since then I have found place for one more. It is in an angle, and makes the outlines of the two rooms dimmer, adding again the effect of space.

"To the woman who is making a home I would say study the worth of mirrors."

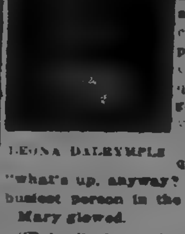
Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with growing interest

The "Clean-Up" Society.



LEONA DALRYMPLE

MARY is very busy.

For days now I have seen her bustling prettily about, scribbling occasional notes on a pad. Automobiles call for her frequently, and, altogether, she seems very busy indeed.

"Mary," I inquired one night, "what's up, anyway? You're by far the busiest person in the family."

Mary glowed.

"Peter," she exclaimed naively, "I've just been wondering if you'd notice how dreadfully busy I really am. I honestly have waited. You know lots of people tell how men never notice what their wives are about, and I made up my mind I'd wait until you asked me."

"Well," I hinted mildly, "I certainly have noticed considerable activity of an—er—hum—undomestic nature. I attribute a certain hole in my left sock and the fact that the laundry is late to some of it."

Mary frowned.

"The whole truth of the matter, Peter," she exclaimed proudly, "is that I belong to a clean-up society."

"What," I ventured to inquire, "is a clean-up society? Is it a pledge for all women to keep their homes in order before they undertake to do anything else?"

Mary flushed.

"Peter," she said with dignity, "that's one of those horrid male things men say when they think they're sarcastic. That wasn't at all what I meant. And, besides, most of the women in the society are not situated as I am. THEY have maids."

What mere man can reply to that economic reproach. THEY have maids. I inquired again what a clean-up society was.

"It's for the purpose of cleaning up the town in general," explained Mary, not intending, I'm sure, to be slangy. "To see that there are no stray papers lying about the streets and all that sort of thing. The high school boys and girls are helping us and we're having a most wonderful time. I do enjoy it. It makes one feel so important and necessary. Yesterday we had a most disagreeable time with a saloonkeeper who left horrid old smelly beer kegs lined along the sidewalk. Really, Peter, I do dislike to boast, but I'm by far the most important person in the thing. The men we expose most all frown at me."

I smiled at this somewhat doubtful distinction, and Mary went on cleaning up the town, a commendable enough ambition perhaps, but one likewise fraught with disastrous consequences to my busy little wife.

One morning the telephone at my office rang, and when I answered it something suspiciously like a sob came over the wire.

"Oh, Peter!" wailed my wife.

"For heaven's sake, Mary," I gasped in alarm, "what's happened?"

"I—I've been arrested."

"Arrested!"

"Yes—and I'm home now—and—and—oh, Peter!"

"Tell me what has happened, Mary," I exclaimed sharply, "and don't be so hysterical. Why were you arrested?"

"It's about the clean-up society," wailed Mary. "I—I've been hurrying around making people clean-up in Mrs. Brown's auto, and—and while I was gone a horrid man came sneaking and spying about the house and found I'd forgotten to put my ash can lid on. I carried something out and forgot—and, oh, Peter! he made the most horrible fuss, just because there were a few flies and things buzzing about.

"He spoke of typhoid and ash-can regulations, and when I told him politely enough that I'd been so busy I had forgotten just this once, he grew most offensive and suggested that if one were running a clean-up society the best thing was to enforce its principles at home first. He's the saloon man who had the beer kegs about, and, oh, Peter! will you come home now? I—I may have to go to jail. I think he said so—"

I laughed at the absurdity of Mary going to jail over an ash can cover, but I went home distinctly thoughtful.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Lovers' Sighs and Blushes Natural Signs of Health

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg.

DR. HIRSHBERG

NAY, 'tis true," says Rosalind, "there was never anything so sudden as love, unless it be the fight of two rams, and Caesar's insolent brag of—'I came, I saw, I conquered.' For your brother and my sister no sooner met, but they looked; no sooner looked, but they loved; no sooner loved, but they sighed. There's the reason; no sooner did they know the reason than they sought the remedy; and in these degrees have they made a pair of stairs to marriage, which they will climb . . . . They are in the very wrath of love, and they will together; clubs cannot part them."

To the bolder half of the human tribe, to man, the inefficacy, the frustration and the blunders of love may, true enough, create some sore and bitter pangs. It may stab the tender nerves and poison the cup of felicity.

The come and go and toil of his varied career, however, soon wafts him again into Elysium fields of pleasure, and by the force of his will he dissipates the pain.

Not so woman! Here is a circumscribed sphere far from the madding crowd. The secluded companion of her biting thoughts and gruesome feelings are here without consolation. Her heart is her stronghold. Once captured and pillaged, it becomes like the Bastile and the crumbling castles of the Rhine.

Man dreams of fame, while woman wrestles with love. Even the woeful ballad made to his mistress' eyebrow rings with hoped-for fame.

The bashful virgin's sidelong looks of love are as physiologically inevitable as is the palpitation of her lover's heart.

The lover sighing like a furnace, whose blood fails to leap and dart like a mad tornado in his veins, is only fit for a health resort or a psychological experiment.

Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it. Hence, whenever it comes to pass that a maid or a swain needs must visit a physician to assuage the pangs of love it is like heaping Pelion on Ossa.

There are no such things as love potions or draughts of devotion. Love powders are either useless or poisonous.

There is an ambrosial tang and nectar which the Olympic gods cannot bestow in fully requited love for love.

Oh happy love! Where love like this is found:
Oh heartfelt raptures! bliss beyond compare!
I've paced much this weary, mortal round,
And sage experience bids me this declare—
If Heaven a draught of Heavenly pleasure spare,
One cordial in this melancholy Vale,
'Tis when a youthful, modest loving pair
In other's arms, breathe out the tender tale,
Beneath the milk-white thorn that scents the evening gale.

Answers to Health Questions

Mrs. M. B. McK., Rochester.—Your treatment of my scalp disease is most encouraging. Is there danger of driving a disease in?

There is no danger of driving any skin disease in. It goes away for good, or it remains where you see it.

* * *

Mrs. L. P., Toronto, Canada.—How can I color gray hair black without using a dye?

Apply ammoniated mercury ointment one night and sulphur ointment on alternate nights to the scalp. Clean your hair with castor oil once a week.

* * *

D. K., New York.—In my work I breathe turpentine and splash it on my body. Is this poisonous?

Yes. You can only minimize it by oiling your body and hands with cocoa butter, wearing a fireman's sponge over the nose and mouth and goggles over the eyes.

Sayings of Children

A 6-year-old was seated in a barber's chair

"Well, my little man, how would you like your hair cut?"

"Oh, like papa's, with a little round hole at the top."

"I don't see what's the use of my being vaccinated again," said Tommy, baring his arm reluctantly for the doctor.

"The human body changes every seven years, Tommy," replied his mother. "You are 11 years old now. You were in your fourth year when you were vaccinated first, and it has run out."

"Well, I was baptized when I was a baby. Has that run out, too?"

Mr. Wilkins had learned that his 5-year-old Harry had been begging pretzels from the next door neighbor, Mr. Yenser. "Now, Harry," said Mr. Wilkins, "if you ask Mr. Yenser for pretzels any more I shall have to punish you."

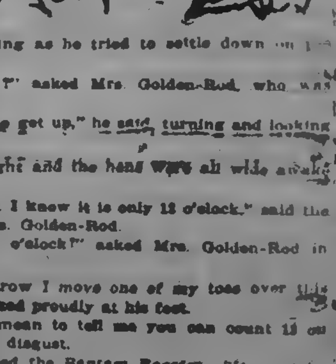
The next day Harry was playing in the back yard, and, looking through the fence, caught sight of his friendly neighbor.

"Hello, Mr. Yenser, what's new?" shouted the small boy.

"Nothing, Harry boy," was the reply. "Nothing new that I know of."

"Well, Mr. Yenser," said the young diplomat, "suppose we talk about pretzels."

Daddy's Good Night Story



By GEORGE [illegible] SMITH

THE Bantam Rooster was fidgeting as he tried to settle down on the roost.

"Why don't you keep still?" asked Mrs. Golden-Rod, who was roosting next to him.

"It looks to me as if it were time to get up," he said, turning and looking at her.

The henhouse was flooded with light and the hens were all wide awake by this time.

"It looks very light to me, and yet I know it is only 12 o'clock," said the Bantam Rooster, looking again at Mrs. Golden-Rod.

"How do you know it is only 12 o'clock?" asked Mrs. Golden-Rod in surprise.

"I crow every hour and when I crow I move one of my toes over this way. See?" The Bantam Rooster looked proudly at his feet.

"You have only 10 toes. Do you mean to tell me you can count 12 on them?" answered Mrs. Golden-Rod in disgust.

"My, it's getting lighter!" exclaimed the Bantam Rooster. "It must be daylight." With that he jumped off the roost and started out the door. Just then some one began to shout "Fire! Fire!"

"It's the barn on fire and I thought it was daylight!" shouted the Bantam Rooster.

The whole neighborhood was in a stir. Men were rushing here and there. Firemen were shouting orders.

The Bantam Rooster and the Bantam Hens were standing beside the henhouse watching the excitement.

"I do hope dear old Dobbin doesn't burn up," said Mrs. Golden-Rod

"There he is over there," said the Bantam Rooster.

Sure enough, old Dobbin was tied to the fence on the other side of the farmhouse.

"Horses are awfully afraid of fire," said the Bantam Rooster

"How do you know?" asked Mrs. Golden-Rod.

"Dobbin told me so," said the Bantam Rooster, shifting from one foot to the other.

Just then the water from the hose which the firemen were using on the burning barn struck the henhouse and drenched the Bantam Rooster and Mrs. Golden-Rod and the other Hens.

"My! My!" exclaimed the little fellow as he ran for the henhouse. He flew on the roost and as Mrs. Golden-Rod settled down beside him he said

"Oh, pshaw! I've lost my place. I wonder what time it is?"

"What do you care?" said Mrs. Golden-Rod, trying to console him. "Crow once for 1 o'clock and let it go at that."

"Cock-a-doodle-do-o-o!" the Bantam Rooster crowed, and Mrs. Golden-Rod said,

"Now go to sleep. The fire is out and it is dark once more."

"Dinner of Deadly Enemies."

Lady Randolph Churchill once gave at her house in Connaught place what she called a dinner of deadly enemies. It was thought, says Mr. G. W. Smalley in his "Anglo-American Memories," a hazardous experiment. "It proved a complete success. They were all well bred people. They all recognized their obligations to their hostess as paramount for the time being. In some cases ancient animosities were softened. In all they were suspended."

The Young Idea.

In a certain school a schoolboy of tender years is said to have produced the following essay on the camel: "The cannimal is a sheep of the desert. It is called a backteria because it has a bump on its back. The cannimal is very patient and will lie down and die without a groan, but when it is angry it gets its back up, which is called the bump. The shepherds of cannimals is called Arabs. When they live in towns they are called street Arabs. When the cannimal goes on a journey it drinks as much as it can to last for many days. Such animals are called acquiducks. Those that cannot carry enough are called inebriates."

Beer Slang in Germany.

Even the serious Germans, it appears, have a rich and racy slang. Here are some examples that a writer for the Baltimore Sun lately clawed out of a German dictionary: Bierfisch (beer fish), the little bits of cork that sometimes float in beer; bierrede (beer harangue), a speech made at a banquet; bierbass (beer bass), a heavy, unmelodious masculine voice; bierbruder (beer brother), a barroom acquaintance; biereifer (beer zeal), extraordinary and absurd enthusiasm.

Old Salts.

Another couple was about to be launched on the sea of matrimony.

"They don't seem a bit afraid," some one back in the crowd observed.

"And why should they?" asked the gentleman next. "They've both been across several times."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

No Swearing.

"Jim isn't drinking now."

"Honest? Did he swear off?"

"No; he really quit this time."—Toledo Blade.

PANNIERS AND RUFFLES ADD WIDTH TO THE HIPS

Just as we had settled down to the straight silhouette along comes the tunic, the pannier and ruffles without number with their added width to the hips to upset it all.

All of these will be worn the coming season; in some instances the peplum, coat-tail or ruffle will be attached to the blouse, but more often it is a part of the skirt.

Sashes and belts also will continue popular and there are many new ribbons and silks designed almost entirely for this purpose. There are Roman stripes, plaids, brocaded effects in bright Chinese colorings and dark, rich looking velours. These sashes are wide, low and loose.

In numbers 8127-8151 crêpe meteor is used for the skirt with the bodice and pannier ruffles of flowered crêpe de Chine. The wide girdle is made of a quaintly patterned silk charmingly colored.

This skirt shows the peg-top design with the addition of a double ruffle which may also be draped pannier fashion.

To copy this frock in size 36 the blouse (8127) requires 2⅞ yards of 36-inch material; the skirt (8151) may be made in size 24 with 4¼ yards of 36-inch material.

Number 8122 shows an attractive new sleeve, a short full, pointed tunic and a smart vest.

A figured chiffon is combined with a charmeuse skirt.

This frock may be made in size 36 with 5⅜ yards of 36-inch material.

THE BLOUSE COAT COMBINES THE PICTURESQUE WITH THE PRACTICAL

The plain little dress is altogether too becoming and practical to be replaced by draperies entirely. The draped models are smart and attractive and more appropriate for many occasions than the plain, but for a shopping trip or a motor ride it is a joy to slip into a well cut little dress of serge, ratine or cloth relieved perhaps by a girdle or sash of brightly colored silk. Leaving out the blues—dark, navy and Nattier, which are always good style—there are many other attractive colors this season, among them mahogany, terra cotta and tete de negre brown. 8061 is of duvetyn in this new dark brown. The sash has a blending of brown and terra cotta, which is highly effective. The pockets on either side are a particularly new touch, and the collar is another.

This dress may be made in size 36 with 4 yards of 42 inch material and ½ yard of silk for the sash.

One of the quaintest and smartest of the "practical" modes is the blouse coat, which is usually made in a contrasting color and material. Quite dressy enough for any afternoon affair is the coat of taupe velvet trimmed, if you wish, with mole and the skirt of cloth in a slightly lighter shade of taupe. This would be an effective suggestion for 8057-8041. The blouse has something of a Russian appearance and the skirt is a gracefully draped model. Here it is fashioned of Nattier blue ratine.

This costume may be copied in size 36 with 3⅛ yards of 42 inch material for the coat and 2⅝ yards of 42 inch material for the skirt.

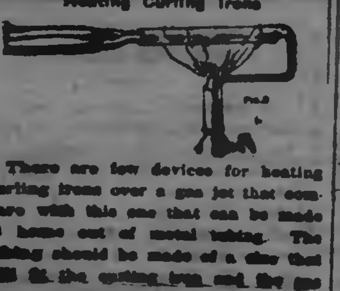
Heating Curling Irons



There are few devices for heating curling irons over a gas jet that compare with this one that can be made at home out of metal tubing. The tubing should be made of a size that will fit the curling iron and fit the gas jet. It is cut out in the center, one end being left to fit over the jet and the cut out part bent so that the other end, left whole for the curling iron, comes over the flame. By using a device like this there is no danger of getting soot on the iron and the heating is done very quickly.

If two or three lumps of sugar are placed in bottles and teapots, they will absorb all moisture and will prevent rust and the "fusty" smell which is the result of their being left half dry.

CLIMBED TO FAME

Heinie Wagner Graduated From One of New York's Tough Spots

Just how high an ambitious boy, blessed with ability, can climb in baseball, was never demonstrated more forcibly than by Heinie Wagner, of the Boston Red Sox.

About fifteen years ago Billy Rodenbach, former amateur middleweight boxing champion, managed and played with a nine on New York's upper west side. The team was to play a formidable club in New Jersey and the day before the game the third baseman went to bed, very sick, causing dismay in the organization, for it wasn't easy to find a good infielder on short notice. Rodenbach had given up hope of making any sort of a showing in the game when a friend met him and said, "Billy, there's a kid down in Hell's kitchen that looks good. Go and take a look at him."

Rodenbach went to the historic ground and found a game for the "championship of the kitchen," in progress. Rodenbach watched the third baseman of one team and was impressed with the way the boy scooped all sorts of drives and threw them across to the first baseman. Between innings Rodenbach approached the lad and asked him to go over to Jersey the next day to play with his club.

"Aw, I can't play with you big guys," replied the little fellow.

"I'll take a chance on you. Come on and I'll give you a half dollar."

The boy's eyes widened and he consented. Next day the youngster's stops and lightning throws materially helped Rodenbach's team to win the game. The boy became a fixture on the team.

HEINIE WAGNER

In the fall of 1912, after one of the world's series games between Boston and New York, Rodenbach jumped from his seat and shook hands with one of the Red Sox. After some general talk he said: "I suppose you have done pretty well this season."

"Yes," answered the player, "with my salary as player, extras for acting as captain and my share of the world's series, I'll clean up about $10,000."

"Good for you," said Rodenbach. "It's different from the day I slipped you a half-a-dollar to play third, isn't it?"

"Sure," said the player laughing, "but do you know that fifty cents looked as big to me that day as a thousand does to-day?"

FOOTBALLER'S LIFE

Stumbled and Had no Trade at Thirty-Two

Samuel Frost, a professional football player, who was incapacitated by an injury to his left knee during a match, sued his employers, the Millwall Football and Athletic Company, Limited, London, England, for compensation under the Workman's Compensation Act.

Frost's salary, $15 per week, continued till the expiration of his agreement. Then $5 per week compensation was allowed for three months. No longer able to play football, which had been his source of livelihood for twelve years, he was now thirty-two years of age, his counsel said, and had never learned a trade.

"Football is a comparatively short life," remarked counsel.

The applicant said he had no summer occupation, because he got his pay, and usually went to the seaside for those months to brace himself up. Herbert Lipsham, manager of the Millwall Football Club, said not one man in a thousand was able to play football after thirty. Bloomer, of Derby County, and Meredith and the witness himself were exceptions. Clubs were demanding younger men. Frost was given a benefit last season.

Judge Smyly awarded $5 per week, and Mr. Skeggs, one of the directors of the club, said he would undertake to pay the full costs of an operation to Frost's knee and all expenses connected with it.

Breadmaking Degenerating?

In these days of bakeries on every corner in town, and traveling bread wagons through the country, the fine art of breadmaking is degenerating. It is too much trouble to mix and knead and bake the beautiful brown loaves, the spick buns, the tempting rolls. Rather, we resort to the chaffy loaf from the baker, or the rolls that are not as good as the homemade bread, no matter how good they seem to-day. The best bakers' bread is far inferior to the homemade product, and I rejoice that breadmaking, as well as stocking-darning, is being taught in more Public schools each year.

The bread-mixer makes the process so easy and simple that almost anyone can succeed in the first attempt.—Farm and Fireside.

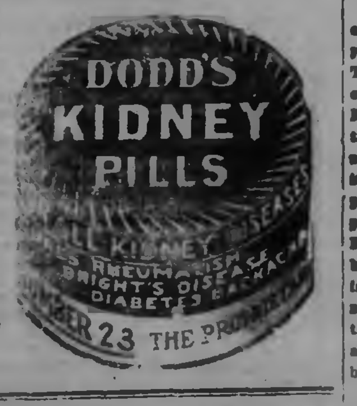
SIMPLIFIED SPELLING

Herbert Morrah Thinks Difficulties of English Are Exaggerated

Mr. Herbert Morrah addressing the Authors' Club in London, thought they were all united in believing in the great mission of English literature, but he was afraid that was where their unity would end. For he did not believe it would go out that they were on the whole very much in favor of the scheme set forward by the Simplified Spelling Society, and this not because it was a reform. They were all conscious of the anomalies of the English language, but they were not prepared for a revolution. During the last day or two he had had the pleasure of reading pamphlets of the Simplified Spelling Society, and he gathered from these that there was a definite scheme for placing the whole English language into the melting pot. Education had largely to go with this subject, and he thought that the difficulty of spelling the English language was enormously exaggerated (cheers). It was not extremely difficult for the average child to learn any subject, and he was not convinced that the average child was stupid (hear, hear). He was convinced, however, that our education in English left much to be desired, and he was quite sure that that should be thrown into the melting pot before they tampered with the spelling. It was admitted that the body of our language had not altered in 15[illegible] years and he supposed the man of all others to whom they owed most for this was Dr. Johnson. There were many people who believed that Dr. Johnson had given them a good working model, and that it would be a good thing to leave well alone rather than enter into a scheme which, whatever else it might do would involve an indefinite number of complications.

A Fenian Veteran

Mr. T. Duggan, whose death has been reported from Subiaco, was one of the sixty Fenian prisoners who arrived in West Australia in January, 1868, the only survivor of the party now being Mr. Reilly, of North Perth. Born in County Cork in [illegible], Mr. Duggan entered the teaching profession, and was engaged in Ballincollig School, when arrested in 1865 for his connection with the I.R.B. O'Donovan Rossa was his companion in both dock and prison, and the defence was entrusted to Isaac Butt.



Ten-year-Old Pickpocket

An extraordinary case of juvenile pocketpicking was dealt with at Clydebank Police Court, a girl of ten years of age being charged with four different thefts of purses [illegible] from women [illegible] purchases at various shops. The fiscal said the girl was nothing short of being an expert pickpocket. The first purse she stole she placed on the tramway rails in order, when a car passed over it, that all trace of it would be destroyed. It was proposed to send the girl to a reformatory.

CLEANING AT HOME

Keep Down Expenses by Removing Spots and Stains Yourself

For the removal of little stains or the regular cleaning of wearing apparel the most sensible and economical plan is to establish your own cleaning plant. If you are noted for faultlessly white gloves, shoes and accessories, you are either an owner of a good bank account or you are your own cleaner. It is for the woman with limited means that this article is written.

That spot of grease on your dress or blouse is a telling note against your carefulness in matters of dress. There is really no excuse for it. Purchase five or ten cents' worth of French chalk. This will last a long time and will give a delightful sensation of security if you know that it is on hand. Take the garment and place the spot over a piece of blotting paper. Over the material sprinkle the French chalk and place a piece of blotting paper over it. With a warm iron press the paper down over the material. The French chalk absorbs the grease by the action of the heat and the excess is absorbed by the blotters.

The greater number of grease stains may be removed by solvents. Alcohol, ether, chloroform or gasoline are the ordinary solvents, and should not be used near a fire or intense heat. Apply with a piece of the same material if you can, and rub from the outside of the grease spot in toward the center to prevent the spreading of the grease. Place a blotter under the piece of material which you are cleaning.

Machine oil is not an organic grease. It can be removed while fresh with cold water and a pure white soap.

Waggon grease contains a great quantity of graphite. This can be removed by applying lard, which will combine with the graphite, and the two can then be removed with warm water and white soap.

Buy a quart or more of gasoline and keep it in a cool place, of course. When you need to clean your gloves, place them on the regular wooden glove forms if you have them, or your hands if you do not own the stretcher. With an ordinary nailbrush make a suds of pure soap and gasoline with it. Rinse in pure gasoline and hang in the air to dry. You will be delighted at the snowy whiteness of the gloves.

When Storing Linen

Never starch linen that is to be stored for a long time; it is apt to crack, and if left for many years will rot. Rinse the articles quite free from starch, dry and fold away, if possible, in blue paper. The blue paper always keeps them from turning yellow.

White straws are best cleaned with a cut lemon dipped in sulphur and rubbed on the hat. This should be allowed to dry, and when it is rubbed off the straw will have regained its whiteness.

MOTHER! THE CHILD IS COSTIVE, BILIOUS

Don't hesitate! A laxative is necessary if tongue is coated, breath bad or stomach sour

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful today often saves a sick child tomorrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, halfsick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother ! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweetens the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

FIRE DESTROYS PHONES

Worcester, Mass., March 28.—Worchester is absolutely without phone service to-day as the result of a fire which broke out in the central exchange at 3 o'clock this morning. The fire started in the cable room in the basement and worked through the first floor into the network of the cables and wires that carry the 13,000 telephone lines of the city to the switchboard. The cables were somewhat damaged by fire and water poured on by the firemen drenched the rest until every line was out of commission. Early this morning every available repair man was aiding in the work of pulling the cables apart so the wires may be dried. It was announced that no local telephone calls would be accepted for the day. Even partial service cannot be restored before Monday.

ASKS 'DOUBLE TRACK' FOR MISSISSIPPI RIVER

S. L. Lake of Memphis Lays Plan Before Senate.

Washington, March 29.—Before the senate commerce committee to-day, considering means of preventing Mississippi floods, S. L. Lake of Memphis, Tenn., proposed a "double tracking" of the river. He would have the government dig a channel from Cairo to the gulf 110 yards wide and [illegible] feet deep three miles distant from the present river bed. To acquire land for that purpose, Mr. Lake declared would cost $18,000,000. He gave no estimate of the cost of construction of such a canal.

Levees, he said, always would be ineffectual against floods as their foundations are sandy and the levee system is "like trying to drive the Mississippi through a quill."

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 768, and the average assessed value was $4,392.53 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349.449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,668.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,628.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $300 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $300 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $386,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

TAMPERING WITH JURY, POLICE CHARGE

New Orleans Secured for Man Alleged to Have Tried to Corrupt Jury.

New Orleans, March 29.—As a result of what the police call one of the most brazen attempts to corrupt a jury ever bared in New Orleans, detectives are scouring the city for a man named Goldstein, charged with endeavoring to "fix" a juror in the case against Joseph T. Fredericks, convicted Friday of receiving stolen property.

Here is the account of the alleged attempt to corrupt the jury as given out from the office of the district attorney. During a recess in the trial of Fredericks before Judge Christian in the criminal district court Friday Goldberg went to the store of D. Mercier, Bienville and Dauphine streets and there made negotiations with a juror whose name is withheld.

The juror, officials say, is a clerk in the Mercier store. It is alleged that Goldstein told him if he would hold out against the conviction of Fredericks he, Goldstein, would bring trade to the Mercier store. Assistant Chief of Detectives Dan Mooney worked up the case against Goldstein.

Copenhagen, Denmark, March 31.—A mysterious cargo of 300 tons of rifles supposed to be intendeh for Ireland, disappeared from the vicinity of the Danish Island during last night after an embargo had been placed on it by the authorities.

The rifles were brought to Langeland on board a lighter from Hamburg which anchored off the Island. A short time afterwards the Norwegian steamer Fanny drew up alongside and proceeded to take the arms on board.

The Danish authorities then came on the scene and seized the papers of the lighter and the steamers whose commanders were ordered to await further instructions.

To-day the two vessels had vanished.

GIRL STOLE $119 CHEQUE AND $50 CASH TO GIVE TO MINISTER SHE LOVED

Edmonton, March 31.—Lulu Chamberlain, charged with stealing a cheque for $119 and $50 in cash, declared in district court to-day that it was her love for an underpaid minister of the gospel, who was in need of money, that led her to commit the theft. She pleaded guilty to the charge and Judge Taylor remanded the case.

From the evidence it was shown she had been given an envelope containing the cheque and money to mail in Edmonton.

On reaching the city she failed to drop the envelope into the letter box as promised, but opened it and extracted the cheque and the money. She gave $26 to the clergyman to assist him, when in financial difficulties, and later gave him $25 more. The balance she tendered to the Beulah Mission.

MOTHER AND TWO CHILDREN RESCUED FROM SUFFOCATION

Dramatic Scenes Enacted at a Dangerous Fire on Bloor Street West

Toronto, March 31.—Only saved from death by suffocation by the fact that there was a balcony outside the rooms of the flat, Mrs. Corns and her two children, who lived in the third storey of the premises at 933 Bloor street west, were last night carried down ladders to safety, following a fire which broke out in the flat below at about 6.30 o'clock.

Mr. Corns was out at the time the fire occurred, and saw nothing of the gallant efforts successfully made for the rescue of his family, only arriving on the scene just at the moment his wife and children had been carried down the ladders and were safe.

Shortly after 6 o'clock, Mr. Donald Elder, butcher, the tenant of the ground floor store, noticed the smell of smoke from the floor above.

Without a moment's hesitation he rushed to his telephone and asked for the fire call. Three times he made the excited request, but on each occasion he was told that the operator could not give him the fire call unless he furnished the number. Every time in reply to his urgent demand, the operator, he says, simply insisted on repeating "What number? What number?" and it was, he says, quite five minutes before he could get the alarm through.

Fire Was Not Waiting.

In the meantime the smell of smoke was getting more evident, and he could detect the presence of a fire above. The response of the fire department once they had received the alarm, was a quick one, but before this time the fire had made rapid headway, and Mr. Elder realised that Mrs. Corns and her family in their flat at the top of the building were cut off from escape through the fire which was now beginning to burn strongly in the intervening floor.

Roused by the smell of burning Mrs. Corns opened the door to the stairway, only to be driven back by the dense smoke which ascended from the floor below, making an escape that way impossible for her, handicapped as she was with her two children. Fortunately there was a balcony to the rooms, and, terror-stricken, she carried out the little ones into its temporary salvation, half crazed with the horror of the situation, and the fear of losing her children.

The appearance of the woman and children on the outside balcony was seen by Mr. Elder his assistant, and the crowd which had gathered awaiting the arrival of the fire department. Mr. Elders assistant immediately rushed for the ladder belonging to his employer, and, assisted by Mr. Frank Hale of 440 Concord avenue, who was among the crowd, placed it resting up to the balcony. A moment afterwards went up to the rescue Mrs. Cornes handing out one of the children into his hands. As he reached the ground with his burden Mr. Hale ascended the ladder and brought down the other child to safety.

By the time the department had arrived, and Fireman Norman Caftie, of the No. 4 Hook and Ladder of Fire Hall No. 14, seeing the woman still in her perilous position, dashed up the ladder and brought the half fainting woman down in safety to the ground.

Captain H. B. Moore, Secretary-Treasurer of the Grand Trunk Railway Insurance & Provident Society, retires on March 31, after 40 years' service with the company.

REPORTS OF SHOOTING HIDDEN DURING NIGHT

No One Was Hurt When Strikers Fired on Freight Manned by the Strikebreakers.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 31.—Reports of disorder during last night along the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania Railroad where trainmen and conductors are on strike, reached officials here to-day. A fusillade of shots greeted a freight manned by strike-breakers as it entered the Stockdaleton on the Ellisworth branch, but no one was hurt. Air hose was cut and cars uncoupled on other parts of the division and a number of switches thrown. Bridges are being guarded by railroad officers. Passenger traffic continued to move without interruption, and efforts of the strikers to extend the strike to other divisions have not met with success.

DIVORCE GRANTED FOR WIFE OF VERY RICH GHINAMAN

American Woman is Given Permission to Resume Maiden Game

San Francisco, March 31.—The romantic marriage some years ago of Elvida C. Neilson to Dr. Esfanng W. Cheng, a Chinese physician, in Boston, which began with deceit and duplicity, according to the charge, was ended when Judge Griffin granted Mrs. Cheng an interlocutory decree of divorce and gave her permission to resume her maiden name.

Mrs. Cheng, who drove to court in an automobile and was accompanied by her maid, was jubilant over the decision. One of the strongest pleas she made in asking for a divorce was that she did not know when she married the physician that he was a Chinese. She said she thought he was a Hawaiian.

It was apparent throughout the trial that Mrs. Cheng feels a deep aversion toward Celestials as a result of her troubles with the Boston physician but she refused to talk on the subject. When asked if she believed in mixed marriages she said the testimony in the divorce trial should be answer enough to the question.

Takes Maiden Name.

This is the second case of the kind to attract attention in San Francisco recently. Mrs. Lleonnna Kurunage, of Los Angeles, fled to this city with her child some days ago, saying she could no longer endure living with her Japanese husband. She said marriages between white women and Oriental men are mistakes.

When Mrs. Cheng was addressed by the name of her husband when she was leaving court she drew attention to the fact that Judge Griffin had given her permission to resume her maiden name, and said she no longer cares to be referred to by the Chinese name.

Judge Griffin granted the woman $100 alimony. She also asks that she be given a share in the physician's property in Boston and two automobiles.

WOMAN SELECTED TO CONDUCT FARM WELFARE WORK

Philadelphia, March 31.—Mrs. Jean Kane Foulke is Pennsylvania's woman farm adviser.

She is the only woman on the state Board of farm advisers which was established by the Legislature in 1913

A part of her duty is to talk to and with farmer's wives for their own welfare and interest.

Any woman on a farm says Mrs. Foulke, "be it wife, mother, sister, or housekeeper, ought to know all the business that is going on about the farm. Too often I find they do not know.

"My idea is that every woman ought to know how to run her husbands farm. Then if he dies, and she is left with children, she can bring them up. As it is generally, she has to sell out to a land shark and go to some city, where everybody in the family almost starves.

RELIGIOUS TEACHING IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Methodist Preacher Advocates Instructions Given on the Bible.

Toronto, March 31.—Rev. Dr. Graham of Victoria College, in the course of an address to the Methodist Ministerial Association yesterday on "The Bible" spoke strongly in favor of religious instructions in school. He urged that any inaccuracies to be found in the Bible should not be allowed to affect its spiritual power.

The ministers discussed the McConkey case, and on the motion of the Rev. R.J. Treleaven, supported by Rev. John Locke it was unanimously decided to protest to the License Commission against the renewal of the liquor license. A committee consisting of Rev. J. C. Speer, Rev. J. R. Treleaven and Rev. A. G. Hudson was appointed to wait upon the Commissioners.

Sir Robert Perks, now in Montreal, and who wants to build the Georgian Bay canal, says it would be a waste of money to deepen the St. Lawrence river.

Why Do French Women Always Look Young ?

In France mothers and daughters look like sisters. How are the women there able to retain their youthful looks until long past middle age? Is it because they are much given to the use of mercolized wax ? This wax possesses a remarkable absorbent property which quickly removes the fine particles which are constantly dying and which are the immediate cause of an old-looking complexion. Thus the livelier, healthier, younger skin beneath is given a chance to breath and show itself. Try this treatment yourself. Most likely it will not require two weeks to make your complexion as clear, soft and beautiful as a young girl's. Just one ounce of mercolized wax (all American druggists have it) usually does the work. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off mornings.

Another valuable secret with which the French are familiar is how to quickly remove wrinkles. One ounce of powdered saxolite dissolved in a half pint witch hazel, makes a marvelously effective astringent lotion. The face should be bathed in this daily until even the deepest lines are affected.

Also that a committee has secured the assurance from Mr. Ryerson Ritchie of his co-operation and interests in Board of Trade matters this year. The Board will meet regularly in the Council Chamber, the second Tuesday of each month.

The question of advertising Peterborough and its manufactures at the Convention of the Add Club representatives in Toronto next June was referred to the Council for recommendation.

Mr. J. W. Worth was appointed the Board of Trade's representative on the committee having in charge the question of public play grounds for the city.

The council will meet and formulate a platform for this year's work and submit same to Mr. Ryerson Ritchie for criticism before a membership campaign is started.

On motion of Mr. Glover, a deputation will wait upon the City Council with a view to getting an appropriation towards advertising this city by means of literature, etc., at the convention in question.

IRISH NATIONALISTS SEE BRITISH UNIONIST RETREAT

Dillon and Devlin Sure of Nothing But Complete Control at Dublin

New York, March 31.—A London cable to the New York World says: John Dillon, M.P., said to the correspondent last night: "Mr. Asquith's action is a declaration to the country in the most emphatic manner that the Government is determined to see the struggle through. It also is the strongest proof of the vital importanle attached by the Government to the new issue raised.

"The thoughtful section in the Unionist party is terribly alarmed at the present situation and anxious to close the chapter of the army revolt. The comments of the European and American press have created a profound impression on public opinion in this country showing the revolt of the officers and all parties are genuinely concerned about the safety and the welfare of the Empire.

John Dillon's Opinion.

"We have been long aware of a military plot carefully engineered and nursed by the leaders of the Tory party. The Curragh cavalry officers for a brief moment of intoxication, were under the impression that they had ridden down the commons and the liberties of the British people and also killed Home Rule, but they have evoked the spirit of and enormously strengthened the Government.

"The Unionist party in a last effort to throw out the Government has raised an issue deeper and wider than Home Rule for Ireland. It is now bitterly repenting its attempt to use the army as an instrument of party warfare."

IS EX-SULTAN ABDUL HAMID STILL LIVING?

The Heavens Themselves Blaze Forth the Death of Princes --Sun Spots Observed

Toronto, March 31.—Mr. F. L. Blake, of the Meteorological Bureau made an interesting discovery this morning while studying the sun. He noticed a group of sun spots in the northeast limb. The spots are very large and very beautiful. The group is a particularly big one, and as the spots will travel across the face of the sun to the western limb, there will be ample opportunity to observe them.

A Fine Grasp.

This the biggest group of spots observed for two years. The recent period has been remarkable for the lack of sun spots, and for the past year the sun has been almost spotless

Officials at the Meteorological Bureau will now make close observations to discover whether the magnetic conditions of the earth are affected by spots on the sun. The spots can almost be observed with the naked eye and amateur astronomers will be glad to learn that they present a magnificent spectacle when viewed thru a telescope.

CANADA GETS THE CREAM OF THE IMMIGRATION

Toronto, March 31.—Back from a winters campaign work in Britain, Mr. Thomas Howell, Commission of Immigration for the Canadian Northern RailRay, considers that Canada is getting the cream, and Australia the milk, of the season's Immigration from the old Country.

The Dominion seek for the experienced agricultural workers and domestics, while the Government assisted passages to the commonwealth result in the transit of many of the poorer classes.

Provided a reasonably good season is experienced this year, Mr. Howell looks for figures to outstrip all records next year, and states that the immigration figures for this year compare well with those of 1013.

A CHARITY PATIENT.

The Price He Had to Pay For Expert Surgical Treatment.

The famous surgeon Velpeau was visited one day at his house during the consultation hour by a marquis renowned for his closeness. Velpeau informed the marquis that an operation was urgent and that the fee would amount to 4,000 francs. At this the marquis made a wry face and left. A fortnight later Dr. Velpeau, while making his rounds in the Hopital de la Charite, had his attention attracted by a face that seemed familiar to him. In answer to his inquiry it was stated that the patient was a footman of a nobleman in the Faubourg St. Germain. The surgeon found that his case resembled in every particular the somewhat unusual one for which the marquis had consulted him a fortnight previously. He refrained, however, from making any comments. Three weeks after the operation, when the patient was about to be discharged, Dr. Velpeau called him aside and exclaimed: "Monsieur, I am extremely flattered and pleased to have been able to cure you. There is, however, a small formality with which you will have to comply before I can sign your exeat—that is, you will have to sign a check for 10,000 francs in behalf of the public charity bureau of your metropolitan district." The patient's face became livid. "You can do what you like about it," continued the doctor, "but if you refuse all Paris will know tomorrow that the Marquis de D. adopted the disguise of a footman in order to secure free treatment at this hospital and to usurp the place which belongs by right to a pauper." Of course the marquis paid.—Argonaut.

Devoted to Duty.

"Are you ever coming to bed?" he called out.

"I don't know," she replied. "I promised Mrs. Jones that I'd keep track of her husband while she is away, and I'm going to know what time he comes home if I have to stay up all night."—Detroit Free Press.

Funny In the Wrong Place.

That Prussian police officials are devoid of humor is the firmly rooted opinion of a traveler for a Berlin cotton firm. His business took him to the little town of Nordenburg. When the hotel register was placed before him he filled in the various columns and when he came to "Aim of the Journey" he wrote, "The wide, wide world." Fourteen days later he was charged with having committed a public outrage, for which he was fined six marks, one day's imprisonment being the alternative.

"FREEZE" AND "BURN."

These Two Words Had a Common Parent In One Aryan Root.

We are likely to consider "freeze" and "burn" as two distinctly opposite effects, but if, for a simple experiment, you will touch your tongue to a bit of heated iron and to a bit of iron that is extremely cold the effects, as shown in the blisters produced and in the sensation of the contacts, will be found to be surprisingly alike.

It is doubtful if our Aryan ancestors when they were planting the seed of the English and its sister languages thought of the scientific relations of what we call heat and cold, but they gave to us the root "prus," which they got out of the sensations produced by burning and freezing. As usual, Aryan roots beginning with the "p" sound change it to "f" on the tongues of the Teuton; so with these our more modern ancestors "prus" became "frus," and from it came our "freeze" and "frost." Again, as is usual, our Hindu brother in his Sanskrit usually preserves the Aryan "p" sound, so he has from this root "prush," meaning to burn.

This root of freeze became "freosan" in Anglo-Saxon, which is our "frozen." In Icelandic it became "frjosa," in Swedish "frysa" and in Danish "fryse." In the Latin the original "p" sound is retained in "pruina," meaning hoarfrost, and in "pruna," signifying a burning coal. Here we see united two apparently opposite meanings growing out of the old root "prus."—New York Herald.

According to Rules.

"Why, you absent-minded man, are you starting out with an umbrella on such a sunny day?"

"I am bound for the art gallery."

"But you cannot exhibit an umbrella!"

"Of course not, but a notice on the catalogue says that one must leave his cane or umbrella outside before he can enter."

His Flag Was Up.

When the crowd assembled for their game of ball Johnnie, the pitcher, was missing. Jimmie was sent to investigate.

"Is Johnnie at home?" asked Jimmie of the sister who answered his knock.

"Course," answered the sister. "Don't you see his shirt on the line?"—Success Magazine.

When Dining Out.

"Pop!"

"Yes, my son."

"What is an ultimate consumer?"

"Why, he's the one who usually has to pay the check for the dinner, boy."—Yonkers Statesman.

MR. BIRRELL'S GHOST STORY

Haunted Since Boyhood by Odd Visions of Isaac Newton

Mr. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, astonished the company at the Royal Press Fund dinner by relating a unique ghost story, which he introduced in his response to the toast "Literature and Journalism." Referring to a recent speech by Dr. Silvanus Thompson on the importance of science, the right hon. gentleman said: "I don't know, my Lord Mayor, whether you ever have had dreams, but I have been haunted ever since I was almost a boy by the constant repetition of one and the same dream. It comes to me again and again. It is this. I dream I am walking about somewhere in some plain or desert, and suddenly encounter the agitated figure of Sir Isaac Newton. He approaches me, his eyes almost starting out of his head; he tells me who he is, and how ignorant he is of all that has happened in the world of science since he left.

"'Now,' he says, 'I want you to tell me in a few words, for I have only a quarter of an hour left, all that has happened to the race; the progress. How is it? I know what it was when I left it. What is it now?' My heart sinks, and, covered with confusion, I stumble, I stutter, I stammer, I become more and more involved, my ignorance becomes more and more apparent, and, at last, the unhappy ghost, throwing up his hands, leaves me with dismay.

"That dream constantly comes to me. The only difference is that the moment the unhappy Sir Isaac Newton sees me now he says, 'Oh, that old ignoramus,' and departs." (Laughter.)

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Elevator Falls 600 Feet

In the newest and tallest skyscraper in New York a lift or elevator dropped suddenly 600 feet without anyone being injured. As a matter of fact there were no passengers, for it was a testing experiment. The car was placed at the forty-seventh floor, and was weighted with cast-iron up to a total of 7,500 pounds, representing its full capacity if crowded with passengers. It was then set free by the cutting of a latch-string. The lift was falling at the rate of two miles a minute when it reached the air cushion tube which begins at the eleventh floor. Then its speed diminished gradually, until it arrived at the bottom as gently as a feather.

THE REAL POSITION IN ULSTER

What is the position? I shall try to put it clearly without exaggeration, but I shall put the real position. The message which the right hon. gentleman (Mr. Asquith) really sends to the people of Ulster is this: "You have, by your organization, extending over two years, placed yourselves in a position of commanding strength. You have entrenched yourselves in an impregnable fortress, and, therefore, I do not ask you to submit now to a Nationalist Parliament. What I do ask is that you should destroy your organization, and that you should leave your fortress; that you should come out into the open, and then when you are weak you will be compelled to do what to-day, when you are strong, you will not do."—Mr. Bonar Law, Unionist Leader in the Imperial Parliament.

So far as Ulster is concerned, be exclusion good or bad, and I think we all admit we are only driven into exclusion by the exigencies of the case and of the facts—but be exclusion good or bad, Ulster wants this question settled now and forever. We do not want sentence of death, with a stay of execution for six years. Just look at what is offered to us. We are to come into a sort of probation for six years; are are to stand watching the Irish Parliament for a period of six years. Can the imagination of the right hon. gentleman (Mr. Asquith), at all look at the picture of what will exist in Ulster during those six years? Does he really think that in a great developing community where people have vast amounts of money out in the expansion and development of their business, does he really mean to say that in view of that this is statesmanship? Would he not really, if we were talking it over in a friendly way, say it was folly to have these people in this state of uncertainty as to what was to be the form of government under which they were to live as each election came round? The whole organization would have to be kept up. I do not think that is feasible on the present basis, and I certainly as far as I am concerned, and knowing these men as I do, believe that they would rather you brought the matter to close quarters to-morrow than leave them in this state of having it dangled before them that they are to be a pawn in your political game for the next six years.—Sir Edward Carson, Ulster Leader in the Imperial Parliament.

"Nerviline" Gives Speedy Relief and Cures Over Night

Chest Colds

Got a cold?

Is your voice raspy—is your chest congested or sore?

If so, you are the very person that Nerviline will cure in a jiffy.

Nerviline is strong and penetrating. It sinks right into the tissues, takes out inflammation and soreness, destroys colds in a truly wonderful way. If the throat is raspy and sore, rub it well outside with Nerviline, and use Nerviline as a gargle diluted with warm water. Just one or two treatments like this and your voice and throat will be quick normal again.

Just think of it—for forty years the largest used family medicine in this country—Nerviline must be good, must quickly relieve and cure a hundred ills that befall every family. Try it for earache, toothache, coughs, colds, sore chest, hoarseness and muscular pains in every part of the body. Large family size bottle 50c.; trial size 25c. at all dealers.

ROWDYISM AT "RIVERSIDE."

Editor Morning Times.

Sir:—For some considerable time a band of young waywards have been making night most unpleasant for people who are trying to get much needed rest after working hard all day. About 11 p.m., they go south on Reid street, thence to Park street to the "Riverside" district. In an attempt to sing they make all sorts of horrible noises. If these young hoodlums would cease the awful noise they make it would not be so serious. But when they start night after night to destroy property, it is about time action was taken. Immediately north of Knox Church, on Park street, there is a row of detached houses. In passing these one notes the great amount of care and expense they have gone to in beautifying, not only their homes, but the city by planting a fine row of shade trees on their property. The young scamps referred to have broken down the entire row of Maples. Their depredations have not ceased there to vary their destructive propensities; they have amused themselves by throwing pebbles through the window of a widow, doing much damage, which she can ill afford to make good.

I am persuaded that our most capable Chief of Police and his excellent staff will investigate the conditions as they exist in the south end, and see that a stop is put to the destructive pastime of this brainless gang.

THE CAMPHOR LANGUAGE.

Used in Johore Because of a Malay Superstition.

In Johore, on the Malay peninsula, there is employed one of the strangest languages in the world, used for a most curious purpose. This tongue is called Pantang Kapor or "camphor language," and is a medium employed by natives and others engaged in gathering the product of the Malayan camphor tree, but only when they are at work.

It is a superstition of these natives that should they use the language of the district, the Malay or the aboriginal Jakun, they would be unable to obtain their camphor.

The Malay natives firmly believe that each species of tree has a spirit or guardian angel that presides over its affairs, this spirit being known by the name of Bisan. This divinity's resting place is near the trees. Then, too, the spirit of the camphor tree is held to be extremely jealous of the precious gum, so that it becomes necessary to propitiate her, inasmuch as she would, should she learn that hunters were in quest of it, endeavor to interpose obstacles to their mission. Accordingly the natives speak in a tongue that the tree spirit may not understand. It was for this purpose that the mysterious "camphor language" was invented, and it consists of an odd mixture of Jakun and Malay words that have been curiously altered and reversed.—Harper's Weekly.

Coronation Memoirs.

Perhaps the most calamitous of all coronation days in England was that of William the Conqueror.

After the coronation oath, whereby the new monarch promised to protect the Church and to execute judgment and mercy, the archbishop put the usual question:

"Will you have this Prince to be your King?"

A clamorous shout of assent from the assembled English so startled the Norman soldiers outside that they immediately set out burning and plundering, believing the English had revolted.

Charles Stuart had a most unfortunate day. The royal barge stuck in the mud of the Thames; the sermon sounded like a funeral oration; an earthquake shock was felt during the ceremony; and, finally, the herald pronounced him the "dubitable heir, instead of the "indubitable" heir.

When George III was installed on the throne, the master of ceremonies forgot the Sword of State, and the chair and canopy for the banquet.

And as he moved down the Abbey with the great circlet on his head, the large diamond dropped out.

HOW THE JOCKEYS TRAIN TO WEIGHT

Dangers and Methods of Reducing Flesh in England in Order to Ride Races

Were the older generation of jockeys a stronger and hardier breed than those of the present day? This is the question often asked by followers of the racing game. The truth is, probably, that it is not so much a difference in the men, or their stamina; the change is in the methods jockeys now adopt in order to rid themselves of the superfluous flesh that they have put on during the winter months.

In the old days they used to walk fifteen or twenty miles a day, swathed in half a dozen sweaters. Now it is Turkish baths and medicines—a far more weakening process. It was this regime that killed the famous Archer. A fortnight before his death he rode in a race in Ireland at 130 pounds. This was on a Tuesday. The following Thursday he rode again at 124 pounds. Then, on the Wednesday following he rode St. Mirin in the Cambridgeshire at 118 pounds. He never rode again. He went home in a raging fever, became delirious, and took his own life in a fit of insanity. If ever a man died for his profession, Archer did.

Luke Snowden, an elder brother of the famous Jem Snowden, wasted very hard in order to ride a horse named Claire at 104 pounds. He walked about all night prior to the race, wearing four sweaters and a heavy horse rug, and would not so much as moisten his lips with a drop of water, lest he should be tempted to swallow some. He won the race, but fell out of the saddle in a swoon at its conclusion, and had to be carried to his bed, where he died three days later.

Then there is the case of "Tiny" Wells, who fainted on the race course after getting down to 75 pounds from 84 pounds in seventeen hours—a seemingly incredible feat.

Sam Day, another famous old-time jockey, used to boast that he could "kill a town wasting," whatever that might mean. He certainly came near to killing himself on many occasions, for, owing to his lowered strength and vitality, due to the heroic methods he adopted, he met with so many accidents while riding that at different times he broke practically every bone in his body, excepting his right arm, but including his skull and jaw, while one leg was fractured twice.

John Wells, the tallest and biggest jockey who ever rode at 112 pounds, used to walk 22 miles in four hours with four suits of sweaters on when wasting for an important race, and live on dry toast with an occasional glassful of soda water. He dared not, he used to say, yield to the natural cravings of his appetite, as upon one occasion, when reduced by severe training, a single wineglassful of sherry, which he was induced to partake of, sent his weight bounding up by two pounds.

Another jockey famous in the wasting line was Sam Darling. He kept a regular diary of his walks in sweaters during 2o years, entering up times and distances, and on his retirement he found that he had totalled up just over 5,000 miles. Most present-day jockeys would probably prefer to this the methods now in vogue, although not all of them, of course, rely exclusively, or even principally, on "wasting mixtures" and Turkish baths.

HAWAIIAN SURF RIDERS

Are Best in the World—Ancient Hawaiian Sport

Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian expert, is one of the Hawaiian islands' best surf riders. Those who have watched the big islander shooting along on the crest of a big comber have seen a sight never to be forgotten.

Surf boarding is an ancient Hawaiian sport, and one which is accomplished nowhere else in the world with the perfection of the Hawaiians. It has been tried in Australia and other places where there is good surf, but the conditions in Hawaii seem to be different, for it is there alone that the sport takes rank as an amusement of both whites and Hawaiians.

Any afternoon when there is a good surf running half a dozen dusky shapes may be seen lying flat on long boards and paddling out towards where the blue waves break in white froth over the coral reef a mile from shore. Soon they are but spots on the water and then they can be seen only for a moment as they breast the combers to get on the outside, where they can make the race in.

Once the line of breakers is reached, they lie in wait for a big one, and as it comes roaring in they paddle ahead as fast as possible to get speed enough so that the waves will pick them up. If they have a good start the comber takes them along on its inner edge with the white spume curling up behind, and at the speed of an express train they race for the shore.

Novel Competition

Commander Turos, of the battleship "Audacious," at Portsmouth, has presented the crew with a handsome silver cup for a novel competition between various sections in coaling, [illegible], boxing, rowing, and football. The cup first goes to the men of the foretop, who beat the remainder of the ship at coaling, 2,000 tons being taken on board at an average of 230 tons an hour.

The Hudson Six-54, $2950
(f.o.b. Detroit, Mich., Duty Paid)

The Economy of the HUDSON Six

In an automobile motor with 300 cubic inches combustion space (used merely as an example) to divide it into four cylinders means 75 cubic inches to each cylinder. To divide it into six means 50 cubic inches to each cylinder. Yet the TOTAL remains the same. Hence the fact that a Six can burn no more gasoline than a four of equal power. The smooth running of the Six means tire saving. It isn't mileage that wears tires excessively—it's jerks, jars, slips and slides. The HUDSON Six moves smoothly with no vibration. You save gasoline, oil, tires, and general upkeep when you drive a HUDSON Six. We have proved this in public contests against the best Fours built.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realize its great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheel-base, motor 4½ x 5¼, developing 55 horse power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4050. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3½x5, developing 47 horse power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $2300, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted, left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. Catalog on request. Demonstrations as arranged. Prices f. o. b. Detroit, Mich. Duty paid.

Fancies of Fashion

Waistline Is Unseen in New Gowns

By Madge Marvel

FIND "the waist-line" is the puzzle presented by the newest spring silhouette. The average modish gown makes it an almost negligible quantity.

For years woman's waist-line has been roving about in a most independent and freakish manner, but now it seems to have entirely disappeared. First, it went dipping down in front at an utterly absurd angle. Then it suddenly took an upward flight and fixed its habitat under the arms, whereupon we talked much of the grace of Josephine and the charm of the fashions of the First Empire. Again it became a wanderer and settled about the hips. Now—who can accurately locate it?

In its peregrinations the waist-line has grown generous in its size, and the strictly correct and up-to-the-minute figure shows not the least indentation of outline at the place where physiologists have given us reason to believe the feminine waist belongs.

Corsets Are "Reconstructed."

Poiret is said to be responsible for its actual and complete disappearance. His gowns have a perfectly straight line from the collar to the hem. A ring which would fit the shoulders would fit equally well at the waist, the hips and the hem.

Some of the very latest and extremest importations have a certain lowered blousiness at the place where the waist ought to be, which gives one a sense of hopelessness when the ultimate location of the missing line is considered. Yet, when were the styles ever more attractive, generically considered?

While on the subject of waist-lines it seems pertinent to mention corsets. They, too, have the impression of having been lost or mislaid. They are of the most pliable stuffs, silken webbing and elastic and silks and satins, batistes and soft brocades. Only enough boning is used to keep the shapeliness of the garment.

The hips are still long and snug. At the point where once was the waist-line the corset abruptly ceases. Sometimes, where there is a superabundance of adipose to be restrained, there is a top band of elastic material which gives a pleasing security. Where the top of the corset ends the modern brassiere begins. Only a year or so ago wearing a brassiere was a matter of choice unless the figure was unusually "full," but now it is a necessity. It has become a part of the corset. The fit of the brassiere is quite as important as the fit of the stays. These little "soutien gorge," as our Paris cousins call them, are dainty bits of lace and linen, crepe or silk or net, held in place by narrow shoulder straps of lace or ribbon and with every suspicion of fulness carefully eliminated.

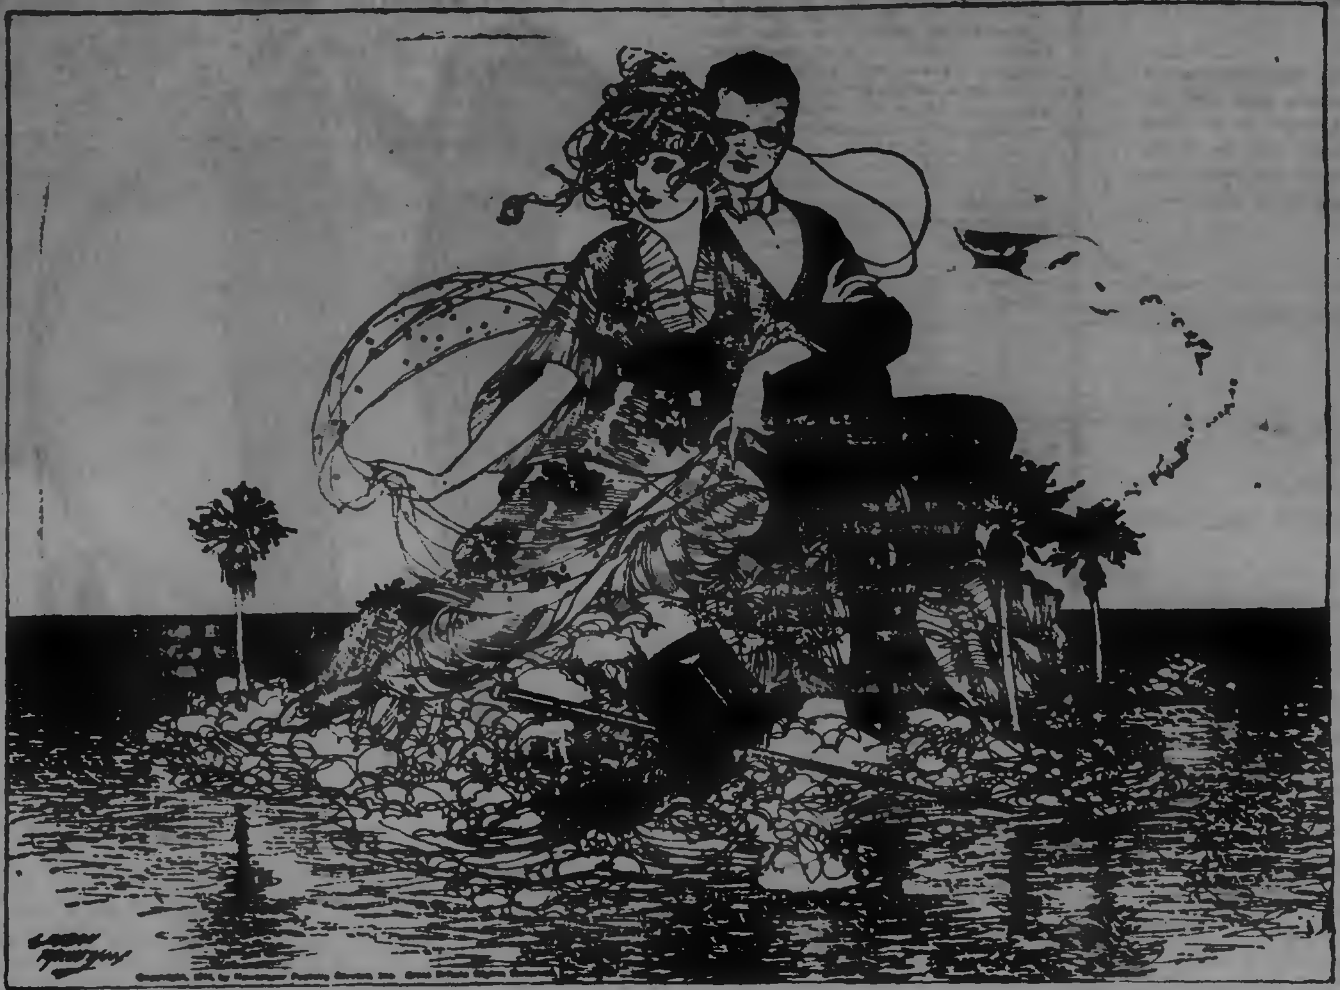
Mexican Influence Appreciable.

The new corsets have been designed to meet the exigencies of the dance mania. For there is still present the very evident influence of Terpsichore on the spring and summer modes. The amazing part is that with all the dancing there is not a natural revulsion on the part of the dancers against the extreme narrowness of the average skirt. It never gives room for the "dips de danse" to permit of the wearer being either comfortable or assuredly graceful.

Many of the summer silks and cottons show the influence of the Mexican situation. Indeed, some of the figures might have been purloined from old Aztec temples, and there is the suggestion of Mexico in the embroidered boleros, and some of the "outing" hats have the high crown which is typical of that agitated country.

In wraps there is a growing tendency toward the cape. Some of the new sports coats have sleeves so loose and roomy that they are almost capes, and there are frequently straps which cross in front in the manner of our old golf capes.

THE SUPREME TEST :: :: :: By Michelson



WHEN you wonder whether HE is the right one or SHE is the right one for a life companion, just fancy how it would be if you were cast away with that ONE on a desert island. Not for a day or a week, but for all the time that remains in all the calendar of a life.

That is the supreme test—that the OTHER ONE would be ENOUGH to make life complete. You may not hanker for a desert island, but the test applies just the same—the other one should be the one that would be at least the MOST tolerable of all single companions.

A hard test, yes, but maybe matrimony isn't so much unlike a desert island in SOME particulars, and to make your choice the VERY wisest maybe it might not be so bad an idea to think about this picture before fixing your choice.

Great Novels in a Nutshell

James Fenimore Cooper's "The Spy"

Condensed by Helen S. Gray

THE scene of this book is laid in the time of the revolution. The Wharton family is divided in allegiance. The son, Henry, is a captain in the British army; the older sister, Sarah, sympathises with that side; the younger, Frances, is engaged to an American officer, Maj. Peyton Dunwoodie.

At the outbreak of the war their father sends his money to England and moves his family from New York to Westchester county. With the aid of Harvey Birch, a pedler and neighbor, reputed to be in the service of the British as a spy, Henry Wharton comes home in disguise on a visit. A severe storm leads a stranger, named Harper, to seek shelter for a day or two with the Whartons.

On leaving, he says that Henry in coming in disguise has incurred great danger of being considered a spy, and tells the family in that event he will do whatever he can to help them in return for their kindness. Some American troops arrive. Henry is recognized and taken prisoner. Maj. Dunwoodie is now between the conflicting claims of love and duty.

After a battle with the British, Capt. Lawton catches sight of Birch, who had been watching it, and makes pursuit. His horse stumbles and throws his rider just as Birch is almost in his clutches. Birch seizes Lawton's sword and could have killed him as he lies there, but spares him and slips away among the rocks. He returns to his hut to his dying father. A band of marauders known as Skinners take all his savings, burn his cabin and carry him captive to the Americans' army for reward. He escapes, disguised as an Irish washerwoman of the camp.

Capt. Lawton and a companion are riding one evening when a stone drops at their feet. Wrapped around it is a message warning them to beware of danger in the rocks ahead. The captain finds a man with a gun concealed there. A few days after Birch gives the alarm to a few men at Lawton's camp to go at once to the Wharton home, where the captain is spending the evening. The Skinners, bent on revenge against Capt. Lawton for having punished them recently, attack the place, steal all the valuables they can find and set fire to the house.

Birch carries Sarah out of the burning building. Capt. Lawton knows that once when Birch was on trial for his life, it was proved that he had carried information about the movements of the American troops to the British. But after all the friendly services Birch has rendered him, he is puzzled, and asks him if he really is a royal spy. He replies that he is.

Henry Wharton is now tried by a military court. The evidence points so strongly to his being a spy that he is sentenced to be hanged the next day, and the order is approved by Washington. Frances Wharton now remembers what Mr. Harper had said, and tells Maj. Dunwoodie. He goes to find him. The woman, at whose farmhouse the Whartons are staying since the fire, sends for a clergyman for Henry.

Birch comes disguised as one and tells Henry he has promised a certain person, afterward known to have been Mr. Harper, to save him. The clergyman asks the farmer's wife for a certain religious book for the prisoner, and finding that she hasn't it, asks her to send the old negro servant of the Wharton family with him to bring it back. In this way Birch and Henry escape.

The ruse is soon discovered and the soldiers in pursuit. Because he knows every trail and road, Birch is able to elude them and get into the hills among the rocks. Frances had on two occasions caught sight of a tiny shack on a hilltop and seen a figure moving about up there that she thought was Birch. She is so afraid her brother and Birch will spend the night there and be surrounded by their pursuers that she goes to the shack after dark to urge them to leave at once.

To her astonishment she finds Harper there. He tells her Birch and her brother will soon arrive, and hides out of sight of Henry when he enters. Henry gives his sister a note for Maj. Dunwoodie and tells her he must have a two hours' start of his pursuers in order to escape. She returns and delivers the note. It urges Dunwoodie and his sister to marry at once. She says that time is everything to Henry just now, but that if the major wants to marry her, she consents.

The ceremony is performed and the troops are just starting in pursuit when orders come to desist and prepare to meet the British. Henry reaches the British lines in safety. A battle occurs the next morning.

Not long after the war ends. Birch is sent for to receive his pay as spy from Washington, but refuses to accept any. Washington gives him a certificate, clearing him of the charge of having served the British in that capacity.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Zephyrs of Spring May Give You "Pink-Eye"

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

THERE was at one time a popular belief to the effect that pink-eye made all water like wine. Dean Cowper of Durham, who was very economical and miserly of his red wines, descanting one day on the extraordinary performance of a man who had pink-eye, remarked that the poor fellow could see no more than "that bottle."

"I do not wonder at it at all, sir," replied one of the deacons, who was a guest, "for we, who have as yet no pink-eyes, have seen no more than that one bottle all afternoon."

Drink, however, is not the worst or the most frequent source of the eye that is red. Just as a red nose is more often an unwelcome bit of nature's vermillion brushwork not due to the invisible spirit, which makes man forget love and duty, so pink-eyes are gifts of other gods than these.

So Noah, when he anchored safe on
The mountain top, his lofty haven,
And all the passengers he bore
Were on the new world set ashore,
He made it next his chief design
To plant and propagate a vine,
Which since has overturned and drowned
Far greater numbers on dry ground
Of wretched mankind, one by one,
Than all the Flood before had done.

Actually gooseberry, or strawberry, eyes are the basilisks of the smoky bar-rooms, the charcoal clubs, the late hours and other excesses. Liquor is blamed, but the other dissipations are more often the cause.

Your true pink-eye is an infection which differs from typhoid fever and other "colds" only as due to several different kinds of contagious, or infectious germs, instead of one specific kind.

Early spring zephyrs are apt to catch you napping. These hushed winds keep no Sabbath. The shrill wail, or the deeply, distant spring sigh, wafts a bit of dust in your eye. This unseen current may have "clean" dirt—dust free from microbes—or it may teem with creepy, haunting stygian bacteria.

In either instance the wind cuts you to the quick. That is to say, it cuts a little invisible slit in your eyeball or eyelid. The ever present pink-eye bacilli, or cocci, are wafted into this abrasion with some rough dust.

In fine, if the wind does not vaccinate this pink-eye virus into your visual apparatus, you "rub it in," or scratch it in, with your handkerchief or finger.

The eye is one of the excellent parts of the human constitution. It is as much the receptacle of experience and knowledge as it is the seat of inclinations, hopes, appetites and passions.

It is the entrance portal to the ego itself. The outer world and nature makes itself felt and known to you by way of the eye.

Anything which lowers the efficiency of the eye, reduces the sum and substance of you and your deeds. These tiny orbs make up most of your good sense.

When "pink-eye," or other eye affections, assail your common sense falls away as did the Walls of Jericho before Joshua.

You can neither look wholly forward nor wholly backward. Two-thirds of your common sense has gone where the woodbine of last summer twineth.

Fine eyes are wisdom's sense to thee,
Be they gray, or black, or blue;
Care not a bit if all you see
Thus comes good sense to you.

Answers to Health Questions

G. G., Philadelphia—What will remove white spots from the finger nails?

It is first of all necessary to have good health. Constipation, liver trouble, indigestion and other common ailments will give the appearance. If you are afflicted with any of these troubles you must find a cure before you can hope to improve. Exercise in the open air. Drink plenty of water every day to keep the system well flushed and do not neglect the daily bath, for cleanliness is quite essential.

You can do nothing to remove the white spots from the nails. They will gradually disappear as the nail grows out.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

BARGAINS in foodstuffs are quite as possible and practical as bargains in chiffons. Many clever housekeepers, who enjoy the reputation of being "good managers," watch special food sales with far more interest than they give to sales of wearing apparel.

But before the amateur grabs at the idea of food bargains as the longed-for solution of her problem of how to make ends meet in household expenditures, let her fully understand what it means to apply the advantage of the ever-alluring bargain to her table.

It is never good policy to buy anything just because it happens to be cheap. In food supplies such a course is the worst judgment. But it frequently happens that there are sales of staples in household supplies which make considerable saving if a quantity is bought. For example, there are places which have "bargain days," when soaps which are regularly 5 cents a bar may be bought at the rate of six or sometimes seven bars for a quarter.

The same rule may be applied to other staples, such as scouring soap and starch and bluing and articles of standard quality.

Other high grade goods, especially canned goods, are frequently sold at a reduction of a few cents, which is well worth saving if one has use for the articles offered.

But the real test of true understanding of taking advantage of food sales lies in knowing what are the right days to get certain foods at lessened price.

The morning trip to market should always be taken with a menu in mind, which permits one to change the meals of the day if the markets should make it economy to do so.

The capable marketman soon learns which of his customers are competent buyers, and it must be said to his credit that he is usually glad to suggest the viands that give the best value for the day. He knows whether the veal or the lamb is the better. But if he does know the veal is excellent and cheap and the lamb is not so prime and expensive, he is not going to force you to take veal when you insist you want lamb. Nor is he going to insist that you take the steak he knows is the best if you are sure you want the one which is not so good.

As a Clown Sees Us

Our Fashions!

I REGARD the coming of the colored wig as a circumstance of great value, affording a striking example of the stupidity with which we, as a people, worship at the shrine of fashion.

This thing fashion—style—has such a powerful sway that there have been times when I have been tempted to yield some respect to it. Its very omnipotence almost compels me to think there must be something behind it. I have comforted myself with that thought when my wife bankrupted the treasury to lay in an outfit of hobble skirts and such like when she had much better looking garments in plenty either relegated to the attic cubby hole or shipped to the poor heathen far away.

But I know better now. I have torn off the mask and can demonstrate that this mighty modern Moloch is only a big fake! How?

Well, this last break—the colored wig thing—did the trick. It happens to be a subject I am so familiar with that I can trace it right back to its source.

About 20 years ago clowning, or "white face comedy," as it is called, had reached the apex of its possibilities. Everything that could be done to raise a laugh had been handed to the public in every possible form, and there was a crying demand for something new. Then some one discovered the efficacy of the red wig. After the red wig came the green, then the violet and similar variations. In time these palled and the "big foot" was introduced—a shoe made in the shape of a huge human hand, worn on each foot.

So, it appears, the origin of the colored wig was the effort of the professional fool to amuse a blase public. Now that society has taken up that one we may look forward to seeing the tango, the hesitation and the maxixe done in the "big foot." Who can tell?

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Make-up is not for young girls and, like "Sincere," many need a brother's advice

Dear Annie Laurie:

My brother says that no girl who paints her face is respectable.

I know that isn't true, for I have lots of girl friends who paint and powder and make up their eyes, too—and they are good girls. I know it.

I don't paint because my brother makes such an awful fuss about it. My mother doesn't believe in it, either, but she wouldn't know it if I did paint, and I would look a whole lot better, all the girls say. I am sallow and dark, and it makes me look sickly. I don't see what harm there would be in my putting a little red on my cheeks, do you? Please answer. SINCERE.

SO brother thinks that no girl can paint her cheeks and be decent, does he? He must know very few respectable girls, I'm afraid, or else he can't tell paint when he sees it. I'm rather inclined to sympathize with brother in his point of view. I know just what makes him feel the way he does about it, but when he gets too excited over it just ask him if he thinks a man can smoke cigarettes and be sensible, and see what he says.

Also I'd notice the sort of girls brother picks out to dance with when he goes to a tango evening.

Does he choose a nice, quiet, modest, little girl, all dressed in quiet gray or dull brown, or does he select the gayest girl in the room for his partner?

If he really likes quiet girls with their own complexions, and shows it by paying real attention to them, why, you can pay real attention to what brother says, for there's some chance that he may possibly mean it—about somebody else besides you.

Of course, he's all wrong when he says that any girl who makes up her complexion is not respectable.

Nine girls out of ten powder, and seven girls out of ten rouge. After all, it's a matter of custom entirely. Ten years ago a girl who rouged put out a sign which every man who saw it read only too easily.

That sign doesn't mean the same thing at all today.

The made-up complexion has come in with the dancing slippers for the street, the slit skirt, and the daring hat. It will go out when they go out.

I hate to see a young girl make up almost as badly as I hate to see a mature woman dye her hair.

There is nothing in the world so beautiful, so attractive and so irresistible as youth, and there is something about a made-up complexion that adds years to any girl.

You'll never be young but once, little girl. Do stay young and girlish and natural as long as you possibly can. Take plenty of baths, plenty of exercise, sleep in a room with the windows open, don't eat cake or candy or pastry—and unless there is something very wrong with you you'll have a skin that is a thousand times prettier than any paint could ever make it.

Let the fading woman of 30 paint, and think that nobody knows. You stick to your own girlish complexion and your own girlish ways. You can beat her at that every day in the week and not half try.

When I was a girl of 18 I had a friend, a widow of 30.

And I nearly drove all my family crazy by trying to be like my friend. I had a lot of thick, luxuriant hair of my own, but my friend wore a waved bang—so I had to wear one, too, plastered down over my thick mop. It must have been hideous.

My friend darkened her eyelashes, too. So did I, and I succeeded by that simple method in making myself look at least 10 years older than I was. I wore black, and tried my best to assume an expression half-broken-hearted and half-knowing. I should think my mother would have shut me up somewhere on bread and water. I deserved it. My friend, the widow, was, of course, delighted. I was just a cheap imitation of her, and I deliberately threw away all my own attractions to be that imitation.

Don't be as silly as I was, little girl. Let the widows and the elderly belles do the making-up and the painting. They have to.

You do not—yet.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care this office.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE [illegible]

BRER RABBIT was sitting by the fire one evening reading the Woodland News. The two boys, Jack Rabbit and Billy Bunny, were studying their lessons. By and by the paper fell on Brer Rabbit's lap and he went fast asleep.

Jack spoke to Billy and it woke Brer Rabbit up, and he looked around to see what was the matter. Then he got up and started to put some wood on the fire. "Ouch!" said he.

"What is the matter?" asked Billy Bunny, running to his father's side.

"My foot is asleep," whined Brer Rabbit, limping badly.

"Sit down again," suggested Billy, as he got his pipe for him.

Jack and Billy went back to their lessons and Brer Rabbit went fast asleep. All was quiet for a time and then Jack said to Billy:

"It is time for us to go to bed and it will not do to wake father up. What shall we do?"

"Let's put the alarm clock by father's foot and set it for 11 o'clock. If his foot goes to sleep, the clock will wake it up," said Billy.

"Great idea!" said Jack, taking the clock from the mantelpiece.

They wound the clock and set the alarm for 11 o'clock and then went to bed. They were fast asleep when suddenly they heard:

"Ting—a—ling—ling—ling—ling!"

It seemed as if the clock would never stop ringing.

Brer Rabbit ran upstairs and when he found the boys awake he said:

"Why did you set that clock?"

"We wanted to wake your foot up when it went to sleep," said Jack.

"Bright boys," said Brer Rabbit as he hopped to his room.

V.C. as a Striker

Included in Blackburn's 400 municipal strikers were over 100 Army reservists. One of the number, James Pitts, was awarded the Victoria Cross for his gallantry in an exposed position at Caesar's Camp during the siege of Ladysmith.

To exploit and advance the best interests of the people of the fair and fertile land wherein it is published, and to which it steadily devotes its efforts;
To stand for liberty and law, equal rights and good government, the greatest boon to a free people;
To foster and encourage private and public enterprise, and hold up the hands of every honest toiler, either with brawn or brain, in every field of activity;

PEPYS, THE DIARIST.

Pronouncing the Name of the Garrulous Old Gossip.

Lovers of Pepys often dispute over the correct pronunciation of his name. The form Peeps is the one that has chief authority on its side, and it is according to analogy in other like spellings, such as Wemyss, pronounced Weems. Peeps still holds good at Cambridge and dates from its bearer's own time. It is also retained by the representatives of Samuel's sister, the Pepys Cockerell family, who are heirs to his fame and some of his property. The late Rev. J. W. Ebsworth, an indefatigable collector and editor of ballads, adopts this pronunciation in his pleasing stanzas on "A Gossip at Deptford."

For instance:

The state has no servant of all whom she keeps
Like my squab little friend, who no labor does shirk,
The pattern of quill driving clerks, Sam Pepys.

A disturbing element in the discussion is that the branch of the family represented by the Earl of Cottenham pronounce the name Peppis.

No bearer of the name has ever been known as Peps, though Ashby Sterry, a respected member of the Pepys club, follows this common but erroneous pronunciation in this excellent epigram, published in the London Graphic November, 1891:

There are people, I'm told—some say there are heaps—
Who speak of the talkative Samuel as Peeps,
And some, so precise and pedantic their step is,
Who call the delightful old diarist Pepys.
But these I think right, and I follow their steps,
Ever mention the garrulous gossip as Peps!

Woes of Translators.

The way of translators is hard, especially where African native languages are concerned. Favorite English hymns, translated for the benefit of the natives, sometimes contain renderings not altogether faultless. "Go labor on, spend and be spent," was given as "Go blunder on," etc. The most extravagant instance, however, was the hymn, "Lord, Dismiss Us With Thy Blessing," which the natives were exhorted to join fervently in singing. Months later the missionaries discovered that what they really had been singing was, "Lord, kick us out, softly, softly."—Glasgow Herald.

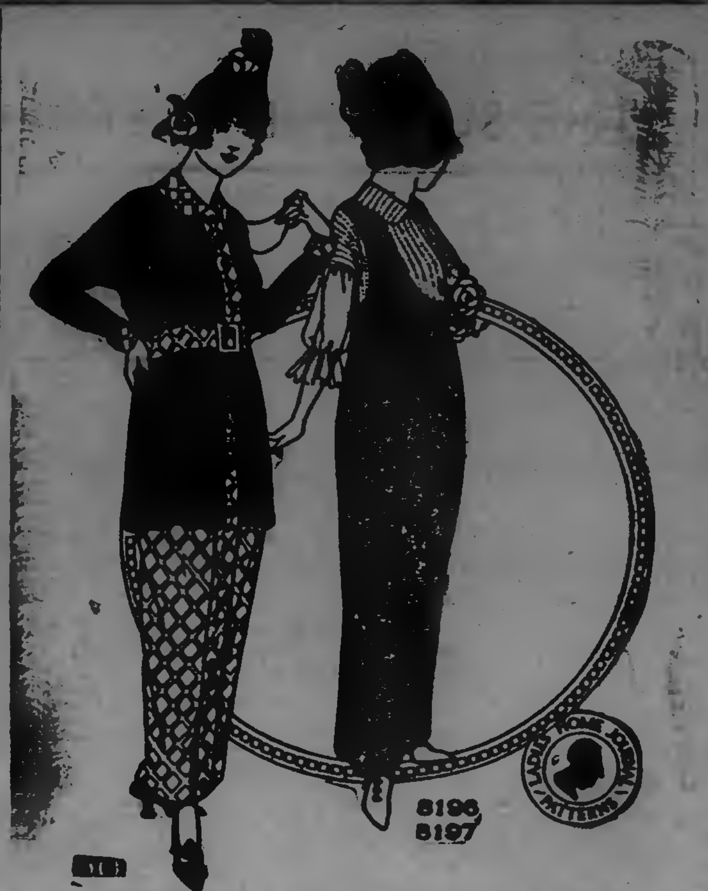
Good Work Promptly Executed



IN THIS INSTANCE THE GUIMPE BECOMES A BLOUSE.

Overblouse effects are very popular and no doubt will continue to gain in favor as the season advances. Whereas, in many cases, the overblouse is merely a pair of straps over the shoulders, yet it gives the appearance of a one-piece frock and at the same time suggests a way to bring an old frock up to date. The filmy, transparent fabrics—net, lace, chiffon, etc.—are used for the underbodice; organdy and book muslin are being used also with some of the more tailored frocks.

No. 8196-8197 shows a smart overblouse costume; the skirt is a three-piece model with a slightly raised waistline and the fullness at the top arranged in soft box-pleats. Tete de Negre ratine is the material, with the underbodice of shadow lace over a yellowish chiffon; the effect is very modish.

To copy this design in size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 36 inch material for the waist (8196) and 3⅝ yards of the same width for the skirt (8197).

No. 8161 shows an effective coat dress for a young girl; dark blue gaberdine is used here, with collar, cuffs and girdle of a contrasting silk. The blouse is cut in kimono effect, with the back extending over the fronts to form one of the new yokes that appear on so many of the new dresses and suits. The skirt is a three-piece design.

For a girl of 16, 4⅝ yards of 36 inch material are needed for this frock.

No. 8161—sizes 14 to 18.
No. 8196—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8197—sizes 22 to 30.
Each pattern 15 cents.

PRINTED TAFFETAS AND EMBROIDERED CREPES STRONG IN FAVOR FOR SUMMER FROCKS.

The embroidered crepes are among the daintiest of materials for the necessary and typical summer frock. Japanese and Dolly Varden motifs, some of them slightly raised, are the designs most generally noted; they are youthful and pleasing. The printed taffetas show these same figures on darker grounds and are especially favored for afternoon frocks.

Bordered materials are also used considerably; in fact, any fabric that is sheer and transparent is modish.

In the one-piece gowns the flare is noticed at the hips; on many of the new imported models this is brought about by a puffed or draped arrangement of the material or chiffon in the back and over the hips.

The frock illustrated in No. 8165 is especially suited to the bordered organdy in which it is fashioned; it closes in the back, has a kimono sleeve, a gathered guimpe of net and a two-piece tunic which falls over a straight skirt. For a girl of 16 this design requires 4⅛ yards of 36 inch material.

A smart contrasting effect is brought out in No. 8121-8276; the odd little bodice with the short, gathered peplum, is developed in a printed taffetas, and the skirt is made of a striped taffetas. There is a circular tunic on the skirt, set on just below the waistline, which lends the costume an unusually chic air.

To copy this frock in size 36, the bodice requires 2⅛ yards of 36 inch material and the skirt 3¼ yards of the same width.

No. 8165—sizes 14 to 18.
No. 8121—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8276—sizes 14 to 18.
Each pattern 15 cents.

Returning From a Wake

Mary McGoan, aged seventy, Donegal, was returning at a late hour with her daughter from the wake of a relative in the district. The night being very dark the daughter carried a lamp, which was blown out by the wind, and the pair became separated. The old woman in the darkness lost her way and fell into a drain. She succeeded in extricating herself, but, not knowing her whereabouts, crossed a field and stumbled over a stone into another drain, where she perished.

Killed While at Dinner

Robert Maloney, fifty, a laborer, died in the Dunfermline Hospital from the results of a peculiar accident at Rosyth Dockyard. Blasting operations had been in progress at the lock entrance, when Maloney entered a hut which was within the danger zone and began to eat his dinner. A large piece of rock, which had been thrown into the air by the force of the explosion, crashed through the roof of the hut and struck Maloney on the head.

NO TROUBLE BREAKFASTS

"If any of you are married let me give you this piece of advice; leave the purse also to your wife and take nothing out of it which she does not give to you. From the very first I left my wife in charge of the purse and laid myself out for politics, and I have always found that this was a very good arrangement."—Bismarck.

* * *

"You would not have so much trouble over your breakfasts if you got things ready overnight," said Mrs. Experience to Mrs. Hausfrau, in answer to the young wife's dismal lament that breakfast was the worry of her life. "I don't like getting up early any more than you do, but I can quite understand that your husband gets tired of boiled eggs and fried bacon day after day. Personally I always choose dishes that can be got ready the night before and all there is to do is to heat them. Here are two or three of my staple dishes which I think you will find will break the monotony and will really be less trouble in the morning than preparing eggs. For ham cakes, for instance, take ½ pound cooked ham, four tablespoonfuls of mashed potatoes, one teaspoonful of grated onion, pepper, salt, milk, one egg, some breadcrumbs and fat for frying. Overnight I chop the ham very finely, and mash the potatoes free from lumps, then mix the potato with the ham, and onion, season and mix all these ingredients carefully, and add just enough milk to bind the mixture and prevent it crumbling. Next I divide the mixture into even-sized pieces, and shape these into round flat cakes. Brush each over with beaten egg, and then coat them with crumbs, and place them ready on a tin covered with paper, on which to drain them after frying. I put a deep pan of frying-fat all ready. In the morning I put the pan of fat on the fire to heat, and when a faint smoke rises from it I put in some of the cakes, and fry them a pretty golden brown—then I lift them from the fat, drain them on paper, and serve neatly arranged on a hot dish. Boiled lean bacon, tongue, cold meat or poultry can be used instead of ham. For Fish Croutons you want ¼ pound of cooked fish freed from bone, a tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a little fish stock or milk, one hard-boiled egg, two teaspoonfuls of anchovy essence, salt and pepper, and some slices of bread cut about ¼ of an inch thick. Overnight I chop the fish finely, melt the butter in a saucepan, stir in the flour smoothly, and add the milk, heat and stir this until the sauce boils. Then add the fish, shelled and chopped egg, anchovy essence and seasoning. If the mixture seems too dry add more liquid, for it should be stiff, yet creamy and leave the mixture in a pan in a cool place. I cut the bread into pieces about three inches long and one and a half wide, and lay these on a tin with about an ounce of bacon or beef dripping, in which they will be fried. In the morning I heat the mixture thoroughly, remembering that it is thick, and so will stick and burn if not stirred; heat the bacon fat in a frying-pan, and when a faint smoke rises from it lay in the bread, and fry it a pretty gold color. Then drain the pieces on paper, and neatly heap on them the hot fish mixture. Any fish, or mixture of fish, will do. If there is any suitable sauce, white or brown, ready, use it instead of making fresh. Toast can be used instead of fried bread.

UNIVERSITY GIRLS TRAINED IN ECONOMY

Being Taught Marketing and Cooking and How to Make Clothes Cheaply

The chief aim of the Home Economics department of the University of Omaha is to teach members of the class how to purchase food at the lowest possible price and to cook and bake in the most scientific manner. The girls are taught the principles of economic marketing, what foods are best fitted for the different classes of working people, and the chemical composition of the staple foods. These things must be learned before the young women take cooking practice.

The students are taken to groceries and taught how to pick out bargains. They are also taught how to find bargains in newspaper advertisements and how to watch these announcements.

Then comes the teaching of the art of cooking. At first they practise on soups and relishes. Later come the more difficult foods.

After that comes the scientific study of foods. Chemical composition and food value are studied thoroughly.

How to combat the high cost of living still further is taught. The pupils are shown how to use substitutes for the foods which reach prohibitive prices. Cooking of cheaper cuts of meat is carefully taught.

Not only are the pupils taught how to purchase and cook food; they are shown how to take care of a home in the most sanitary way. Under this head how to have plumbing arranged and how to dispose of garbage.

Very important, too, the girls are taught how to make their own clothes.

Women Man Barges

In Japan the big coal barges are manned by women, who remove the coal to the ships, and stand on the rungs of a ladder and pass the baskets to one another over their heads.

Tango Pedometers

Tango pedometers showing the mileage danced are now worn as garter ornaments at fashionable gatherings in Baltimore, Maryland. Fourteen miles was the distance which a young woman's pedometer showed after a recent dance.

Germany's colonies are five times as big as herself; those of France 18 times, and Great Britain 97 times bigger than herself.

Aged Woman Kills Burglar

A burglar in the act of rifling a safe at Vento, Holland, was shot dead by Mme. Deventer, a seventy-year-old woman, who, though seriously ill, rose from bed and fired at the man with a rifle.

Forgot Their Names

A woman who was asked at Clerkenwell County Court why two of her children bore the same Christian name, said that in registering the second one she forgot about the first's name.

Boy's Strange Mission

The body of John Thomson, fourteen, apprentice mason, was found at the bottom of the disused [illegible]baggan Quarry, seven miles north of Aberdeen. His overcoat and cap were found on the side of the road about 100 yards from the quarry. Inside the coat pocket was a slip of paper with the words, "I have fallen into the quarry." A gamekeeper and the police searched and discovered the body lying at the foot of a precipitous cliff.

Gallant Double Rescue

At Inverness a mother and child named Mackenzie were rescued from drowning in the River Ness. The child first fell into the water, and the mother immediately plunged in after it, both being carried away. Amidst great excitement two men, [illegible] MacMillan and John MacDonald, swam out to midstream, and brought them ashore in an exhausted condition.

Lost Life For Cap

Benjamin Owen, [illegible], living at [illegible] Vaughan, on [illegible], was walking along the [illegible] road towards home, when his cap was blown off his head by the strong wind, and it was [illegible] the river, which was in flood. Owen tried to recover the cap, and jumped into the river after it, but was carried away by the strong current and apparently drowned, for he was not seen again.

Rats Steal Bag of Gold

More than twelve months ago the manageress of a shop in High street, Maidstone, missed a bag containing gold, which she had deposited at a spot near the window. The following morning the bag had disappeared. Although the police were called in it could not be traced. Recently decorators were at work on the premises, and in a small hole under a board one of the men found the missing bag with the money intact. Apparently the bag had been dragged to the hole by rats.

Prehistoric Seaside Visitors

Fossil remains of prehistoric animals have been found on the beach at Clacton-on-Sea. They include two teeth, part of the backbone and the leg bones of an elephant, and the bones and antlers, of stags.

Hints for Bee-Keepers

Many a beekeeper has ordered some hive parts from a dealer in supplies, and received something that he did not want. A thorough knowledge of bee hive parts as well as their names is valuable.

The hive stand is the platform or foundation upon which the hive rests; this may be a brick at each corner, or several boards, or a specially made platform.

The hive body is the case that holds the combs of the hive proper.

The brood frames are the wooden frames in which the brood combs are built.

The follower board or division board is used beside the brood frames in the hive body to wedge over the brood frames and keep them snugly together.

The supper is the case holding the one pound sections or honey boxes. The section holders are little frames upon which the sections rest in the super.

The separators are thin slats placed between each row of sections in the super to prevent the bees from making one comb fat and another lean.

The starter is the piece of wax comb foundation and tin sections and frames to guide the bees in building the combs straight in them.

The honey board is used over the frames in winter, and also over the sections in summer, being always beneath the cover. All hives are not supplied with honey bonords.

The bee escape board is the honey board equipped with a little tin container or trap so that when placed beneath a super of finished honey the bees can pass through it but not return. Honey may thus be removed without using a bee smoker.

Brood foundation is beeswax rolled into sheets for use in the brood frames. It should not be used in the section honey boxes.

Surplus foundation is beeswax rolled into thin sheets for use in the sections only.

Lord Murray's Gifts

Since his return from abroad, Lord Murray of Elibank has made some additional gifts to the museum attached to the Chambers Institution, Peebles. The gifts are natural specimens secured during his travels in Ecuador, and include fifty rare humming birds, a magnificent specimen of the peculiar fire bird, some curious beetles, a beautiful specimen of the coral snake, and a well-preserved skin of an enormous python measuring [illegible] feet in length.

"Excess of Sport," declared Lord Methuen, in presenting badges to the members of the Rainsbury detachment of the Wiltshire National Reserve, "is going the right way to bring about compulsory service. We must recognise that as a nation we are in favor, I do not say wisely or unwisely, of a voluntary system. But it is no use thousands of young fellows wandering to football and cricket matches when they should be doing their duty, and gentlemen spending their time at golf who ought to be officers."

Mr. Miller Resigns Govt. Job.

Mr. F. W. Miller has formally tendered his resignation as Government Immigration Officer in Peterborough, to Mr. W. D. Scott, superintendent of the Immigration Department, at Ottawa. If accepted the resignation will come into effect at once, to allow Mr. Miller to commence his other duties as Relief Officers.

Local Man Branches Out.

Mr. P. Carroll of the National Hotel staff, has given another illustration that he is a practical and successful business man. Mr. Carroll's latest business transaction is to purchase the "Old Abe" Cigar Factory in London, Ont. Mr. Carrol will retain his position in the hotel temporarily and employ a manager to run his new factory.

Peterborough's Fine Horses.

Senator McHugh of Lindsay passed through the city yesterday morning en route to Ottawa. In conversation with a Times representative, the Senator remarked that Peterborough has more and better grey horses of the Percheron strain than any city of similar population he had ever visited. Whilst in the city Senator McHugh called upon Col. Stevenson, Crown Timber Agent.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL.

The New York Times of recent date contains a double column portrait of a former Peterborough girl. She is Miss Benda Taylor, daughter of the former manager of the Bank of Montreal here. Mr. Taylor succeeded Mr I. J. Lewis, father of Mrs. (Rev.) J. C. Davidson, it was subsequently knighted. Miss Taylor was the guest of Mrs. George J. Gould of New York when the portrait was issued.

Broken "Reach" Draws a Crowd.

Some little excitement was created yesterday morning in the private alley just east of the Wm. English Canoe Co. A large crowd quickly gathered, the later arrivals thinking, on seeing the nucleus of a crowd, that the creek had become plugged with ice. However, the only trouble was that the "reach" of a waggon loaded with bass-wood lumber had broken, thus stalling the rig.

Expensive Window Broken.

Yesterday a resident of Park street south of Charlotte street laid a complaint with the police. It seems that a number of boys have annoyed him by throwing tomatoes at his windows in the Summer and snow in the winter. The culmination of their misdeeds however, was reached on Monday night when a hole as big as a man's hand was broken in a big fancy window. On the verandah the owner of the house found two halves of a broken marble that had shattered his window.

An Interesting Lecture.

Rev. J. H. Rose, of Brantford last night gave a most interesting lecture in Murray Street Church on life saving. Mr. Rose had experience as a sailor before going to college, although he it still a young man. His experience in life-saving has been such as to put in his hands, a certificate signed by the present King himself. He also holds the medal of the Royal Humane Society for life-saving, and the golden penny, which is given away in England each year.

Local Bar Association.

The Peterborough Law Association held their annual meeting. The formation of a Canadian Bar Association was discussed and heartily endorsed by the local Association.

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows:

President—W. F. Johnston, Esq.
1st Vice-Pres.—R. R. Hall, Esq.
2nd Vice-Pres.—A. E. Dixon, Esq.
Secretary—E. L. Goodwill, Esq.
Treasurer—B. E. Hall, Esq.
Trustees—Messrs. G. N. Gordon and F. D. Kerr

A Lindsay Auto Device.

Mr. G. W. Hall has invented what would seem a valuable addition to automobiles. The invention, which is called the heated steering wheel, can be attached to any automobile, the steering wheel being heated by water or other cooling liquid, using anti-freezing fluids in winter. This fluid is poured in through the usual channels which the water passes to retain a uniform temperature of the mechanism of the car and through suitable piping and valves is connected with the water jacket. The warm water from the cooling system circulates through the steering wheel, which is hollow, and supplants the old wooden wheel by using aliminum or other suitable substance, thus keeping the wheel at a comfortable temperature and the hands warm on the coldest winter day.

First Authentic War Pictures.

There is a clever act on the Royal Theatre to-day. The act referred to is a comic song and dance act by Ames & Corbett. Their dancing is exceptionally good. To-night a set of some 15 slides, procured personally by the above team whilst playing at El Paso, just across the Rio Grande River, from Juarez, when one of the bloodiest battles of the present Mexican war was fought. Messrs. Ames & Corbett were personally introduced to Gen. Villa. These slides, taken right on the battle field and in the streets of Juarez, show a trial of Federal prisoners and their execution, the burial of bodies in trenches with the arm of an officer left sticking above the sod so that his body may be identified later, etc.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,[illegible] per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $8,349,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,688.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I. who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $300 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $[illegible],000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

ENGLAND'S PREMIER ASQUITH NOW UNCOVERS BIG SEELY MYSTERY

New Secretary for War Hears Personally From General Paget--Questions to Colonels

London, April 1.—The first act of Premier Asquith in his new capacity as Secretary of State for War was to clear up the mystery surrounding the instructions given by the War Office to Gen. Sir Arthur Paget, Commander-in-chief in Ireland.

Sir Arthur was summoned to London to give his chief a personal account of the orders he had received, and issued, and as a result of the conference Mr. Reginald McKenna, the Home Secretary, who is acting as leader of the House, was able to inform the Commons to-day that:

To Subordinates.

"The only question General Paget put or intended to put to the commanding officers in Ireland was whether they were ready to put their duty before any other considerations. It was not his intention that this question should be put by the general officers to their subordinates.

"General Paget informed the general officers of the promise given by the Secretary of War too officers whose homes were in Ulster to permit them to withdraw temporarily from their regiments in the event of operations becoming necessary in Ulster, and he requested the general officers to find out immediately the number of officers who would withdraw on this account.

Would Mean Dismissal.

"The Irish Commander-in-Chief was asked if any officer who could not claim this exemption would be allowed to resign and replied that the result of any refusal to do their duty would only mean their dismissal from the army."

Sir Edward Grey, appearing in the House of Commons yesterday as spokesman for the Government on the second reading of the Home Rule Bill, showed that the Cabinet was in a conciliatory mood. He made two propositions to the Unionist party. The first offer was the promise of an early general election if the Opposition would allow the Plural Voting Bill, as well as the Home Rule and Welsh Disestablishment Bills to go through before the end of the present session.

Regarded as Preposterous.

This is regarded by the Unionists as preposterous, as the enactment of the plural voting bill is just the very thing the Liberals want to insure their continued ascendancy in power. Sir Edward Grey's other offer was far more interesting and, in the opinion of the Unionists, much more satisfactory. He said: "If the certainty of a Federal solution within the six years of exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the Home Rule Bill would ease the situation, I see no reason why that should not be arranged by discussion."

Ulster Her Own Master.

This means that Ulster could secure her own separate government, and most of the speakers from either side of the House supported the possibility of a Federal scheme being worked out in the six years during which the option to the Ulster counties would be operative.

FOR THE LEGISLATURE

It is common talk on the street that Mayor Buller's name will be submitted to the convention which will be called to choose a candidate for the Local House, by a large and influential body of electors.

IMMIGRATION BARRIER IS NOW EXTENDED FOR SIX MONTHS

Government Expected to Sign Order To-day to Keep Out Undesirable Aliens

Ottawa, April 1.—It is understood that the Government to-day decided to extend for another six months the order-in-Council prohibiting the entrance of all artisans and laborers into British Columbia ports.

The present order-in-council, which was passed in December, extended only until March 31 and so expired yesterday. The new order was to be signed to-day. The order, while originally designed to prevent an influx of Orientals into British Columbia, affects immigrants of all nations and is applicable to newcomers from American ports as well as from abroad. The regulation cannot thus be interpreted by Asiatic nations as discrimination against them.

What Will Other People Say?

In the meantime the Government will take into consideration the whole question of Oriental immigration with a view to formulating a policy satisfactory not only to British Columbia and Canada generally, but to the various nations affected as well. Premier McBride, on his recent visit to Ottawa, had a conference with Premier Borden and Hon. Dr. Roche Minister of Interior, and laid before them the views of British Columbia on the subject. Sir Richard is strongly in favor of total exclusion, but is equally emphatic in pointing out that to avoid any offence to other nations and takes this attitude only on the ground of the necessity of preserving Canadian national life.

CROWDS GAZE AT WOMAN HANGING

She Swung Out of a Window With Noose Around Neck— Rescued.

Boston, April 1.—While hundreds gazed helplessly, Mrs. Leslie Galbraith 23, swung for several minutes by a noose around her neck from the third storey window of her room in the Littlefield block, on Sutton and Essex streets, directly opposite the Lynn police station, yesterday.

Apparently despondent, Mrs. Galbraith, who lived recently with her mother at 600 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, and who was convicted recently of stealing a petticoat valued at $10 from a former mistress in Swampscott, took the rope fire escape in the room she had hired and tied its end about her totost. Then he crawled over the window ledge and dropped. Her body swung too and fro a foot below the sill.

A passer-by saw her hanging from the window. He dashed into the station, and while home-bound workers jammed Sutton street four patrolmen broke into Mrs. Galbraith's room and pulled her up. She was sent to the Lynn Hospital, where she was revived, as the noose had failed to close on her neck, and then taken to the police station.

Later in the evening, escaping her guards for a moment, Mrs. Galbraith seized a tin dipper, tore off a part of it and tried to cut her throat. She was prevented just in time by the guard. She is now being held for observation.

REPEAL MAJORITY 85; SENATE GETS IT TO-DAY

Supporter of President Wilson Says He Found Possible Majority There of Sixteen.

Washington, April 1.—Gratified over the success of the Panama tolls exemption repeal in the House, President Wilson and his supporters turned their attention to-day to the senate.

The latest poll brought to the White House by an administration Senator who canvassed his colleagues and excluded from his count those he considered doubtful, indicated that the President's contention would have a majority of at least sixteen—Republicans as well as Democrats.

The President had no comment to make on the result in the House but let it be known that he had no ill feeling over those, expressing their convictions, opposed the repeal. There was no comment made on the speech of Speaker Clark.

The corrected count of the vote in the House yesterday, repealing the exemption clause, as announced in the Congressional Record to-day, is 247 for the repeal and 162 against it—a majority of 85 for the Administration. The count as announced last night was 161 votes against it.

BOY THREE DAYS IN REFRIGERATOR CAR OUT OF REACH OF THE FRUIT

Travelled From Florida to New Jersey, Starving and Thirsting for Things He Could Only See.

Cranford, N.J., April 1.—Benjamin Wickham, 14 years old, told in court to-day of his experience of three days locked in a refrigerator car filled with fruit that he could see through a grating, but could not reach.

The boy lived in New York City, where his uncle, Charles Wickham, still resides, but a year ago his parents moved to Florida. He said he longed to be back in New York, and had climbed into a refrigerator car in Jacksonville, Fla., and started north. The doors were locked and sealed upon him.

He tried to get to the fruit, but found that it was locked in compartments where it would be cooled by ice on the trip north. In that manner he starved and thirsted for the juicy fruit for three days until the car was opened near here and he was found. His uncle was notified and he came and got the boy.

HIGH WATER MARK IS REACHED IN THE DOMINION'S TRADE

Two Hundred Millions Over the Billions Shown for Last Twelvemonth--Experts Aid New Record

Ottawa, April 1.—Mid-night saw the close of the Dominion's fiscal year and despite the financial depression. Hon. W. T. White, when he brings down his budget speech on Monday will be able to announce a record year. The trade figures have not yet been tabulated for the twelve months, but they are estimated to total nearly a billion, two hundred million dollars, an advance for the year of a hundred million dollars.

The total trade for the twelve months ending February was $1,125,833,000. Trade for March will likely total some $75,000,000, bringing the grand total up to two hundred millions over the billion mark, easily the high water mark for Canada.

Marked Increase in Exports.

The feature of Canada's trade for the past year has been the enormous increase in exports. With domestic business somewhat slackened, the manufacturers of Canada have appartion to foreign trade. The imports for the year have shown a decrease ently successfully turned their attenso that there are signs of a disappearance of the unfavorable balance of trade which was a striking feature of Canadian trade during the years of the Laurier regime.

Nearly Half a Billion.

The exports for the twelve months ending February were $43 an increase of over ninety million dollars for the year. The balance of trade is still very high, the imports at the end of February totalling $649,958,000, a decrease of some twenty millions.

The revenue for the fiscal year will total around $160,000,000. The expenditures an consolidated account run around $112,000,000, while on capital account, due largely to the railway subsidies of last year, they will total some fifty millions more.

SHOW GIRLS COME TO NEW YORK TO CONQUER MEN

New York, April 1.—Three English showgirls on the Lusitania, which arrived today, made the voyage a merry one. They are Emmy Wilson, Enid Sellars and Ella Lavail. They are here on a lark.

"We are sick and tired of the English Johnnies and thought we would come over here," they chorused. 'Perhaps we might be able to catch an American millionaire. Our English lads have been coming over here and catching American girls worth millions and why shouldn't we try our hands for the millions?

"This afternoon we will take a street car over to Niagara Falls and possibly we will ride over to Chicago. We will have a week or so here and we will visit San Francisco and New Orleans."

When informed that this is a country of vast distances and that it would be impossible for them to carry out their programme in a fortnight, the showgirls were greatly surprised. They thought New York was the United States and that Chicago and the Niagara Falls and the other places were suburbs.

Sincere regret is felt in South Tipperary at the death of Mrs. James Cleary, J.P., Ballinahinch, Cashel. Kerry.

Brown reported that he saw a sufficient number of deer and moose carcases to fill a freight car. At various trappers camps he seized raw beaver skins worth more than a thousand dollars while about a dozen trappers were fined at Sioux Lookout and beaver skins were confiscated.

EXODUS OF WHITE MEN FROM S. AFRICA

Capetown, April 1.—White men, principally British, are leaving South Africa to try their fortunes in other British Dominions. Information that thousands of whites emigrated from Cape ports between July and December last is contained in a blue-book just presented to the South African Parliament, and on this it is believed, is based the statement made by General Smuts, in connection with labor agitators, that their action had resulted in the recent departure of thousands of workers. He feared that the cherished white ideal had been shattered.

According to information received by a Standard representative at the offices of steamship companies, the emigrants from South Africa have found sanctuary in Australia and Canada.

ASK $2,250,000 FOR A HARBOR AT ST. CROIX

Ottawa, April 1.—An appropriation of no less than two and a quarter million dollars to build a harbor at St. Croix, N.B. was asked from Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, by a deputation from New Brunswick which waited on him this morning.

Last fall A. D. Swan, a well known Montreal engineer, was asked to report on the possibilities of the harbor and his report has now been made. It was on the strength of this report which was very favorable, that the deputation waited on the Minister today and asked for an appropriation. His report is that there is a magnificent natural harbor which only needs sufficient development. His recommendation was pressed upon the Minister, whi that wharf areas, railway terminals, road and freight handling facilities should be designed.

The size of the demand rather took away the breath of the Minister of Public Works accustomed even as he is to deal in millions. However he promised consideration.

MILITANTS WILLING TO DIE OF HUNGER

New York, April 1.—All the women are willing to die, We are fighting with our lives.

These statements characterized the defence of militant suffrage methods in England by Miss Dorothy Pethick sister of Mrs Pethick-Lawrence and follower of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, at a meeting here of the equal Franchise Society. In answer to a question as to what the British Government could do to the women whom they imprisoned Miss Pethick replied: Let them die. Then she added that she was never so happy in her life as when she thought she had been so reduced by forcible feeding that the end appeared near. Continuing Miss Pethick told of the first woman who undertook a hunger strike and existed until the doctor said that he would not be responsible an hour longer for her life, and told of her own hunger strike.

Miss Margaret Hodge who is with Miss Pethick, also made an address. The women are going to oppose Mr Asquith in his coming fight for election, she said.

GENERAL VILLA COMPELS FOE TO URGE PROMPT ARMISTICE

Federal Chief in Torreon Asks Three-hour Truce and the Officers Surrender

Eagle Pass, Tex., April 1.—Despatches from the United States Consul at Durango, forwarded to Washington via this city are reported today to announce that the Federal Commander at Torreon has offered to surrender to General Villa, that a truce has been granted and that the Federals and Constitutionalist commanders have met and are to-day arranging terms of capitulation.

Three-Hour Armistice.

Gen. Vlasco, it is said, first called for a three hour armistice and offered to surrender the town if the garrison could march out with honors of war, and if Villa would parole the officers and guarantee not to kill the volunteers, as he had threatened. The despatch announcing the truce and offer of surrender has been forwarded to Washington.

United States Consul Blocher, at Piedras Negras, refused to reveal the contents of the despatch from Durango, but admitted the message had been received and forwarded to Secretary of State Bryan.

According to information from authentic sources, Gen. Villa had taken the railroad station in Torreon, and for the past few days has been working his way from house to house toward the centre of the city.

OTTAWA WANTS TOLLS RESULT

Fisheries Treaty Four Years in the Pigeon Hole, Grows More Dusty.

Ottawa, April 1.—Word has been received that the Fisheries Treaty between Canada and the United States which is awaiting the approval of the American authorities will not be disposed of until the Panama Canal tolls question is settled. It is believed that the same influences which are opposing the one are blocking the other. If the repeal of the Panama tolls is accomplished, what now seems certain, the Fisheries Treaty will likely be ratified. As Canada has already waited some four years for the signature to the Treaty of the United States Government, a few weeks more will make a little difference.

Mrs. Belmont declared that she now has only about $1000 left of a lump sum of $20,000 and other [illegible] her husband had given her before her marriage. She said she had received only $50 from him since the wedding.

BIG LOCAL DEPUTATION WAITS ON HON. MR. FOY AT TORONTO

Toronto, April 1.—A big deputation representing Hydro-Electric Radial advocates throughout all old Ontario waited upon the Cabinet of the Ontario Government at noon to-day, to urge upon them the necessity for quick development and extension of the proposed Hydro-Electric Radial scheme as endorsed by the Government during the session of 1913.

At the same time a memorial from the representatives of interested municipalities was submitted to Hon. J. J. Foy, acting Premier.

The delegation believed that under the Waterways Treaty Canada was entitled to develop more power by a more advantageous location of the power plants. It is estimated that the same water now used could develop 226,000 horse-power. The Government promised consideration on this point.

The deputation asked: 1. That permission be given to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to proceed at once with the industrial development of the power at the spillway of the new Welland Canal and other points.

2. That the Government pass legislation guaranteeing bonds to be issued for construction of radial roads.

3. That the Government pass legislation authorizing bonds for such radial roads to be for a period of fifty years.

4. That your Government pass legislation authorizing the Hydro-Electric Commission to divide the Province into electrical zones.

The deputation was introduced by J. K. Lyon, President of the Hydro-Electric Radial Union of Ontario.

Among the other speakers who pressed the demands of the Union were: Mayor Graham, of London; Alderman Hannigan, of Guelph; D. W. Gordon, of Belleville, and Mayor Buller of Peterborough.

Mary Kelso, a single woman, has died at Acton, aged 102 years, having lived all her life in the house where she was born.

Everybody Has a Day.

A Times' man overheard the following conversation between two little girls:

"When I get to be a big lady," said one of them, "I'm going to have a day."

"What kind of a day?" asked the second.

"Why, don't you know? All society ladies has days. It's when you have company, or do somethin' nice. Mamma's day is Wednesday, an' the hired girl's day is Thursday, an' the Lord's day is Sunday." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WILL PRESENT $150,000 STATUE TO BOSTON

Boston, April 1.—A large bronze statue of the late President Sarmiento of the Argentine Republic, costing between $100,000 and $150,000 will be presented to the city of Boston and placed in front of the Public Library at Copley square. Mayor Curley announced yesterday in discussing an interview with Dr. Ronaldo S. Naon, minister from Argentine, at Washington last Sunday, during the mayor's visit to that city.

The mayor also announced that he had learned from other sources that the Argentine Republic might build another battleship at the Fore River Ship yards at a cost of $11,000,000 to $13,000,000 a duplicate of the Rivadia.

For some weeks Minister Naon told the mayor every time he met him that his country wished to present to the United States, and preferably Boston, something to mark the friendship which exists between the two republics.

WOOD BLOCK CURLING.

Few Early Exponents of the "Roarin' Game" Had Real "Stanes."

In an article on curling in Canada in The Canadian Courier, A. W. Curran harks back to the days when wooden blocks were used.

There were very few stones in Canada before the sixties; though the Governor-General and the officials at Ottawa played with the granites.

The blocks were hardwood, larger at the bottom than the top. They weighed about four or five pounds, and slipped along the ice quite easily. The handle was made of any old piece of iron that could be found.

It was a great event in the different towns when the first pair of stones arrived. The owner would, without exception, want to play his forty pound rocks against the five pound blocks. One game was usually sufficient, as the rocks would clear the rink of blocks as though they were pebbles on the ice. After that, of course, everyone had to "dig down" and buy a pair of "Ailsa Craigs"; and as the players in those ancient days were all just fresh "frae old Scotia" it caused quite a tugging at the heart-strings when they parted with the wherewithal.

A pair of curling stones in those days were as highly valued as a house and lot, for the simple reason that if you lost them you had to wait for a pair to come from the old land—certainly not for their intrinsic value. If, perchance, a stone was broken then the man who broke it had to pay for it. That was one of the stringent rules of the game; and force of public opinion made it a good rule to observe.

They tell a story in a town of the north country of a prominent man, who had lost thousands of dollars speculating without a whimper. One day, in a close, hard game, an opponent, playing a running shot, broke his stone. That man raised more row about that old curling stone in five minutes than he ever had about losing thousands of dollars. It took him months to get over it. It was the only time his friends had ever seen him really upset.

In connection with the importation of the first stones into the town of Orillia, back in 1873, there is a rather good story. Stonewall Jackson, a braw Scot, was the proud owner of the first pair of stones—exact replicas of the pair used by the Governor-General. He tried to use his stones against the blocks, and, as happened in other places, the blocks were knocked all over the ring. So, the following year, the other members had to get stones.

It so happened that one day on soft ice Stonewall took a running shot, which "wabbled," and hitting the shot on the edge, a piece was chipped out of his stone. Of course, no one was to blame but Stonewall himself. So, as nobody was buying him a new pair, he had the stone with the piece out of the side cut down to about half-size—the stones at that time were flat, regular pancakes, and wide. After that, whenever Stonewall had a narrow port to run he would use his small stone, which was a great advantage, as it would go through a hole half the size the regular stone would require, and saved many games for him, 'tis said.

There is a decided difference between the stones used then and those in vogue now. They were flat, less than three inches high, and wide, about eighteen inches across. They sat very low on the ice and caught all the dirt in sight; consequently luck was a greater factor in their game. In fact, the game in those days was not the scientific game that is played to-day. It was more of a roarin' game—but so were the times. Now, it is a science, and must be practiced and played for years before a man can hope to play really well.

The old-timers never played anything but the inturn, and the stones drew very little anyhow. They sometimes tried the straight handle, but the stone usually ended up with one turn or the other, dirt on the ice doing the trick.

Now, the out-turn is played nearly as often as the in, and the modern stones draw as much as ten feet on modern ice. The stones are so shaped that they brush aside almost any dirt, and so a great element of chance is eliminated.

One change significant of the times, to which to a more or less extent is due the change in the tone of the sport, is the absence of whisky. In the fifties, and thereafter for forty years, no curling game was complete without a "guid old cutter of whisky"—guid old rye. As the "skey" has disappeared, so the boisterousness has faded away. However, the games, in those times, were much more interesting to the spectator, and goodly crowds gathered to see the curlers make merry. After every game three cheers was given all round and a tiger for good measure. It wouldn't hurt the game a whit to have this feature reinstituted. It is in keeping with the spirit of the game.

However, those were the good old days, when the men worked for their fun and over their fun, and, as we said before, the game is pretty well indicative of the trend of the times, more scientific now, but not nearly so physically strenuous.

The Natural Park Man.

Howard Douglas, Edmonton, has been giving interviews down in Spokane, Washington. He's the natural park man who works for the Dominion Government. During fifteen years Douglas has managed eight national parks in Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. He was the first superintendent of the Banff Park, the first reservation of its kind in Canada.

Douglas is going to be superintendent of still another park. Up in the Yellowhead Pass through the Rocky Mountains, there are 4,500 square miles of hotsprings and scenery. This is Jasper Park—and Howard Douglas has commenced opening it up.

AIRSHIP FLEETS TERRORS OF SEA

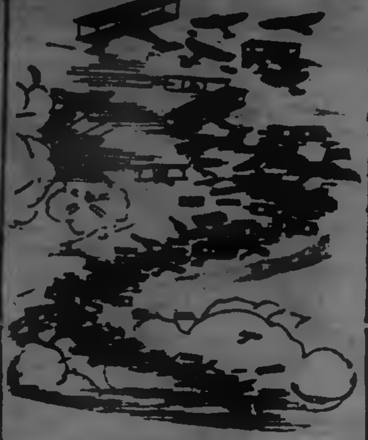
[illegible] Cloud of Death-dealing Flyers Pitted Against Warships in Future Battles

The flying machine is the greatest [illegible] of the men who go down to the sea in $15,000,000 floating forts. The fact is that the navies of the world are feverishly trying, on the one hand, to find a way to avoid the bird machines and, on the other hand, building as many war aeroplanes as they can.

In considering the effect of an aeroplane in battle, too many people are apt to pit a single 'plane against a battleship. How easy to put one or two or half a dozen flyers out of business! But navy men have not fallen into this error. They know it would be just as foolish for a naval commander to send one aeroplane against a battleship as it would be for a military commander to send one machine gun against a brigade of troops. They know that their problem figures out about as follows:

A battleships costs from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000; it carries a crew of 1,000 men. An aeroplane costs from $7,000 to $10,000, carries not more than two men. Therefore, to be sure of success against the battleship, the proper tactics would be to send a fleet of from 25 to 100 aeroplanes, or even 200, into the fight.

Suppose there were 100 in a fleet and fifty of them would be destroyed and their crews drowned. In men the loss would be 100 lives, in money less than a million. But there is little chance that the battleship would escape. So the count against the airship loss would be the destruction of a $15,000,000 battleship and the loss of 1,000 lives. It would take at least a year to build another battleship while the loss of the 50 aeroplanes would be replaced in a month or two.



A Deadly Swarm

The aeroplane would be the hardest sort of a mark to hit from the deck of a rolling ship. But how about hitting 100 aeroplanes?

The protection afforded the ship by its deck armor would not be very great in a rain of high explosives such as a fleet of aeroplanes could drop on it. In a trial in Paris, France, an army officer demonstrated a device which shoots as accurately from an aeroplane as the big guns of a warship shoot—70 per cent. of hits.

Now suppose we send a fleet of 100 air craft against a battleship and each ship drops two bombs with 70 per cent. of hits. That is 100 bombs out of 200 landing. One would be enough to wreck the ship. So we can readily believe that these little craft that carry but two men and cost so little will become the terror of sea fighting.

Safety in Sounds

The latest type of safe has no locks, keys, or key-holes. Instead, there is a tightly-stretched wire, which responds to its own musical note. The wire is connected with an electric battery inside the safe, and to open one must sound a tuning-fork, or a note on bugle, organ, or trumpet, in precisely the same way as the wire. When the note is sounded the sensitive wire vibrates, and turns on the current which operates the locking mechanism.

Three wires are used in some instances, necessitating, of course, three trumpet blasts in different keys before the mechanism will work.

The obvious danger to this apparatus is, of course, that one of the wires might get out of tune, in which case the safe would remain snugly locked until the right key was struck.

The Fish Harvest

Sixty-two varieties of fish, including great white flat fish, red shell fish, tiny freshwater crayfish, silvery salmon, dark-skinned eels, and yellow dried haddocks were ranged in the the aisle of the Church of St. Magnus the Martyr, Billingsgate, E.C., at a harvest thanksgiving service.

Persons with blue eyes are rarely affected by color blindness.

A table of weights and measures typewritten and framed under glass should hang in every kitchen.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and having two, [illegible] it is a pear shape, [illegible] have the eggs, which are only [illegible] ed together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, feeding itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. [illegible] has made the discovery to free the victim of this [illegible] without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, has a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. [illegible]'s world-famous Tape Worm [illegible] is safe, sure and harmless. [illegible] dangerous, is not disagreeable to take. One dose [illegible] a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope [illegible] Postoffice [illegible], or call at 207 [illegible] street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

SANOL BLOOD BUILDER has proved a boon to mankind. The tired worn out mother in the home, with her daily round of domestic and social cares, the head of the family in office or workshop, the growing girl or boy during schooling period, at times need a body building medicine. Sanol Blood Builder supplies the blood with and incorporates into the organism of the human body that which it absolutely needs, the good results are marked and rapid.

Sanol Blood Builder, if taken according to the directions will stop the waste of the body, brighten the appetite, strengthen the system, rebuild the blood corpuscles, improve the complexion, brace the muscles and calm the brain.

WASHING WOOLLEN COATS

"Fixed to no spot is happiness sincere,
'Tis nowhere to be found, or everywhere,
'Tis never to be bought but always free."
—Pope.

Everyone nowadays has a woollen or sweater coat. It is rather curious when one realises what an indispensable item they have become to the ordinary wardrobe to remember that it is only a few years since they came into vogue, but ever since they first made their appearance they, like the coat and skirt costume and the blouse and shirtwaist, have remained with us, and are likely to remain with us. If these coats are light colored the problem of washing them is a matter which often causes some anxiety, as they are apt to emerge from the soapsuds in an unwearable condition. However it is a consolation to know that even the most delicate of them can be washed in such a way as to restore their original freshness if care is taken. First of all outdoor drying is essential, and a good breezy day should be chosen so that the coat will dry as quickly as possible. In this frosty weather they can only be left out a short time, and when brought in be very careful not to put them near the radiators as they will inevitably shrink. For the actual washing procure one ounce of lump ammonia, a packet of flaked soap and a quarter of a pound of powdered borax, and if possible use rainwater. If the coat be a new one it should first of all be steeped for half an hour in lukewarm water, to which a large pinch of salt as well as the ammonia has been added. This will take out the dressing which is always found in new woollen garments. Use very little water for this; only enough to cover the coat and no more, otherwise the dressing will make the dirt go into streaks when the coat is put into the soapsuds. While the coat is steeping mix the soap to a lather with boiling water taking care that it is all dissolved and then fill a large bath-tub with hot water and add the powdered borax to it. Then wring the coat gently from the steeping water and plunge it into the soapsuds, where it must be squeezed and pressed and kneaded, but not rubbed, until every atom of dirt is out of it. Often two lots of soapy water are required for this process, and two lots of soft warm rinsing water must be used to entirely free the coat from soap, otherwise it will shrink. A tablespoonful of vinegar added to the last rinsing water will brighten the colors. Having squeezed as much water out as possible, shake the coat thoroughly, pull the seams into shape, place it on a coat hanger, button it up and [illegible] by the hook to the clothes line, occasionally squeezing the [illegible] of the hem as it [illegible]. A news item says a Pittsburg pastor advertised his church services on the sporting page of the daily newspapers and next morning faced a congregation that packed the building. SHALL MARRIED WOMEN VOTE?

There are three bills before the Ontario Legislature aiming to extend to married women the privilege of the municipal franchise. At present, if an unmarried woman or a widow owns a piece of real estate she has the right to vote at municipal elections, but if in the order of Providence she should take unto herself a husband she automatically forfeits that right. The property still stands in her name, but she cannot vote upon it. However, to make amends for this, the law in its wisdom, allows the husband to vote upon the property, although legally he has not one dollar's interest in it. But it is now proposed that the woman herself shall have the right to vote upon her own property. We cannot say whether this great privilege will be granted our sisters at this session of the legislature, but in the discussion in the legislature last week we understand there was not a dissenting voice. Probably the legislature will at least go this far, and cease to discriminate against any woman who is fortunate, or unfortunate, enough to be married.

BAITING ULSTER

Canadian Liberal newspapers are urging, that the situation in Ulster should be discussed with whispering humbleness. It is, however, only since the danger of civil war in Ulster became acute that they have become so discreet and moderate, says The News. They drove to the very gates with Redmond and Asquith and treated the protests of Belfast with scoffing and contempt.

For years Home Rule agitators have denounced the Protestants of Ulster as braggarts and bullies. The provisional army was described as people with tin swords, with rifles a century old, with exploded ammunition and moth-eaten uniforms. British Liberals were told that the whole of Canada was in favor of a separate Legislature for Ireland, and that all the blessings of peace and unity would follow upon the coercion of Ulster Protestants.

Now when it is clear that they did not understand Ulster; now when they realize that the people of the North of Ireland never will submit to a Dublin Parliament, they are urging peace and preaching conciliation. But they are always careful to insist upon the submission of Ulster and upon the virtue of coercion as a remedy for Ulster's grievances.

By misrepresenting the feeling of Canada these newspapers are largely responsible for the inflammable situation which now exists in Ireland. They did what they could to throw the Dominion into the scale against Ulster. They have been faithful allies of the elements in Canada which desire the humiliation of Ulster as greatly as do the Irish Nationalists upon whom Mr. Asquith depends for continuance in office.

Constipation — Perhaps there is no subject of such universally personal interest as this, but about which so many are in complete ignorance. There is perhaps no condition that is the foundation, cause or starting point of more sickness, suffering and disease than constipation and yet so few parents teach their children the importance of daily evacuation of the waste matter of the bowels. I have many times been simply dumfounded by the appalling ignorance of such an obvious condition, adults who have told me with apparent unconcern of having a movement of the bowels only once per week, of children who go from 3 to 5 days without relief, and yet they wonder why they are ill.

If the diet and daily habits are normal there will be a natural and normal movement of the bowels daily. You perhaps noticed that I said 'habits' as well as diet. If the bowels are given an opportunity to move at a certain hour daily a habit will be formed that becomes perfectly natural and nature will seldom fail to do her duty. With such a habit formed, or even in the process of formation the constipated sufferer should for the time being drink daily, for 2 or 3 days, two ounces of cold water every half hour and once daily, either at noon or the evening meal, eat a vegetable salad, preferably of raw, chopped cabbage, over which has been poured 2 tablespoonfuls of olive oil and the juice of half a lemon, salt and red pepper to taste. This should be eaten with teaspoon in order to get all of the oil. In taking the 2 ounces of water every half hour there is more virtue than at first apparent, try it.

Not long ago I had the pleasure of serving at my table a woman who looked to be perhaps 55 or 60 years of age. From the way she talked of her children and grandchildren I judged she must be at least 70 years old. In serving her plate she requested me to please remove about one half the portion I had placed upon it. She ate with an apparent relish and seemed to enjoy her food thoroughly, but she ate only of two or three articles of food. The small quantity was commented upon and the habit of over-eating discussed. She then told me that she had been taught certain habits by her mother, an English woman, that she had never eaten pickles, spices, condiments sauces, or preserves of any kind, very little cake or pie, no cheese, but little bread or meat. Most important of all, however she said that she had never known such a thing as a headache, backache or constipation, was never sick and never had a cold or sore throat. She works hard six days per week about 9 hours daily for which she receives $2.00 per day. She is quite contented and happy. Now, why cannot all reasoning human beings use the same practical common sense and be temperate, eat only what is required and not gormandize; chew the food thoroughly instead of bolting it and thus lay the foundation for a peaceful, healthy and contented old age?

If your habits are not right and you suffer, the Home Health Club is here to help you and we will gladly do it if you will write and tell us of the trouble.

CLUB NOTES.

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, 5039 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago. Send full name and address with 4 cents postage.

Dear Doctor :—I am one of your readers and would like to ask some questions. 1. A great many people have told me that it is necessary to have a basin of water always on the stove in a living room or school room I have maintained that dry air is healthier than damp and that it is injurious to have too much water vapour in air. Am I right? 2. I have been troubled quite frequently by cramps in my right leg and arm. What is the cause of these and what could be done to prevent them?

I would be pleased to receive some information in regard to your Club books as to cost, etc.

H. E. M.

Regarding air humidity I think you are mistaken if you mean that air absolutely devoid of water is healthier than damp air. We never can have too much moisture in our air, except in certain parts of the torrid zone during the rainy season. Nature intended that the air be moist as analyses of ordinary outdoor air will show. Outdoor air always contains a certain percentage of moisture of water which is mixed with the air in a physical way, not a chemical. Dry air devoid of water takes up moisture in the lining of our noses, throats, bronchial tubes and lung alveoli. These parts are all bathed in moisture a small part of which is excreted and the balance is left there by the air we breath. The moisture accumulating on the surface of the different parts takes up the dust, germs and other particles and in our coughing, blowing of our noses these are expelled. You can readily see that if there was no moisture in the air our noses and throats and lungs would become coated with dust and germs and other particles and the germs especially would very readily gain entrance to the body, therefore, an inference of nature's intention is that the moisture in the air will aid us in keeping clean our breathing passages. If you were to be confined to a room with dry air absolutely devoid of moisture, in half an hour or less you would find your nose, throat and lungs so uncomfortable that you would plead for release. The vocal cords would become so dry that ordinary talking would be absolutely impossible.

If you have in mind the difference between climates ordinarily called dry or moist, you deal with a different subject because the difference between dry and moist climate simply means the difference in moisture, the dry climate having a certain percentage of moisture at all times, never being devoid of any water.

Regarding the second question in your letter, the cramps in the leg and arm, it is rather difficult to diagnose the condition from the description. You simply said that you had cramps in the right leg and arm. I will ask you to make a more detailed description of the pain, when it comes on, whether it is after excessive exertion or in the night and whether or not you have ever been troubled with Rheumatism. The books of the Home Health Club deal in subjects such as you have inquired about and will furnish you information on all matters of health. The circular sent you will tell about them.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

MOVING PICTURE SHOW.

Editor Morning Times.

In all cases moving picture houses should be compelled to have side exits the same as theatres for the protection of the public. It is often stated that the operating rooms are fireproof. They are so long as the doors are kept closed, but if the cabinet was on fire the operator is only human and would want to save his life. There are so many picture houses with exits at the ends of the buildings and the ceilings so low that the house would fill with smoke so quickly that half the people would be suffocated or burned to death in case of fire before they could get out.

These are things that corporations should look into before granting a license. It is too late after a number of human lives are sacrificed. At the present time parties can rent a store and start a picture show in the centre of a block without any precautions as to the safety of the people that attend these places. Not so with a theatre. They have to have an alley way on each side and fire escapes on each side with doors opening outward with light over each door both on the inside and outside. They have to have all these things according to Government orders before they can get a license and where there is not anything like the danger there is in moving picture shows.

CANADA GETS CREAM OF THE IMMIGRATION

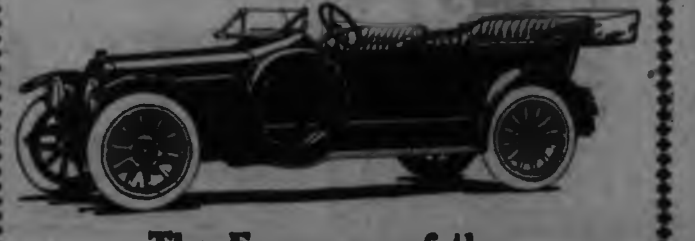
Back from a winter's campaign work in Britain, Mr. Thomas Howell, Commissioner of Immigration for the Canadian Northern Railway, considers that Canada is getting the cream and Australia the milk, of the seasons' immigration from the old country.

The Dominion seeks for the experienced agricultural workers and domestics, while the Government-assisted passages to the Commonwealth result in the transit of many of the poorer classes.

Provided a reasonable good season is experienced this year, Mr. Howell looks for figures to outstrip all records next year, and states that the immigration figures for this year compare well with those of 1913.

The Hudson Six-54, $2950

(f.o.b. Detroit, Mich., Duty Paid)



The Economy of the

HUDSON Six

In an automobile motor with 300 cubic inches combustion space (used merely as an example) to divide it into four cylinders, means 75 cubic inches to each cylinder. To divide it into six means 50 cubic inches to each cylinder. Yet the TOTAL remains the same. Hence the fact that a Six can burn no more gasoline than a four of equal power. The smooth running of the Six means tire saving. It isn't mileage that wears tires excessively—it's jerks, jars, slips and slides. The HUDSON Six moves smoothly with no vibration. You save gasoline, oil, tires, and general upkeep when you drive a HUDSON Six. We have proved this in public contests against the best Fours built.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realize its great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheel-base, motor 4½ x 5½, developing 55 horse power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4050. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3½x5, developing 47 horse power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $2350, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted, left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. Catalog on request. Demonstrations as arranged. Prices f. o. b. Detroit, Mich. Duty paid.

Is a Daughter Ungrateful If She Seeks Independence?

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service.

Winifred Black

FATHER'S worried about daughter. Daughter's been home from college for a year now. She had a fine time decorating her room. She hung pennants on the wall and souvenirs on the window curtains and dance programs on the bureau; she organized a college club, and took a school in cookery in what she called the slums.

She did neighborhood work and brought home nice young mechanics with work-worn hands to dinner, and the mechanics were bored to death—and so was everybody else.

Then she took up the Montessori system and dogged all her friends into nervous prostration asking them to send their children to her to be taught to do things "spontaneously."

Now she's interested in the study of ancient sign languages and everybody has to know what she means when she crooks her finger this way or doubles up her fist—like that.

But that isn't the worst of it. Daughter wants a studio.

A room won't do, not any kind of a room; it must be a studio, in a loft somewhere, preferably; and she wants a gas stove in a corner somewhere behind a curtain, and she thinks that she ought to have some of those perfectly dear casts that hang on the wall, and a stand of armor to put by the door.

His "Normal" Children.

What does she want to do in her studio? Oh, she wants to live her life. She's always talking about living her life, is daughter; as if she could live anything but her life, no matter how hard she tried.

And she says she can't possibly live her life at home. The atmosphere isn't right.

And poor father is worried to death. Sometimes he's so worried that he's glum and other times he's so worried that nobody dares speak to him, for fear of being snapped at quite in the fashion of old Towser.

He says daughter is ungrateful; here he's spent thousands of dollars on her education, and built a beautiful home to keep her in, and now what's the use of it all. He wishes, he says, that she couldn't read and write, for his part, and who on earth will want to marry a girl with such a lot of fads?

Father has another daughter. She's married. She's been married over a year.

Dear, dear, what a wedding there was; flowers and music and bridesmaids and maids of honor and a caterer and a veil and an orchid bouquet—and mother weeping in the chancel and father looking dignified at the rail—oh, really, the smartest sort of things in weddings.

The groom didn't seem to amount to much—it so often seems to be that way with grooms. There was a wedding trip and afterward father set the young couple up in a pretty little flat, and got the groom a job.

But father seems perfectly delighted with that daughter; he doesn't think she's ungrateful after he educated her and built the house and all.

Is She Ungrateful?

He says she's normal. And if normal means being absolutely selfish and entirely stupid, then that daughter certainly is normal.

There's a son, too, in father's house, or was.

Son went to college and when he came home he "did" his room in the athletic style with boxing gloves and things. But somebody was going to Nome and son got the gold fever.

So he's gone up to Alaska to live with the polar bears.

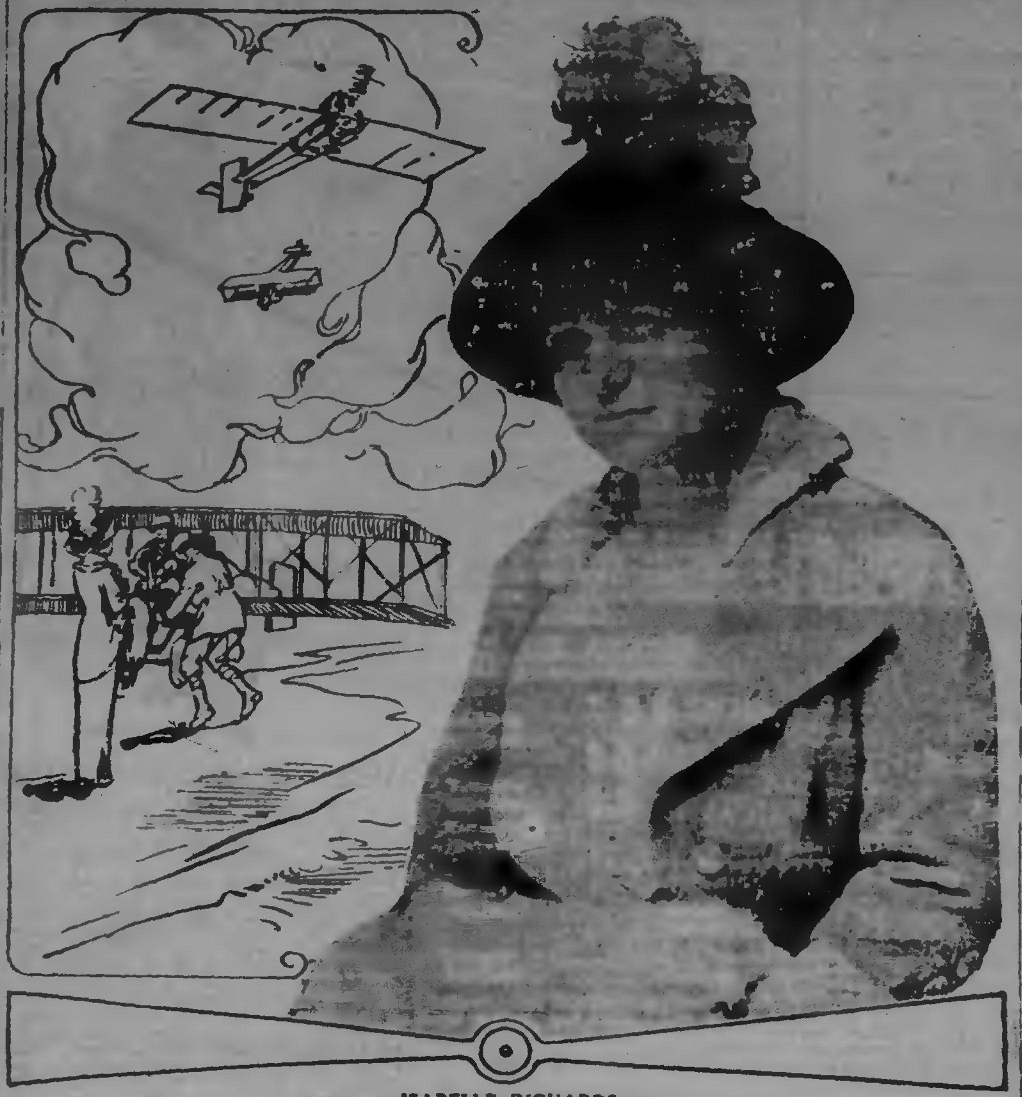
He writes once in six months or so, and says he likes it and that he never intends to come home again.

Father doesn't seem to think him ungrateful at all. I suppose he is "normal," too.

I'm rather sorry for daughter. She really ought to be earning her own living; that's what she honestly wants to do. She's full of energy and ambition, and she just has to keep doing something or die.

I wonder why she is any more ungrateful than the other two, don't you?

WHEN WE SHOP BY AEROPLANE



ISABELLE RICHARDS

This Is the Air Age, Says Aviatrice

By Cecile Manning

FLYING in to town to have luncheon, keep an appointment with the modiste and do a bit of shopping with one's aeroplane in its place in an ordinary line of similar craft hovering above the big department stores, is the vision of the future which Isabelle Richards, one of the most promising and energetic pupils of the Wright aviation school in Dayton, O., sees.

"And it isn't such a dim vision either," adds Miss Richards. "We all know how quickly the motor became an everyday thing, once it was made practical. The airship is exactly in the place the automobile was 20 years ago. And it is making great strides toward practicability."

A fashion lecture in New York sent Miss Richards into cloudland. She dropped into the lecture because she had an hour of spare time on her schedule. A very charming young artist was giving a conference of modes to a select audience. There was an exquisite setting of gray and soft Persian rugs, the lecturer wore the very latest Paris styles and her talk was illustrated by six lovely, statuesque young women garbed in costumes which had just come off the steamer and represented the best ideas of the most famous designers.

"It is the air age," said the lecturer. "All the modes suggest flying. Notice the hats poised lightly at one side of the head and trimmed with aeroplane bows and high waving plumes and masses of cloudlike tulle. Look at the tunics. They, too, are suggestive of flight. The bows on the gowns, everything we are wearing, even the newest coiffures, emphasize the conquest of the air."

"Before that time," says Miss Richards, who is as attractive as she is clever, "I had never given any thought to all the flying talk. I had not even kept abreast of the times. I had never seen an aeroplane. The thrills of the game had never appealed to me. But as I went out from that lecture I looked about me and saw the truth of the statement.

"The skirts, narrow and trim at the feet, and the hats with their towering trimmings and the fulness of the hip drapery set me thinking. A picture of all the women I met suddenly rising from the pavement and flying up, up, into the sky, came before me. On the way home I stopped in the library and got the latest books on flying. I was completely fascinated. I went back and read about all the previous attempts at flying.

"I journeyed down to Long Island and saw some of the tryouts in the air. I studied the machines. All this time all the thoughts I had concerned the wonder of it all. Then one day I took a little cloud spin. When I landed my future was planned.

"I would be an aviatrice. My family literally went 'up in the air' when I told them about it. But all their objections, all the stories of terrible falls and deaths had not the slightest effect on my determination. Fly I would. And here I am. And next season I hope to take my place among the real sky pilots. I am simply enraptured with the sport and its possibilities, and I have never ceased to marvel at it all.

"I believe in the future of flying. I look to see the time when it will be no stranger to hop into one's airship and fly to business, or to one's social engagements, than it is now to use a motor for the same purpose. From the sport side, in my mind, there is nothing which can compare with it. I thought ice-boating was the most exhilarating of all sports, but it can't compare with flying. I have never known fear. They tell me that is one of the reasons why I have a chance of being a successful aviatrice. And to any other woman who feels the 'call' from the clouds as I did, I would say, 'Answer it. But be sure it is a real call.'"

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Your Cheeks Expose Your Good or Bad Habits

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg

DR. HIRSHBERG

A FACE like a benediction is often bas-relieved by two stout cheeks due to dissipation.

Every face, however full, padded round with flesh and fat, is but modelled on a skull. The yellowish, oily substance, which forms the adipose tissue generally, forms two cushions of fat in the cheeks.

Blushes, spread-eagle veins and sluggish blood in the chamois-like flesh may often be the decorative finish.

There is no art which will always construct the character from the cheeks. Yet the cheeks are often the books wherein men may read strange matters.

Contending passions jostle, push and crowd amid the tourney 'twixt the jowl and cheek.

"Unmatched by art, upon this wondrous scroll, Portrayed are all the secrets of the soul."

It is an unkind blow to the proud possessors of many a buxom cheek to learn that cheeks which are too fat, too cup-like, too bounding in their rotundity are often traceable to prodigal living and loose physical habits.

The very cheeks which many a sweet girl yearns to pinch frequently betoken a spongy, jellyfish-like padding. This in turn is the outcome of lobster palace diets.

The very over-ripe show of rotund, rosy cheeks, which are so tempting in their fruity glow, contains a warning of Nero habits. The cheeks are often the first of the fairest fleshy parts to indicate bad living habits, disease or deformities within the body cavities.

Once your cheeks begin to buckle, to droop like pie dough over the pans, you should at once look to yourself. Either you are losing too much sleep, eating too much, as well as too rich a ration, or you have some hidden illness.

Many a merry, globular, cherry-ripe cheek has 10 broken commandments behind its saucer-shaped lustre.

A fine, fair, naturally blooming cheek, if not too flabby, oedematous or marrowy, is a sweet girl's best dower. On the other hand, a man or woman with two hemispherical pillows has a cheeky grace which insults all delicacy.

Cheeks dripping with avoirdupois make the alert physiognomist-physiologist suspicious of intemperance. Beverages made of the wine which is red and the heavier alcohols.

These fleshy yokes, these conjugal couples of your face, the Castor and Pollux of the anatomy, are always groomed according to the structural health beneath them.

See to it that their texture is pure, [illegible] harmonious to the touch and refined to the eye.

The light of love, the purity of grace,
The mind, the music breathing from the face,
The heart whose softness harmonized the whole,
And, oh! that cheek was in itself a soul.

Hints for the Housewife

Pewter is easily cleaned with whiting and salad oil applied to all spots. Then wash in soap suds, rinse in boiling water and polish with hot sand, using a stiff brush. Of course, the sand must be the fine kind sold for polishing purposes.

Ice cream is one of the most difficult stains to remove from table linen or clothes. Sometimes ether applied at once will do it. If it is allowed to set and dry, then the article must be soaked for an hour or two in cold water before it is laundered. Fruit stains are more easily removed by boiling water if they are first soaked in cold water.

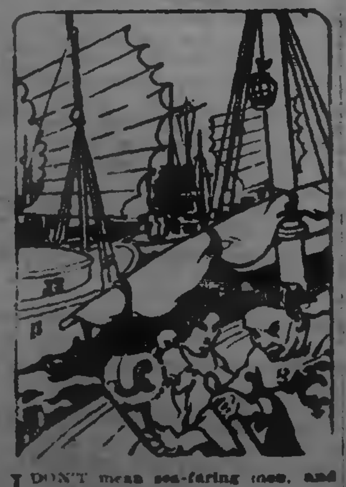
If your piano has unsightly scratches, they can be easily covered or removed by a polish made of equal parts of strong black coffee and sweet oil, to which a few drops of turpentine are added. This is an excellent polish for all dark furniture. Be sure it is first rubbed into the wood and that no surplus is left to catch dust.

The removal of mildew stains means patience. Wet the article with boiling water and wring, then dip it in sour milk and cover with salt and lay in the sun. The beaten pulp of an apple, lemon or tomato, each used with a liberal amount of salt, are other remedies.

Three Minute Journeys

Where Men Live in Boats

By Jonathan MacFarland



I DON'T mean sea-faring men, and neither do I have reference to the people who take their summer vacations on houseboats. I mean people who are born on boats, stay all their lives on boats, and die on boats. I suppose they are buried ashore, or thrown overboard, when they shuffle off the coil.

In the Chinese city of Canton there are more people who live in boats than there are inhabitants in the city of New Orleans. I never counted them carefully, but I am told that fully 400,000 pairs of slant eyes open in the morning and close at night in the countless sampans that crowd the river on which Canton is situated.

You know what these sampans look like—ungainly craft about 20 feet long, with an awning arrangement amidships. When I first saw a collection of hundreds of them crowded together in the river it looked as though a giant packing case had been undone and all the litter incidental to the unpacking had been carelessly thrown into the river.

If your sense of smell is not too keenly developed it is interesting to investigate living conditions on these homeboats. They are, as our social service workers would say, congested, for frequently as many as eight people live on one boat. And my Chinese guide told me that some families keep boarders. If there is a baby in the family it is tied to its mother's back, and it stays there even when the woman is rowing the boat, for she is the motive power, and provides the income for the family by ferrying people and other freight back and forth between different points on the river bank.

Travelling barbers go about among the sampans in boats of their own, and attend to the tonsorial needs of the male residents. Doctors make their visits in a similar manner, and, in fact, boats are as much or more of a necessity in this section of Canton as they are in Venice.

Canton is only one of the cities of China that has an aquatic residence district. Practically every city that is on a river has a floating population, but in Canton it reaches its maximum.

No, I didn't see a piece of Canton flannel while I was in the city.

Her Preference.

He—Would you rather a man would write and declare his love or tell it by word of mouth?

She—I would prefer it by mouth if not by word.

A Matter of Elision.

"Did you lose your money in a game of chance?"

"No. I thought there was a chance but I learned the other fellows had eliminated that element."

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with growing interest.

Women as Workers

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"MOTHER," I said one night in the course of one of my unforgettable chats with her, "women are economic snobs, aren't they? I've been thinking a lot about it."

Mother smiled, her gray hair a shadowy high-light in the dusk of the old-fashioned sitting room.

"Just what do you mean, Peter?" she asked.

"Well," I said, "Henderson was telling me that he and his wife met a most exquisitely gowned woman at Atlantic City and she was most cultured and charming—gave them to understand that she was a New York society woman and all that sort of thing. As a matter of fact, she was a New York modiste. They've since discovered it. I gather from the fact that Mrs. Henderson was positively scandalized and the modiste was ashamed of her vocation that economic snobbery among women is fairly well developed."

"You're right, Peter," said mother, nodding. "It's an unfortunate fact, but it's true."

"You know," I said, "you never meet a girl who writes, or sketches, or dabbles in music, or the stage professionally, but what she lets you know it in short order—almost as soon in fact, as the collegian takes the opportunity to quote his college so that you'll know he's a college man. But if a girl is a clever typist, or a dressmaker, or a milliner, she keeps it strictly to herself."

"You have struck a point, Peter," said mother quietly, "that I've always felt very strongly about. I'd like to see college girls deliberately turn their heads and their hands to simpler occupations and really put some effort in it. As it is now, most of that work is left to women who are cleverer with their fingers than they are with their heads. Imagine the result a girl might obtain who was clever both with her fingers and her head."

"She ought to get excellent results!" I admitted cordially.

"Take, for instance, a girl who has made wonderful doll things as a youngster. Send her to college and instantly she forgets the skill of her fingers and lays too much stress on the skill of her head. She wants to write tragedies in blank verse and tries. If she fails, she's broken-hearted and we have on our hands a very poor playwright minus the dynamic life-force of cheerfulness and content where we might have had an excellent modiste. All, Peter, because of this economic snobbery, as you so aptly term it."

"It's an idea with tremendous possibilities," I suggested. "For men as well as women. A good carpenter gets lots more money than a routine clerk. Yet there are an overplus of clerks and too few good carpenters. Why not college carpenters, etc.?"

"If college girls took up dress-making and nursing and millinery," went on mother, "we'd soon eliminate all this foolish snobbery and attain excellent results. A girl with skill in designing might better be designing clever clothes and hats than, say, wallpaper and fol-de-rols."

"Goodness knows, a good percentage of women need somebody to design better clothes for them!" I exclaimed. "There, by the way, is a good vocation for a clever girl. 'Confidential dress-adviser.' If she had brains and taste enough, she could keep the fat woman from wearing fussy things and the tall, thin one from wearing up and down stripes. I imagine a handful of clever girls like that could work a revolution in dress. I may be mistaken, but it seems to me that only about one woman in thirty knows how to dress to suit her size and coloring. Some women are clever enough to give an impression of youth and slenderness merely by the art of dress—but not many. Do you think it is all right for married women to work, mother?"

"Why not?" asked mother, "provided she has fulfilled her duty to nature and borne children. Isn't it better, Peter, to help out a little than take your spare afternoons for bridge whist and Browning clubs? What dreadfully futile waste of energy to spend hours boring for the abstruse meaning of Browning when you might be helping your son and daughter to a college course by the application of a forgotten talent."

Mother is easily the most sensible person I know.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

"I JUST couldn't go to sleep after that fire last night," said Mrs. Golden-Rod to the Bantam Rooster as the sun came streaming in the henhouse.

"I wish you would let me sleep a minute longer," replied the Bantam Rooster, shutting his eyes.

"You woke me up last night," said the Little Hen.

"Yes, but there was a fire," said the Rooster. "You should thank me for waking you up."

"Thank you very much for waking me up," said his companion very politely.

"I wish you would let me go to sleep," whined the little fellow.

"All right," said Mrs. Golden-Rod. "You go to sleep while I go and see where the fire was."

"Not a bad idea! Not a bad idea!" said the Rooster, as he hopped down from the roost.

"I thought you wanted to go to sleep," said the Hen, trying to tease the little fellow.

"Never mind that," he said as he scouted out the door. "Well, well," he continued, "there is plenty of light now that the barn is gone. Our henhouse will be nice and warm now—sunshine all day long."

"But you must remember that Dobbin has no home. When we get more sunshine it means that our friend has no home," said Mrs. Golden-Rod.

"I wonder where he has gone?" said the Bantam Rooster.

"Let's go and find him, after we see the place where the barn was," replied his companion.

The two trudged over to where a black heap covered the ground where the barn had been. Already the other chickens were there, for chickens have a lot of curiosity.

"What are you looking for?" asked the Bantam Rooster of Mrs. Plymouth Rock.

"I am just over here because the rest are," said Mrs. Plymouth Rock. "I don't want to miss anything. Why are you over here?"

"I am hunting for Dobbin. He was a great friend of ours," replied the Bantam Rooster.

"I forgot all about him," said Mrs. Plymouth Rock. "He was a great friend of mine, too. Let me go with you. Where do you suppose he has gone?"

"I will look for the prints of his iron shoes and they will tell us where he is," replied the Bantam Rooster.

"How observing you are," said Mrs. Golden-Rod.

The Bantam Rooster began to look on the ground and, sure enough, he found Dobbin's footprints. He ran along where they were and soon they found Dobbin in the meadow.

"We are glad to see you!" exclaimed the Bantam Rooster.

"I am glad you didn't forget me," said the big fellow as he looked down kindly at the Rooster, Mrs. Golden-Rod and Mrs. Plymouth Rock.

EFFICACY OF HOT WATER

It is Often of More Value Than Less Simple Remedies

There is no remedy of such general application and none so easily attainable as water, says a physician. Yet nine persons in ten will pass by it in an emergency to seek for something of less value.

A strip of flannel or a napkin folded lengthwise and dipped in hot water, wrung out and then applied around the neck of a child that has the croup will usually bring relief in ten minutes.

A towel folded several times and dipped in hot water, and quickly wrung out and applied over the seat of the pain in toothache or neuralgia will generally afford prompt relief. This treatment in colic often works like a charm.

It would be difficult to find a shorter cut to relieving congestion of the lungs, sore throat or rheumatism, than hot water when applied.

A sprained ankle has been cured by showering it with hot water poured from a height of three feet in so brief a time as an hour.

Pieces of cotton batting dipped in hot water and applied to old sores, new cuts, bruises and sprains are used very generally in hospitals.

A Kitchen Calendar

"I can't keep house without it," said a careful housekeeper when a friend noticed the large calendar, like those used in business offices, which hung on her kitchen wall. It was a white calendar, with black figures an inch and a half large, which her husband brought from his office. On the squares of the dates, she marked each day the ice delivery, the number of bottles of milk, and dates for guests or special dinners in which the kitchen was interested. Certain evenings that she wished the maid to stay in, etc., were also marked on the calendar, which thus served as an accurate reminder to both mistress and maid.

VESTEES OF BROCADED SILK ARE HELD IN PLACE BY A BROAD GIRDLE OR A SINGLE ORNAMENT.

It is predicted that white will again be very popular this summer; certainly nothing is more suited to the season, is cooler or daintier. There will be tailormades of white and coats and capes as well. Poplins, ratine, velvet, rep, moire and taffeta are all being shown in white for these purposes. On coats and capes that flare slightly at the bottom, and it is necessary that they do, it is modish to have a colored lining. Another pretty touch is the vestee of silk gauze held in place by a single ornament of passementerie, lapis lasuli or amber or a broad, contrasting girdle.

The costume shown in 8175-8255 shows the effectiveness of such a vest. White ratine is the material used, with collar, revers and girdle of black satin; the vest of brocaded silk gauze crosses surplice fashion and extends below the girdle in two broad tabs. A two gored, modishly draped skirt is another smart touch.

This costume requires for size 36, 3¼ yards of 42 inch material for the blouse (8175) and 3⅝ yards of the same width for the skirt (8255). A simple, one-piece frock developed in white cloth is shown in the other design; it has a collar and girdle of printed tussah and, by way of novelty, a large, square belt buckle. A full length raglan sleeve is a feature, and a straight, three-piece skirt completes the dress.

For size 36 this design needs 4½ yards of 36 inch material.

No. 8175—sizes 32 to 42.
No. 8255—sizes 22 to 32.
No. 8125—sizes 34 to 44.

GREATEST IS THE VOGUE OF THE FLARE.

A flare somewhere 'twixt head and toe is absolutely necessary this season; it may be at the collar, the hip or the feet, but it must come in. Premet brought in the flare; a Premet frock displayed the first bustle and the first Gladstone or "Margot" collar. This collar, which stands away from the throat somewhat, is wonderfully becoming and is a strong favorite. Draperies of all sorts are used to give the bustle effect; in some instances it is merely a ruffle or two of taffetas or a puff of chiffon arranged to stand out a trifle in back and over each hip. It is perfectly safe to predict that the old fashioned bustle of wire or hair will never again put in an appearance. The pannier, somewhat modified, is being shown in both wool and silk materials.

The afternoon frock displayed in No. 8147 is developed in one of the fashionable silk crepes which is so well suited to the pannier and puffs of the moment. In this frock we have the flaring collar and the panniered hip.

To copy this design in size 36 requires 6⅝ yards of 36 inch material.

In No. 8127-8151 we have a double, puffed pannier and a smart, gathered kimono blouse. An effective silk tussah is used for this design in one of the new yellows [illegible] so modish this season.

This costume requires for size 36, 2⅜ yards of 36 inch material for the bodice (8127) and 4¼ yards of the same width for the skirt (8151).

No. 8147—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8127—sizes 34 to 42.

Coals in Baths

At an inquiry into the housing conditions in the Holytown, New Stevenston, Carfin, and Newarthill districts, there was a difference of opinion as to whether baths should be provided. Mr. Hall Miel, builder, declared that he had provided some of his properties with baths, but he found that they were not made proper use of. In one case he found coals in the bath, and in another both the [illegible] were [illegible] stored.

Bones Like Egg-shells

Remarkable medical evidence was given at an inquest at Newport, Isle of Wight, on a Parkhurst convict named Cox. It was stated by the medical officer that the man suffered from malignant cancer, which, starting in the bone of the knee spread all over the body, rendering the bones as thin as an egg-shell, and quite unable to support the body. In this condition he had a fall, fracturing both his [illegible] and both his legs.

TYRANNY OF SUNDAY DINNER

"Men have many faults, women only two,
Nothing right they say and nothing right they do."
—Old Proverb

• • •

Why is it that in most households all the menfolk are supposed to have a claim to make Sunday a day of rest and idleness? Nothing is ever done by a man on Sunday that can possibly be put off until Monday, but it very seldom occurs to them that their womenkind do not have the same privilege. Always there must be a hot dinner, and an extra good one, and if there is no maid it means that the wife or mother has to spend the greater part of what should be her day of relaxation in preparing the meal, otherwise there will be grievances and grumbles at the table. Breakfast is generally later on Sundays and the morning is shortened thereby, so that immediately the one meal is over and the rooms tidied the dinner must be prepared, and the woman who can manage to get to church in the interim is a wonder and an envy to her sex. Here are a few tips as to engineering the church hour or the rest hour in the morning and still having the hot meal. Partially cook the joint or the chickens on Saturday and leave them in the pan, reheating them for half an hour in a hot oven on Sunday. If a sufficient number of potatoes are boiled the day before they can be browned in the pan at the same time. Green vegetables too can be boiled on Saturday, and if reheated with a little butter will be as good as if they were done the same day, while other vegetables can be warmed up in a white sauce. Very few men will tolerate a cold mid-day meal on Sundays, especially in winter, and some ingenuity must be exercised in arranging everything so that as little time as possible need be taken up in getting it ready on Sunday. I once heard of a woman who, when she was first married, was told by some friends that they only had two meals on Sunday, a late breakfast and a dinner at four o'clock in the afternoon. She determined to try the plan on her husband. The following Sunday they went to church, and on their return he asked how soon dinner would be ready. She said at four o'clock. He looked at her, but said nothing. But he went upstairs and shut himself into his room where he remained while the young wife prepared a sumptuous meal. At four o'clock she went to call him, and was greeted with the reply that if he could not have his dinner at the proper time he would not have it at all —and he didn't. It was her first and last attempt to interfere with masculine feeding hours. She is an old woman now but the memory of that experiment is as vivid as if it happened yesterday.

PEER'S WIDOW ENTERS CONVENT

True Romance Which Reads Like Fiction

A fascinating romance of the peerage is recalled by the report that Julia Lady Lyveden has entered a convent in Edinburgh.

Seventeen years ago Lady Lyveden was a pretty assistant of eighteen in a fancy shop at Eastbourne. Miss Julia Kate Emery, as she was then, attracted the attention of the late Lord Lyveden, who was seventy-seven years old and an invalid. He fell in love with her and was drawn in his bath chair every day to the shop.

After fulfilling an engagement as secretary to the aged peer Miss Emery consented at length to accept her patron's name and coronet, and in 1896 the marriage took place at All Souls' Church, Hastings. The marriage lasted only four years, the late peer dying in 1900, and as there was no issue the title passed to a nephew, the present peer. Eight years later the widow became engaged to Mr. Henry Hugh Maclean, but the engagement was broken off.

The present Lord Lyveden has had a most adventurous career, having been in his time a soldier, a market gardener and a ship's steward. When he was roughing it in America, without any apparent prospect of becoming a peer, he lodged over a stable and earned a precarious living as a cab driver.

Use Camphor and Borax

A bright, glossy head of hair, easily kept in curl, may be obtained by dissolving in a pint of boiling water a small square of camphor and a tablespoonful of powdered borax. Into this liquid the brush must be dipped several times whenever the hair is brushed.

When Jam is Sugary

Jam that has become hard and sugary can be made almost as good as new by placing in the oven until the sugar melts, then taking it out and leaving it to cool.

To test a cake to see if it is thoroughly baked, use a skewer.

Anglers Hook Gulls

Owing to the recent cold weather food for sea fowl has been so scarce that in the Deal district several gulls have been caught through seizing the bait of anglers as the lines were thrown into the sea. In one case a gull thus hooked and released returned and tried to steal from the boat the sprats which were being used for bait.

New Light on Burns

Some new ideas about Robert Burns are brought out in Glasgow children's essays on the national poet:—"Burns is 155 years old on Sunday, 25th January, 1914." "He had a wife called Highland Mary, who died just when they were to be married." "When Burns died he gave a shawl to Highland Mary, from which she took the fever and died."

The picture shows some popular ways of doing young girls' hair, which can be modified to suit the individual style.

If you have long straight hair and a round face put your hair in three braids, one of which you let hang down and the other two wind about your head. This is a fine way to display a wonderful suit of hair. The simpler a young girl dresses her hair the better. You can wear it in the way that is most becoming if you only wear it over your ears and close to your head.

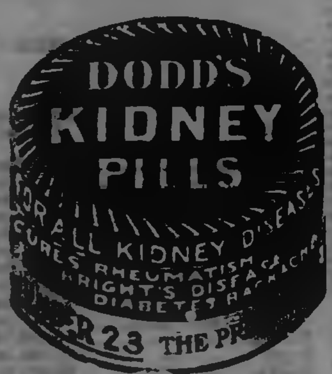
RUSH TO MARRIAGE

More Haste, More Debt—Home Making on Credit

A defendant who borrowed $1,000 on a bill of sale in order to get married surprised Judge Cluer in a case at the Shoreditch County Court, London. It was stated that the defendant was paying interest at an enormous rate, and the judge was prompted to ask if it would not have been wiser to postpone the marriage for a year.

"Unfortunately, people will not wait until they are in a position to get married," a court official said. "Even if the birth-rate is declining there does not seem to be much diminution in the number of improvident marriages. In the courts we frequently see the evil results of a too hasty plunge into matrimony. Young couples will sometimes borrow money to set up a home, without realizing that they will be required to pay extortionate interest quite beyond their powers. The moneylenders are much to blame for this state of affairs. They make it appear such a simple thing to borrow a few pounds until the husband is in a better position. But $300 interest on $500 is a heavy burden to the man earning $7.50 a week; the result often is that he is dragged into court, and the judge has to make as merciful an order as possible.

"Then the credit system is not an unmixed blessing. A young couple feel there is no need to wait because they have not the money available to set up a home. They can get anything they want by means of the instalment system. They do not pause to consider what may happen if the husband should be unfortunate enough to lose his job. A lost job often means a lost home. The husband is usually anxious to make his wife as comfortable as possible, and involves himself in indebtedness he knows he will find very difficult to discharge. People do not seem to realize that getting married is like setting up in business. It requires capital in much the same way, and it is beset by nearly as many pitfalls. But, unfortunately, common sense and connubial attachments proverbially take contrary paths."



Cold Water First

Milk pans, pitchers and tumblers which have contained milk, and dishes in which milk and milk puddings have been cooled, should first be rinsed with cold water. Hot water converts the casein of the milk into a kind of cement or glue which is hard to remove.

ROYALTY A-SAILING

Every Individual of the Entourage Has Private Cabin

Every individual of the Royal entourage is provided with a cabin to himself on the Royal Yacht Victoria and Albert. They are all prettily upholstered in chintzes or cretonnes, and each is provided with a commodious wardrobe, a marble washhand stand, etc. Writing tables are in some cabins, and the equerries' cabin possesses a large flat-topped desk as well.

His Majesty's sleeping cabin and dressing room are next door to those of the Queen. The latter uses the same room as was arranged for Queen Alexandra, practically no alterations having taken place. It is very prettily upholstered in chintzes, private photographs and pictures decorate the walls; and there is a large dressing table replete with all the electric appliances requisite for light and heat. There is also a beautiful bathroom.

Her Majesty's private saloon is like a dainty drawing room in a private house, furnished with drawing room lounges and chairs, pretty curtains and cushions, and a grand piano.

Immediately forward of the dining saloon there is a smoking room. This apartment is also furnished in blue morocco and mahogany, and it boasts of a pretty little fireplace. It was here that the late King lay in bed for some weeks after his critical operation for appendicitis, the cabin having been rapidly and dexterously converted into a sickroom. It had the advantage of being large and airy, and free from the danger of having to convey the Royal patient down the staircase.

Lindsay Has Bailbirds Too.

Lindsay Warder—County Police Magistrate F D. Moore, K.C., entertained a large crowd of town and country people yesterday at the police court session and this fact can be verified by the caretaker of the municipal buildings. The crowd was so large that they stood on the benches and the chairs, the result being that the court room was greatly disfigured and very dirty when the town council met last night.

Mr. Archie Johnston, of Lakehurst, who incidentally is a regular subscriber to the Times, was in the city yesterday on business. In Very Hard Luck.

Mr. Thomas Harrison, who lives near Fraserville, seems to have his share of trouble. About a year ago he had family trouble. On Tuesday he was evicted from his farm. Two of his horses yesterday morning were struck by the Port Hope train when they ran out from an adjacent building onto the track. They reached a nearby bridge over a creek when the engine struck them. One was shot into the creek and killed, the other had a leg or two broken and had to be destroyed.

Alleged Burglars Arrested Here.

Burglars were busy in Lindsay on Tuesday night. Six stores were robbed. Governor Falfour of Lindsay Jail, was a passenger yesterday morning from Lindsay to Peterborough. At Reaboro station he noticed two men acting suspiciously. He approached the conductor anh ascertained that the men he suspected had tickets from Lindsay to Peterborougr. Mr. Balfour on arrival here notified the police and the two men were arrested. They had some $300 on their persons. The two are still held in durance vile and other arrests are expected here soon.

Local Newspaperman Stung.

Yesterday the advertising manager of an esteemed evening contemporary, bit at an April fool joke. About 11 a.m. the gentleman in question was called up by some girls in a local city office and told to go to the telephone office to answer a long distance call. He enquired first where the the call came from. He was told Port Hope. Now this young man has a couple of young lady friends in the Lakeside town. He smiled, pulled down his vest, adjusted his tie and went to the telephone office only to discover that neither of the girls he loves so well in Port Hope had called him up. He Wil-soon know better than to answer long distance calls from Port Hope on April 1st.

Harrison Committed for Trial.

At yesterday's police court, Thomas E. Harrison appeared, charged with threatening to shoot Chas. A. Beatty. Mr. J. Wearing, Crown Prosecutor, conducted the prosecution, and Mr. Ruddy appeared for the defence.

A considerable amount of evidence was heard, after which the court committed prisoner for trial, bail being allowed. Mr. Ruddy asked that the prisoner be tried by indictment as that option was given under the section of the Act, under which the charge was laid, namely, section 501 of the criminal code, which is as follows:

"Every person is guilty of an offence, punishable at the option of the accused, on indictment, or on summary conviction, before two justices, and is liable to conviction, etc."

The date of the trial is not yet fixed.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $25,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,893.58 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,349.449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,688.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $900 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $250,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

WORST DISASTER IN MANY YEARS SEALING SHIPS LOST; SCORES DIE

Meager Advices From Newfoundland Show That at Least Fifty Bodies Are Found

Montreal, April 2.—A wireless message to the Marconi Company here from Cape Ray station, says:

"Worst disaster in sealing fleet for over 20 years. Sealers from steamer Newfoundland caught in blizzard. Fifty men have been found dead or dying, and it is estimated that the whole of the 120 men connected with the ship have been lost. A search is also being made for the sealer Southern Cross; also said to have been lost with great loss of life."

Steamer Newfoundland Crushed.

St. John's Nfld., April 2.—The sealing steamer Newfoundland has been crushed in the ice just south of Belle Isle Strait and the greater part of her crew of 150 men are believed to have perished.

Steamers in the vicinity picked up several bodies and a few of the crew who had survived on the icefloes to which they escaped when their vessel went down.

Fifty Bodies Picked Up.

Fifty of the crew have been accounted for in this manner. Most of them were dead when discovered, and several others were dying.

Great alarm is also felt for the sealing steamer Southern Cross, which is also believed to have been caught in the ice. The first reports received here said it was a part of the crew of the Southern Cross that had been picked up and that they were being brought into port by the Newfoundland. There are 173 men on board the Southern Cross. She was due here Tuesday.

Storms Still Raging.

The storm that has raged over Newfoundland for three days, continued unabated to-day and the telegraph service to points along the coast has suffered. The Captain of the Newfoundland was Wesley Kean. Meagre reports relayed from one vessel to another by wireless and more or less confused, state that of the crew of the Newfoundland, 120 men were still on the ice floes this morning. It is thought possible that some of the bodies picked up on the ice were those of members of the crew of the Southern Cross.

DRIVE LAST SPIKE ABOUT END OF WEEK

April Seven Named By Engineers as Day the Day Rival Contractors Are to Meet.

Vancouver, April 2.—The last spike connecting the rails of Canada's new transcontinental railway, the G.T.P., will be driven about April 7th, possibly on the Fort Fraser townsite, according to to-day's estimates of railway contractors who have been following its progress.

Working with their best efforts and rivalling each other, are the two firms of Stewart Bros. in the west, and Bostrom & Green, in the east, to reach the bridge that crosses the Nechaco River. It is thought they will meet about the centre of the bridge over the river.

The first train will be that of President Chamberlain. It is reported that in August there will be a special ceremony in honor of organization of regular passenger and freight service between Prince Rupert and Edmonton.

MORE DELAY IN C. N. R. AFFAIRS AT OTTAWA

Nothing Likely to be Decided Until After Easter Recess Beginning Next Week

Ottawa, April 2.—There seems to be another deadlock in the C.N.R. negotiations, though the cause no one knows, and the people interested refuse to talk.

The present outlook is now that there will be nothing definite decided upon by the Government as to the disposal of the C.N.R's application for assistance until after the Easter holidays. A Conservative caucus will be called before the Government makes a final settlement and the party approval will be secured.

Adjourn Next Week.

As the house will adjourn over the Easter holiday the middle of next week, there is not much time left for a party gathering. The auditors who examined the books of the Canadian Northern head office at Toronto have placed their report in the hands of the Government. It is believed that the Cabinet has laid down a basis for assistance which fully protect the country and which provides for substantial concessions. Apparently the C.N.R. does not like the terms and counting on the fact that the Western Provincial Governments are so deeply involved in the future of the corporation, believe the Cabinet must come to their assistance.

If it is a game of bluff they are playing then the company may find they are mistaken. The Government, as from the first, has taken a firm stand and has insisted on certain information and made certain demands.

BOARD OF CONTROL STRIKES THE TAX RATE AT 19 MILLS

Waterworks Deficits for Last and Current Year Will be Charged to Suspense Account and Make a Liability Against the Utility, and Not the General Tax Rate

Toronto, April 2.—A tax rate of 19 mills will be reported to the City Council. Such was the announcement made by Mayor Hocken to-day, despite his declarations of yesterday that the rate might be as high as 19½.

The low rate is possible through the decision arrived at by the Board of Control yesterday to charge the Waterworks deficit for 1913 and the current year, totalling $314,000, to suspense account and make it a liability against the utility and not against the general tax rate. With a total assessment of $516,489,032, the saving on the tax rate will amount to approximately three-fifths of a mill.

The estimated deficit in the Waterworks branch for the current year is about $141,000, nearly all due to increased debt charges amounting to [illegible]. Next year it is estimated that approximately [illegible] of debentures [illegible] floated for waterworks [illegible] debt charges of some [illegible]. But with the proposed increase of 25 per cent. in the water rates, the Controllers are confident that the deficit will be met for the present year out of the remaining payment to be met by the consumers, and that the full increase next year will make the utility self-sustaining.

"BATH TUB" TRUST TO BOOST ALL PRICES

Montreal Star Prints Exposure of Alleged Combination to Force up Cost of Enamelled Ware.

Montreal, April 2.—The Star to-day announces the disclosure of an alleged "Bath Tub" trust in Canada, whereby prices on all enamelled ware were to be raised 15 per cent. and kept there.

Thirty large jobbers, it is asserted, joined certain firms, in a plan to increase the prices on bath tubs, lavatory equipment and similar goods in Canada 15 per cent. The duty on imported goods of this character is 35 per cent. and it is alleged the jobbers agreed not to sell any imported article at a lower price than that agreed on for Canadian make.

It is further alleged that the collected sum obtained from the increases in price was to be pooled and divided among those in the agreement.

KRAFCHENKO TO APPEAR AS WOMAN

Accomplice Bert Bell Tells Whole Story of Intricate Plans to the Court

Morden, April 2.—Examination of Bert Bell was continued to-day by Crown Prosecutor Hastings, when the trial of Krafchenko resumed. Bell said that on December 7th Krafchenko gave him $500, in five dollar bills, with instructions that it was to go to Krafchenko's wife at Graham, Out According to instructions, Bell "planted" the $500 in an old sock in St. James.

Had Feminine Clothing.

Next day, said Bell, still following instructions, he took to the house where Krafchenko was staying, an outfit of feminine clothing and it was planned they should leave on Wednesday over the C.P.R. In the meantime Krafchenko changed his plans and decided to leave the city on foot and catch a train 25 miles out on the Rainy River C.N.R. line. Before any plans could be carried into effect Krafchenko was arrested. Bell said Krafchenko had threatened him on various occasions, remarking that it would not pay him (Bell) to do anything but go through with the thing.

Plan to Rob Bank.

The feature so far of the Krafchenko trial up-to-date was the evidence of Bell, who was mixed up with the prisoner some days previous to the Plum Coulee tragedy. He told of having been brought to meet Krafchenko in the St. Regis Hotel, Winnipeg, on November 16, and of being asked if he desired to make $500. Krafchenko had then drawn a plan of the village of Plum Coulee, which he displayed to Coulitts, Larsen and Bell. The party then discussed robbing a bank in that village. A plan to rob a bank of Main street, Winnipeg was also under discussion, but witness said he had refused to have anything to do with those plans.

With regard to the Plum Coulee plan witness said that Krafchenko remarked it would be easy picking. With regard to schemes laid for getting Krafchenko out of Winnipeg Bell declared that it was the intention to have the prisoner dress as a woman while he, the witness, was to play the part of husband until Toronto was reached. Another plan was to have Krafchenko placed in a piano case and shipped out of the city.

Krafchenko, who laughed freely at the answers of the Crown witnesses early in the day, became more serious in his demeanor after the serious and definite statements of Bell.

DEAD ULSTER CALM PUZZLES UNIONISTS

Premier Asquith's Move Has Disconcerted Opposition Who Hunt For a Solution

Montreal April 2.—A special cable to The Gazette from London says: That Premier Asquith's latest move has greatly disconcerted the opposition and disappointed some of their expectations is evident from the tone of an article discussing the new situation written by the Parliamentary correspondent of The Pall Mall Gazette, which states

Calm, Strange and Sudden.

After the unparelleled events of the past fortnight there is dead calm of so sudden and strange a kind that we cannot tell whether it means the end of the tempest or only a lull in the storm. Last weeks crisis promised to give the Unionist cause its best opportunity in ten years and now we have again a situation that will tax all the nerve and wisdom of the Unionist leaders.

Hold to Election First Cry.

The correspondent then proceeds to examine two suggestions—Sir Edward Grey's proposal of a Federal system and Bonar Law's demand for an immediate election. He expressed the hope that the opposition will adhere to its policy of an election first and advances the ingenious suggestions that this might be accomplish by amending the parliament Act so as to allow its operation to extend over three years instead of two only as at present.

This would remove the main objection urged by the Government against an early appeal to the electors Whatever happened the Unionists would bow to the decision as no sane man could now think of going back to a merely negative attitude on the Irish problem. The article concludes.

Some Equerries Resign.

London, April 2.—There is a division of opinion to-day over the Kings action in the army crisis among the equerries and lords-in-waiting, who are recruited mainly from navy and army officers. Two equerries have already resigned and it is rumored that there are others who regard the King's action was unconstitutional and who say he should not have directed the officers who resigned to be allowed to rejoin their regiments.

A special summons to attend at Buckingham Palace next week has been sent to a number of equerries who in the ordinary course would not be in attendance until after the Royal visit to Paris. The object is to ascertain their views on the King's action, and those who do not fully support his Majesty will be asked to resign.

Sir Edward on Monday.

The movement toward a peaceful settlement of the Home Rule controversy on the basis of a scheme of Federal's for the British Isles as suggested by Sir Edward Grey in his speech in the House of Commons on Tuesday, continues to receive a good deal of attention in Parliamentary circles.

Sir Edward Carson, who will reopen the Home Rule debate on Monday may be trusted to state the Ulster attitude toward the Federal solution. The Nationalists do not consider there can be any question of dividing up Ireland under any Federal scheme. In their opinion Ireland must be treated as one unit.

Toronto, April 2.—Presumably worried because he had received a summons from the Medical Council for practising medicine without a certificate, Thomas Kettle, of the firm of Kettle & Black, herbalists, 525 west Queen street, shot himself through the head early this morning. His corpse was found in a shed at the rear of the store by Jessie Conard, a housemaid. She had seen him going into the shed and when he failed to come out on being called for breakfast she investigated and found his dead body stretched out on the ground, with blood oozing from a wound in the head. Beside him lay a six-chamber revolver of which one of the chambers had been emptied. The chief coroner was notified and after examining the body ordered it to be removed to the Morgue.

MEXICAN HELD FOR RANSOM, ESCAPES

Old Servant and a Traitor in Villa's Camp Contrives to Set Him Free

New Orleans, La., April 2.—Louis Terrazas jr. the wealthy Mexican, held a prisoner for ransom at Chihuahua by Gen. Francisco Villa for the past three months, has escaped and made his way South towards Mexico city, according to reports received by a newspaper here. Through the assistance of an old family servant and a traitor in Villas camp, the story says the political prisoner obtained his liberty, and reached Saltillo beyond the zone of Constitutionalists control.

Says Villa Cannot Win.

Washington, April 2.—Federal reinforcements from Saltillo have reached Torreon, according to a telegram to the Mexican embassy here to-day from the Mexican consul at El Paso The message adds that there seemed to be little danger of the city being taken by Villa. The number of federal troops was not given.

Are Federals Holding Out?

Juarez, April 2.—Out of the mass of report and denials concerning the activities of general Francisco Villa at Torreon last night and early today, the assumption was decided at rebel headquarters that fighting continued to-day. This conclusion was based on a telegram from Villa to General Carranza last night. Interest here also centred in reported movements of the reinforcements for the federals troops of General Velasco at Torreon.

All Kinds of Rumors.

Mexico, City April 2.—That Torreon has been in the possession of the rebels since Saturday and that Villa is directing a considerable force across the country toward Monterey has been presistenly reported, although as yet it has no support from any tangible evidence.

Extra Editions of the newspapers of the capital announced this afternoon a terrible defeat on the part of the rebels, 4,000 or 5,000 being shot But the information was contained in a telegram from the customs collector at Eagle Pass and was said to have come over the wires from Torreon. The war department,h owever, asserts that no report has been received in spite of the alleged availability of the wire.

Another report current here was that General Velasco has at last surrendered certain Federal officers. Velasco's life has been spared because at one time he had been instrumental in saving the life of General Angeles.

SAFE BLOWERS START FIRE THREATENING 100 LIVES

Loss of $6000 Cash and $6000 by Flames Prostrates Merchant.

New York, April 2.—Thieves who blew open the safe in McSherry's department store at 5 o'clock this morning, started a fire which smoldered three hours and then suddenly developed such fury that it threatened the lives of 100 men, women and children in the double five-story tenement over the stores at 726-728 Columbus avenue. The building housed 32 families.

P. J. McSherry told the police that the safe contained cash amounting to $6000, of which $5000 was the receipts of yesterday's business. He also reported that jewelry worth much more than $600 and valuable deeds and mortgages were missing. He estimated his loss from the fire at $20,000. He said he carried little insurhad taken against fire. The shock of the safe blowing and fire proved too much for Mr. McSherry's composure and he suffered a collapse which forced him to take to his bed. He had been in business 25 years on the site.

REMOUNT WORK FOR CANADA'S SOLDIERS IS MASTERLY HANDLED

Hon. Sam Hughes Has Enlisted Services of Canada's Leading Men For Militia

Ottawa, April 2.—That the services of the Canadian militia under the administration of Col. Hon. Sam Hughes, is drawing the interest and co-operation of men who are leaders in the active life of the country is shown by a return tabled to-day of the number of those who have accepted honorary appointments to military rank since 1911.

While the titles are described as honorary they are conferred only for the purpose of enlisting expert service in advancing the efficiency of the militia. For instance, in connection with the remount work, a question that is not only of Canadian but Imperial importance.

In Remount Department.

Col. Hughes has to-day the expert advice and assistance of Hon. Adam Beck. Hon. Clifford Sifton and Mr. J. W. Allison, all of whom hold the rank of honorary colonel. These men are co-operating with the militia staff in advancing the remount work generally as is also Dr. J. B. Hall, who holds the honorary rank of lieutenant-colonel.

The railway committee which deals with questions of transport of troops, etc., has enlisted the services of the men who are at the head of railway affairs in Canada: Sir Donald Mann, Hon. Frank Cockrane, Mr. D. McNichol, Mr. William Wainwright and Mr. E. J. Chamberlin, Col. A. D. Davidson is an honorary colonel on the road transport committee.

There are three honorary colonels of regiments. These being Premier Borden ((63rd. Regiment, Halifax): Henry Cockshutt (25th. Dragoons, Brantford) and W. M. Macpherson (8th. Reg't. Quebec).

There are eighteen honorary lieutenant-colonels of regiments, these including Premier Roblin, Premier McBride, Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. Dr. Roche, Hon George Perley and Hon. L. P. Pelletier.

ONCE PROUD WARSHIPS SOLD TO HIGH BIDDER

London, April 2.—Four superannuated British warships, famous in their day, were sold by auction yesterday to the highest bidder. The most notable was the battleship Renown, which had several claims upon the public interest. For fve or six years she had played the unheroic role of training ship for stokers at Portsmouth, but when in 1895 the Renown was first commissioned she proudly ranked not only as the most beautiful ironclad afloat, but also as the fastest vessel of the British fleet, being capable of 18¾ knots

The Renown also holds a unique position as the only modern British battleship sent to the North American station, which she left for the Mediterranean when carrying Lord Fisher's flag. The Renown was indeed, the favorite ship of the father of the Dreadnoughts, and Lord Fisher cherishes a silver model of her, a gift from officers who served under him.

The Renown was also the vessel in which the present King and Queen made their journey to India. At the auction yesterday she realized $195,000.

The other ships sold were the Resolution, which brought $178,250; the Ferte for $92,500; and the Medea for $51,895. The Scylla was not offered, but the bids did not reach the reserve the best offer being $59,000.

FORMER TORONTO COUPLES ARE PUT ASUNDER, DIVORCED

Mrs. Alicia Hill Gets Divorce From Her Husband, Mr. G.E. Hill, To-day

Ottawa, April 2.—The Private Bills Committee this morning agreed to an Act granting Leonore Power, of Cobourg, a divorce from her husband, G. W. Power, of Wapela, Sask. This bill has already been passed by the Senate. Last year this divorce was thrown out by the House of Commons after adivision, a most unusual proceeding. It was pointed out that there was an additional evidence produced this year which placed beyond doubt her right to a divorce. Two Toronto divorces were also agreed to, one being a bill to grant a divorce to Alice Hill from her husband, G. E. Hill, and the other a bill to grant W. J. Lscombe a divorce from his wife.

Hydro Protest Bears Fruit.

Ottawa, April 2.—The protest made by the Hydro Radial deputation upon their recent visit to Ottawa against granting further powers to private corporations has already borne fruit. The Niagara-Welland Power Co. Bill, against which the Hydro-Commission has been protesting, has been withdrawn. Chairman Sam Sharpe of the Private Bills Committee read a letter from the solicitor of the Company to-day, requesting that the Bill be dropped and the fees be refunded. The committee agreed. The company asked for a time-extension and it was claimed they sought power rights along the new Welland Canal.

TWO KILLED; FIVE HURT IN BOILER EXPLOSION

Nova Scotian Colliery Scene of Disaster With Many Men Eating Breakfast.

New Glasgow, N.S., April 2.—One of the large boilers in the Bankhead plant at the Drummond Colliery, Westville, operated by the Intercolonial Coal Company, exploded to-day and spread death and disaster about the plant. Two of the employes were killed outright and a number of others were severely injured.

The explosion occurred between 8 and 9 o'clock when many of the men were in the vicinity of the boiler house at breakfast.

The dead are:

Daniel J. McMillan, single, aged about 40, and a resident of Westville.

J. Ryan, also of Westville.

The severely injured number five, and they were hurried to Aberdeen Hospital. The boiler was one of the bank of five that supplied the power to the collieries, hoisting machinery, and this accident completely disabled the hoisting equipment of the mine.

VENGEANCE RESOUNDS AS YOUNG GIRL LAID TO REST

People of Poland, Sennett, Herkimer Little Falls and Ondaga Valley Ready to Proceed With Drastic Means of Punishment.

Poland, N. Y., April 2. — "Lynch him! Lynch him!" was the cry of many angry citizens here this morning, as they read of the horrible confession of guilt made by 'Geo Gianini, the boy murderer of Miss Lida Beecher, the young school teacher at Sennett, N.Y., who was buried at West Albion, N.Y., Wednesday. The people here and all through Central New York and the Southern Tier are deeply incensed against the young slayer of the minister's daughter and hundreds have signified a desire to join in any "lynching bee" that may be organized. Some of the high school boys and graduates of Onondaga Academy, at Onondaga Valley, have discussed the subject of lynching the brute, but the action of Rev. W. A. Beecher has had a salutary effect on many of the persons most active in discussing the advisability of organizing a posse to lynch the prisoner. Rev. Beecher's conduct as a matter of fact has amazed many persons, for meeting the murderer and ravisher of his innocent young daughter, he took both hands of the murderer within his own and exclaimed in pitiful tones: 'Young man this is a very sad case. I am sorry for you, very sorry."

"I'd rather be in your place than my own," said the father of the boy. "If my son is guilty of this terrible crime I'd rather see him dead and in his coffin than where he is. If he is guilty it [illegible] change [illegible]

A FEAST IN SAMOA

Develops Into a Conglomerated Scramble For Food.

A SCENE OF WILD DISORDER.

The Native Guests Steal All the Eatables Within Reach, Which They Pass Over to Crowds of Waiting Relatives Gathered on the Outside.

The principal native foods of Samoa are bananas, breadfruit, taro, fish and pork. Bananas prepared "Fa Samoa" would not appeal very strongly to an epicurean taste, for they are gathered unripe and baked under heated stones, as all Samoan cooking is accomplished. A baked green banana favors somewhat a roasted chestnut, but not enough to cause any mistake between the two.

The breadfruit, in my estimation, appeals more strongly to a white man's taste than any other Samoan food. The large, mealy balls are baked, broken open and eaten, usually with one or other of the two Samoan sauces palusami and fai-ai. Palusami is made from the young shoots of the taro plant, cocoanut milk and sea water. Fai-ai is evaporated cocoanut milk. The milk is poured into a leaf, the ends and edges tied at the top, and it is then baked until the water evaporates, leaving a thick cream, which is very rich and quite palatable. Taro is the root or bulb of a plant which is an exact counterpart of what we call "elephant ear" in the United States and is somewhat like a yam, but inclined to be stingy or shreddy. The inside of a baked taro bulb is very solid and of a bluish tint.

The fish needs no explanation.

Pork is the supreme delicacy, according to the Samoan mind, and it is always eaten in a half cooked state. Since a Samoan will sell his birthright for a piece of pig, one-half grown is worth $30 or $40 and will always find a market; therefore it is easily seen that pork can be afforded only on holiday occasions. The Samoan method of killing a pig is unique. The animal's feet are tied together, and it is laid upon its back. Then two large, heavy natives place a 2-by 4 scantling across its neck, after which they seat themselves one on each end of the scantling.

As the unfortunate pig is slowly strangled to death his heartless executioners calmly talk politics. The reason for strangulation in putting a hog to death is simply this: A pig is held in such high esteem that it breaks the Samoan heart to see even the blood being wasted. The blood is used in conjunction with the fatty parts of the entrails and when baked forms some kind of pudding. I have never tasted this kind of pudding myself, but a Samoan will tell you that it is simply delicious, and I am willing to take his word for it. Even the cleaned entrails are utilized, and right here in Samoa we can again bring into use the Chicago stockyard phrase that "only the squeal is lost."

I well remember the first and only Samoan feast I ever had the pleasure of attending. I received an invitation one day from a Samoan whose friendship I had formed to attend a feast the following night which he was giving to dedicate his new home. There were several white men present and about fifty natives. We were arranged in two rows facing each other, sitting cross legged, and in front of each was a small mat on which was a profusion of food, including a lupe (or pigeon), a piece of pork (palusami), taro (breadfruit)—in fact, everything which goes to make a Samoan feast—all to be washed down with cocoanut milk. I had taken two or three mouthfuls of the pigeon when I noticed that there was a ring of natives each with a basket waiting impatiently just outside the house. As I turned to the man on my right for the purpose of asking why these people were assembled outside I sensed a movement in close proximity on my left. Turning quickly around, I was just in time to catch a farewell glimpse of my fine supper being dumped bodily into one of those waiting baskets. I saw at once the reason for that overflow meeting outside. The woman who sat next to me had taken a favorable opportunity when my back was turned to pick up my mat and dispose of my meal to her waiting relative, who had attended the overflow meeting with a basket.

Then ensued a conglomerated scramble, and the feast was turned into a scene of wild disorder as each native strove to outdo his neighbor in securing the most food to send home. The strategy, flank movements and tact that they exhibited under the inspiring grab game so far provoked my comedy bump that I was more than repaid for the loss of my supper in watching their energetic struggles to obtain food goods.

I was afterward informed that the spectacle I had witnessed was simply the natural course of a Samoan feast, that they always ended the same way and I was indeed fortunate to have secured a taste or so of my pigeon.—Los Angeles Times.

ORIGIN OF DWARFS PUZZLES SCIENTISTS

Old Age Infantile Characteristics Still Persist, Notwithstanding Their Wizened Appearance

Dwarfs have always been a puzzle to scientists, whether they are human beings, animals, or plants. Some of the difficulties of understanding the origin of the human ones were cleared away by Professor Hastings Gilford in his lecture at the Royal College of Surgeons, London. Of course, there are whole races of dwarfish human beings, but the kind of person who especially deserves the name is one who is conspicuously small amongst his own people. Most of these diminutive folk, often called midgets, are really, according to Professor Gilford, endowed with the gift of perpetual youth—not altogether a desirable gift, as any reader of fairy tales will know. It was once thought, he said, that midgets were people whose growth had suddenly been arrested. This was not so. The professor pointed out that in many cases "the so-called dwarfs or midgets are not in reality the result of a stoppage of growth, but rather of a protracted delay in development, so that they remain infants all their lives. When they grow old, as they often do, their infantile characteristics still persist. Dr. Gilford gave many quaint instances Dr. Gilford gav many quaint instances where their smallness and their babyish minds stood dwarfs in good stead. One mannikin, he said, travelled whenever he cared to go on the railway with half a ticket until he was 30 years old; another intelligent child of 14 years got through more easily still, for his mother or any other woman who cared to escape the responsibility could carry him about as a baby in arms.

This intense prolongation of the period of childhood was really something very much akin to a disease. The lecturer classified it into many forms, but said of the many specimens he had met and examined: "They seem to be intelligent and captivating little people, their intelligence being of the childish pattern, such as might be expected of young people who had gathered years of experience. They never seem to be spoiled or even embarrassed by the attentions they receive from the public, but show quaint childish traits and a charming naïveté which makes them great favorites with those who [illegible]

[illegible] naturally [illegible] dwarfs [illegible] kinds, but few of these [illegible] quite distinct. [illegible] grow harder with age instead of remaining, as in the other class, [illegible] like those of little children. [illegible] as in the first case, the bones begin to harden, other changes often happen, and the midgets become a strange compound of adult and child. [illegible] often rejoice," said Professor Gilford, "in beards and moustaches, and some of them have become the proud fathers and mothers of diminutive beings like themselves."

Hanging Out Clothes

If clothes-pins are well heated in the oven before hanging out clothes, the fingers will not become chilled.

Unscrewing a Cover

If the top of a jar or can is difficult to unscrew, try clasping it first with a piece of sandpaper. Then the grip is firmer and more efficacious.

KEEPING THE SKIN SOFT

An excellent cold cream may be made at home, thus ensuring that it contains no ingredients harmful to the skin. Time and use has shown it is much the best ointment for preserving and softening the skin that is known: White wax, one-half ounce; spermaceti, one-half ounce; lanolin, one ounce; sweet almond oil, two ounces; cocoanut oil, one ounce.

Take off the fire and beat until cold, adding, little by little, two ounces of orange flower water, to which five drops of tincture of benzoin have been added. Be sure to beat the ingredients constantly until quite cold. They must be of the best and purest quality, and the druggist from whom they are purchased must weigh them carefully.

After wiping off all the cream dust your face and neck with a pure powder.

SKILL IN PLANNING MEALS

How the Printed Menu Card Originated Years Ago

There is, says a writer on the construction of menus, a decided art in planning a menu, and the cook or housekeeper who is to succeed must have imagination as a guide, a knowledge of foodstuffs and their value, and a resolution to avoid the obvious and prevent the monotony that is the deadly foe of gastronomical ambition. The little homely menu of soup, meat and vegetables, and a sweet, is quite simply arranged, but even its selection takes both ingenuity and skill. Thought, originality, novelty, simplicity and taste go to the construction of all menus. Three points have to be given due emphasis where catering is to be done in the wider sense—the choice of food, the cooking of the various dishes and methods of serving.

The best-planned menu may be spoiled if the cook is indifferent, for all food should be of first-class quality, plates hot or cold as required, and every course served exactly. Choice rather than quantity is the motto of the hostess of to-day. The late Earl of Dudley considered the following a dinner for an epicure: A good clear soup, a turbotin, neck of venison, duckling and green peas or a chicken with asparagus and a fruit tart.

Emperors who feasted copiously and sumptuously had no menu card, so they often spoiled their enjoyment of a banquet by eating too much of one dish, and finding themselves compelled to pass over something they specially liked. In days when 50 courses were not extraordinary this might easily occur. The Duge of Brunswick in 1541 got the master of the kitchen to write out the list of dishes, and he kept it under his plate and consulted it as the banquet proceeded. The idea became popular and gradually led on to the printed menu of to-day.

A MONEY-MAKING IDEA

Women Should Find Ready Sale For Automobile Comforts

There are great money-making possibilities for the woman who will supply the demand, or even anticipate the demand, for automobile "comforts." People sometimes do not realise how uncomfortable they have been until you show them how really comfortable they might be. Among the comforts a woman can make are eiderdown bags, into which the feet are thrust, and which are drawn well up over the lap. Eiderdown caps and gloves may be made to match the bags; or instead of bags some prefer leggings which fasten closely. Chest protectors may also be made either of chamois skin or of silk well lined with paper.

Besides articles of wearing apparel there is a demand for other things for the automobile. One is a traveller's case made with pockets to contain comb, brush, and other toilet accessories. A cushion is not amiss. Heavy robes are also in demand. Linen bags that button up are useful for stowing away articles that must be kept free from dust.

EXTRACTED FROM FLOWERS

Flavor of This Pure Sweet Varies According to Its Source

Honey, the sweet juice of flowers prepared for our tables by the honey bee, is the purest and most delicate sweet ever known. The working bees extract it from the flowers and carry it to the waiting comb in the hive. Its fine flavor is not always the same, though it is usually delectable. In the west great stretches of blooming sage furnish honey to millions of bees, and this sage honey is highly esteemed for medicinal, as well as table purposes. It has a wild, sharp tang, very different from the dark colored, cloyingly sweet honey made from the buckwheat-fed bees or the clear, clover honey.

Honey candles or crystallizes when it becomes chilled, and if heated returns to syrup again, but the comb hardens and may be taken out when the honey is cool. Kept in a temperature around 70, honey will never sugar or spoil, as this is the average temperature of the beehive.

Honey Cakes: These cakes will keep as long as you can keep the key to the cook box hidden. One pint of strained honey, half a pound of powdered sugar, half a pound of butter, the juice of one lemon, one nutmeg grated. Put these ingredients in a mixing bowl and place in a pan of warm water until the butter is soft and the mass slightly warm. Then beat with a cake spoon, and when well mixed add enough flour to make a dough that will roll out in a paste half an inch thick. Cut in rounds and bake in an oven with good bottom heat.

Apples, sweetened with honey and baked, and then served with rice, are a very fine breakfast dish well liked and often met with in France.

Removing Cakes From the Pan

Sometimes the paper which has been used for lining the cake pan sticks to the cake. Warm the loaf slightly; then it may be the more easily removed.

Soap-Stone For Iron Stand

To retain the heat in irons buy a square soap-stone and use it for an iron stand. The irons will stay hot twice as long.

HOW PEOPLE FEEL When They Have TAPE WORM

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, pure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale [illegible], or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

King George, one of the most ardent collectors of stamps in the country, [illegible] Douglas Armstrong's book on Stamp Collecting, which he has read with the greatest interest.

It appears that an Austrian nobleman, Herr von Ferrary, residing in Paris, has the most valuable collection, its value being placed at $5,000,000.

The finest collection in America is that of George Worthington, of Cleveland, Ohio. It is ranked second among the world's collections.

The leading English collection is undoubtedly that formed by H. J. Duveen, which, although begun as recently as 1892, is probably of equal intrinsic value to the Worthington collection.

Probably the leading collection of the stamps of Great Britain, after that of the late Earl of Crawford, is the property of Sydney Loder, and is valued at something like $90,000.

THE CANAL INVESTIGATION

The leading journals of Canada such as The Gazette, The Montreal Star, The Montreal Mail, etc., continue to comment at length on the facts brought in evidence concerning the T.V.C. investigation. There is no room for denial since the wrong doings were finally admitted when documentary and other evidence confronted the witnesses. It is clearly understood that respectable citizens have had their names made use of to conceal the misdeeds of others but the plain facts remain and have caused more severe comment in the press than even The N.T.R.

NO REEIABLE NEWS FROM VILLA

Confusion accumulates as to what has happened at the center of military operations in Mexico. Yesterday afternoon reports appearing positive and authoritative were published at Juarez and El Paso that Torreon had fallen. Dispatches signed by Gen. Villa bearing this news were said to have been received. Even some description was ventured of the final attack on such parts of the stronghold as remained in the federals' hands and the slaughter was said to have been terrible on both sides, the dead numbering approximately two thousand — it was asserted to have been the fiercest battle in the history of Mexican warfare. Villa was represented as saying he would move toward the capital as soon as his victorious troops were rested, that he believed Huerta would flee from the country immediately, and that the people of Mexico City would receive the constitutionalists with open arms.

All this seemed so particularized as to leave no doubt that Torreon had been taken, but it was all made again questionable when late last night the authenticity of the information was impeached and denial made that anything whatever had been received over the wires with Villa's signature. A telegram to the operator at Gomez Palacio, a suburb of Torreon, brought a reply that the commander had directed that no statement of the situation should be sent out. Torreon may have been captured, Villa may have been repulsed, so far as any advices to which unreserved credence can be given are concerned.

Cure Children's Colds By External Treatment

Mothers Will Find Nothing So Speedily and Reliable as Old-Time "Nerviline."

It's really a shame to upset a young child's stomach by internal dosing, when external treatment will so promptly break up a cold.

When your boy comes in after play with his feet soaking wet, his throat hoarse and sore, his little chest tight and congested just apply Nerviline. Give him a vigorous rubbing over his throat, and put lots of Nerviline on his chest and rub it right in. To make Nerviline penetrate more quickly cover his chest and throat with a hot flannel bandage. This treatment WON'T fail. Your boy will be feeling better in half an hour, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing you have warded off perhaps a cold, or grippe, or illness that might have laid him up.

Nerviline is mighty good for preventing colds and for breaking up a bad one, too. For general family use it is cures all sorts of external aches and pains—you simply can't beat it. Try it for earache, toothache, neuralgia, sciatica, lame back, rheumatism, or lumbago. Wherever there is congestion inflammation or pain in the joints or muscles, Nerviline will cure mighty quick. The large 50c. family size bottle is so economical, so useful, it should be in every home. There is also a small 25c. size. Dealers everywhere sell Nerviline.

Buying For Posterity

The supply of antiques is of necessity limited, and is less every year. Leaving out the matter of a personal association, it is difficult to see why the well-made reproduction of a fine classic design is not as desirable as the antique. And if it seems less so, one consolation is available, the thought that while the antique which was so earnestly desired would quite possibly have been on its last legs, the reproduction may gladden several generations after death has parted ourselves from it.

Signals at Grade Crossings

Danger signals at grade crossings being installed by one of the eastern railroads are expected to prove to be very effective. As soon as a train comes within a mile of the crossing the signal shows a red light and a gong that can be heard 500 yards away begins to ring. Both warnings continue to act until the train has passed, when the gong ceases and the red light changes to white. Should the wires become deranged, or should anything happen to the mechanism, the signal on the disk flashes to danger and remains there until repairs are made.

SELECTION OF RUGS

Beauty of Color and Design is Not Monopoly of Oriental Rugs

For years after tacitly accepting the innovation of rugs, the great majority of people bought them with little judgment and discrimination. That day, however, is past; and one is supposed, now, to know rugs and runners even as they know Chippendale from Sheraton, Cloissonne from Satsuma or Lowestoft from Spode.

In the home library a large center rug is usually chosen upon which to place the [illegible]; but in drawing rooms with polished hardwood floors we more frequently see several ones distributed over the space. When one large rug is used it is usually a fine Kermanshah, Sarouk or Khiva rug, if Oriental; though a reversible Smyrna rug is frequently used with good effect, as are other rugs in Wilton, Body Brussels and Axminster. These latter rugs are woven by a prosy machine instead of a picturesque worker in a fez and flowing garments who ties the myriad knots on his time-hallowed hand loom; but when the best foreign models are copied the machine-made product is very satisfactory as a floor covering, and lends itself to artistic furnishing. Not only is this true of Smyrna, Wilton and Axminster, but rugs of other weaves, even less expensive, such as ingrain and the like, have reached a standard of the highest excellence in design and coloring.

Those for bedrooms are in the softest tints and tones imaginable, mostly plain centers with subdued almost invisible, borders; and these make perfect backgrounds for furniture of the eighteenth century types, with hangings of English chintz.

Varnish on White Goods

Varnish stains will be easily removed from white goods by moistening the stain with ammonia. Then put on a few drops of turpentine and roll it up. Leave it rolled for about fifteen minutes, then wash out with soapy water, rinse thoroughly and dry in the sun.

Fortune Telling Popular

Crystal gazing and fortune telling are on the increase in high society in London, Eng., and the seer and seeress who succeed in getting an aristocratic clientele are prosperous people. Even royalty is not exempt from the desire to see into the future. Queen Alexandra has one of the finest collections of crystals in existence, and one or two new ones were added to it at Christmas. Her majesty's sister, the Empress Dowager of Russia, who is most enthusiastic regarding occult subjects, invariably consults several seers when she is in England. There is one special one who has long and intimate conversations with the imperial lady, and sometimes stays with her for several days at a time at Sandringham. She is supposed to have foretold all that happened to the young Czarewitch. The seer is often engaged to amuse a house party. In some quarters, [illegible] regular yearly salary from certain families, and is expected to attend when required.

Disappearing Forests

Of the dense tropical forests of mahogany, cedar and other valuable hardwoods that once covered the islands of the Carribean, there are left among the Northern Islands, only Dominica in the Leewards and St. Lucia in the Windwards that have any portions of these forests still standing. In Barbados, Antigua, Montserrat, St. Vincent and Grenada, the forests have disappeared. Trinidad, Jamaica and British Guiana, however, have escaped denudation, on account of the difficulty of reaching the interior since no rail nor waterways exist by which the lumber could be got out. In these colonies although the coast line has been cleared and lumbering operations pushed for a few miles into the back country, a large area of timberland still remains in each colony from which is annually drawn a considerable "cut."

Great Britain and Ireland, having not much over half the population of the United States, have about 600,000 more union laborers.

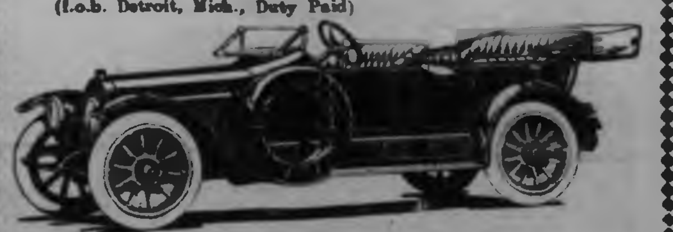
The Hudson Six-54, $2950

(f.o.b. Detroit, Mich., Duty Paid)



The Economy of the HUDSON Six

In an automobile motor with 300 cubic inches combustion space (used merely as an example) to divide it into four cylinders means 75 cubic inches to each cylinder. To divide it into six means 50 cubic inches to each cylinder. Yet the TOTAL remains the same. Hence the fact that a Six can burn no more gasoline than a four of equal power. The smooth running of the Six means tire saving. It isn't mileage that wears tires excessively—it's jerks, jars, slips and slides. The HUDSON Six moves smoothly with no vibration. You save gasoline, oil, tires, and general upkeep when you drive a HUDSON Six. We have proved this in public contests against the best Fours built.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realize its great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheel-base, motor 4¼ x 5¼, developing 55 horse power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4050. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3¼x5, developing 47 horse power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $2300, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted, left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. Catalog on request. Demonstrations as arranged. Prices f. o. b. Detroit, Mich. Duty paid.

Aids for the Complexion May Be Made at Home

By MAGGIE TEYTE

Prima Donna Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company.

HOW to make complexion lotions is a question which confronts many women who have realized they are any good and wish to try them. It is not difficult work, but it demands care and time. There is no use in trying to [illegible] hurry through the operation of making a cold cream and expect success. One must also follow the directions closely. The manner of mixing is another thing which demands close attention.

One of the best authorities says all good cold creams have fat as their basis. Another says never should wax or spermaceti be used, as they simply fill the pores and make it difficult for the skin to throw off impurities. Before a woman decides on making a cold cream just because she has the rule, it is wisdom for her to find what is needed in her skin. Some skins are starved for oils. Others need something to lessen the oily secretions. There is no general rule for a cream which can be applied to all skins with the same result.

Whenever cold cream is to be made it is necessary to have a double boiler, which should be of some porcelain instead of metal substance, unless it be of aluminum, a silver fork and an accurate measuring cup. It is also well to have an egg beater, for there are many times when the mass can be made creamy only by the thorough and vigorous beating which is possible with one.

In buying the ingredients always patronize a [illegible] druggist in whom you have confidence, for careless clerks may have the idea that "something else is just as good." Substitution often spoils the cream.

First, the fats and oils must be melted and mixed till the mass is smoothly blended. Then the [illegible] must be added very [illegible] and steadily [illegible] egg water may be used for the [illegible] mingling of all the ingredients.

[illegible] have a tight [illegible] serious effect [illegible]. The addition of perfumes keeps creams from growing rancid. I know women who always keep their cold creams in the ice box, closely covered. This prolongs the time of sweetness. There is [illegible] warning to give, and that concerns the amount of heat to be used. It is best to have the ingredients only hot enough to melt and mix them. Letting them reach the point of simmering frequently means a failure.

With a little care success should crown the efforts of the home-made cream or lotion, and there is great satisfaction in knowing exactly what one is using on her face.

Here is one of the best cold creams for a dry skin, or to use in case of sunburn or exposure to the elements:

Take four ounces of almond oil and an ounce each of spermaceti and white wax, and two ounces of cucumber juice. Chop the cucumbers fine and then pound them to a paste and squeeze out the juice through a fine cheese cloth bag. Melt the oils and mix and add the cucumber juice slowly. If you wish to perfume, use a small portion of your favorite extract. I think where there is any doubt about the kind of perfume it is always safe to use violet.

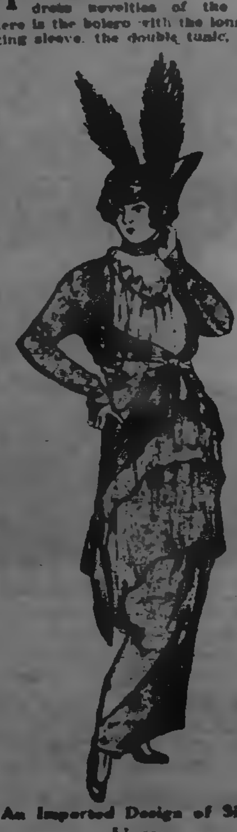
Novelties in Afternoon Gowns

By Madge Marvel

HERE is an imported afternoon costume which shows several of the dress novelties of the season. There is the bolero with the long, close-fitting sleeve, the double tunic, the odd sash arrangement which gives the upward front slant and is tied low on the skirt in the back, making the effect of bouffant drapery, and the neckband of black velvet, which many women are wearing for street dress when the neck [illegible] collarless.



An Imported Design of Simple Lines.

The little blouse gathers simply into the neck with a ruffle of the muslin which forms the blouse, and it is held in place with a narrow ribbon. The gown also illustrates the popularity of two materials. The skirt is of brown taffeta and the bolero and tunic of silk crepe.

Brown in the soft shades, which have more hint of yellow than of red, will be well liked this season. It is a color which has been reckoned as more suitable for winter wear than for summer, but this year there are so many delightful soft shades shown in linen and crepe that the effect of coolness is preserved.

Jonquil yellow and willow green, which has the tone of yellow predominant, rather than gray, are good in combination with brown.

In almost all instances the brown gown is made more effective if the lace used for trimming and guimpe has a creamy tint. Dead white is never as harmonious.

There is a new fabric that has just made its appearance, which will prove a close rival to net and chiffon. It is quite as sheer as the latter and wears very much better. It has more the suggestion of linen than of silk in its weave, and is said to wash perfectly. It is being used for the ruffles that finish so many of the fashionable sleeves, as well as for guimpes and separate blouses. It is wide and about the price of chiffon.

Tassels of silk and beads and tinsels will remain in vogue for trimming the summer gown. In fact there are dainty tassels of linen and mercerized cotton which will be used on the linen frocks.

When one walks through the shops where the summer fabrics are displayed she is impressed with the brightness of the colors and the joyfulness of the designs. Yellow and orange are sure to be used by many designers for the cunning little coatees which are so charming over white gowns. There are also several new shades of red that are particularly attractive in the linens. The blues are all in fresh, clear tones and the greens are soft and cool.

For those who are ever loyal to that standard fabric, foulard, the weavers have a pleasant surprise. The new foulards are in extra widths and firm weaves and are patterned in the newest designs and most brilliant colors. For example, on a dark blue background there are queer lozenges of shaded orange with a green dash in the centre and a wavy line of green outlining them. And they are scattered about in such a pleasing disarray all sense of gaudiness is dispelled.

On a dull green background funny Chinese figures appear in faded pinks and Delft blues with now and then a streak of yellow.

A black and white silk patterned in wavy lines is brightened by a scattering of shaded pink wild roses. Buttercups blossom in a golden riot on a wood brown silk.

In fact the patterns are so bewilderingly lovely and the variety of fabrics so generous, the choosing of just one frock becomes a difficult task.

EACH LIFE HAS A MUSICAL KEY

Anna Bussert

Singer Explains New Theory of Success

By Cecile Manning

THERE is a distinct musical key for each and every human life. Success, happiness, health, conjugal felicity, prosperity, all depend upon whether you are in tune with yourself and in musical harmony with your associates. This is the theory of Anna Bussert, the contralto.

"Comparatively few persons know the musical key in which their life is written," she said to me. "That accounts for many discouragements in spite of earnest efforts. It also accounts for more than half the unhappy marriages. We all know how distressing it is to listen to any musical instrument which is out of tune. No matter how skilful the player, there is nothing but discord. Even wonderful technique and exquisite musical understanding have no power to overcome the defect.

"There is no musical instrument made which seems to be so delicate or so sensitive as the human being. And it is a fact that the finer the instrument the more susceptible it is to the slightest discord. We cry out in pain at the sound which the out-of-tune piano or violin or 'cello gives out. We beg for silence. We seek expert aid in bringing the faulty instrument back to its rightful harmony. Yet lives out of tune go on in jangling discord, and no one seems to know what is the cause of the lack of harmony. Least of all does the individual himself know.

"Partnerships in matrimony or business are formed without the slightest regard to harmony. Then the members of the firm [illegible] unhappy, unsuccessful [illegible].

"And they are not the only sufferers. The discord reaches far and makes others [illegible]able, and these others don't know where the fault lies.

"Persons who belong in the lower register [illegible] tones live quavering and [illegible] lives in an attempt to keep in the upper register. They don't belong there. They have no place there. They are out of their element. Yet it never occurs to them to find their right key and live it.

"How shall one recognize her key? It is such a psychic problem I can hardly reduce it to a rule like that for making a cheese souffle or a lemon meringue pie. But I believe each person can set herself in tune if she will honestly try. We meet the perfect tuned person every little while, and we know her instantly. There is the soothing effect of absolute harmony, the sense of perfect rhythm, the sureness of the true artist.

"I think if we treated ourselves as well as we do our lifeless possessions, our jewels, our houses, our pianos, we would come nearer an approach to harmony. We would gradually find the key in which we are written, and, having found it, keeping in tune should be comparatively easy, unless we are totally tone-deaf."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

Don't Think That All Who Pay You Attention Are in Love With You.

Dear Annie Laurie—A young man has been paying me a good deal of attention. He takes me to picture shows and places like that, and every once in a while he comes to the house to spend the evening.

He seems to think a good deal of me, but he never says a word about it. What do you think is the matter? How can I encourage him to tell his love?

RESERVED.

TELL his love—how do you know he has any to tell?

Are you such an irresistible creature that nobody can look at you without an attack of heart failure?

What is there so fascinating about you? Have you long, dark, curling lashes like the girl in the book you read going home in the elevated, or is there some mysterious glamour in your deep alluring eyes?

Do you walk with the lithe step of the panther, and is your figure one of sinuous curves that no mortal man can look upon and resist?

Or are you just a nice, pleasant looking little girl with a clean face and well manicured hands?

Come to, little girl, come to. Wake up out of that trance. You'll feel better, and so will every one else who has to deal with you.

The young man probably likes you well enough and doesn't know where else to spend his evenings.

Why don't you like him well enough and spend your evenings pleasantly with him and let it go at that?

When he falls in love with you he'll let you know it all right, and he won't have to get wrecked at sea and send you a wireless to do it, either.

Can't you girls think of a thing on earth but desperate love affairs?

There's so much in the world to enjoy, so much to see, so much to do—why must you insist on dragging every poor, inoffensive young man who tries to be nice to you, just because he is nice, and wants to think that you are, to the very verge of the altar with you.

I don't blame men for wearing mental blinders these days.

Some girls think a man is going mad with love of them if he just offers them a piece of fudge.

Sighs, hand holdings, looks that speak volumes—alas, they're common coin of the realm.

It's a game—the whole thing with most young fellows and the girls they admire.

Just a light-hearted, foolish, sentimental, comparatively harmless game.

Why don't you play the game with your partner, and play it according to the rules? You know them well enough, if you'd only stop and think a minute.

You know when a man is really in love with you and when you're just making yourself believe he is.

Be careful; sometimes he doesn't like that sort of make-believe.

Men are no shy, timid mice; they can speak for themselves all right if you'll just give them a chance.

No man ever really loved a woman in his life without being perfectly able to tell her of it in some way that she couldn't keep from understanding to save her life.

When the young man who takes you to the picture shows falls in love with you and wants you to know it he'll tell you of it.

You don't have to consult a fortune-teller to get at the state of his feelings.

Go on to the picture show with him so long as it's a perfectly good show. Make a plate of fudge for him the next time he comes up; play "Oh, You Beautiful Doll" on the pianola and show him the latest steps of the latest tango; laugh and have fun, that's what you're here for at your age, and don't slip your shawl over your head and run down the road to meet poor, pale, sad-eyed love before you have to.

That visitor will knock at the door of your heart soon enough, never fear.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care this office.

Great Novels in a Nutshell

"Sense and Sensibility"

Condensed from the JANE AUSTEN novel by HELEN S. GRAY.

THIS NOVEL deals with the sense of Elinor Dashwood and the sensibility of her sister Marianne. At the opening of the story Mrs. Dashwood is left a widow with three daughters, and only £10,000 to support them. Her husband's son, by a former wife, inherits the bulk of the property. He and his family take immediate possession. His wife, Fanny, is so selfish and disagreeable that Mrs. Dashwood moves to Devonshire, where a cousin of hers, Sir John Middleton, has written her he has a cottage for rent. Meantime her eldest daughter, Elinor, and Edward Ferrars, who has been visiting his sister Fanny, fall in love with each other. He is a good-hearted young man with many admirable qualities, but very shy.

Sir John invites the Dashwoods every day or two to his house. It is there that the Dashwoods meet Col. Brandon.

Marianne, Mrs. Dashwood's second daughter, is out walking one day. A sudden rain comes up. She runs for the house, trips and sprains her ankle. Just at that moment along comes a "nice young man," Mr. Willoughby, and carries her home. Thereafter he calls frequently. He takes her to look over [illegible] country house he expects to inherit. They are so obviously in love with each other her family and others take it for granted they are engaged. One day he suddenly leaves without saying anything about coming back and does not write. Marianne keeps by herself as much as possible and lies awake nights, thinking of him.

The Steele girls come to visit at Sir John's. Lucy Steele is a professional flatterer. Lucy tells Elinor she had been engaged to Edward Ferrars for four years, ever since he was a pupil in her uncle's care. Elinor bears the news with forced composure.

Elinor and Marianne spend the winter in London with Mrs. Jennings. Marianne writes to Mr. Willoughby that she is in town. He calls when she is out. She writes again. No answer. At a ball she meets him and he slights her. She writes the next day, demanding an explanation. His reply informs her that he is soon to be married to Miss Grey. This is a terrible blow to Marianne.

Not long after Col. Brandon calls and tells Elinor that Willoughby had seduced a young girl whose guardian he, Col. Brandon, is. When the old lady whose heir he expected to be heard of the episode, she declared she would disinherit him unless he married the girl. This he [illegible] he left suddenly for London and began courting an heiress.

Edward Ferrars's mother and sister are planning what they consider an excellent match for him with a girl who has £30,000. They are very insolent to Elinor in order to show their disapproval of her as a prospective wife for Edward. They are prostrated when they hear that he is engaged to Lucy Steele. Thinking she is sincerely attached to him, Edward is too honorable to break the engagement, and his mother disinherits him as her eldest son in favor of his younger brother.

Marianne has indulged her grief so much that she now has an attack of fever, but recovers.

News now reaches the Dashwoods that Lucy and Edward are married. Edward shortly arrives. He says his engagement to Lucy was the result of his extreme youth and of idleness, that he had long ceased to care for her, and now she has eloped with his brother. He asks Elinor to marry him and is accepted. Col. Brandon, who is rich and influential, gets him a position as a clergyman. Lucy's flatteries effect a reconciliation with Mrs. Ferrars. So it turns out that the coxcomb son is rewarded for doing the very thing Edward was disinherited for. Marianne marries Col. Brandon.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Study Your "Instincts;" Make Best Ones Habits

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirshberg

THERE are many [illegible] abused words in the English language. Many persons use many words with little thought of their real meaning. Indeed it is extraordinary how seldom the thoughts which lie behind words give a true reflection of the word's meaning.

Instinct and intuition are two such words. Ask yourself their real portent. You will confess that you do not know. Yet the one has to do with apprehension and the other with inheritance.

There is, too, this word apprehension. It does not mean, as you suppose, to understand. It means to take in by way of your senses. Inheritance likewise is not thoroughly [illegible] you only because your father or your mother did so and [illegible].

Briefly, inheritance is that which comes to you through the remote past, from ancestors beyond the second and third generation.

Even Shakespeare [illegible] Homer nods in the uses of the words "instinct" and "intuition." "Instinct," [illegible] Falstaff, "is a great matter; I [illegible] a coward by instinct."

Coriolanus puts it thus: "I'll never be such a gosling to obey instinct, but stand as if a man were author of himself and knew no other kin."

Instincts are the heredity blends of all of the helpful, therefore to be sure, oft-repeated, habits of the past.

What Instinct Is.

Ants, bees, wasps, spiders and other creatures when born arrive at once at a well-nigh perfect stage of work and co-operation. This is the accumulated inheritance in each "species" of race.

An unhatched chick pecks its way out of the eggshell by this instinct. A cat curls up before a fire for the same reason. Some savants maintain that instincts are inherited reasoning.

The spider's touch, how exquisitely fine!
Feels at each thread, and lives along the line;
In the nice bee what sense so subtly true
From poisonous herbs extracts the healing dew?
How instinct varies in the grovelling swine,
Compared, half-reasoning elephant, with thine.
'Twixt that and reason what a nice barrier,
Forever separate, yet forever near!

Many instincts are transient. If, at the time that [illegible] things are favorable for its adaptation and growth, a habit is formed in its place.

In short, an instinct useful and pleasant grows into a habit. Most instincts, however, are smothered out, changed, or switched into a new track.

Even in the brute world a new environment and changing conditions are always at work to modify, annihilate, or exaggerate instincts.

The natural instinct of kittens to pursue mice may be easily directed into less inimical channels. The mere association of the "happy family" of the circus is an example. Prof. Yerkes, Prof. Watson, and the other physiologists, have exhibited abundant proof that useless, even wicked, instincts, if taken in puppyhood, can be made valuable.

Right Conduct Necessary.

Dr. Montessori has applied this idea in a concrete way to children. She has merely adopted the discus-throwing feats of Greek children and the modern psychological discovery that mankind learns more quickly, more permanently, and more fruitfully, 90 times in the hundred, from muscular touch.

The very day a child is born it, like a chick, a kitten, or a bee, shows some instinct. The caterpillar may nibble a leaf, the mosquito may dry its wings. But an infant will cry, suck its thumb, or avoid cold and light.

The kicking, squirming, rolling, yelling and tossing of a babe are instincts to be suppressed, encouraged, or guided [illegible]. [illegible] to [illegible] tendencies and [illegible] life most human instincts, if allowed free play, would make man lapse back into mere animals.

[illegible] even the maternal instinct which impels most mothers to pick up a baby whenever it cries, to give a child everything it wants, and to administer her own "instinctive" remedies for a child's complaints—all these are usually harmful from the viewpoint of human progress.

There is no human instinct, however honest a volunteer it may be, which never overshoots the mark. Instincts are correct for the lower animals, because with them it is merely a question of strength and physical fitness.

Human instincts never hit. They are either too short or too wide of aim. Hence it behooves everyone to begin to teach babies, to train and improve each coming generation at the earliest possible moment.

A few sound rules of conduct are worth all the instincts in the world. Definitely conscious, as well as conscientious intelligence, surpasses the best instincts, because even a superior instinct depends upon judgement for perfection.

Answers to Health Questions

[illegible], Toronto, [illegible].—I have been deaf for five years, and am now treating my ears with almond oil. A brown discharge has begun. What causes this?

Never use oil in the ears. It does serious damage: if you are deaf, buy a phonograph and all sorts of vocal records and apply the different voices to your ears three times a day. The human voice—sonorous vibrations, it is called—is what you need practice with. Use at least three different voices each time.

Syringe your ears with boric acid water.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

IT WAS Sunday afternoon and Brer Rabbit was taking a snooze when the door bell rang. Up jumped Brer Rabbit, as if some one had fired a gun.

"I wonder who it is?" he said to himself, as he went to the door. There were the Squirrel children all in a row.

"Please, Brer Rabbit, we came over to have you tell us a story," said Sammy Squirrel.

"My! My!" exclaimed Brer Rabbit. "Where did you children hear about my stories?"

"Billy told us about the Indian stories," said Sammy, as the Squirrel children came in. Billy and Jack Rabbit came from up stairs and the children all gathered around as Brer Rabbit told them this story:

"Silver Star, the Indian boy, and his sister Ka-wash-a were in the cave which they used for a play house. They had a piece of venison which they were going to cook for supper, and how do you suppose they started the fire?"

The children all guessed that Silver Star started the fire with a match.

"My dear little folks, Indians did not have matches. Silver Star had his bow and arrow and he took a stick instead of the arrow and placed the end of the stick on some dried leaves. He placed the string of the bow in such a way as to make the stick go round and round. This made the point of the stick so warm that the leaves became hot and they soon made a merry little blaze.

"Ka-wash-a put some wood on the fire and a flat rock over it and in a few minutes the venison was sizzling over the fire.

"But the Indian children had not thought that their home was full of dry leaves and that the fire might spread. Silver Star, brave boy that he was, did not get frightened. Rushing to the back of the cave he seized a blanket and running up smothered the fire. He then pulled Ka-wash-a to the open air.

"'We have lost our venison,' sobbed Ka-wash-a. 'Yes,' said Silver Star, 'but we are safe, and the next time we will have to make a stove so that our fire will not spread.'

"Ka-wash-a put her hand in Silver Star's and they went home together."

"What a beautiful story," said Sammy Squirrel.

"Haven't we a great father!" exclaimed Billy Bunny.

All the Squirrel children gave Brer Rabbit a kiss and a hug and he was very happy.

Destroying an Island

Breaking up an island is a feature of the construction of the great naval dockyard at Rosyth, Scotland, which is going on night and day uninterruptedly, except for the usual Sunday rest, there being over 3,000 men engaged in the work. An interesting feature of the work is the destruction of a whole island composed of whinstone. It lies right in the line of the channel and lock leading to the main basin, through which the largest battleships will be able to pass. Twice a day blasting operations are carried out, and the island is being conveyed ashore piecemeal, to be crushed by the stone-breaking machines for use with concrete.

To remove grease spots from a kitchen floor sprinkle soda on the spot, then put on boiling water and scrub well with a scrubbing brush.

VESTEES OF BROCADED SILK ARE HELD IN PLACE BY A BROAD GIRDLE OR A SINGLE ORNAMENT.

It is predicted that white will again be very popular this summer; certainly nothing is more suited to the season, is cooler or daintier. There will be tailormades of white and coats and capes as well. Poplins, ratine, velvet, rep, moire and taffeta are all being shown in white for these purposes. On coats and capes that flare slightly at the bottom, and it is necessary that they do, it is modish to have a colored lining. Another pretty touch is the vestee of silk gauze held in place by a single ornament of passementerie, lapis lazuli or amber or a broad, contrasting girdle.

The costume shown in 8175-8255 shows the effectiveness of such a vest. White ratine is the material used, with collar, revers and girdle of black satin; the vest of brocaded silk gauze crosses surplice fashion and extends below the girdle in two broad tabs. A two gored, modishly draped skirt is another smart touch.

This costume requires for size 36, 3¾ yards of 42 inch material for the blouse (8175) and 2¾ yards of the same width for the skirt (8255). A simple, one-piece frock developed in white cloth is shown in the other design; it has a collar and girdle of printed tussah and, by way of novelty, a large, square belt buckle. A full length raglan sleeve is a feature, and a straight, three-piece skirt completes the dress.

For size 36 this design needs 4½ yards of 36 inch material.

GREAT IS THE VOGUE OF THE FLARE.

A flare somewhere 'twixt head and toe is absolutely necessary this season; it may be at the collar, the hip or the feet, but it must come in. Premet brought in the flare; a Premet frock displayed the first bustle and the first Gladstone or "Margot" collar. This collar, which stands away from the throat somewhat, is wonderfully becoming and is a strong favorite. Draperies of all sorts are used to give the bustle effect; in some instances it is merely a ruffle or two of taffetas or a puff of chiffon arranged to stand out a trifle in back and over each hip. It is perfectly safe to predict that the old fashioned bustle of wire or hair will never again put in an appearance. The pannier, somewhat modified, is being shown in both wool and silk materials.

The afternoon frock displayed in No. 8147 is developed in one of the fashionable silk crepes which is so well suited to the pannier and puffs of the moment. In this frock we have the flaring collar and the panniered hip.

To copy this design in size 36 requires 6⅝ yards of 36 inch material.

In No. 8127-8151 we have a double, puffed pannier and a smart, gathered kimono blouse. An effective silk tussah is used for this design in one of the new yellows that are so modish this season.

This costume requires for size 36, 2⅝ yards of 36 inch material for the bodice (8127) and 4⅛ yards of the same width for the skirt (8151).

No. 8147—sizes 34 to 42.

AIDS TO BEAUTY IN FOREIGN LANDS

How Women in Different Countries Strive to Follow in Fashion's Wake

There is nothing in which women are more united than the desire to be beautiful, and as a consequence many members of the fair sex attempt to increase their personal charms by artificial means. Specially is this so in foreign countries.

In order to appear beautiful the Burmah girl must have her ears bored. When she is quite young her mother gives a party, and all the guests look on while the girl is thrown on the ground and a golden wire thrust through the lobe of each ear and twisted into a ring. As soon as the wound is healed a bigger wire is put in, and this is followed by a bigger one, until the hole becomes as large in circumference as a man's thumb. Then a plug of gold or silver is put into the ear, and is worn there afterwards as an ornament.

To be considered a Tahitian beauty a lady must have a long nose, and in order to produce an elongated organ of smell she compresses it with wooden contrivances. The Hottentot lady, on the other hand, must have a broad, flat nose if she wishes to be considered pretty.

In some parts of the world the shape of the head is of the utmost importance, and the ladies will compress it into all manner of shapes. The females of Arakhan must, to be beautiful, have broad, smooth, flat foreheads, so when baby girls are born a plate of lead is tied to the head and kept there until the forehead is flatter than a pancake.

An Arabian baby girl, on the seventh day after birth, has six holes bored in her ears, and when she is two months old heavy gold rings are attached to them, which she is to wear throughout her lifetime.

The mutilation of the teeth is observed by many races. The female members of the Suada islanders blacken all their teeth but two with burned cocoanut, while the two excepted teeth are either pulled out and their place taken by gold ones or covered with plates of gold. The ladies of the Malay Archipelago file their teeth into points like those of a saw, and Arabian women not only file their teeth but color them, and stain their lips blue and their fingers and toes red.

In some of the islands of the Pacific the ladies are not considered fashionable unless they wear clothing of mulberry bark, which they beat with mallets and wash until all the soft parts of its substances have been taken out of it, leaving the textile portion only. Among the wealthy islanders it is the custom for a woman to wear a piece of mulberry bark as much as 30 or 40 feet in length, and this she wraps round her body in the manner of a robe.

DESTINY OF STALE BREAD

Much of It Goes to Customers—Food For Pigs and Chickens

What is done with stale bread in a city like Toronto? General opinion has it that a great amount of the "staff of life" which becomes damaged and stale, and is returned to the bakers, is thrown out and done away with, without having been made use of. Not so; enquiry elicited the information that in one week, five of Toronto's many bakers have the problem of disposing of 4,450 loaves of stale and damaged bread, divided as follows: North end baker, 2,500 loaves; East Toronto baker, 800 loaves, and three other bakers, one, 250 loaves, one, 100 loaves, and a fifth, 800 loaves, total 4,450 loaves. And how are they to rid themselves of all this bread you ask. It has been summed up as follows:

Customers	2,880 loaves
For sausages	510 loaves
Chickens	500 loaves
Institutions	250 loaves
Boarding houses	200 loaves
Pigs	60 loaves
	4 430 loaves

NORTH HONAN MISSIONS

Very Few Lepers Now, Says Mrs. McClure

Mrs. McClure, who has been for 25 years engaged in mission work in North Honan under the Presbyterian board, said that owing to the coldness of the climate, there were very few lepers in North Honan, and during her whole 25 years there had only seen two lepers. But in the southern part of Canton there are lepers by the thousands and one is in the midst of them with a spirit of dread. There are beggars there in large numbers, lepers, insane and others, thronging the streets and market places. In Canton there is a leper settlement and children's home under the American Presbyterian Mission and is aided by the Mission to Lepers.

TALKED OF THE STAGE

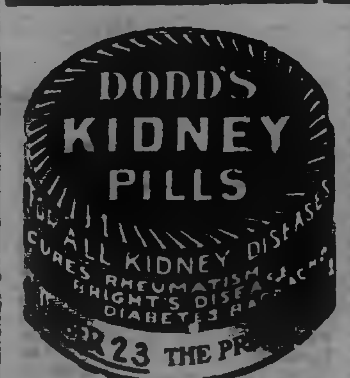
Observations of Yeats, the Irish Poet and Dramatist

William Butler Yeats, Irish poet, dramatist and mystic, in speaking before the Toronto Gaelic League, said the Irish theatre was a revolt against the artificiality of the politician and rhetorician, who desired to hide the ugly side of Irish life. The aim of the Irish writers was to present Ireland as it was, and to express their ideals in the language of the poet. Synge, for instance, based his much-abused play on a story told him in the Aran Islands. Speaking in more general terms of the new theatre and the movement initiated by Gordon Craig, Mr. Yeats said several writers were at present producing unrealistic plays for the new theatre from which realism will be banished. The absurdity of modern staging—as artificial lights and shadows—was pointed out. The new theatre, said the lecturer, was the result of a purely technical evolution of the theatre itself. Painted light and painted shadow, a heritage from the Italian Renaissance, was doomed, and the theatre of the future would have a stage made beautiful, but incapable of realism. The realism of the modern stage, he declared, was the expression of modern democracy. Poetical drama was essentially the drama of an aristocracy—an aristocracy of artists, of cultured men, and men of good taste—those who had been able to attain to leisure either by good fortune or by sacrifice. In the west of Ireland, said Mr. Yeats, the native Irish tongue was used to express emotion, and could be used by the poets. True beauty be defined as like true religious faith and a [illegible] as the least emotional of men. All emotional men were either practical men of affairs or bad artists.

IN DEFENCE OF LUMBER

Lumbermen Are Fighting Against Substitution of Other Materials

Lumbermen are naturally somewhat perturbed over the onslaught against the use of forest products and are commencing to demonstrate to the public that wood is much superior for certain purposes than any other material. However, in their fight against the substitution of other materials, lumbermen are handicapped through the fact that there is a growing scarcity of suitable material and also to the fact that the cost of all kinds of lumber is advancing year by year. In their efforts to overcome the cost of all kinds of lumber, experiments are being carried on under Government auspices, both in the United States and in Canada for the purpose of finding substitutes for the more expensive woods. By means of creosoting and otherwise treating the softer and cheaper grades of wood, lumbermen hope to demonstrate that the use of their products is in the best interests of the public.



QUEEN MARY OWNS NUMEROUS JEWELS

Her Majesty Wisely Had Her Jewelry Insured as She Acquired It

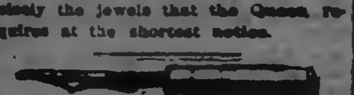
Queen Mary, as a rule, wears comparatively few ornaments, although when occasion demands she can rival any queen in Europe in the splendor of her gems, not even excepting the Czarina or the Queen of Spain.

It was computed when she was married that gems to the value of considerably over $500,000 were presented to Her Majesty, and these, of course, remain her personal property.

Considerable additions have been made to Her Majesty's jewels by Indian potentates. During the visit of the King and Queen to India, several rulers of leading Indian states were permitted to present to the Queen jewels—principally pearls—of a value that it is not easy to assess. Diamonds are Her Majesty's favorite gems, and she cares little for colored stones, although she has some exquisite emerald and ruby ornaments.

It was characteristic of the business-like ways of Her Majesty that when, upon her marriage, she came into possession of the nucleus of her present wonderful collection of jewellery, she took the eminently sensible precaution of having it valued for its intrinsic worth, and as soon as this valuations was complete the collection was insured for the amount. Since that time other policies have been taken out upon any additional jewels, including the Crown jewels, that have passed into her keeping, so that if the whole collection or any part of it were lost or destroyed, a sum sufficient to replace it would to a very large degree be forthcoming.

The whole of Her Majesty's jewels are, as a rule, kept at Buckingham Palace in strong rooms. Each of the shelves is lined with white velvet, and everything is so arranged that whole sets of jewels, orders, etc., can be kept together, making it a matter of very little difficulty to obtain precisely the jewels that the Queen requires at the shortest notice.



This isn't a fountain pen. It's simply a regular pen with two pen points in the holder instead of one. It will be found that by using a system like this 60 or 70 words can be written before it is necessary to dip the pen in the ink again. The space between the pens forms a small reservoir that feeds the ink to the points freely and easily. The upper pen point should be shoved into the holder just the least little bit further than the lower with which the writing is done.

Lindsay Brewery Closed.

Owing to the closing down of the Cornell Brewing Co., of Lindsay, there is no more need for an Inland Revenue Officer in Lindsay, as it was from the bonded shipment of malt into Lindsay that revenue was derived in the past.

Women's Council Met.

Yesterday afternoon an executive meeting of the Women's Council was held in the Public Library with the president Mrs. J.C. Davidson in the chair. Several matters of local, public and moral importance were discussed. This assemblage of local ladies is doing good work for the city.

Mr. G. H. Pope, Dominion Government valuator, was a guest at the Oriental Hotel yesterday. Mr. Pope's home is in Winnipeg. He was here in connection with the land taken for the new dry dock in Ashburnham. It will be remembered that Mr. Pope years ago was here in a similar capacity when the lift lock was in future process of construction.

Local Power Control.

Toronto, April 2.—This morning the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature, decided that the City of Peterborough could acquire the plant of the Peterborough Light & Power Co. immediately at the value set by the arbitration and that the city did not have to purchase any other works controlled by the holding company despite efforts of the latter to load the city with another plant.

Trent Canal Notes.

Hastings Star: The old railway bridge out from Harwood has all been cross sectioned and it is likely that the old piers and piles will all be dredged out, as they are mostly under water and a menace to navigation. The survey boat, has been to Peterborough all winter being rebuilt and having a new engine installed.

Dog Poisoners At Work.

Yesterday Mr. Ted Cavanagh had a valuable dog poisoned by strychnine. The animal was a collie that Mr. Cavanagh valued at $100. The dog, which was well behaved staggered into Mr. Cavanagh's house on Queen Street and fell. Restoratives were given but without avail. On the same street, Mr. Thomas Palmer, a few months ago had a spanniel poisoned, for which Mr. Read of the Incinerator Co., Toronto, had offered $15.

Former Local Man Hurt.

Bowmanville Statesman: Mr. L. E. Stevens, Lindsay, son of Mr. George L. Stevens, Peterboro, formerly of Bowmanville, had his hand injured and fingers badly mangled by being caught in the cog wheels of a power-driven ice cream freezer. There was no one with him to shut off the power, and if he had not had presence of mind to kick off the belt and thus stop the machine, the result would have been disastrous. Amputation may not be necessary.

Our Local Member "Gets There"

Lindsay Post: We have as a representative a member of the Cabinet, and surely he exercises sufficient influence at Ottawa to impress upon the authorities the need of a clock in the post office. It does seem strange that Peterboro, represented by an ordinary member of Parliament, should be able to get wharves, some of a semi-private nature, a dry dock and any other thing they go after, while Lindsay, with its Cabinet Minister, is not able to secure even a clock for the post office.

Another April Fool Joke.

Although April fool day is gone by there is a story, possibly worth telling, about a proof reader on an esteemed evening contemporary. On April 1st some girls "put up a job" on this gentleman. They called him up. He went to the phone. His correspondents (pardon the Hibernianism) told him that this particular phone was out of order. The proof reader Russelled round the whole building, using five different phones, until he remembered the date. However, although of English dissent, he understood and took a joke.

Smallest Dog Ever Here.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Mack, under the stage name of Mack & Fox, put on one of the cleverest dancing acts ever seen in this city. The Royal Theatre, where they presented their act was well filled. The act shows the dances of all nations. Mrs. Mack showed a Times representative the smallest dog ever seen in Peterborough. It is a Pekinese spaniel, three years old, that only weighs 2¼ pounds. This lady carries with her two dogs of this breed. The smaller one may be on the Royal Theatre stage to-day.

A Beer Cork As Bait.

Mr. Thomas Eastwood, the Buckhorn hotelkeeper, was in the city yesterday. In conversation with the Times, Mr. Eastwood noted that one day last week at Ball Lake he caught 68 mountain trout. It seems that a party of Peterboro men fishing near him had better luck in the morning than Mr. Eastwood, catching 31 to the latter's seven. They gave Tom the laugh. However, after dinner, Mr. Eastwood happened to use as a float for his line a cork taken from a bottle of Calcutta ale that had been brought there by the Peterboro men. By the evening Mr. Eastwood had a catch of 68 to the visitors 53. He claims that the aroma of that cork attracted the trout.

Old Local Gold Medal

Referring to our report of Wednesday night's lacrosse meeting held in the T.A.S. rooms it might be noted that Mr. W. Rudkins, of this city has a gold medal with an interesting history. In 1581 the Peterboro lacrosse team was "some pumkins." That year the lacrosse club had a number of athletic competitions to get the players in condition. There was a series of 13 one hundred yards races, the winner of most of the series to get a gold medal. There were many entries. The late Father P. Rudkins won the first seven races consecutively with Mr. W. Rudkins second each time. The medal won by Father Rudkins is made from a $20 gold piece surrounded by a rim of gold. On the obverse side are the words "Champion 100 yard race won by P. Rudkins." On the reverse side is the date 1881 with a picture of a lacrosse game.

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,892.52 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,340,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,603.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,680.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I. who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $596,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

SVENGALIED BY MASTER MIND, DECLARES JUDGE

Lawyer, Convicted of Grand Larceny, Held Man Under His Complete Domination, Proved at Trial.

New York, April 2.— In the conviction in General Sessions for grand larceny of Phillip S. Saitta, a lawyer Judge Swann, as well as the jury, listened, fascinated by the character of the evidence which revealed an extraordinary psychological study of the subjection of one man to the domination of another; of a man named Salvator E. Gatto, who blindly followed Saitta's dictation.

So convincing was the story that Gatto told of his career as Saitta's slave that after the jury had rendered its verdict, Judge Swann said:

An Automaton.

"Gatto palpably had become an automaton under the influence of a master mind. Unquestionably he had felt the irresistible compulsion to perform whatever act he was bidden to perform. The case developed an instance in real life of one person being "Svengalied" by the influence of a superior mind."

Saitta was on trial for having duped Italian lemon growers into sending consignments of fruit to a dummy firm using the name of Gatto and leading the exporters to believe it to be the old and well known commission house of Ferinand Gatto of this city.

Shrinks Away Sobbing.

Saitta made Gatto sign for the consignments and then turn over to him.

"Once he struck me," Gatto testified. "I started to cry, and he drove me out of his office. That same day he made me pawn my watch for $120 and bring him the money. He could make me do anything he wanted. I might know it was wrong, but I'd do it just the same."

When the verdict was announced Gatto, the tool, slunk out of the court room sobbing.

The Montreal police received an offer to deliver up Bourret and Foucault, two bandits, sought for three weeks.

Dr. S.M. Asselstine Marlbank has been made lecturer in pharmacology and therapeutics in Queen's Medical College.

SEALING DISASTER GROWS; FATE OF SECOND STEAMER IN DOUBT

"Southern Cross," First Reported Safe, Later Said Not to Have Been Seen

St. John's Nfld., April 3.—A message received here at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon from the captain of the Bellaventure says:

"Have just reached steamer Newfoundland and checked figures by her roster. Find she had 180 total crew. Of these 112 are safe, but 636 are on the sick list. Total head, 77, of which 69 bodies are recovered. Remaining eight lost among floes.

"Am now leaving to proceed to St. John's. Fear slow progress as ice is heavy and tight. Stephano which is also lying alongside the Newfoundland will report names of the dead."

St. John's, Nfld., April 3.— Conflicting reports and the absence of means for collecting scattered stories and verifying them owing to the wreck of wire and aerial apparatus, made it impossible to-day to give an authoritative report on just what has happened to the sealing fleet. Whether more ships were lost was not known. The fate of the Southern Cross was not known; she had been reported safe early to-day, but later it was said she had not been reported and her safety was in doubt. Victims were placed to-day at 64; half as many more were frost bitten.

St. John's, Nfld., April 3.—Confidence in the safety of the Southern Cross excited by the report that she was at Channel gave way to doubt as the day progressed and no confirmation of the tidings was received.

The Government this morning sent a wireless message to the United States Revenue Cutter Seneca, asking her to search for the Southern Cross. The Seneca is patrolling for icebergs seven hundred miles off Cape Race. Practically all communication by telegraph or wireless with the Southern Coast had been interrupted since Tuesday, when the gale tore down telegraph lines and aerials.

Blizzard Still Raging.

Curling, Nfld., April 3.—The missing sealer, Southern Cross, had not been reported here this morning. The blizzard continued.

Fear For Southern Cross.

New York, April 3.—A private message received here to-day said that the sealer Southern Cross had not arrived at Channel, Nfld., as reported from St. John's and grave fears were expressed for the vessel's safety.

WILL THE COUNTY BE ONE RIDING?

It is understood that there is a likelihood that East Peterborough will disappear as an electoral riding. Its population is, according to the last census, only 15,499, or over a thousand less than it was in 1901. It is over 4,500 short of the minimum agreed upon for rural ridings. A certain number of seats are lost to the Province, and naturally those will disappear first which have least population. East Peterborough is low down in the grade of population. This will be a loss of one Conservative member if it goes. The final decision in the matter is expected next week. This old historic riding is composed of the best elements of the farming community, and it has several villages of importance and enterprise.

MEXICO BELIEVES FEDERALISTS WON

Villa's Victory Not Mentioned by Newspapers in Capital.

Mexico City, April 3.—The Federal capital was ignorant to-day of the fall of Torreon before the rebel attack. None of the newspapers contained any intimation of the federal defeat. On the contrary, all gave assurances that Gen. Javier de Moure had won a great victory over the rebels close to Torreon, while the Constitutionalists were trying to prevent him and his reinforcing army from effecting a junction with General Jose Refugio Velasco, the federal commander at Torreon.

ENGLAND'S PREMIER ASQUITH IS NOW OFF TO EAST FIFE

All Along the Way Liberal Supporters Were Out to Encourage Leader

London, April 3.—Premier Asquith was given a big send-off when he departed from London to-day for his constituency of East Fife, Scotland, where he is to deliver to-morrow a speech to his constituents in spite of the decision of the Unionists not to oppose his election. Large crowds of Liberal supporters gathered at the stations along the line and at every stopping place the Premier received addresses from Liberal associations expressing the wish that "the electors of East Fife will send you back to Parliament with redoubled authority to maintain the traditions of the army, the authority of the Crown, and the power of the people."

The Ulster leaders declare to-day that there are but three alternatives: A referendum, a general election or the withdrawal of the Home Rule bill and the consequent maintenance of Ulster's present position within the Empire.

No Settlement by Consent.

Foster Fraser, writing in The Standard, concisely summarizes the Unionist position by saying: "Last night's debate showed the futility of the parties finessing for the passing of Home Rule by consent. The Government has not yielded an inch of its essential principle. The Opposition's various offers are interpreted as signs of weakening, and if the Opposition does not take care it will find that its astute opponents have jockeyed it into a position from which a creditable retreat will be impossible."

The Liberal journals maintain that the army question is still to the front in political issues. The Daily Chronicle asserting that as long as speeches like that made by Mr. Balfour come from the front bench of the Opposition the issue of the army versus the people remains the real issue, dwarfing Home Rule and even the Parliament Act.

PT. ARTHUR LEADS GRAIN SHIPMENTS

With Fort William, Heads of American Ports—Buffalo Second.

Duluth, April 3.—According to figures compiled by the Port Arthur board of trade the combined ports of Port Arthur and Fort William, with shipments of 293,328,129 bushels of grain in the navigation year of 1913 lead all ports on the continent of America in shipment of grain, leaving the next nearest ports far behind. Figures for the leading ports are as follows:

Port Arthur-Fort William 293,000,000; Buffalo, 172,000,000; Duluth-Superior, 115,000,000; Montreal, 54,300,000; Chicago, 54,000,000.

Another fact brought into prominence by the same compilation of figures is the remarkable increase in the shipments from these ports in United States vessels. In four years the amount of grain taken out of Port Arthur and Fort William by United States vessels has increased by approximately 500 per cent while the increase in the amount taken out in Canadian vessels during the same period has been ninety per cent. This is claimed to indicate that the present route of the Welland and St. Lawrence is not conducive to the development of Canadian shipping in proportion to the natural growth of the trade, as would be expected from the increase in the production in the west.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Cold with snow.

To Absorb Freckles And Other Blemishes.

Every spring numerous injuries are made by girls seeking some reliable recipe for removing freckles. Last year very favorable reports were received from many who had used mercolized wax during the freckling season. The wax seems to possess unusual properties which completely absorb the freckles, with no harmful effect. The complexion improves wonderfully becoming as soft as a rose petal, and as delicately tinted. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any druggist's, spread a thin layer of it over the entire face every night for a while, washing this off in the morning. For rough, spotty skin, sallowness, blackheads, pimples, and all cutaneous blemishes, this treatment is superior to any other.

Springtime also brings wrinkles to many sensitive skins that are much exposed to winds and changing temperatures. To a half pint witch hazel add one ounce of powdered saxolite, [illegible] dissolve. Bathe the face [illegible] as a wrinkle skin [illegible]

Thomas Guigg, aged 60, sectionman on the T. & N.O. was run over by a freight car in Cobalt yards at 9.30 this morning and died thirty minutes later. His left leg was severed below the knee. He leaves a wife and family at Quyon, Que., and had been with the T. & N.O. seven years.

GREAT ST. BERNARD HOSPICE NARROWLY ESCAPES DESTRUCTION

Geneva, Switzerland, April 2.—The hospice of Great St. Bernard narrowly escaped destruction when a avalanche swept down upon the church and entered the second story of the hospice. The monks living there escaped uninjured.

One of the two buildings in the Great St. Bernard pass was built in the 16th. century. It is constructed of stone and contains the church, apartments for the abbes and quarters for 75 beds for travelers. The other building contains 200 beds for travelers. It was built only a few years ago.

WOMAN SOLDIER IN ARMY OF GRANT PUT IN ASYLUM

Qunicy, Ill., April 3.—After masquerading as a man for 60 years and serving as a soldier in General U. S. Grant's army during the Civil War, "Albert" Cashier, whose sex was discovered at the Soldier's home recently, was committed to an insane asylum.

The woman was born in Ireland 73 years ago. She came to America as a stowaway, clad in boy's clothes. When the war between the States broke out she having continued to represent herself as a male, enlisted in company G. 95th Illinois infantry.

When the war closed she resumed civil life as a workman until age and the results of exposure during the war made her helpless to support herself. She then entered the Soldier's home, where her sex was discovered while she was under the care of a surgeon. She refused to tell her family history.

A LIBERAL SPLIT ON THE TARIFF IS NOW WIDENING

Many in Party Wrathy Because Blunder Cost Senator Jones' Support

Ottawa, April 3.—With the National Transcontinental Railway debate out of the way, the decks were cleared today for the next big debate—that on the budget. The annual budget statement will be made by Hon. W. T. White on Monday, and it is awaited with more than ordinary interest owing to the rumors of tariff changes and the financial depression which has prevailed. With his exceptional opportunities to keep in touch with business and financia, conditions both in Canada and the Old World, Mr. White's review of the past year and his forecast of the outlook for the coming year will be of exceptional interest and will help clear the air. The Finance Minister is guarding his secret as to the tariff changes and any predictions would be only the wildest guesswork.

Cut in Implements.

The impression is general that there will be some cut in agricultural implements, and that there will be a readjustment of the duties on steel and iron. However, these are only rumors and nothing official will be known until Mr. White speaks Monday afternoon.

There is a great deal of interest in political circles on the attitide of the Liberals on the tariff question. It is well known that there is a serious division in the party ranks between the protectionist and free trade wings. Just at present the free traders seem to be in complete control of the party.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN IS TAKEN ILL SUDDENLY

American Secretary of State Seized With Bad Attack of Grippe.

NAKED BATHER SAW HIS POCKETS RIFLED

Sixty Days in Jail for Stealing From Clothes in Public Baths.

Toronto, April 3.—Said to be an expert pickpocket, Manuel Kassler, of New York, was sentenced in Police Court this morning to 60 days in jail, for stealing a pocketbook containing $3 from a fellow bather at the Harrison Baths.

The plaintiff, a young Austrian declared that he had seen Kassler going through his pockets. Witness was in a nude state so could not follow the accused when he made off with the pocketbook.

GIRL TELLS STORY OF CHICKEN FARM

Little Country School Teacher Says She was Lured to House of Vice in the Woods.

New Orleans, April 3.—"It was horrible, that strangely quiet lonely house called the "Chicken Farm," set in a little clearing surrounded by dense woods two miles from Columbia, Miss., and I knew it was a bad place from the moment I saw those hard-faced women leering at me. Oh, I was so glad when papa and the law officers came and took me away."

This was the way Estelle Melissa Warner, the pretty modestly, but jauntily dressed little 18 year old country school teacher, of a prominent family of the section about Bogalusa, La., described Tuesday with faint tears in her frank hazel eyes, her recent experience that has resulted in G. Elmer White, a young Bogalua married man being held under $5000 bond by the Federal authorities on the charge of white slavery.

U.S. Grand Jury Takes up Case.

Even as the little woman was talking in the office of special Agent Pendleton of the Department of Justice, the Federal Grand Jury in a room but two doors away was deliberating upon the case of White, now in the Parish Prison.

Pacing the office floor at his daughter's side, his face set hard and his head bowed, was Cornelius Warner, father of the girl, who had accompanied her from the country home near Bogalusa ?g ?g? city Tuesday morning for the grand jury investigation. His is a family known in the section where they have lived for several generations, for their integrity and pride. They were people, too of considerable means until they met recent reverses and Estelle, the oldest of the six daughters, set out to help the family fortune by teaching a little country school. It was then that she says she met White and listened first to his secret avowals of love, and then, later, to his plans that they should elope, remain in hiding until he could secure a divorce and marry her.

Father Races to Girl's Rescue.

It was the father who had raced madly on horseback and by train from his home to Columbia, when he learned from a hotel proprietor at the latter place that his daughter had been taken to the den of vice in the woods, and reached her barely in time to save her.

A telephone message had gone ahead of him warning the woman keeper of the "Chicken Farm" in the name of the law to protect the girl from further harm.

ADDITIONAL GRANT OF $375 FOR SALVATION ARMY BAND

Will Advertise Peterborough in the Old Country When on Their Tour This Summer--Two Per Cent Will be Allowed Off Last Half Of Taxes if Paid With First Half Due on August First. Rate May be .25 1-2 Mills

The Committee of the whole City Council met last night, Mayor Buller presiding. There were also present Aldermen Duffus, Anderson, Johnston, Langford, Saunders, Gordon, Green and Duncan.

A deputation from the Maple Leaf Band a musical organization consisting of fourteen members of no mean order of talent, waited upon the Committee, and asked if Council could do anything in the way of furnishing them with a band hall.

His worship will, in company with a committee from the band, interview the Town Trust Commissioners with a view to securing the use of a room in the westend of the city buildings in which the Maple Leaf Band can practice.

Lg? Loard of Trade will be handed over a large quantity of printed envelopes advertising the city now in the City Clerk's possession. The Board of Trade will dispose of these envelopes to manufacturing firms and business houses for general use.

S.A. BAND GRANT.

On motion of Ald. Green and Johnston, the Salvation Army Band, in addition to their usual grant of $225 will be given an additional grant of $275 towards the cost of producing their souvenir illustrated booklet advertising Peterborough, which the band will distribute in the Old Country on their tour there this summer. Besides this the city will buy 400 copies of these souvenir booklets at a cost of $100 for distribution.

Ald. Duncan's amendment that the grant be $350 besides the usual donation of $225, and the purchase of 100 booklets as suggested was lost for want of a seconder.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY'S GRANT.

The city's grant will be $900, the same as last year. This was Ald. Anderson and Johnston's motion.

Ald. Johnston and Gordon inclined to a reduction to $700. Ald. Duncan had been given to understand that the society could get along this year quite nicely on a grant from the city of $700.

STREET WATERING.

Tenders for street watering will be advertised for in the near future on the same principle as last year. The idea of purchasing a tank for use on the street railway track, at a cost of $4,000, was abandoned.

DISCOUNT ON TAXES.

On motion of Ald. Johnston and Green, a discount of two per cent. will be allowed on the last half of this year's taxes, if paid with the first half on August first.

HELP AT INCINERATOR.

On motion of Ald. Gordon, Alderman Langford, Chairman of the Property Com., was authorized to employ extra help at the incinerator during rush periods. In this connection a bill of $7 for additional help was ordered to be paid on certificate from Ald. Langford.

THE RATE.

Ald. Anderson asked that a by-law be prepared for submission to Council next Monday, fixing the rate for this year at 26 mills to meet the estimates agreed upon.

The amount that the city must raise this year under the general rate is $126,623.89; of this the Council has control of but $40,000 or $50,000.

Ald. Gordon suggested that the bylaw provide for a 25½ mill rate, and let Council do the paring of $5,000 necessary to make this rate permissable.

Ald. Duncan and Green moved that a by-law be prepared fixing the rate at 26 mills for this year.

Ald. Gordon and Duffus moved in amendment that the by-law call for a 25½ mill rate and that the estimates be pared down accordingly.

Incidentally it was reported that neither the Board of Education nor Police Commissioners could make any cut in their demands, and Ald. Green contended that the Council, to do justice to the demands under its control could not afford to cut the rate below 26 mills.

Ald. Johnston advanced that were the hospitals, education and police commissioners controlled by one municipal body instead of by separate bodies, it would be better for all concerned.

Ald. Gordon and Duffus' amendment that the rate be fixed at 25½ mills, here carried, but was subsequently withdrawn.

Ald. Gordon suggests that the Board of Works estimate be reduced by $1500; that a $1000 will probably be saved in the Hydro-Electric department; the estimates of the Fire Department be reduced by $500; those for miscellaneous $500; street watering $500; special grants $400; fuel for and repairs to incinerator $270—making a total reduction from the estimates as previously reached of $4,670. This would leave $330 to make the $5000 reduction necessary to keep the rate down to 25½ mills.

Considerable discussion on the situation here took place, and it was advanced that the biggest portion of the city engineer's salary of $2,500 is in reality chargeable against frontage rate for permanent improvements.

It was finally decided, on motion of Ald. Duffus and Gordon, that the by-law fixing the rate be prepared in blank, the figures to be filled in on Monday night. In the meantime the Mayor and Ald. Gordon will go over the estimates with the City Treasurer, and suggest the necessary paring to reduce the rate to 25½ mills at Monday night's Council meeting for definite action. It looks like a 25½ mill rate coming into effect.

FURTHER LIGHT IS THROWN ON THE N. T. R. CONSTRUCTION

Mr. German Alleges Reduction for Over-classification Was Insufficient

Ottawa, April 3.—Mr. W. M. German of Welland, in the Public Accounts Committee to-day, got an order for production of all papers and vouchers relating to payments of $18,858,000 to Mr. J. D. McArthur, for N.T.R. contract work. Major Leonard chairman of the N.T.R. Commission; Chief Engineer Gordon Grant, and Collingwood Schreiber, C.M.G., will be called to give evidence before the committee next Tuesday.

Mr. German's allegations is that a Board of Arbitration, consisting of Messrs. Grant, Kelliher, and Schreiber, found over-classification to the extent of $492,000 that should have been deducted, but that the commission deducted only $150,000.

The Devil's Knell.

Among the famous bells of Dewsbury, Yorkshire, England, is one known as "Black Tom of Soothill," which was presented to the church in expiation of a murder. "Black Tom" is always rung on Christmas eve. Its solemn tolling as it strikes the first tap at exactly midnight is known all over Yorkshire as the "devil's knell," it being the notion that when Christ was born the devil died.—London Standard.

A Sinecure.

General Horatio C. King, on one occasion narrating some war memories, said:

"We suffered many hardships on both sides, but the poor, brave Confederates suffered most. I remember a grizzled old colored man who at the outbreak of the Spanish war applied for a place as an army cook.

"'What experience have you had?' the old fellow was asked.

"'I was cook, sah, fo' a Confederate regiment in sixty-fo',' he answered—'that is, sah, I had the position of cook, but, to tell the truth, I didn't work at it.'

"'Why not?'

"'There wasn't nothin' to cook, sah.'"

Doctors In Russia.

Dr. Ralph Thompson, in Medical Europe, states that "in Russia nobody ever asks a physician the amount of his bill. It is universally understood that a gentleman pays his doctor a fair sum—such a sum as he can afford to pay within the limits of his income and his sense of generosity. The Russian mind cannot conceive how a man engaged in the holy pursuit of saving life and alleviating suffering can put a price on his services." After this it is not surprising to learn from the same authority that Russia is the only European country of importance where the medical profession is not overcrowded.

The City of the Dove.

When mighty Amru went to conquer Egypt he camped on the east bank of the Nile opposite Memphis, that great twenty miles long capital of mud bricks whose western verge was the pyramids and whose mud brick houses have all vanished. Amru crushed the Egyptians and came back to get his camp to move over and occupy Memphis. A dove had built in the folds near the top of his tent. Blood bathed Amru, the ruthless, would not let her be disturbed. A new city started about his tents. It grew northward along the Nile. It is today Cairo. Memphis is only a name.

FOND OF ELECTIONS.

In Switzerland They Select Even Gravediggers by Ballot.

According to Professor F. F. Roget of Geneva, the Swiss have the greatest political intelligence in the world today.

"Every citizen of a canton is a Swiss citizen," says Professor Roget. "One must become a member of some local commune to become naturalised and in order to do so must be accepted by the local communal council.

"Every male Swiss citizen is an elector from the age of twenty, there being no property qualification. Every Swiss is a soldier and every soldier an elector. The federal elector may vote wherever he may happen to be, guarantees being taken that he votes only once.

"The cantons are the political units, and no elector may exercise political rights in more than one canton. On moving from one locality to another the Swiss must wait three months before he may exercise the franchise in his new neighborhood."

Professor Roget declares that "every collective authority in Switzerland is elected.

"The foreigner," he states, "is often surprised to see in a Swiss newspaper on a Monday the results of all kinds of elections on the Sunday. If he had gone into a polling booth on the Sunday he would have found in this corner a clerk at a desk, at which the elector would vote for the local schoolmaster.

"In another corner would be a desk at which he would vote for the local judge, in another part of the same room he would vote for the local gravedigger, and so on through a whole series of officials, all of whom are popularly elected.

"The result of this training is that the political intelligence of the Swiss is extremely developed, and that he thoroughly understands what he is voting about at home in his native country, and that when he goes abroad he finds it very easy to understand and to take part in any political movements among which he may find himself."—Exchange.

Abrupt.

Judge Stevens had a slight hesitation in his speech, but that affliction did not prevent his using long words. One morning his dog Snip got into a fight with another dog. Tapping him with his cane, Judge Stevens exclaimed, "D-d-dis-con-t-t-in-ue."—Success Magazine.

TO MATCH COLORS

NO CONFUSING ELEMENTS

Unaided, the eye cannot always be trusted to match colors accurately. But there is a simple little apparatus which helps amazingly. A shutter, with a round hole in the centre, has a black field on one side and a white field on the other. A sample sheet, containing a multitude of colors is used in connection with it. If a piece of dress goods is to be matched, for example, the shutter is placed over it so that the cloth is seen through half the orifice. The sample sheet is then placed beneath the other half of the orifice and moved about until the correct shade is found. With only the contrasting color fields on opposite sides of the shutter, and which help to accentuate the other shades, the colors may be compared without any confusing elements entering into the operation.

FASHION AND ROYALTY

Few Queens Can be Said to be Really Well Dressed

It has been often asserted by those who know that scarcely one Royal lady in Europe is really well dressed. Some of the younger Royalties wear dresses too old for their years, and some of the older garb themselves in a fashion that is too young.

The Empress of Germany is the best dressed woman on a European throne. She does not buy her dresses in Paris, but in Berlin, London and Vienna. Counting every item, the Kaiserin spends about $10,000 a year on dress. The Queen of Holland is said to be the worst dressed sovereign. In spite of this, she manages to spend about twice as much on her clothes as does Queen Mary. The former spends about $20,000 a year, whilst the latter spends, on an average, about $10,000. Queen Wilhelmina is accused of showing very bad taste in the choice of her frocks and hats. However, she has some excuse, for in loyalty to her own country she only employs Dutch dressmakers, and who ever heard of a noted Dutch modiste?

The costumes and hats of Queen Helena of Italy cost her nearly $15,000 a year; yet she dresses very quietly, and is seldom really in the fashion.

The Empress of Russia, too, dresses very simply on all possible occasions. She does not spend a tithe of what she could afford on her attire. She has the largest allowance of any Royal lady, but her dress and hat bills combined do not come to $5,000 in a year.

Queen Mary, as all know, dresses very plainly, and seldom fashionably. In fact, on more than one occasion Her Majesty has made known her distaste for modern fashions. Queen Alexandra has always endeavored to be more fashionable than Queen Mary. But even then she has been accused by modistes of dressing in a "chilly," austere style.

The most fashionable Royalty is Queen Victoria of Spain. She is a keen follower of Mme. la Mode, spends no less than $25,000 a year on her frocks, and has all her garments and hats designed in Paris.

A Dressing for Cabbage

Cut in pieces (do not chop or shave fine) as much cabbage as desired to cook. Cover with water and cook until tender, but not dark colored. When done drain, and while hot mix into it a dressing made as follows:

Cream one-third cup of butter and beat into it the yolks of three eggs, one at a time, one-half teaspoon of paprika, one teaspoon of salt and the juice of a lemon. If the lemon is not very juicy use one and a half lemons. Stir this mixture into the hot cabbage, which is sitting on a warm part of the range. When cooked enough pour into a hot serving dish. This dressing very much resembles the Hollandaise sauce and is much easier to make. It is also delicious with cauliflower or brussels sprouts.

Blacking Mixed With Milk

This is a proper way to mix blacking: Cut the cake of blacking into small pieces, put it in a saucer and pour over enough sweet milk to make it into a rather thick cream. Blacking mixed in this way helps to prevent the leather from cracking.

CANADA A COUNTRY OF YOUNG PEOPLE

Over Eight Hundred in Every Thousand Are Under Forty-five Years of Age

That Canada is pre-eminently a country of young people is shown by the fact that 813 persons in every one thousand of the population are under forty-five years of age. It is also a country where males predominate, since the number of males exceeds the number of females by about half a million. The influence of immigration on the relative standing of the sexes is shown by the fact that there are 113 men to to every 100 women, as compared to 106 to 100 ten years ago. The disproportion between the sexes is especially noticeable in western Canada. In the eastern cities the female population in practically every case outnumbers the males. These are some of the interesting facts disclosed by a census bulletin just issued dealing with the ages and the sexes of the people.

The proportion of the population under fourteen years of age is 32.91 per cent. The largest number of children is found in the Province of Quebec, where 272.5 out of every thousand of the population are under ten years of age, as compared with 200. in Ontario, 166.3 in British Columbia, 245 in New Brunswick, and 231.9 in Nova Scotia.

Young People in West

The western Provinces are the regions of young men and women, as is shown by the large percentage of population between the ages of twenty and forty. In Saskatchewan it is 450.7 per thousand of the population, in Alberta 457.8, in Manitoba 417. and in British Columbia 522.8. The Provinces showing the largest proportion over seventy years of age are the three Maritime Provinces and Ontario, with 46.6 for Nova Scotia, 38.1 for New Brunswick, and 34.7 for Ontario respectively per thousand. In Alberta the proportion is only 8.2, in Saskatchewan 8.8, and in Manitoba 18.3.

For all of Canada the proportion of the population under five years of age is 12.3 per cent., as against 11.97 per cent. 6 years ago, whilst those who had reached the allotted span of life represented only 2.31 per cent. in the last census, as compared with 3.04 in the preceding census. At the age of seventy the ratio of males to females is about even. From eighty years of age and upwards the female population exhibits a greater tenacity of life than do the males.

Bachelors and Spinsters

The proportion of divorces for both sexes is only about six in every ten thousand. Of the total male population, 62 per cent. are single, 34.85 per cent. are married, and 2.33 per cent. widowed; of the total female population, 57.37 per cent. are single, 36.97 per cent. married, and 5.31 per cent. widowed.

The records of the last census show that one male and thirty females under the age of fifteen had assumed the cares of married life. The one adventurous male was a foreigner in Alberta. Of the total male and female population of marriageable age—namely, between twenty and forty—46.8 per cent. of the males and 63.6 per cent. of the males and 68.6 per cent. of the females were married.

The rate of mortality is greater among married males than among married females, since the percentage of the widowed is greater for females at every age period. The total number of divorced persons in Canada is given at 4,400. The larger proportion according to nativity are among those of foreign birth. When the census was taken there were 919 persons in Canada between the ages of ninety-five and ninety-nine years, and 126 of a hundred years or over. There were 37 centenarians in Ontario and 21 in Quebec.

How a Young Lad Secured a Position in a Bank

When Sir Edmund Walker, now president of the Bank of Commerce, was general manager of that institution, he was rather unpleasantly surprised one busy morning. In response to a brisk knock at his private office and invitation to come in, there appeared a bright boy about fourteen years of age poorly but neatly dressed.

"Well, sir," said the banker, not unkindly. "What can I do for you?"

"Please, I want a job, sir."

"How do you happen to come in here, and who sent you?"

"No one, sir."

"Then how did you find your way up?"

"By the same way as you did, sir."

"What way is that?"

"Why, you have it printed on the door downstairs," remarked the urchin.

"What's on the door?"

"Push," replied the lad. The clever chap was given a position before he left the building.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose usually always effects a cure. Honey Smoke Routs School Pupils and teachers of the Auburn school, Colorado, were forced to beat a hurried retreat from the building when burning honey in the furnace caused such a smoke that remaining inside was impossible.

Last summer bees made their home in the schoolhouse, and stored their winter supply of honey in the ventilators of the heating plant. The bees were driven away, and no one thought of the honey until it melted and ran into the fire.

A STRATHCONA STORY

Lord Strathcona often declared that a Scotsman, though he spent his life abroad, ever remains a Scotsman, and the ubiquity of the race was a favorite conversational theme with him. To illustrate it he told of a Scotsman in Shanghai who betted an incredulous Southerner that he would discover a brither Scot in every ship in the harbor. Going to each ship in turn and shouting "Are you there Mac?" into the engine room, he got "Aye, aye" as answer every time.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

Mr. Archie McCuaig, a farmer of Priceville, Ontario, has made a vigorous reply on behalf of the farming community to the demand for trunk roads of a high-class, permanent sort, with deep ditches for proper drainage. Mr. McCuaig pictures the farmer mortgaging his land for the luxury of travelling in the ditch or along the road fence, while joy-riders occupy his expensive and well built trunk road. The first need in rebuilding the roads of the country, he asserts, is modern bridges. Old bridges need renewal in every direction, and there is no available timber with which to replace them. The farmer depends on threshing outfits travelling over these roads, and accidents have already been reported in which engines have broken through. Mr. McCuaig suggests that the first grants should be devoted to the building and maintaining of bridges.

THE LARGEST BATTLESHIP

The keel of the largest battleship in the world was laid at New York a few days ago. That is, the vessel promises now to be larger than any other battleship afloat when she is launched about a year hence. What the developments of those twelve months may bring forth in bigger ships of war remains of course, to be seen.

To-day building the largest battleships is much like erecting the highest city buildings. By the time one is completed, or before, the foundations of a still higher building are being laid. The sea leviathan of a decade or two ago is now looked on as obsolete and an encumbrance to any navy.

Naval building, of course, is necessary, but it is questionable whether it is worth while to try continually to construct the biggest battleship, for the latest battleship is always the biggest, and it would seem that before long some size would be agreed on as the most efficient for the purpose of fighting.

NO NAVAL HOLIDAY

Recently Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, appealed to the world powers to suspend naval construction for a year. A few nations responded in terms of approval, but continued with great haste their preparations for defence. Germany paid no attention to the suggestion and went on planning warships on a large scale. The result is the abandonment of the idea, Winston Churchill announcing the reversal of policy in these words: "The causes which might lead to a general war have not been removed. The world is arming as it never armed before. All attempts at arresting it have been ineffectual."

Following this statement with an outline of policy he gave notice that Great Britain proposes to have ten of the new 15-inch gun battleships in the water by the time any other nation has two, because, as he said: "Our naval strength is the one great balancing force that we can contribute to our own safety and the peace of the world."

This policy of course, will influence other nations in preparations for defence, and instead of a naval holiday there will be a greater expenditure for battleships than in the past.

Best Liniment of All Destroys Every Pain But Never Burns

How thankful we are to get hold of such a wonderful household remedy as Nerviline," writes Mrs. E.P. Lamontagne from her home near Westakawin, Alberta. "In this far-away section far away from a doctor or druggist, every family needs a good supply of liniment. Nerviline is the best of all. It destroys every pain, but never burns. We use Nerviline in a score of ways. If it's rheumatism aching back, pain in the side, sciatica or stiff neck,—you can laugh at them if you have lots of Nerviline handy. For earache, toothache or cramps I don't think anything could act more quickly. For a general all-round pain remedy I can think of nothing more valuable and speedy to cure than Nerviline."

The above letter is convincing— it tells how reliable and trusty this old-time remedy is. Nerviline for forty years has been a household word in Canada. Scarcely a home in Canada you can find without Nerviline. Every community has its living examples of the wonderful curative properties of Nerviline which will cure pains and aches anywhere in the joints or muscles. It's penetrating, soothing, warming and safe for young and old to use. Get the large 50c., family size bottle; it's the most economical. Small trial size, 25c at any dealers anywhere.

BLAMED FOR LA CEIBA FIRE, LEIGH SWALLOWS POISON IN HIS CELL

New Orleans, April 3.—I. Dwight Hunter, a Honduras merchant, brought to New Orleans the story of Benjamin R. Leigh's attempted suicide at La Ceiba, to escape the mob who believed he was responsible for the fire which swept that town.

"He is perhaps dead by now," said the Honduran merchant.

Mr. Hunter declared that Leigh had been threatened by a mob when being taken from the court house to the jail, Friday, March 13. The police protected him from violence. The following day he got hold of a bottle of corrosive sublimate tablets and took several. Mr. Hunter did not know what evidence the authorities had against Leigh.

"The damage by fire was about $1,250,000," said Mr. Hunter, "but the town has rallied and already work has been started on rebuilding."

SALVATION ARMY WARS ON TANGO N.O. CABARETS

Local Forces Will Probably Follow Singing Crusade As Planned In New York.

New Orleans, April 3.— Capt. L. Allison Coe, local commander of the Salvation Army, is planning to marshall his forces for a pitiless campaign against the tango in New Orleans. While Captain Coe is not giving out his plan of attack, it is understood that he will adopt the idea of New York Salvationists and oppose fervent bass drum music accompanied by lusty hymns to the quieter and more insidious fascination of tres moutarde and the hesitation. The date of the campaign has not been set.

If the New York plan is followed, the army will march into the cabarets of Iberville street, where the tango has its lairs, and try to sing down the growing evil. An officer of the army said that no assault would be made on the St. Charles or Grunewald, where the upper classes indulge in the national foot craze. The army will content itself in working among the people it is familiar with.

There was great excitement in the cabarets when the possibility of invasian was announced. A prominent open-face piano artiste said:

Will Take 'Em On For a Few Rounds.

"I'll take 'em on for a few rounds if it's going to be a musical duel. I can outsing the best street baritone that ever raised his voice at Royal and Canal. Eight hours of frenzied harmony every night certainly does give you endurance. The only thing I ask of 'em is to leave their bass drums outside.

"I am prepared to extend my dying high C in defense of the inalienable American right of the tango."

Best Money He Has Ever Spent

Was What C. Hansen Paid for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Had been Ailing For Six or Seven Years when He Took a Neighbor's Advice and Found a Complete Cure

Mona, Man, April 3.—(Special). —Mr. Cornelius Hansen, well known and highly respected here, is telling his friends of his simple but complete cure from a protracted illness. The facts in brief are: He had Kidney Disease; he took Dodd's Kidney Pills; they cured him. But let Mr. Hansen tell his own story.

"I was troubled with my Kidneys for six or seven years," he says. "My back was so sore I couldn't get out of bed in the mornings. I tried medicines, but they did me no good. Then I met a neighbor, and he advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. He said he had used them in his family for a long time and they were a great medicine.

"I bought six boxes of them, and by the time I had taken three of them I was feeling much better. Now I am quite well, and I think the best money I ever spent in my life was what I paid for Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no cure-all. They simply cure sick Kidneys. But they do all that is claimed for them.

THE DELAYED PUNCH

Not a Modern Invention According to One Who Should Know

Now it's the "delayed" punch. We had "Kid" McCoy's famous corkscrew, Bat Nelson's "whiskers," and someone's else "scissors" punches, and several others not copyrighted, and now, says James J. Corbett, George Chip comes to the front with his contribution to ring nomenclature.

Chip knocked Frank Klaus out with the "delayed" punch so we are told. The only thing tardy about the punch, it seems to me, is the story itself, the ex-champion writes. I am surprised it wasn't pulled long before, when we consider the number of talented young men engaged in grinding out prize ring literature.

What is the 'delayed" punch, asks Jim. An "authority" says it is a "bluff to lead, halting the blow, and then coming through with the slam." According to this it's simply a feint followed by a lead for the part of the body feinted at. Say, for example, a boxer feints with his left for the head. His opponent, and especially so if he is not overburdened with brains and a trifle heavy in the "dogs" puts up his guard. Then, realizing it is only a feint, he lowers the guard. The party of the first part has pulled his arm back, but seeing the guard lowered lets the drive then go through on the level. There we have the "delayed" punch. Wonderful stuff, isn't it?

FRENCH WOMEN INDUSTRIOUS

Conservation of Time is One of Their Specialties

A visitor to France enthusiastically described some of the surprising but admirable things regarding the ceaseless industry of workers that she witnessed in Paris.

The young woman who called for the washing had her knitting, and carried the basket on her back, so that as she walked home she might ply the needles. Market women invariably were knitting and crocheting as they tended their stalls. "Our little maid of all work," said the observer, "kept her crocheting in the kitchen, and while the meals were cooking on the funny little gas stove she crocheted as though her life depended upon it, and, so far as I could see, neither the cooking nor the lace work suffered because of her undivided attention. When the doorbell rang she walked down the little hall, still crocheting."

It is this form of industry and concentration which begets efficiency and, in larger relations, success as it is defined by the world. There is an impulse for conservation in almost every field. But the chief waste in the world always has been the waste of time.

New Tax For German Householders

An enormous amount of dissatisfaction has arisen among householders in Germany with regard to the new tax of 60 shillings per annum on every servant kept. For the payment of this sum the State undertakes to relieve the householder of all responsibility when servants become ill.

CLEVER MIDGETS IN BRITISH FOOTBALL

Some of the Star Players Less Than 5 Feet 7 Inches But They Are Formidable in the Field

One of the most surprising features of football in the old country, says a writer in "Answers," is the number of professional footballers of small stature who loom prominently in the public eye.

There can be no smaller player taking part in the hustle and bustle of League football to-day than "Fanny" Walden, the brilliant outside-right of the Tottenham Hotspur Club. Walden does not exceed 5 feet 3½ inches in height, while he turns the scale somewhere in the vicinity of 134 pounds.

Considering Walden's lack of weight, one might conclude that it would be the easiest thing imaginable to knock him off the ball, but this is not the case. He is as elusive as he is clever—so much so, indeed, that many critics describe him as the "electric eel."

Another outside-right who is only an inch or so taller than Walden, but is almost equally as clever, is Pickett, who plays for Pontypridd, in the Second Division of the Southern League. Besides being a very brilliant forward, Pickett is an extremely good shot.

Little Men in Goal

It is generally agreed that a goalkeeper should be tall, but a notable exception to this is Beale, who "keeps" for Manchester United. Beale is only credited with 5 feet 7 inches, but what he lacks in the matter of inches he more than makes up by his wonderful agility.

When, some years ago, Wedlock was chosen to fill the centre-half berth in the England team, the critics were completely dumbfounded. And why? The Bristol City captain was only 5 feet 4½ inches in height and only weighed 146 pounds, and yet he was given the most onerous and difficult position to fill in an International team.

But, having been given his chance, Wedlock soon proved his worth, and so satisfactory was his display that he was chosen for the next seventeen International contests, thus establishing a record for England by appearing in eighteen consecutive games for his country.

Big Men in Olden Days

Before Wedlock's rise to fame it was the custom to choose big men—men of the stamp of Charles Roberts, now of Oldham Athletic, but until recently a member of the Manchester United team—for this berth. Wedlock undoubtedly owed much of his success to the fact that he was such a "worrier," and never gave up until his opponent had parted with the ball.

Another "Lilliputian" forward is Dan Shea, who occupies the inside-right position in the Blackburn Rovers' team. Shea first came into prominence with West Ham United, who received $10,000 for his transfer. The little inside-right stands 5 feet 6 inches and weighs but 144 pounds, albeit, he is one of the cleverest forwards in the country. Moreover, he is one of the best marksmen in League football and hardly a match is played by his club in which he does not score a goal. There are enough men in League football under 5 feet 7 inches to fill every place on a team, and such a team could be relied on to give a very good account against even an International eleven.

Nugget in Hog's Tooth

In cutting up the head of a 300-pound hog, preparatory to making souse, or headcheese, Mrs. Kate Warren, of Dillon, Colorado, found one of the hog's teeth contained a gold nugget in its cavity. It is estimated to be worth about $8. The hog came from the Thompson ranch, near the Gold Hill placer mine, in Blue River Valley, about six miles north of Breckenridge.

GIRL THREATENS BRIDE VISCOUNT JILTED HER

Miss Pearl Aufrere, is Now Threatening to Sue Viscount Dangan For Breach of Promise.

New York, April 3.—Old Dame Rumor, who, though responsible for many tales not true quite often hits the nail on the head, is circulating a story to the effect that Viscount Dangan and his show girl bride, the former May Picard, will not go back to England for the parental blessing because of possible complications that might result if Miss Pearl Aufrere, a London chorus girl, sees the young couple. There are persistent rumors from London that Miss Aufrere may start a breach of promise suit, although Viscount Dangan smilingly dismisses the subject.

"I was engaged to Miss Aufrere" he said, in his apartment, No. 225 West Sixty-ninth street, "for two months, but it was broken off last August, I broke it, but I am sure there will be no complications."

The viscount added that the real reason for cancelling the proposed trip back to "Merrie England" is that there seems little prospect that his relations with his father, the Earl of Cowley, will be any pleasanter in the future than they have been in the past.

The viscount and the show girl, who had been appearing in the same company, were married on Monday with only a few of their theatrical friends and associates present. It was thought at first that they would sail on the Cedric, but Viscount Dangan cancelled his passage.

The new show girl viscountess has been known in musical comedy for several seasons. She is 20 while her husband was 24 on Christmas day.

Viscount Dangan has had an adventurous career. He was cut adrift by his father several years ago. This followed the divorce which his father obtained from his mother, Violet, Countess of Cowley.

Viscount Dangan was placed in the army as a commissioned officer. His father, however, would not give him an allowance. As he could not keep up appearances with his brother officers, he resigned.

Then he startled London by getting a job as cab driver. He didn't hold this place very long, but went to work in the paint room of an opera company in London. From there he went to the Gaiety theatre as a chorus man. He came over here as a member of an English musical comedy company, and played a small speaking part.

Although cut off from intimacy with his own father, the viscount retained the good wishes of the wealthy Lord and Lady Hythe. Lady Hythe is the sister of the viscount's mother.

When his father dies Viscount Dangan and his new viscountess will inherit little beyond their title of earl and countess, for Lord Cowley has nothing.

The Hudson Six-54, $2950
(f.o.b. Detroit, Mich., Duty Paid)

The Economy of the HUDSON Six

In an automobile motor with 300 cubic inches combustion space (used merely as an example) to divide it into four cylinders means 75 cubic inches to each cylinder. To divide it into six means 50 cubic inches to each cylinder. Yet the TOTAL remains the same. Hence the fact that a Six can burn no more gasoline than a four of equal power. The smooth running of the Six means tire saving. It isn't mileage that wears tires excessively—it's jerks, jars, slips and slides. The HUDSON Six moves smoothly with no vibration. You save gasoline, oil, tires, and general upkeep when you drive a HUDSON Six. We have proved this in public contests against the best Fours built.

Until you drive a HUDSON Six you cannot realize the great advantage. Its smoothness and flexibility are an insurance as well as a delight. HUDSON Sixes are preferred because of high quality combined with moderate price. The Six-54 has four forward speeds, 135-inch wheel-base, motor 4⅛ x 5¼, developing 55 horse power. Made in Phaeton at $2950 and Sedan at $4650. The Six-40 has 123-inch wheel-base, motor 3½x5, developing 47 horse power, gives 13 to 17 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and is, we think, the easiest riding car on the market. The Six-40 in Phaeton and Roadster at $2350, and in Cabriolet at $2575. All cars, of course, are electrically started and lighted, left side drive, center control, gasoline tank in cowled dash. Catalog on request. Demonstrations as arranged. Prices f. o. b. Detroit, Mich. Duty paid.

Very Latest Fancies of Fashion

Newest Dress Furbelows Easily Copied at Home

By MADGE MARVEL

FRIPPERIES and furbelows of dress that women can fashion for themselves have a peculiar lure. Just now the shops seem particularly well stocked with various fascinating accessories which may be easily duplicated with delightful financial advantage to the adapter.

Consider, for example, the sashes with the elaborately embroidered ends. No one denies that it is to be a season of sashes, and many a simple frock will depend largely upon its girdle for its note of distinction. Yet the best of the hand embroidered sashes are almost as costly as the entire gown allowance of the average woman. With a bit of ingenuity, patience and time the embellishment may be added to a handsome moire ribbon or to hemstitched chiffon, and the frock will take on the "air" of a real creation.

The favored designs for these sash ends are bold and full of color in accord with the Futurist influence everywhere so apparent. Generous roses in gorgeous yellows and shades of pink finished the ends of an eight-inch wide moire sash which was used on a gown of net veiled charmeuse.

Below the embroidery the ribbon was fringed and knotted. Sometimes the fringe is sewed on and again the ribbon may have a hemstitched edge, or a ruffle of net or chiffon. A blue sash has the ends embroidered in purple and red Futurist fruits with an occasional green leaf. Heavy silk is used, and the long and short stitch is usually employed. There is an attempt at shading.

On the chiffon sashes I have been particularly attracted by the ribbon posies arranged in vines or garlands. Also the beaded roses are charming.

The necklaces seem legion. They are of all styles and colors and materials and lengths. The newest are narrow strips of silk made into tube-like strings and finished with three-inch bead ends, the beads being of moderate size and gay colors, and crowded together on the string so they hold the necklace straight. These gay little adornments are not fastened, but laid around the neck over the waist, and held in place by concealed pins. Or, if some more substantial anchorage is desired, they are loosely tied, once over, just above the beaded ends.

The making of these is very simple. A bias strip of silk the desired length is taken and folded as if to make a fold for the edge of a hat or ruffle, and sewed "blind stitch" into a tube about three-eighths of an inch wide. On a rose pink silk necklace, carved green and yellow beads were used. The ones which have the graduated size of beads are the most attractive.

The ribbon roses for brooches and corsage ornaments have lost none of their popularity.

Flowers may be embroidered in the centre of every alternate section of a plain silk parasol, and the effect will be quite like one of the expensive imported novelties. It is not easy to do this work for it is difficult to manage the parasol, but the skilled needlewomen will be able to accomplish it.

Making buckles is simpler than it sounds. The foundation may be some cheap bought buckle covered, or one of stiff buckram cut and stitched to give it shape. The covering is simple, whether it is of velvet or satin, or moire, and tiny ribbon or chiffon flowers may be fastened on the foundation. If beads are used I think a silken covering is better. The beads are sewed thickly in place. These buckles are going to be charming for the summer frocks to catch the draperies of either skirt or blouse. They are also to be used on hats and girdles.

Women who can make Irish crochet lace have a splendid opportunity to have lace buttons on their linen frocks at a minimum of expense—and these crocheted buttons and buckles give the distinguishing note to some of the most expensive and exclusive gowns.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

THE wise housekeeper co-operates with her marketman. She lets him know that she knows when she is getting her money's worth and that she intends to have the best she can get for every cent she spends. At the same time she makes it apparent that she welcomes any suggestions which mean a quality and price help to her.

There are real bargains to be found each day in the fish market. The fish which is very expensive today may be reasonably priced tomorrow. The good housekeeper buys the fish which is best and cheapest the day she happens to want to serve it. She knows that, properly cooked, many kinds of fish are equally delectable and indistinguishable to the average palate.

Of course, every one knows that it pays to "shop" for table supplies for the price for the same article will often vary several cents in the distance of two or three blocks. There are small stores which sell for cash which frequently give a saving of a few cents over the more exclusive stores which have heavier expenses. Every woman views with alarm the rise of 2 cents a pound on beef. But if she keeps her eyes open she can find bargains in other lines which will at least keep the expenses normal even if they are not lessened.

EVERY kitchen needs a good strong scrubbing brush, a smaller brush for shelves and cupboard corners, a still smaller one for all root vegetables, such as potatoes, turnips, beets and carrots, and a brush much like a handled nail brush for cleaning cut glass. For silver there is need for a similar brush.

Having once stocked the house with these labor savers, there is necessity for good care, if they are to be kept in order. No broom should be left standing bristles down. It should be hung up, preferably with the bristles up. Some housekeepers have covers for the brooms and put them away as carefully as they do their best frock, but this is not necessary, if they are kept in the right position and out of the dust.

All brushes and mops should be cleaned after use. If they are washed they should be thoroughly dried before being put away. Distorted brushes have lost half their usefulness.

There should be a bag hung in every kitchen with plenty of cleaning cloths. Cheesecloth, cut into squares of different size, is always needed. There are floor cloths and dish cloths of specially woven fabrics which are infinitely to be preferred over the bits of old rags our mothers used. And there are patent dusters, which are far superior to any home made article.

To do good work, a workman needs tools. The houseworker is no exception.

Wit of the Little Folk

Dottie—Mamma, I guess my dolly's mamma must have been a very anxious lady.

Mamma—Why so, Dot?

Dottie—Why, she made her so her knees won't bend. I have to put her on her stummick to say her prayers.

"What did Noah live on when the flood had subsided and his provisions in the ark were exhausted?" asked a Washington Sunday school teacher of her class.

"I know," squeaked a little girl after the others had given up.

"Well, what?" inquired the teacher.

"Dry land."

Friend of the family—Johnny, I suppose you are delighted with the new little boarder at your house?

Johnny—New, nothin'! He's second-hand! The doctor brought him, and there's no tellin' how many families has had him before.

Some time ago the Queen of Italy asked a little girl to knit her a pair of silk mittens for her birthday, giving her the money for the material. A pair of beautifully worked mittens arrived on the Queen's birthday. The little girl received in return another pair: one mitten contained lire, the other bon-bons. Queen Marguerite inclosed a little note, saying:

"Tell me, my dear child, which you like best."

The reply ran as follows:

"Dearest Queen—Your lovely presents have made me shed many tears. Papa took the mitten with the money; my brother had the bon-bons."

"ENGAGED" WORDS :: By Michelson

DID you ever see (or hear) a puzzled parrot? Well, the artist has drawn one here. The poor bird is bewildered. He is a bird of some years, and, in one way or another, he has heard much and various language. But never before anything like this.

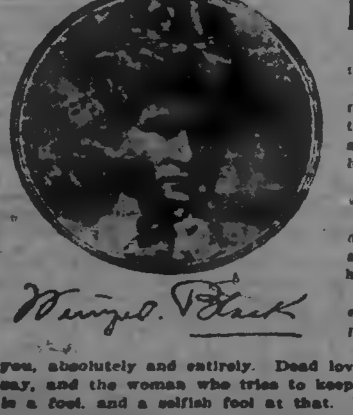
When two persons are engaged, and are quite alone (save for a parrot) they do not use the plain English language. Those endearing, cuddling (and coddling) terms are untranslatable. No wonder the parrot is puzzled. He knows "love," but "'ovey" puts a kink in his talk system. Pet names and the cubist music of baby talk are too much. Even a parrot reaches a limit. They say that a parrot can THINK. If this is true, what do you suppose———?

But of course he never would tell.

Can "Dead Love" Be Revived?

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.



Winifred Black

"IF your husband's love is dead—let him go," says a clever woman writer.

A woman in New Jersey did that the other day.

The New Jersey woman's husband fell in love with another woman and the New Jersey wife let her husband go to Reno and get a divorce from her on technical grounds.

Then the husband married the other woman and the wife went—where?

And you think that this woman who did this thing for her husband deserves to have a monument built in her honor, do you, Miss Clever Writer?

You think she has set a magnificent example for other women in a similar plight to follow, do you?

Well, then, for once I disagree with you, absolutely and entirely. Dead love can never come to life again, you say, and the woman who tries to keep her husband when his love is dead is a fool, and a selfish fool at that. Where in the world do you get the material upon which to base such an idea as that?

How are you going to know that love is really dead—to begin with?

Fancy may be dead, romance may be a trifle withered, passion may be gone—but there is great love possible with all these three elements eliminated. As a matter of fact, most married people who really love each other have done without any of them for a good many years.

"Duty" More Than a Word.

Is there nothing to love but passion? Must we rely upon the most fleeting thing there is for a lifelong foundation, for the one thing that holds this cruel world of ours together at all—the family?

Is there no such thing as duty?

What does a promise mean, anyway, if you're going to feel free to break it the very minute you get a trifle tired of keeping it?

Dead love can never be restored—oh, yes, it can. I've seen it happen a dozen times, and so has any woman who has any number of friends who have been married for any length of time.

If you don't believe it, ask your husband.

He may not tell you the truth, but he knows it.

Ten chances to one he's been "in love," or on the verge of being "in love," with half a dozen other women since he was married to you years ago.

Don't you remember that time he was so much impressed with the contralto singer in the choir?

If you were a foolish woman, as most of us are, poor things, you almost died of jealousy and you tried your very best to kill his real love for you by making scenes and being as miserable as you possibly could.

If you were a wise woman, you shut your eyes and pretended you didn't see a thing, or you took the children and went away somewhere for a long trip.

And then what happened?

Then you came back and your husband met you at the train with the old look in his eyes, the look you understood, and you found out afterward that the choir singer fell in love with the banker, and his wife sued him for divorce, and the banker married the choir singer—and in six months she was having a violent flirtation with the ex-superintendent of the Sunday school.

One Love That Lived.

And the banker's wife? What became of her?

Oh, she's abroad somewhere, spending her alimony as fast as she can. Wandering from one resort to another, restless, miserable, unsettled; a poor ghost of a woman, not a wife, not a maid, not a widow.

There is no real place in the world she can call her own.

She's wretched; her children are branded as the children of a divorced woman. And the man who was her husband?

He's beginning to drink, they say, and everybody says that his present wife is treating him just exactly as he deserves.

Aren't you glad you didn't give up your husband when you thought—oh, bitter hour of agony—that his "love was dead"?

It wasn't dead at all; it wasn't even wounded—you could have killed it, but you didn't.

Aren't you glad now that you didn't?

It was three years before husband's love was "dead" again.

It was a little country cousin of your own who captivated him this time. Fresh faced she was and smiling, a ridiculous, little, sentimental egotist, under all her girlish ways, but husband was having an attack of spring fever—and little cousin taught him how to play tennis and how to do the tango. Just as she was beginning to leave a rose for him at the breakfast table every morning, you went away again.

Little cousin was rather distressed when you went away; she was having a glorious time being broken-hearted and struggling with a "great passion."

You don't know what she did after you were gone, but you do know that in three months husband began to write you the most charming letters, and in four months you were back home again—in your own home—where you belonged, and from which no woman in the world has the least power or the least right to drive you.

Not Floatable.

"Do you ever cast bread upon the waters?"

"Well, I gave a fellow a dime the other night to buy him coffee and sinkers."

Broken.

"If you are not home early," said Mrs. Peck, "I shall give you a piece of my mind."

"That will be easy," muttered Henry. "It seems to be shattered."

Not Right

"He is the most irregular man I ever saw."

"So?"

"Sure. He was fired out of the regular army because of irregularities."

A Graceful Substitute.

"She found the man she married was not a duke as she supposed, but was a dancing master."

"Well, she can still call him 'Your Grace.'"

Secrets of Health and Happiness

"Common Sense" Is a Gift of True Physical Health

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

FOOLS are my theme; let satire be my song.

Why is a fool and his money soon parted? Have you ever thought that this platitude is true? It is true. Why?

Even a fool must now and then be right by chance. There may be fools who hang on like leeches to their money. They escape by virtue of the inaccessibility that happens to be theirs.

What is a fool in the commonplace acceptation of the word? A fool is one who is deficient in sense and hence in judgment and common sense.

The fool has said in his heart, sang the psalmist, there is no God. Why does a fool say this? Because he has less common sense than others.

It is not correct to say that a fool has "no sense," because he would be worse than deaf, dumb and blind, if he had no senses.

A fool, then, is easily separated from his money for the very reason Poor Richard gave, to wit: "Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other."

Muscles Often to Blame.

You think this cruel? Take it for a rule,
No creature smarts so little as a fool.
Let peals of laughter, Codrus! round thee break,
Thou unconcerned canst hear the mighty crack:
Pit, box, and gallery in convulsions hurled,
Thou standest unshook amidst a bursting world.
Who shames a scribbler; break one cobweb through,
He spins the slight, self-pleasing thread anew.
Destroy his fib, or sophistry, in vain,
The creature's at his dirty work again.

"Good nature" is a tolerant epithet often levelled at fools. It is a gilded want of sense behind which many a fool hides his folly. A shallow brain behind a serious mask is an oracle within an empty cask.

His wit invites you by his looks to come,
But when you knock it never is at home.

Yet many an unhappy mortal called by you a fool and so considered secretly even by him, or her very self, needs only a pair of eye-glasses, or perchance some athletic exercise to tone up a lackadaisical muscle sense.

A blockhead rubs his thoughtless skull, shuffles his awkward feet, or stands first on one foot and then the other, because his sense-wires have been crossed.

The difference between a fool and a knave is less than the F and the K. A child with worms, poor eyesight, the need of a "mastoid" ear operation, lack of muscular grace, and deficient nourishment and outdoor sunlight may be on the high road either to the Paradise of Fools or the Purgatory of Knavery.

New Habits Needed.

Want of sense means exactly what it says. Silly, stupid and habitual mental slowness and lack of discernment is a physical semaphore, flashed at you as a notice to investigate your eyes, ears, nose, throat, stomach, kidneys, muscles and other interwoven, living textiles.

It follows from this that well developed, near perfect sense rids a fool of his folly and permits him to avoid that financial parting which is far from a sweet sorrow.

A man or woman who lives in a dungeon, a girl or boy whose habitat is a tenement house in a narrow street, anyone whose experience—experience is action of your surroundings upon the senses—is contracted to its smallest sphere, is after all, only slightly above a fool.

If you and your children have been looked after; if all of your senses are whole, sound and newly renovated; if you, despite these physical perfections, still live and have your being all in one neighborhood, one village, one business, one set of habits, still you are in no position to scoff, for you have much to learn, lots of rough edges to polish into your senses.

Plants for the Window Carden

SOMETIMES it is possible to raise sweet peas in the window garden and have splendid success, but these lovely flowers need depth for roots, which is not easily obtained in the average window box.

There is a plant known as agathea, which has a blue, daisy-like flower, grows about a foot high, and is excellent for indoor culture.

The marguerite, either in white or in the larger yellow variety, makes a satisfactory plant for window culture.

Myosotis, the modest little forget-me-not, is also easily grown, and planted with sweet alyssum makes a charming combination.

Gardeners in recent years have given a good deal of study to begonias with excellent result. A sturdy plant will blossom all summer and give great pleasure. There is a certain waxiness about the blossom and foliage which makes it distinctively decorative. Begonias thrive either in the full sunshine or partial shade, but they like lots of water.

Primroses are charming window plants, and the oxalis gives great value for care received. It is continually sending up new blossoms, and has a mass of green leaves, which close cunningly as the sun goes down and go to sleep quite as the clover of the field, to which family the oxalis belongs.

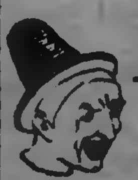
There are many vines that are excellent for window cultivation and require less care than some of the plants. Of them all nothing can surpass the tradescantia for sturdiness. A few slips stuck in a glass vase and given plenty of water make graceful and rapid growth and last a long time.

The maurandya vine is not difficult to make thrive, and has an attractive purplish blue blossom.

Some persons have a great liking for smilax. It is easily grown and always graceful and fresh.

If there is a wide sill on the kitchen window and plenty of sun it is a simple matter to grow parsley enough for continual green garnish. Moreover, the [illegible] heads are most attractive.

And it is by no means impossible to raise rotation crops of lettuce in the window that shall keep the table supplied with fresh, crisp salad if the family is not out of the proportion to the size of the garden.



As a Clown Sees Us

By Harry La Pearl

Premier Clown of the New York Hippodrome.

Mexico!

MEXICO is geographically and climatically a wonderful land. Its chief trouble lies in its population. This consists of greasers, Indians, horned toads, Gila monsters, rattlesnakes, tarantulas, scorpions, "soldiers of fortune," cactus plants, alligator pears, pulque, Chili con-carni, tamales and frijoles. Any single item is deadly enough, but fancy the combination!

Mexico is strong on politeness and pulque. A business man starts to sell his goods by placing his hand over his heart and kissing the prospective buyer rapturously, pressing him the while to dine with him that evening. Meantime the business man's assistant is fixing up the "short measure." If the buyer is particularly lucky he may escape with his clothes.

I remember in the declining days of the Diaz regime, when I was clowning in the City of Mexico, and the first rumblings of revolution were heard, the wily President granted a big subsidy to a group of American impresarios to give a gala season of grand opera in the capital. The wonderful national opera house was not completed, nor is it now for that matter, so a theatre was practically rebuilt for the purpose. A street was closed to permit the stage to be extended, and finally when this did not afford sufficient room the front of a church was torn out.

The plaything pleased the petulant populace. Revolution was temporarily forgotten. The box office bulged with money, and every one was happy until it came time for the company to leave. Then the American impresarios woke up. When the political grafters who had arranged the subsidy had deftly trimmed off their share, the remainder hardly served to get the organization out of the country.

There are no labor unions in Mexico, unless the marauding bands of bandits can be termed revolutionary unions. I remember an attempt to organize a musicians' union during the opera season already referred to. By order of Diaz the musicians were lined up against the side wall of the theatre and given their choice of resigning from the union or being shot full of holes. This brief argument satisfied the musicians of the undesirability of unions generally.

Let my experience point its own moral—clowns and other white men should stay far, far away from hornets' nests and Gila monsters.

SOME REFLECTIONS ON COST OF LIVING

Mr. Flavelle Thinks Inefficiency of Consumers Has Much to do With It

J. W. Flavelle, Toronto, in discussing before [illegible] the cost of living said the consumer was supremely inefficient. He spoke of the large number of young girls employed in factories and offices until they were ready to set up housekeeping for themselves, when they found themselves almost entirely ignorant of the economical purchasing and preparation of food. There was almost as great ignorance on the part of their more fortunate sisters who did not have to work, and in this connection Mr. Flavelle referred to the habit of housewives doing their purchasing by telephone, and ordering half a pound of beefsteak to be sent up. The consumers themselves, Mr. Flavelle said were to a great extent responsible for the "cruel and improvident waste identified with the consumption and preparation and purchasing of food products." The fundamental cause of the high cost of living, Mr. Flavelle said, was an underproduction of the primary farm products. The problem was a social problem, even more than an economic problem. What was needed was a greater feeling of fellowship between the farmers and the people in other callings. The farmer should live just as well, and should have just as many comforts in his home as the man in the city. Mr. Flavelle spoke of the ten million dollars of farmers' money in the banks of Ontario drawing interest at three per cent., "practically every dollar which should have gone back into the land, or into stock or improvements on the farms." What was wanted was some way to check the flow of people into the cities and towns from the land "that ought to be flowing with milk and honey."

THE GRACE OF PUNCTUALITY

Text: "A time to keep."—Ecclesiastes 3:6.

• • •

Some Canadian teachers, on a holiday at Washington, D.C., missed meeting President Wilson because they were not at the White House on time. "The door was shut." The foolish virgins were told that they could not hear the bridegroom's [illegible]. The great nuisance of the business, the professional, the social and the religious world is the laggard who will not keep his engagements. I know a dentist who will solemnly make an engagement with you for to-morrow at nine. He would make it even earlier were he permitted. Will he be there on time? Never. At nine-fifteen he comes rushing in, violently denouncing the street car company. In every committee meeting, however important, there will be the late-comer who delays the work of six others by his tardiness. The same people are late at church, at the theatre, at dinner.

As with other bad habits, tardiness is usually a species of selfishness. Unconsciously laggards say: "Let others wait for me; I do not mind disturbing them." Even at recitals where artists are peculiarly disturbed by late-comers, these sinners against the public weal are not thoughtful enough to break their miserable rule. At nearly every wedding, some guests rush in while the ceremony is proceeding. I have even heard of people telephoning the bride to request a quarter-hour's delay for their dear sakes. Did you ever see a Sunday School excursion get away on time? You may delay the embarking five, ten or fifteen minutes, but just as sure as you get ten yards away from the wharf you will see three or four women, half a dozen children, and a few baskets shooting down the platform, late! And they will be late next year also. Indeed the habit grows like the taking of drugs. Many a preacher who berates other bad habits is guilty of this heinous offence. He enters the pulpit a few minutes late, or delays the opening of the concert until 8.20 o'clock, keeping the faithful waiting for the unfaithful, fining the punctual ones for the tardy. John Wesley, prince of preachers and organizers, was one of the most punctual of men. He expected his carriage at the door to the minute. "When I must prepare for a journey, I dress early," said he; "then I have the remaining time for work without being hurried." Punctuality, somebody said, enabled Wesley to do a great amount of work with perfect composure.

Punctuality is such a prudent thing. A young man who asked counsel of Sir Walter Scott was given this unique advice: "When a regiment is under march, the rear is often thrown into great confusion because the front does not move on time." Punctuality makes work easy; tardiness enslaves. A late train is laid out at every junction point. A train on time is anticipated by every despatcher and every switchman. Did you ever take a ride on the Empire State express? There is something in the very jerk of the conductor's hand as he pulls out his watch and yells, "All aboard!" that warns you against expecting any mercy for late-comers. On time to the seconds the wheels turn and the giant locomotive bounds ahead; through the suburbs and out into the country; past hamlets and through thirty pretentious cities; slighting country towns galore, and not even hesitating at time-honoured junction points; on, on we fly, for the great metropolis must be reached on schedule time, and there is not a minute's margin anywhere. The road is clear, and there is not a minute's margin anywhere. The road is clear, switches are turned for us; accommodation trains are side-tracked; ready engines are waiting for us; everybody along the road seems bent on giving us the right-of-way.

As with trains, so with men. He who is on time always gets the right-of-way. Switches are turned for punctual people, but semaphores are raised against tardy folks.

Punctuality makes work easy. It is the prompt man who can stop for recreation here and there. Those who are punctual get through their work, do something, reach a decision. Their recreation is sweet because unfinished tasks do not haunt their leisure hours. Only he can rest whose work is done. Pleasure taken before our tasks are finished is like a nightmare; the unkept engagement always stares us in the face. The student knows it; the travelling salesman knows it; all who have great responsibilities have experienced the difference between rest taken after conscientious fulfilment of duty, and a pastime indulged in while work is uncompleted.

Tardiness is either a moral limitation or a mental one. In either case, one must make a prodigious effort in order to get the victory over it. With some people the trouble lies in making a great ordeal out of the preparation for keeping an appointment. They simply put off getting ready because of disinclination. These must bring themselves to confront the unpleasant task bravely. Others are not on time because they do not practice foresight. They do not lay out their time methodically—so much in which to dress, so much for the journey, and a fair margin for possible delays.

Punctuality is one of the great requisites of success. Men who, while their companions slept, toiled upward in the night" did their climbing on schedule time. There is something majestic about Abraham's steward, who, when invited to eat with Rebekah's parents, stood resolutely to say, "I will not eat until I have done mine errand." Louis the Fourteenth said: "Punctuality is the politeness of kings, the duty of gentlemen, the necessity of business men." It is said that the only rebuke the late King Edward ever gave his favorite sister was when she was late for breakfast. And, by the way, how pleasant to have every member of the household together at the breakfast table. The morning meal is often the only one at which all can be present. A little chat over bacon and eggs is a great social stimulus for the day and gives loved ones something cheerful to think about while they are separated during the hours of toil.

Suppose you try it to-night. I say to-night because there is no use introducing the innovation by suddenly exposing habitually-late sleepers to-morrow morning without a well-planned and concerted resolution beforehand to break the chains of bad habit. Enlist all hands to rise early, and prepare for breakfast long enough before the earliest worker's time for leaving the house to allow for a banquet of forty-five minutes.

Lord Nelson said that he owed his success to being always a quarter of an hour ahead of time. President Washington's secretary was habitually late, and invariably blamed his watch. One day, when patience had ceased to be a virtue, the President quietly remarked: "Sir, either you will have to get a new watch or I a new secretary." Benjamin Franklin, one of the most prodigious workers of the eighteenth century—whose career, by the way, bears a marvelous resemblance to that of John Wesley, said: "He who loses an hour in the morning may keep on a dog-trot all day, but will not overtake it by evening."

The Berlin Congress of 1878 brought together Europe's greatest diplomatists to settle the boundaries of Turkey in Europe. Bismarck, Beaconsfield, Gortschakoff and Gambetta were the leaders. Each had often been called a crank on the matter of punctuality, but their work in the negotiations vindicated their hobby. Each session began to the minute. Every man used the time as if each moment were a grain of gold. The result was that the longest treaty ever written was arranged and signed within thirty days.

A reputation for keeping engagements is worth while. A rural layman said to me proudly: "You may set your watch by the coming of our preacher at the Sunday morning service. He insists on our little choir going in ahead of him about two minutes to eleven. Promptly at the hour he enters the pulpit. Nobody has ever caught him being late. Everybody in the village expects him to keep his appointments and nobody is disappointed." Now I suppose that the whole community regards that village parson as quite a preacher. At any rate his preaching reputation is at a premium on ccount of this virtue of promptness.

So whatever your talents may be, young man, win a reputation for being on time. To be known as an employe whose hat is on the nail at a certain minute every morning will be an asset. Let your habit be so well cultivated that if some fine morning you should be unavoidably detained, the manager will say at one minute after nine: "Call up his house; see what's wrong; he must be sick!" The habit has a reflective effect on yourself too. To be able to say, "I am on time; the town-bell can regulate itself by me," will give you a pride which will act as a tonic to all of your activities.

The daily newspaper preaches a graphic sermon on promptness. To be in a newspaper office at the time of going to press ought to cure the veriest drone of his laziness, and the most lagging procrastinator of his delinquencies. Everything must be done to the minute. Reporters click off their last words on their typewriting machines without waiting to leisurely select synonyms. Copy-readers are hurrying through manuscripts. Chiefs are cutting down stories. Telephones jingle like sleighbells; telegraph instruments tick off the news of Europe; printer's devils are rushing about, nimble-footed but without [illegible]. Just before the time for locking up the last form the telephone rings! "Take this down!" yells the man at the 'phone, "Murder on York Street!" In three minutes more the story of the murder is written; a scare-head is dashed off; the pneumatic tube shoots it to the composing room; half a dozen printers run their fingers over the keyboard of the typewriter-like printing machines. After ninety seconds of clashing and buzzing and sighing and rapping, the "takes" are assembled, the murder story is placed carefully but swiftly into the last form, which drops through the floor to the stereotyping room beneath, where half-naked men, dripping in perspiration, secure the matrix from which the semi-circular form is cast. On time to the second the pressmen receive that form and place it with its companions on the great printing press. The wheels revolve, the great machine rumbles, it thunders, it clashes. You see the paper from the roll glide into monster clutches, and at the other end you see papers emerge, printed, pasted, folded, counted—thirty thousand an hour, fourteen every second! Hark! The newsboys, all on time—not only outside of the office but throughout the whole city—are crying: "Evening Paper, all about the York Street murder!" Then see those bundles, wrapped and labeled in a trice, thrown into automobiles, whirled to the branch offices, where carriers await them so that they may leave, at your doorstep, strictly on time, the story of the homicide. When you have finished watching the series of lightning jerks which carry that story from the reporter's room at police headquarters to a hundred thousand homes, you will resolve to get up earlier to-morrow morning and do your work in such [illegible] time that folks will say: "He's a hustler," and you will add that you never knew before that there are sixty minutes in an hour.

A widow with four children is in penury to-day because her husband was behind time paying his last insurance premium. A congregation is without a meeting-house because they were behind time in renewing their fire insurance. An audience was without a lecturer last night because he was behind time in reaching the Union Station. A grocer is in the sheriff's hands because his customers were behind hand in paying their bills. Procrastination is not only the thief of time but the assassin of careers.

The punctual man feels in tune with the universe. He is full of serenity; he is in league with God. Nature is always on time. Our old earth is never late; she travels over half a billion miles a year and arrives on time to the minute. Were the planets ever late, we should have celestial collision. Even the comets that pay us a visit but once in a thousand years arrive on the scene the moment they are due. Let us resolve with the Psalmist: "I myself will awake early." And all nature will cheer us at that delicious time of day when everything seems to say, "Be on time! Be on time!"

(Note—The preacher is indebted for several illustrations to Samuel Smiles' famous work on "Self-Help.")

"DANGEROUS BLONDES"

Judge and Lawyer's Scathing Attack on Fair-haired Women

Fair-haired women have been denounced by Mr. Justice Giegerich, of the Supreme Court, in an interview with a reporter. "'Danger! Beware!' should be carried on the breast and shoulders of a blonde, as a sandwich-man displays his advertisement to a staring world," asserted the judge.

Mr. Herman L. Roth, a leading lawyer, subsequently expressed himself as in thorough agreement with the judge's denunciation of fair-haired women.

"Ninety out of every hundred respondents in divorce cases are blondes," Mr. Roth said. "Blondes are vain. Blondes are fickle. Blondes love no one well but themselves. Blondes invite flirtation and challenge insult. Blondes bear the trade mark of the coquette.

"They say, in effect, 'Catch me! I am easily caught.' A blonde attracts instant attention because she bears the trade mark of the flirt. Her golden hair is a challenge. She is the trouble maker of the world."

MADMAN IN A HAYLOFT

Defies Police and Fire Brigade For Hours and Sets Fire to House

For four hours a well known Reading baker, who, apparently, had suddenly lost his reason, held a combined force of civilians, police, and firemen at bay, and was only captured after the hose had been directed upon him.

The man's name was Pocock. He was in a public house, and suddenly to the consternation of the occupier and customers, began smashing everything he could lay his hands upon, doing great damage. The police were summoned, and, on the arrival of two constables, the man darted out of the house, and up a ladder to a hayloft, where, taking possession of a pronged fork, he stood at the entrance to the loft, and threatened to kill anyone who dared approach him.

After a time the man closed the trapdoor in the floor of the loft, and was next seen breaking his way through the roof, from which position, it is surmised, he thought he might be attacked. Finding himself unmolested, he returned to the loft, and shortly afterwards it was seen that he had fired the place.

The fire brigade were summoned, but before their arrival the fire was subdued. A quantity of water was, however, directed on the man, and eventually the police and members of the brigade forced an entry, and, after a struggle, succeeded in securing the man, who had then been in the loft for about four hours.

UNEMPLOYMENT MUST BE FACED

Mr. J. E. Atkinson Would Draw Lessons From the Old World

"The Problem of Unemployment" was the title of an interesting address given by Mr. J. E. Atkinson, Toronto. "We have been accustomed to say that in Canada we have not the problem of unemployment and a demand for a rearrangement of industry as they have them in other and in older countries," said Mr. Atkinson, "hence our legislators have paid practically no attention to them. From this comfortable state of mind the people of this city, at least, must have been disturbed during the present winter. Many thousands have found themselves lacking employment through no fault of theirs. Their families have suffered, in many cases to the utmost extremity. These workers receive wages that, even in times of work, are so close to the margin of sustenance that it is a mockery to ask why they do not save enough to tide them over those periods of non-employment which are as certain and almost as regular as the ebb of the tides. Ontario has not unemployment in the same degree as England, but the large and apparently inevitable degree to which the Province is affected urgently demands some such provision being made by legislation as is already in operation in the motherland."

EVERY ROYAL HONOR CARRIES A NUMBER

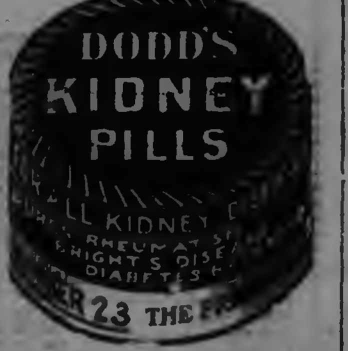
Thus Precedence in Appearing Before Royal Personages is Always Determined

In the United Kingdom all matters of precedence before Royalty are carefully settled, and nothing is left to chance. In fact, each person who bears a title, or occupies a position entitling him to any precedence at all, has a number showing his exact position in the scale of relative precedence. According to that work, Lord Decies' number is 13,126, while Mr. Borden's number is 18,337—a good way lower down. As a matter of fact, however, the numbers prefixed to the various names, though indicating the relative position of those entitled to precedence, do not show the actual numerical position of each. Thus Lord Decies' number of 13,126 does not mean that there are 13,125 persons of higher rank than his. Nor does Mr. Borden's number of 18,334 persons of higher rank than his. What is signified is that they belong respectively to classes thirteen and eighteen—Lord Decies as a Baron, to class thirteen, and Sir Borden, as a Privy Councillor, to class eighteen—in the scale of precedence called, for convenience, 13,000 and 18,000 respectively, and that the honors from which they derive precedence are respectively 126th and 337th in order of seniority in their own degrees. The numbers prefixed to each name, in fact, combine two series.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's number is 18,113—224 higher up than that of the Prime Minister. For, though both are in the eighteenth class, as Privy Councillors—this class comprises Knights of the Garter, Knights of St. Patrick and Privy Councillors—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's number is above Mr. Borden's for the reason that the former was created a Privy Councillor in 1897, and the latter not until 1912. And the Prime Minister of Canada does not, as such, figure in this scale of precedence at all. In fact, it is as members of "The Most Honorable Privy Council of Great Britain" that he and the leader of the Opposition find their places in the scale. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, it is true, as a G.C.M.G., or Knight Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George, is entitled to a place in the scale of precedence, but to one very much lower down than that which his Privy Councillorship affords him—one, in fact, with the number 27,000, instead of 18,113.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the only Canadian G.C.M.G. But there are quite a few K.C.M.G.'s, or Knight Commanders of St. Michael and St. George, whose order of knighthood entitles them to a place in the thirtieth class of the the scale of precedence. Thus Sir Frederick Borden is number 30,294, Sir William Mulock is number 30,295, Sir Allen Aylesworth is number 30,416, Sir Joseph Pope is number 30,444, Sir J. M. Gibson is number 30,443, Sir Rodmond Roblin is number 30,450, Sir Richard McBride is number 30,451, and so on. Canadian knights bachelors are almost like the sands of the seashore for multitude. And we have quite our fair share of them in Toronto. But the knights bachelors are not very high up in the scale of precedence, theirs forming the 33rd class, and, in fact, they are so numerous that they overflow into the 34th.

Among other numbers are the following: Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, 33,872; Sir Henry Pellatt, 33,859; Sir William Mortimer Clark, 34,004; Sir Edmund Osler, 34,414; Sir Glenholme Falconbridge, 34,065; Sir Edmund Walker, 34,226; Sir Lyman Melvin-Jones, 34,211; Sir William Mackenzie, 34,263; and Sir Donald Mann two numbers below his brother railway magnate.



A CLEVER BIRD

It Wakes Its Master Each Morning and Goes With Him to School

This pigeon goes to school! A little chap named Wicks, who lives in Reading, England, owns this clever bird. It is his constant companion, and shows signs of homesickness and loneliness when the boy is away from home, where it cannot follow.

Wicks and His Pet

Each morning, when Wicks starts out for school, the pigeon hops onto his shoulders and remains there until the journey is ended.

Instead of flying away home immediately, he waits to see whether the boy has a written message for him to take back.

Another favorite trick this sagacious bird does is to fly to the window sill of the boy's bedroom at 7 each morning and peck and coo until his master wakes and opens the window.

Never buy tinned goods if the tin bulges anywhere. The contents are not good. Baking tins should not be used as purchased. They must be "seasoned" first by being baked for an hour with the oven at an ordinary heat.

'Buried and Then Wedded.

A funny stunt was seen at a local moving picture house yesterday afternoon. A very pathetic drama, with three reels, was presented. Unfortunately the operator, by accident, put on the third reel before the second. After the hero had committed suicide because his bride had fled with another man, or some such fatality occurred, the loving couple, after being decently buried or otherwise removed from life's scene of action, made love and were wed.

Came Here To Get Pointers.

Governor Balfour of Lindsay jail writes the Post of that town modestly disclaiming undue credit for censuring arrests of the two burglars "pinched" in this city. He says, in part,

Having obtained permission from my superior officer, the Sheriff, to go to Peterboro and visit the gaol in order that I might get some pointers from Gov. Nesbitt, who has been in office for a long time, and who kindly spent upwards of an hour with me, showing me through the gaol and in conversation over matters which apply particularly to our office as gaolers.

Our New Railway.

The Central Railway of Canada now seems to be un fait accompli. This important undertaking is now actually under way. Mr. Burnham, M.P., has written to the County Council stating that the contract calls for completion of the road to Midland Harbour by Dec. 31st, 1915. The rails are now being laid west of McAlpine. This railway runs to the north of Stoney Lake, and will open up the whole north country. Mr. Burnham has done good work for the Northern part of his constituency as well as for the rest of the county.

A Rabbit's Foot Mystery.

Mr. Fred Warboy of this city is now "guessing." For years he has carried for luck, a rabbit's foot, in his lower left hand vest pocket. Yesterday that foot was missing. He turned the pocket inside out. There was no hole in the pocket. Thinking it might accidentally have been put in upper left hand vest pocket. It was not there. There was no hole in the upper pocket. The rabbit foot was felt in the lining between the two pockets. Mr. Warboy is now wondering how this foot, that serves a charm got into the lining of his vest.

Was It a Joke?

According to the Review of last night, a member of the local Board of Education does not care whether the tax rate of Peterborough goes to 26 mills on the dollar, as he, the Educationalist, pays "more taxes than 25 workingmen." How about the man who does not own enough to pay taxes on more than on the little home he has won by frugality and thrift? The Review, in printing this story, would seem to indicate that they advocate the importation here of a few Rockefellers and J. P. Morgans. The story is headed "A Joke. That $3000 idea of the City Dads." Surely the Mayor and Aldermen of this city are supposed to have at least average intelligence.

Trent Canal News.

Bobcaygeon Independent— Acting Superintendent Killaby of the Trent Works has inspected the local works and will have a report to make to the department. It is to be hoped it will have some influence in awakening the Departmental Engineer to the urgent necessity of permanent improvement. There has been an idea at Ottawa that the local works would stand until the Georgian Bay end of Waterway is opened. It will be for Mr Killaby to say whether the Works can give safe and economical service for that length of time.

Local Man Gets Prize.

An Englishman who has been a resident of this city for some years, but, who from Insular prejudice is verse to publicity and asked us to keep his name out of print, has won the guinea prize offered by the Northampton, Eng., Independent for the best story on "The Strangest Christmas I ever had." The story was written from a railway camp in New Ontario. This local writer, whilst seemingly influenced by Insular ideas advises readers of the Independent, who may contemplate coming to Canada that there are great opportunities ahead but warns them to "drop their Insular prejudices."

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $25,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,[illegible] per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,[illegible]. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,[illegible].

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,[illegible].00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I. who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $[illegible] from an investment of $[illegible] made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $[illegible] each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $35,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

PASTORS PRAISE MIRACLE PLAY, PILATE'S DAUGHTER

First Professional Performance Is Given in Hartford.

Hartford, Ct., April 3.—The first professional performance on any stage of the miracle play, "Pilate's Daughter," by the Rev. Francis L. Kenzel, C. SS. R., of the Mission Church, Roxbury, was given at Parson's Theatre, this city, the other evening.

The play won instant approval from a large audience, not alone for the excellence of its cast, but for the magnificence of the settings, the beauty of its incidental music and the awe inspiring scenes, one of which ends with the crucifixion.

A large number of clergymen, representing every denomination in the city, viewed the performance, and expressed approval.

The story is based on the miracles performed by Pilate's daughter, Claudia, with the aid of a rose which has touched the garment of Christ.

ARMY MUST OBEY DEMANDS OF CIVIL POWER, SAYS PREMIER GRAVE SITUATION CREATED

Doctrine Promulgated by Leaders of the Tory Party Struck at Very Root of Army Discipline and Government

Ladybank, Scotland, April 4.—Premier Asquith opened his election campaign this afternoon in the Masonic Hall, of this village. The hall is a diminutive building with a holding capacity limited to 300. Under these circumstances the speech of the Premier was made to the sixty reporters present rather than to the delegates of the Scottish Liberal Association who filled the rest of the hall.

The elaborate telegraphic arrangements for the circulation of the Premier's address through the United Kingdom testified to the importance attached to the speech in political circles.

Premier Asquith, as befitted a man who had just assumed the duties of Secretary of State for War, quickly approached the subject of the army crisis. He said he had felt it to be his duty in the higher interests of both the army and the state to assume his new office, because "a grave situation had been created both in regard to the discipline of the army and in connection with its relation to the civil power."

Army Can Be Counted on.

The premier continued: There is a certainty that if things went on as they had threatened to do a controversy would have arisen which every patriotic man would have been anxious to avoid until a case of crucial urgency arose."

Paying a tribute to the army Premier Asquith declared:

"The British army can be counted on from the highest to the lowest rank without qualification or reserve to undertake all the duties its obligations require it to discharge. The army is not and I pray may never become a political machine. The army has no voice in the making of our policy or the moulding of our laws. The army will hear nothing of politics from me, and in return I expect to hear nothing of politics from the army."

Struck at Root of Discipline.

Turning to exceptional circumstances in which the army might be called upon to assist the civil power Premier Asquith said that in such emergencies "it is the duty of the soldier and the duty of the civilian to comply with the lawful demand of the civil power. The doctrine promulgated by the leaders of the Tory party struck at the very root not only of army discipline but of democratic government."

The premier emphasized the idea that "the new dogma now countersigned by the Tory leaders, will be evoked whenever the spirit of lawlessness claims to stop the ordinary machinery of self-governing society."

Will Not Submit Home Rule.

Mr. Asquith definitely refused the Unionist demand that the question of Home Rule should be submitted to the electors. He said: "We believe it to be a wise and just measure and we have disclaimed and will continue to disclaim any submission of it to the country."

The premier claimed that there was complete moral and constitutional justification for the application of the Parliament Act, restricting the powers of the house of lords in the case of the home rule bill. He continued: "None the less, we are earnestly anxious if it is possible, to work out the agreed settlement."

HAMILTON WOMAN TO SUE FOR A DIVORCE

Mrs. George Hill Will Apply to the Courts of Cleveland for Annulment.

Hamilton, April 4.—Mrs. George Hill, before her marriage Pearl Raphael, announced to-day that she was going to Cleveland to reside and sue for a divorce. Her husband mysteriously dropped out of sight here five months ago and has not been heard of since.

Hill had only been married a week. He was employed as a traveller by the Benson Johnston Co. On the morning of his disappearance he went to the bank and drew money which was to have been used as payment on the new home where he and his bride were to live. Hill led an exemplary life.

DEATH CALLS AGED BERLIN RESIDENT

Mrs. Frieda Senbusch Blankstein Passed Away at Age of Ninety-One.

Berlin, Ont., April 4.—Death called one of the city's oldest residents this morning in the person of Frieda Senbusch, widow of the late Charles Blankstein, at her home 154 South Queen street. Mrs. Blankstein was in her 91st year. For some time she had been in an infirm condition, and last Tuesday the aged woman had the misfortune of breaking a hip bone by falling from her bed. The injury together with the infirmities of old age caused her death. She passed peacefully away at 10.30 o'clock. Mrs. Blankstein lived here about 60 years. She was born in Germany and possessed many fine womanly qualities, characteristic of those who come from the fatherland. She leaves three sons and one daughter. Her husband predeceased her about 40 years ago.

VILLA TO FOLLOW UP VICTORY

Juarez, April 4.—The opinion that General Villa intends to take every advantage of the defeat of the federals at Torreon was expressed here today. It was based on the intelligence officially announced last night that Villa had left suddenly for San Pedro to take personal charge of rebel troops reported to have participated in an encounter with the fleeing federals.

The departure of Villa from Torreon prevented that promised telegraphic conference with General Carranza.

IS STUNG BY LOVE AND A COLD WINTER'S BLAST

Young Man Comes From Florida in Summer Attire to Meet His Lady

Toronto, April 4.—A young man dressed in the gaudiest of summer attire, including a light felt hat, a white tie, a delightfully cool-looking spring suit and white canvas shoes, created considerable interest around the Union Station Saturday afternoon. He had been wandering round the old building for some time, apparently in search of someone whom he expected, but could not locate. At length one of the officials approached him and offered to assist him in his search, if search it was. He was told by the young man, who refused to give his name, that he had come all the way from Florida to see a girl with whom he had been corresponding for over a year. Not knowing that the climatic conditions in Canada were much more severe than in the sunny south, he had not adjusted his wardrobe to suit them.

The girl, whose name he gave as Miss Edith Hill, of Eglinton, was to have met at the Union Station, but apparently she had failed to keep her appointment. He knew that she was not in the building, because she was to have worn a red ribbon on the left hand side of her dress, while she was to recognize him by the same mark. When the genial official glanced at the left lapel of the disappointed lover's coat he saw a piece of red silk ribbon, about four inches in length, pinned upon it.

Another round of the building was made, but the search failed to discover a woman wearing the necessary piece of red ribbon, so the quest was abandoned. The man from the south enquired as to the shortest route to Eglinton, and after thanking the official left the depot to take up the search for his beloved in that district. He had full confidence in the faith of his lady love, and expressed the firm belief that she had been prevented for some reason or other from meeting him at the station. He was sure that she would welcome him, if he could locate her.

THOUSAND WOMEN WAGE VERY FIERCE FIGHT IN LONDON PARK

London, April 4.—Suffragists created a diversion during the Unionist demonstration in Hyde Park to-day, and as a result "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond and the Misses Rogers and Virtue were arrested.

The women, about a thousand strong marched through the London streets to the park, and although the police had not given a permit for the procession, the women forced their way through the crowds gathered at the gates of the park. The women were waving the suffragette colors.

Immediately on their entrance to the park, crowds of rowdies charged them and for nearly an hour a fierce fight was in progress, the police having repeatedly to interfere to save the women from the mob.

Miss Virtue was on the point of being thrown into the Serpentine when policemen got her out of the hands of her tormentors.

In the meantime Mrs. Drummond and other speakers perched on the shoulders of men sympathizers, harangued the crowd making a particular point of interfering with the Unionist speakers, William Burdett Coutts and William Joyson Hicks, both of whom are members of parliament.

A delegation of 12 Americans, who refused to give their names, marched in the women's procession, carrying the Stars and Stripes. Among them were Miss Weatherby, of Portland, Ore., while their leader described herself as a daughter of a former ambassador to Turkey.

UNIONISTS HOLD BIG RALLEY IN HYDE PARK AGAINST HOME RULE

Twenty-Two Processions From All Parts of the Country Meet in London to Hear Members of Parliament and Peers Denounce the Methods of the Government

London, April 4.—The widely heralded "rally" of Unionists to protest against any coercion of Ulster brought an enormous concourse of people to Hyde Park from all points of the compass today. Twenty-two processions with bands playing and banners flying converged on the central open space of London from as many different localities and mobilized around fourteen platforms.

All the meetings were addressed by peers and members of parliament, who never before had competed with the orators of various creeds and theories who customarily occupy the open air platforms.

The speakers fiercely denounced any attempt "to use the army and navy to drive out by force of arms our fellow subjects in Ireland from their full heritage in the parliament of the United Kingdom."

Demands were expressed that the Government should immediately submit "this grave issue" to the people.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader; Austen Chamberlain, a son of Joseph Chamberlain; Walter Long, and such prominent Unionist peers as Viscount Milner, the Earl of Selborne, and Lord Londonderry, as well as Lord Robert Cecil and Lord Charles Beresford were among the speakers.

An attractive contingent in the procession was formed by a body of 5000 men, mostly from the Stock Exchange Lloyd's and other city institutions which formed up on the Thames embankment, then marched to the park and there took a lively part in singing the hymn "Oh God Our Help in Ages Past" and "God Save the King" which opened the proceedings.

Arthur Balfour, former Unionist premier, who occupied the centre platform, moved a resolution protesting against the use of the army and navy against Ulster and demanding an immediate general election on home Rule.

GREAT DEMAND FOR BOOKS IN FRENCH

Last week local bookstores had an unusual demand for French grammars and French dictionaries. The cause was an invitation received by many, printed in French, for an Annual Reception at the Conservatory of Music for April 17th. One young lady living on McDonel Street captured a volume of "Bolmar's French Phrases" However the nearest item she could find that would apply towards answering the French invitation was aves vous vu le chat tomas de ma grandmere?" which being literally interpreted means "Have you seen my Grandmother's Thomas Cat?" This of course would not do. As this is being written, we understand the lady in question is making goo-goo yes at Joe Picord in H. Le Brun & Company's store and asking him to write a French reply. The patronesses are Mesdames A. W. McPherson W. H. Hill, V. Eastwood, S. W. Medel, E.V. Moore and W.H. Bradburn. The officers are President M. Brooks, Treasurer, H.F. Hill, Secretary, G. D. Carlisle, executive committee, U. Ackerman, G. D. Carlisle and Asa Huycke.

There's Trouble in Ulster.

FEDERATION IS WAY OUT OF DIFFICULTIES

Proposal is Still in Nebulous Form--Undecided as to How Far Federation is to Go

London, April 4.—Federalism as the way out of the Ulster difficulty continues to be discussed wherever politicians gather and appear to be growing in favor among supporters of both the regular parties. As yet, however the proposal has not taken the form and remains in a nebulous condition. Nor does there seem to be any general agreement as to what a federal system signifies or how the claim of Ulster Protestants is to be satisfied. They have been insistent on their right to remain under the direct control of the Imperial parliament and to oppose the authority of an Irish Parliament with its inevitable Catholic majority, and it is not plain how any scheme of federation can be constructed and squared with Unionist demands.

How Far Is It to Go?

The question is being asked also—how far is federation to go? Is each province of Ireland to have a separate legislature and government for administration of its local affairs after the Canadian example and with a federal parliament and government for the administration of affairs common to the four provinces? And over this latter again is there to be an Imperial parliament controlling the common affairs of the United Kingdom? How again can any real federal system be made compatible with the cardinal feature of the British constitution—the absolute supremacy of parliament? Would it not entail the establishment of a supreme court akin to that of the United States and possessing authority to declare acts, even of the Imperial parliament, unconstitutional? These are some of the questions now being discussed by men who recognize how great a change will come through the adopting of a federal system.

CRIPPLED MINER AWARDED $50,000

Largest New York Verdict for Personal Injuries Given Luthunian.

New York, April 4.—The largest verdict for personal injuries in the history of the local courts was awarded to Matt Yurkonis, 42 years old, a Luthunian of Staten Island, who was awarded $50,000 by a jury in the United States district court. Yurkonis sued for $75,000. The trial lasted six days and resulted in a verdict which was brought in to Judge Chatfield and the court attendants who remained until 4 o'clock this morning. The verdict is against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, which employed Yurkonis as a laborer in a mine at Scranton, Pa., where he was injured in an explosion. Yurkonis went into the mine with an open lamp to test the gas. When rescued it was found both his eyes had been blown out of their sockets his limbs dangled insensitive and limp. He will be a cripple for life and blind.

"A GIRL OF THE UNDERWORLD."

For a play that thrills, stirs, and gripe, theatregoers should not fail to see "A Girl Of The Underworld" which comes to the Grand Opera House on Wednesday next, April 8. Never has the question of the social problem been more forcibly presented than in "A Girl Of The Underworld" which the producers are offering to the public the present season. The story which is teeming with heart interest is one that is happening in the underworld of the great cities every day. The author, Mr. Jack Gorman, a clever New York play writer made a personal study of characters in these sections, before venturing on writing this story, and that he has pictured a wonderful revelation, goes without saying, so true does it ring. It deals with a beautiful young girl raised in the country, and who has come to New York City seeking respectable life, yet wanting, to enjoy the excitement and pleasures that life in a great city offers.

A most thrilling story has been woven around her that holds the audience from start to finish of the four intensely interesting acts. Throughout the action of the play, much comedy is introduced which, while not detracting from the interest in the story, furnishes many bright situations. Especially humorous are the wranglings between Peggy and Tom, whose mutual disapproval of each other, furnishes much of the comedy. A most capable cast has been secured for the play and expense seems to have been forgotten in its preparation.

The scenic and electric effects are most elaborate, every little detail having been taken care of. "A Girl of the Underworld" has been pleasing [illegible] audiences throughout the larger cities this season.

His Sarcastic Apology

A well known New Yorker figured in a quaint encounter with a "panhandler" not long ago. The fellow had asked him for a dime, when the following conversation took place:

"You're a positive nuisance! Tuesday you struck me for a dime. Thursday I gave you another, and now you have the nerve to ask for a third!"

"Excuse me, but are you the gent that gave me a dime on this corner the day before yesterday?"

"Yes"

"And now I've tackled you for the third dime?"

"Yes"

"Waal," said the hobo contritely, "I sincerely beg your pardon, old man. That's too much gall even for me. The only excuse I have to offer is that you have improved so much in your personal appearance that I didn't recognize you."—Cleveland Leader

Laughter and Death.

He can be said to have won the game of life who at the last can laugh. That final speech of O. Henry, the short story writer, was finer than any story he ever wrote. Just as he was dying he turned to the doctor and said: "Pull up the curtain, doc. I'm afraid to go home in the dark." The speech had in it wide courage and a sense of values. One forgives the royal Charles much frivolity for the sake of his dying speech, "Gentlemen, I fear I'm an unconscionable time a-dying."—Harper's.

The Storm Nose at Sea.

The picturesque name of storm nose (Gewitternase) is given in Germany to the wave of high barometric pressure which often precedes a storm or a heavy squall. The barometer rises suddenly and then falls more gradually. It is believed that this phenomenon is responsible for sudden changes in the level of the sea. Observations on the seas surrounding Denmark have led to the conclusion that the change of level thus produced sometimes amounts to no less than three feet.

Fixing the Line.

The fourth report of the Alaska Boundary Commission, which is signed on behalf of Canada by W. F. King, and on behalf of the United States by O. H. Tittman, states that boundary work has been completed between Natashat Ridge and the Yukon River. A line was traced from a point 40 miles north of the Yukon River, the terminus of last year's work to a point about ten miles north of the crossing of the Porcupine River, 157 miles of line projecting was done. The distance monumented was 166 miles, and the number of monuments placed 40.

At a Pinch.

There's a certain minister whose duties sometimes call him out of the city. He has always arranged for some one of his parishioners to keep company with his wife and little daughter during these absences. Recently, however, he was called away so suddenly that he had no opportunity of providing a guardian.

The wife was very brave during the early evening. But after dark had fallen her courage began to fail. She stayed up with her little girl till there was no excuse for staying any longer and then took her upstairs to bed.

"Now, go to sleep, dearie," she said. "Don't be afraid. God will protect you."

"Yes, mother," answered the little girl, "that'll be all right tonight, but the next time let's make better arrangements."—Human Life.

The late Sir John A. Macdonald, as all the world knows, rejoiced in a ready wit, and the following anecdote, which has not yet found its way into print, is typical.

In the old "N.P." days a hot campaign was being waged in Prince Edward County, and Sir John had been brought up to speak at a gathering in one of the western townships where the Grit candidate seemed to be getting too influential. Crowds were out to hear the Old Chieftain, and the extemporized platform groaned beneath the weight of more or less influential specimens of rural humanity.

As the speech wore on some of those in the audience nearest the platform noticed that the section of it, whereon Sir John stood, was getting shaky and motioned anxiously to him to come down. With a gay laugh, however, Sir John stepped nimbly to one end, calling out, "It's all right, gentlemen. Everything's solid where I stand."

It is needless to say that the quick fearlessness and the delicate hint of the solidity of the planks in his political platform, won him many votes.

Sir Roger de Coverley.

Sir Roger de Coverley was the name of a member of the imaginary club of twelve under whose direction Addison's Spectator was professedly published. He was an old school, bluff, good hearted English gentleman. The dance named after him is an English dance corresponding somewhat to the Virginia reel.

An Exception.

Binks—Here is somebody who says that no woman is a suffragist unless she has a grouch on some man. Jinks —That's queer. My wife isn't a suffragist.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Pa Was Wise.

"Papa, what is quiet hostility?"

"Quiet hostility, little Jim, is the way in which when I decline to give you a penny you sneak round behind my chair and make faces."—Scraps.

ENJOYED THE PLAY

Wonderful Deaf and Dumb Girl Appreciated Warfield's Performance

The most wonderful girl in the world sat in a box at a theatre in New York and witnessed the performance of her favorite actor, David Warfield, in "The Auctioneer."

To look at her as she sat there in the box, now laughing heartily at the Warfieldian humor, now pushing away a tear at some particular bit of pathos, now rapturously applauding as the curtain fell on each successive act—watching her thus who could divine that she was the wondrous girl the mystery of whose genius scientists and poets alike agree has but one parallel in all time and in all history—Joan of Arc?

And apparently no one in all that big audience did recognize her or realized that she saw and heard it all not through the avenue of normal sense, of physical sight and sound, but by those spiritual antennae the development of which has made Helen Keller, deaf, dumb, and blind, the marvel of the age.

She was accompanied by her long time famous teacher and companion of twenty-six years, Mrs. Macey, together with her girl friend Miss Moore. The process by which Mrs. Macey and Miss Moore communicated the details of what was going on on the stage was as complicated as it was interesting. The major portion of the labor fell, of course, upon Mrs. Macey. She it was who deftly and swiftly communicated all the passing dialogue, together with the attendant "business," provided the latter did not become too much involved. In which case Miss Moore came to the rescue as a sort of auxiliary. There was, if one may so express it, a certain silent confusion in that particular box. There were quick passages of delicate hands, esoteric lightinglike movements of finger tips and of lips. From one to another of her companions the girl with the big, wide open blue eyes turned, her face at times seemingly anguished lest something escape the eager consciousness of her very soul.

When a little German band started up a jolly tune, Helen Keller pulled her hands away and began to beat time to the music. The latter she hears by means of the vibrations that she feels in the air. But she could only afford a moment to this delight. Back she slipped her hands into the palms of her companions and once more got in rapport with the play.

After the play was over, Miss Keller had an interview with Mr. Warfield. "Mark Twain said that girl and Napoleon were the most interesting characters of the nineteenth century." Warfield mused reflectively as he returned to his empty dressing-room. "Humph! She is greater than Napoleon."

Headlight on Horse

A lover of horses has adopted a novel method of protecting his driving animals from automobiles. An electric light is fitted to the bridle between the ears, being fed by a storage battery carried in the harness saddle.

By this means the horse warns an approaching automobile of danger and also enables his master to pick his way with more certainty on dark roads.

Wasn't Playing

Ten-year-old William came home one day in a regrettable state of disorder, and with a somewhat bruised face.

"Oh, Willie! Willie!" exclaimed his mother, shocked and grieved. "How often have I told you not to play with that naughty Johnson boy?"

"Mamma," said William, in utter disgust, "do I look as if I had been playing with anybody?"

Build Hut on Highest Peak

German Alpinists who swarm in Switzerland and the Tyrol every summer, and scorn the services of professional guides even for such summits as the Matterhorn, Mont Blanc, and the Jungfrau, are now seeking adventure farther afield. The Hanover section of the German Alpine Club has appropriated $2,000 to build a hut on Mount Kilimanjaro, the highest peak of the African continent. Kilimanjaro is located on the northeastern boundary of German East Africa and overtops Mont Blanc by some 4,000 feet. The mountain consists ofo two peaks, tht highest of which has an altitude of 19,710 feet. Although in the equatorial region, it has a mantle of perpetual snow and gives rise to a number of large glaciers.

BIRD LIFE IN CANADA

Seventy-seven Verities Observed in One Winter by C. W. Nash

People who complain that bird life is practically an unknown thing in Canada during the winter time will no doubt be surprised to know that Mr. Charles W. Nash, ornithologist of the Toronto Museum, located about 77 different species in and around Toronto in one winter. Many of these birds are denizens of the north which find their way south, either on account of exceedingly hard times in their natural haunts, or else because their normal conditions being existent here the boundary line of their peregrinations is extended. On the other hand, the robin, flicker, meadow-lark, and numerous other summer birds never migrate entirely. Wherever there is some extra measure of shelter or some additional supply of food they remain. The service rendered by these birds is enormous. Red-polls and snow-birds in particular are invaluable as weed destroyers, if the snowfall has not been a particularly heavy one; the heads of the taller weeds stick above the snow and the birds feed on the seeds, thus preventing a spread of the plant. Many of these winter birds live on the berries left hanging on the trees, the mountain ash berry, or the berry of the North-West maple, or barberries being typical examples of the winter food of the common grosbeaks. Many birds formerly migratory are now no longer so. A notable instance of this is the common crow, and the reason he stays is that increased cultivation, and particularly the custom of farmers of manuring their land in the winter leaves large quantities of grain on which the birds can feed. There is also the fact that unthreshed corn is often stacked for the winter. The visits of northern birds are erratic and difficult to understand, sometimes one species appearing in great abundance and at other times some other species. Some six years ago the North of Canada jay, or Whiskey Jack, as it is called by the lumbermen, appeared here in large numbers. This was their first recorded appearance, in any quantity, since 1837, when the Hon. W. Allen observed a similar visitation. The northern birds particularly prevalent were the pine grosbeaks, evening grosbeaks, red-polls, and an unusually large number of snow bunting or snow-birds as they are commonly called. It appears that the migration of birds is governed almost entirely by the quantity of available food, and if they are able to get a sufficient quantity, and also shelter such as that provided by evergreens, houses, or barns, the birds will remain. The goshawk is another bird present in considerable quantities and although an inveterate foe of rats, mice, and other injurious rodents, he is also a poultry killer. Its particular prey being absent it turns to the farmyard for food, so that in the winter time particularly the presence of this bird of prey is rather a disadvantage than an advantage.

Ghost in a Negro Church

A ghost which appears nightly in a window of a negro church in Alabama, has caused much fear. The spook is described as being six feet tall, wearing a white gown with a long train, and standing with arms outstretched and extended toward the sky in an attitude of worship. It is surrounded by a phosphorescent glow.

Some advance the explanation that the figure is a freak caused by strange lighting angles. Others contend it is a reflection from the baptismal pool, some distance away in a natural formation of rock. Still others think the apparition is a demented person or a hermit who comes to the building each night. But the figure apparently is light and phantom-like, with no definite lines or features.

No one has made any sort of investigation and members of the congregation declare they will not. However, it is becoming a serious matter with some of them, who say they will not go to church so long as there is any indication that it is haunted.

Oldest Priest Dies

Canon Joseph Watson, the oldest Roman Catholic priest in England died at the age of ninety-three in St. Catherine's Convent, Newcastle-on-Tyne. He was at Tudhoe, in Durham, for 41 years, and while there built the beautiful church of St. Charles and an orphanage for girls.

The Cat That Walked

Will Jones, a farmer of Lippa, Va., gave his sister, who lives at Hazard, Ky., a distance of thirty-five miles, an Angora cat. When she arrived at her home with the animal she released it, and in forty-eight hours she received a telephone call from her brother that the feline had returned.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. NEWCOMERS IN NOVA SCOTIA

British-born and Foreigners Combine to Make up a Big Total

Figures compiled by Mr. Arthur S. Barnstead, Secretary of Industries and Immigration for Nova Scotia, show that the total immigration in 1913 amounted to 5,438 persons. Of these [illegible] were of English origin, 542 Scotch, 127 Irish and 43 Welsh. There is an increase of 830 in these nationalities, compared with 1912. The foreigners who settled in the province during the year, of whom particulars were available, numbered 3,585. These are, for the most part, at work with the coal companies or with construction gangs. Of the newcomers there were 368 farmers, 575 miners, 29[illegible] craftsmen, 1,673 laborers, 621 housewives, 487 domestics, and 945 children. "General" Coxey has sent a letter to President Wilson saying that his army will begin its march to Washington about the middle of April, and adding: "On the previous march two other leaders and myself were jailed twenty days for our efforts." The chances are good that he will get about sixty days this time.

AS OTHERS SEE US

Buffalo Courier: The end of the Canadian fiscal year is March 31. An Ottawa dispatch dated April 1 says that the figures at hand show that the foreign commerce of the Dominion for the year just passed was in the neighborhood of $1,145,000,000, an increase of about $60,000,000.

On the whole it was a record-breaking year. There was, however, a sharp decline of $30,000,000 in imports; but there was a big increase of 000,000,000 g exports. The showing is somewhat surprising because of the fact that there was business depression throughout Canada during the latter part of the fiscal year. The wonder of it is fiscal year. The wonder of it s that a country having a population of less than 8,000,000 has attained to a foreign trade worth over $1,000,000,000 a year!

It is well to keep in mind the fact that in proportion to population Canada is by all odhs the best customer that the United States has in the world.

Good-Bye, Old Backache Nerviline Will Fix You!

Stiffness is Rubbed Right Out; Every Sign of Pain Disappears.

Gee, Whiz—think of it!

No more stomach dosing necessary to cure your lame back.

Every trace of lameness, every bit of stiffness, every sign of weakness in the back's muscles can be rubbed away for all time to come by good old "Nerviline."

No other liniment can do the work so quickly, can penetrate so deeply, can bring ease and comfort to the back-weary sufferer as Nerviline invariably does.

Backache isn't the only malady Nerviline is quick to cure. For lumbago or sciatica you would go far to find relief so speedy as Nerviline gives. For chronic rheumatism there are pain-destroying properties in Nerviline that give it first rank. The way it limbers up a stiff joint and takes soreness out of strained or rheumatic muscles is simply a wonder.

If you have an ache or a pain anywhere, if you have sore back, a stiff neck, a stiff joint, a strained muscle—if you have lumbago, congested chest or sore throat, just try Nerviline. Rub it on plentifully—it won't blister, it can't do anything but cure you quickly. The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, of course, but you can, from any dealer, also get the 25c. small size of Nerviline, the king of all pain-relieving remedies.

"OR WORSE"

Probably no individual in the public eye at present is more subject to the "whips and scorns of time" than Henry Siegel, of New York—and justly so. But few among those who revile him today will find consolation in the news that his wife now abandons hi . How unusual this is!

When Albert T. Patrick was sentenced to death in New York state thirteen years ago for the murder of Rice, Mrs. Patrick took the first train to Albany to ask the Governor for commutation. It was through her unfailing assistance that the convicted lawyer finally emerged from prison—a free man.

When Lieut. Charles K. Becker was to pay the penalty of the entire "system" in the electric chair, his wife alone remained constant and unswerving in her devotion — the one pathetic figure throughout.

Two gunmen now wait death at Sing Sing, their guilt confirmed by the highest tribunal. But while they are shut off from the world, their "better halves" are leaving no stone unturned to save them. Not one has averted her face.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. MANY ESCAPE ACCIDENT

On Saturday at 10.30 as a Times scribe was walking east on the south side of Charlotte Street, Mr. Rollie Dennis' handsome grey team ran away. The team emerged at breakneck speed from the alley just two doors east of the White House. They were not attached to a vehicle. The maddened horses fled north directly across Charlotte Street, mounted the North side pavement, and, if they had not both slipped and fallen on the pavement, could not but have gone through a store window.

In half a minute the horses regained their feet, recrossed the street and sped, at full gallop westwards right along the sidewalk. Scores of people, including Governor Nesbitt of the stone castle of that ilk, were on the pavement between the White House and Aylmer Street. At Aylmer Street the team again slipped, fell and were captured. It is a miracle that no one

THE RABIES GERM

It May Lie Dormant For a Number of Months

A remarkable case is reported of a soldier in [illegible] who died of hydrophobia caused by the bite of a monkey, which was bitten by a small dog six months before. It is an illustration of the length of time in which the virus of hydrophobia may lie dormant in the system of warm-blooded animals. Usually, from six weeks to two months elapse before hydrophobic symptoms manifest themselves in human beings. Such symptoms are ushered in by dulness, depression, irritability, and general ill-health. To these indications succeeds a slight difficulty in swallowing, which becomes worse as the disease advances, and hoarseness of the voice, or "barking," as it is termed, ensues. The temperature rises, the difficulty of swallowing increases, the patient, although tortured by thirst, has so violent an antipathy to liquids that the sound of splashing water may bring on a fit of convulsions, and in the delirium which sometimes attends the later stages of hydrophobia the victim may even attempt to bite his attendants. After two or three days of intense suffering death may result either from general exhaustion, from heart failure, or from asphyxia due to the spasms of the throat.

Until Pasteur, in 1885, made his discovery of an anti-toxin for rabies there was for human beings only a slender chance of recovery from the bite of a mad dog. The barbarous surgery of a red-hot iron applied to the wound was sometimes resorted to as was also the use of the cupping glass and the application of strong caustics. Pasteur inoculated rabbits with the virus of hydrophobia and from their spinal cords he prepared an extract for use hypodermically.

In 1888 the Pasteur Institute was founded in Paris. Thousands of people have been treated there, and the death-rate from hydrophobia has been reduced to less than one per cent. All over the world institutes modelled on the Paris establishment have been founded, and are doing equally beneficent work.

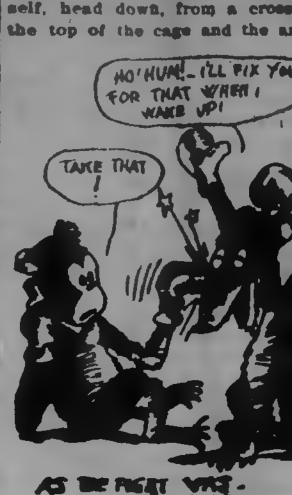
TWO LAZY ANIMALS

Sloth and Anteater Exchanged Four Blows in Five Days

Of all the animals mentioned in books on natural history, the sloth is given the palm for sheer unadulterated laziness. As a runner-up for secondary honors the anteater has no serious rival.

The passengers and crew of the steamer Caracas, which plies between South America and England, had a chance to study the inactive peculiarities of these two tropical beasts at close range and their report of the five-day battle that raged between the two strange creatures only goes to bear out the natural historians.

As part of the collection of strange birds and beasts being taken to London the sloth and anteater occupied the same roomy cage on the trip from Venezuela. No trouble was expected, as the sloth immediately hung himself, head down, from a crossbar at the top of the cage and the anteater retired to a lower corner, both passing into deep, dreamless slumber.



HO' HUM!—I'LL FIX YOU FOR THAT WHEN I WAKE UP!
TAKE THAT!

AS THE FIGHT WAS-

One Sunday, however, the anteater awoke hungry. Disgusted with his failure to find food, the anteater decided to blame the sloth for the emptiness of the larder. Carefully picking a soft spot on the sloth's peculiar visage, the anteater raised a claw-armed forepaw and smote the sleeping monstrosity on its nose.

Reluctantly the sloth opened one eye and looked upon his assailant. According to one of the officers, the two beasts sat looking at one another all Sunday afternoon without moving an eyelash. Then the sloth, with great effort and an expression of bored resignation, loosened one paw from its clutch on the cross beam and reached out toward the anteater, which had by this time fallen asleep again. With utmost deliberation the sloth aimed a blow at the anteater's ear, hooked it smartly with his long, curved claw and immediately lapsed into profound sleep.

All day Monday both animals remained totally oblivious to their surroundings. Tuesday morning the sloth awakened and, seeing the anteater just below him, reached down and hooked his enemy under the chin. The claw caught a firm hold and for the rest of the day the sloth retained its grip.

On Wednesday the anteater awoke, lifted its head off the hook and took another wallop at the sloth's nose. The effort proved too tiring and the anteater immediately returned to its dreams. The sloth was now thoroughly awakened, but all day Wednesday, all Wednesday night and until the ship docked this most deliberate of beasts failed to make good the exchange of blows. Just before the two were separated at the landing, the sloth made a third aimless swipe at its enemy, but fanned, leaving the score of the five-day battle two blows for each—and no bloodshed.

Animal Courtships

It seems fairly certain that animals, in many cases, have a set of definite conclusions in regard to the married state. These vary from the highest to the lowest forms, just as they do amongst different races of human beings.

Among wolves is found the state most like that believed in by the more civilized races of man. For wolves marry for life, for better or for worse, and only by the death of one is the other at liberty to marry again. Chivalry still lives among wolves, and deep affection exists between the mates.

Another and possibly a more advanced type of marriage is found amongst wild geese, wild pigeons, and parrots. With these, as with wolves, the marriage is for life, but with this difference. In the event of the death of one of the pair the other does not marry again, but mourns for its mate during the remainder of its life.

Old tins will not rust if after being washed and wiped they are placed near the fire. Ordinary tin can be cleaned effectively with a rag dipped in paraffin and powdered whiting.

Buying For Posterity

The supply of antiques is of necessity limited, and is less every year. Leaving out the matter of a personal association, it is difficult to see why the well-made reproduction of a fine classic design is not as desirable as the antique. And if it seems less so, one consolation is available, the thought that while the antique which was so earnestly desired would quite possibly have been on its last legs, the reproduction may gladden several generations after death has parted ourselves from it.

Rescue Frozen Birds

The monks of St. Bernard's monastery in the Alps have lately been extending to birds the hospitality which they offer to travelers overtaken by storm. During a heavy snowstorm they saw a dense black cloud of migrating swallows approach. Immediately all the windows of the monastery were opened, and a few moments later halls and cells were filled with thousands of the half-frozen birds. There the little travellers spent the night in safety, and next morning they flew through the open windows and set out once more on their long journey to the south.

New Bodices Mere Wisps of Chiffon

By MADGE MARVEL

If the diaphanous bodices of winter made onlookers fear for the chilliness of the wearer, those of the summer will make them sympathetic for sunburn. They are mere wisps of very lovely chiffon vanity. And they make even the ones who will eventually wear them gasp, they seem so little to fulfill the accepted demands of clothing. It is really difficult to see how they could be any less and be at all. Besides, they are often cut down in the back to quite an alarming depth.

As for the bodices of the evening gowns, with the lack of back and the frank openness of the front, and the slipping off of the shoulders, they seem almost too little of nothing, even to the woman who is not absurdly conservative.

There is this much comfort, they can't possibly grow any less and the pendulum will have to swing back, and then we shall probably go to the other extreme and wear stiff-boned bodices with choker collars. If the styles didn't change, what a very dull world this would be! And if women didn't wear things that are daring, what a waste field there would be for busy talkers.

New "Petties" Attract.

There is a creeping back to acceptance of the long-banished petticoat. It has won recognition, because of its sheer loveliness. And there may be two meanings given to "sheer," for the new "petties" are very slimsy bits of wearing apparel, and correspondingly exquisite. Chiffon and crepe de chine and lace make the most lovely ones.

There are plenty of women all over the world who never feel their wardrobes are quite complete without a foulard frock. This season they have been generously remembered by the makers of silks. The new foulards are fascinating both in color and design. Fresh bouquets of posies or single blossoms are scattered on backgrounds which show an indefinite trellis of stripes or a checkered wicket effect as an apparent support for the flowers.

By the time the sun begins to give hint of real summer I predict the bigger hat. And I am sure it will be wreathed in flowers.

Also I am told the cape will be the favorite wrap of the summer. There are the most charming old-time pelerines of taffeta, the biggest and most comfy new version of the golf cape, and some frothy chiffon wraps. Paquin showed the revival of the cape. There was one of Lincoln green, long and enwrapping, the mannequin catching one end and throwing it over her shoulders in jaunty fashion. There was also a cape of white with a black velvet collar which was attached at an angle which made one think it had slipped to the left shoulder.

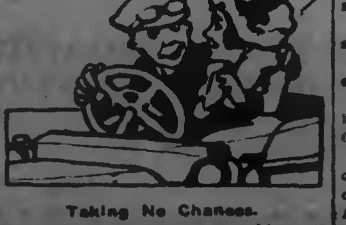
Spring Veils Varicolored.

And there was the most wonderful wrap of gold and red brocade, which sent a murmur of admiration rippling through the audience.

At another exhibition of gowns there was displayed a long shawl-like wrap of taffeta with chiffon flounces. The point of the shawl came to the hem of the gown in the back and the sides sloped up over the arms exactly like a shawl, and then there were pointed and ruffled ends to the feet in front. The color was a changeable rose and green, and the chiffon, which alternated with the taffeta ruffles, was rose over green.

There is a fancy just at the moment for brown veils. They give a charming tone to the complexion, and brown is one of the very much liked shades of the spring. The veil with the insect, butterfly or bug crawling on one cheek is seen at every turn. So, too, is the thin white veil with the black velvet beauty spot.

If this spot is rightly applied it is quite bewitching, but it has a ludicrous habit of getting located in some corner of the face where it makes a caricature of even the prettiest woman. The harem veil is well liked. The lower part has heavy dots or a shadow design, and the upper is the thinnest of net, so this at a distance no veil shows. The heavy part is supposed to end just below the eyes.



Taking No Chances.

"Why does he never run his own auto? He knows how, doesn't he?"

"Yes, he knows how, but he says he has a friend whose wife eloped with his chauffeur."

Merciless.

First Waiter—I think he must be a pirate.

Second Waiter—Why? Is he a bit crusty?

"He gives no quarter."

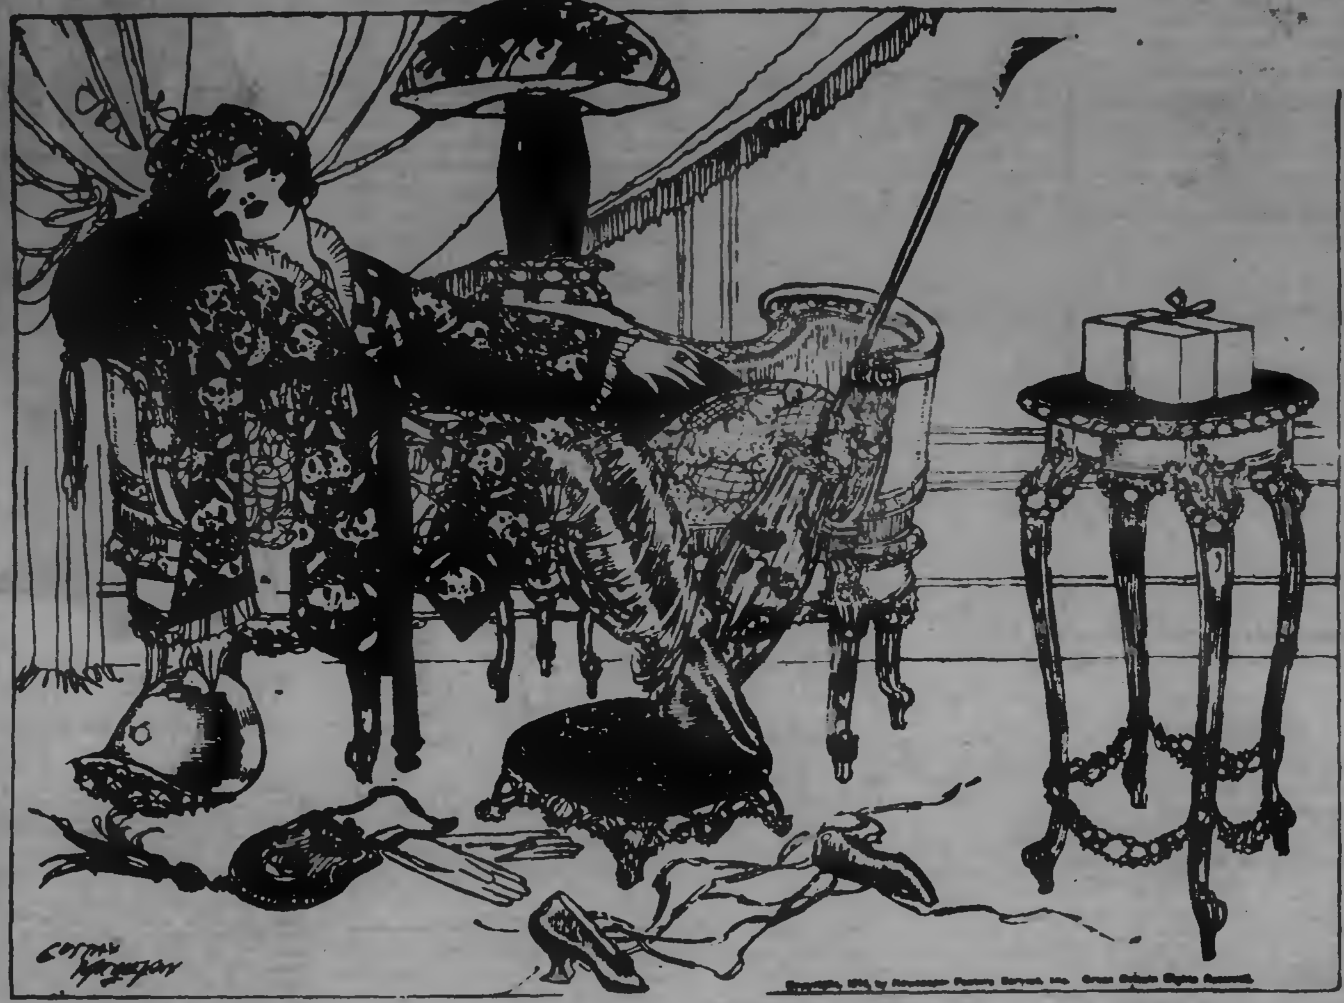
He Expected Trouble.

Shylock had demanded his pound of flesh and Portia had hoodwinked him out of it.

"I expected trouble when I saw her," said Shylock. "I had rather deal with the servants to whom I give commissions than with the mistresses."

And he began casting up the accounts on his ledger.

A HARD DAY'S SHOPPING :: :: By Michelson



Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

Notice the little package. Think of the brave efforts summed up in this result of an arduous day. The girl herself is utterly fagged—she would have a lot of pretty well battered words to describe that silken weariness of hers. Isn't shopping DREADFUL?—hovering over all that litter when you don't know what you DO want, and when you are less sure the more you look.

Probably the girls behind the counters in the shops are tired, too. Isn't it an odd world? For some of us so much trouble spending money; for some others of us so much trouble earning and saving it.

The worst of it is, we don't always like the stuff in our package after all. That is a tragedy. Better not form THAT habit. Discontent with YOUR share is a good way to be unhappy.

The Fascination of American Accents

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

Mme. Slavke Grouitch says that the American girl would be the greatest sort of social success in Europe, if it were not for her accent.

Mme. Slavke Grouitch is the wife of the Servian minister to the court of St. James. Before she was married her name was Dunlap, and she came from West Virginia, in which locality we learn from song and poesy that the inhabitants "nevah tire."

She ought to know what she is talking about. I wonder if she does.

Here's one of the things she says: "It seems to me that for this drawback there is no excuse; every girl ought to be brought up to speak pure English—and not a colloquial dialect."

Quite true, Mme. Grouitch, quite true.

And who shall be the one to teach the American girl a pure accent—somebody from West Virginia, where they say "gyardjan" for garden and tell about "toting" things when they mean carry?

There's nothing in the world so sweet as the cultivated voice of a cultivated British woman, whether she comes from Ireland and says something that sounds like "cheer" for chair, or from Scotland and says "taucht" when she means thought, or from England and says "gell" for girl—provided that the accent is natural and not affected.

There's only one thing sweeter in the world than the voice of an educated English woman, and that's the voice of any Irish woman, educated or not. It's pure cream gurgling out of a silver jug into a clear glass of crystal, and there's peat smoke in the air and the shamrock springs green under foot, and all the lakes of Killarney laugh blue under the sunshine—in that voice.

Which Accent Is Preferable?

The American voice is the most outrageous voice in the world. It is a shriek and a crow of defiance and a cackle of acrid mirth; it is raw with the adolescence of a nation—that's what's the matter with the American speech, not the American accent.

Why should an American girl want anything but an American accent, and what accent should she choose to take the place of her own natural one?

Do tell us, Mme. Grouitch. Shall it be Servian, or would you prefer that of the lower Mediterranean?

Perhaps it is the English accent you like. Shall our girls say "het" for hat, and "rawther" for rather, and shall her accent be from Devonshire or Cornwall, or do you prefer the London pronunciation?

Of course, there is a certain cultivated way of speech that tells the story of the speaker's education and family surrounding when everything else can hide it, that does not belong particularly in any one country. The American girl brought up in a home where people say "haint" and "warnt" will learn to say isn't and wasn't, while the English girl, whose grandmother said "trine" for train, and "urry" for hurry, is just beginning to know there's something wrong about the way she talks and won't be quite sure what it is.

I've seen a girl from Iowa City, Ia., learn to say "Mothah" and "bath" in six months at boarding school in Boston, and I never could see the sense in the way the people in Iowa City laughed at her for doing it when she got back home. She went to Boston to learn what people outside of Iowa did. What's the use of sending her if she isn't going to learn?

I love the American accent myself, every variety of it, all but the whine that comes from some states, and that I dislike because it sounds so lazy.

I had a nurse in the house once from North Carolina—the sweetest, prettiest, cosiest, nicest little thing imaginable.

One morning I called to her and said: "There's a door creaking somewhere; will you please shut it?"

"Yas'm," whined my dear, cosey, pretty little nurse; and she went from room to room looking for the door that creaked. She couldn't find it.

Presently the creaking began again.

"There," I said, "there it is again."

My little nurse came and stood in the door, her face a mixture of rueful surprise and gentle amusement.

"Why," she whined, pleasantly, "that wasn't a door a-creaking; that was me a-callin' Annie." And it was.

Our Distinct "Dialects."

I do not like the accent that is like the creaking of a door, but that may be a mere personal prejudice. To my neighbors' ears that creaking accent may be as the voice of a winged seraph. But all the other American accents I like, barbarian that I am. And I love to think that I can tell where a man is from the minute I hear him ask the conductor to let him off at such and such a street.

It is my delight of a moonshine night in the season of the year, the year or any other time, to get the man from New England to say something about going to "Bahhabah"—and if I can inveigle the courteous person from Virginia to pass some one a plate of cookies and say, "Hep yoself, honey," why, my cup of joy is full to the overflowing.

I've some friends whose name is Boyd; they went to live in a New York apartment house and, lo, the gas bill and the milk bill and the ice bill all came to Mr. Bird, and when my friend expostulated and asked who was this mysterious Bird person, they all said, "Why, how do you spell Boid; isn't that the way?"

And out in San Francisco, where the weather is fair, the policemen on the beat will tell you to go over to "Foist" street, or "Thoid" and Kearny.

It is a kind of city accent, apparently; and every human being born and bred in any of our big towns has it, and will show it in moments of excitement.

Don't you love to hear the girl from the Middle West call her chums "gir-r-r-ls" and talk about "teacher-r-r"? Or would your rather hear the little Boston maid say "guls" and "teachah"?

Do you love to hear the sweet thing from South Carolina ask you, "whah you are goin' this evenin' ?"—honestly, now, doesn't it sound a great deal sweeter to you than as if she said it in plain English the way she should?

I'm for the American accent, every American accent from Maine to California, and from "Nyawlins" to "Nyawk," and even to Boston, Massachusetts, with the O in Boston as the O in "lot."

Take away our nasal voice, Mme. Grouitch, but leave, oh, leave us our good old dyed in the wool American accents.

Where the Tango Originated

There is nothing new in the step that has been taken in certain high circles, both at home and abroad, in regard to the tango.

As long ago as the December of [illegible], the Archbishop of Buenos Ayres excommunicated one Senor de la Cueva y Benavides, governor of the city, for dancing the tango in public.

Even then the dance was anything but new. An authority in the Argentine states that the tango is named after a province in Indo-China, and that it originated there more than [illegible] years ago.

It was the gypsies who took the dance to Spain, from whence it reached the Argentine.

One definition of the tango—given in a glossary of South American Spanish—is "Gathering dance of gypsies."

The dance has not been improved by being civilized or modernized. As danced by the up-country Argentines and the Spanish gypsies it is exceedingly [illegible]

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Baldness Is Common; How to Save Your Hair

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

There is a nodular condition of the hair, which occurs occasionally in girls, but chiefly in men. The beard, whiskers and mustache are more liable to attack than the hair of the head, but the hair of any part of the body may be affected.

Little bead-like swellings of a whitish appearance occur at regular intervals along the hair shafts. Like dandruff, circular bald patches, ringworm and many other hair troubles, this is a germ disease. The bacteria seem to settle in the "nodes," or joints, of which each single hair has several.

Shaving and vigorous X-ray treatment—even jerking the hair out sharply—are among the unpleasant remedies necessary to cure this disturbance.

True "alopecia," or in plain United States baldness, though women scarcely believe it, is really a masculine malady.

No one has as yet come to explain why men are bald. Though girls and women constantly complain of falling hair, a truly feminine bald head is almost unknown.

Perhaps the delicate mould of a girl's skull, the absent constriction around the temples due to a man's hatband, less strenuous work, and the associated masculine poison called "the sweat of the brow," these, together with late hours and the glare of the theatre spotlight help to make baldness a masculine rather than a feminine malady.

The slow but steady drop, drop, drop of the comb-clung hairs is, however, decidedly worrisome to the feminine division, despite the assurance and conviction that lost hair is more deadly to the male of the species.

The use by women of hair dyes and tonics has been accredited with an excellent purpose. It is said to kill off all the foolish women, and allow all others a sweet and charming old age. Be this as it may, there is always some need of some scalp treatment to save the stubble and hirsute remnants.

If three people go to bed, one in love, one with the toothache, and one in worry about her falling hair, the one with the toothache will be asleep first, the one with the spectre of baldness before her last.

The secret to secure firmly upon your rotund dome the fast escaping locks rests in the knowledge that the tense, scalp-evading hair shafts are usually freed and at large because microbes and the loss of physiological balance inside your textures and outside on the skin have injured the hair roots.

The nourishment of and nursing back to health of the hair bulbs may be brought about with oils, ointments, electric brushes, vibration, massage and the righting of internal troubles. But the best of all is right living. An excellent local remedy is:

Chloral hydrate	2 drams
Resorcin	[illegible] grains
Glycerine	2 drams
Oil of Beauty Roses	2 drops
Beta naphthol	10 grains
Petrolatum	4 ounces

Answers to Health Questions

M. M. K., Chicago—How can I get rid of blotches on my face?

With a lack of explicit details of the exact kind of blotches I should advise the use of glycerine, one ounce, and boric acid two drams as a local application.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie—I have a very nice gentleman friend, but sometimes he makes me so mad I feel like hitting him over the head with my umbrella. For instance, the other night I was going to the theatre with him and, of course, we took the car. What do you think he did? He deliberately walked up to where two young ladies were sitting opposite and started to flirt with them.

I do not think he acted like a gentleman. Do you? What shall I do?

INDIGNANT.

He's not a gentleman, and he doesn't even know how to pretend to be one, and that's pretty bad. Don't you think so, Indignant?

If I were you, do you know what I would have done with that young man? I would have picked out the best looking chap in the car and gazed soulfully at him.

No, I wouldn't have made myself conspicuous, or let the good looking chap suspect that I was anything but absent-minded. But I'd let the flirtatious man who was insulting me suspect. And when he spoke to me I'd start and come back from somewhere a long ways off, and then I'd say something about the good looks of the chap at the other end of the car.

And after that I would never go anywhere with him again, not if he was the last man on earth.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

"Good morning, Mister Possum," said Brer Rabbit one morning, as he hopped in front of Mister Possum's house.

"Good afternoon," replied Mister Possum.

"Why do you say 'afternoon'?" asked Brer Rabbit in surprise.

"Because I just woke up," replied Mr. Possum.

"You are too lazy for anything!" exclaimed Brer Rabbit.

"Yes," answered Mister Possum, "I am just like your front legs."

"What!" said Brer Rabbit, sitting up very straight.

"Yes," went on Mister Possum. "Everybody knows a rabbit's hind legs are the busiest things in the world and their front paws are too lazy for anything."

"Ahem!" went Brer Rabbit.

"I am a possum and as a possum I am lazy. If I were a rabbit, I would be a rabbit and not so lazy. I can't change myself. I don't want to."

"Ahem! ahem!" went Brer Rabbit.

"Now I wish you would jump away as a good rabbit and let me take a snooze. And remember that people do not like to be told disagreeable things. Now run along."

FLAVOR OF MEAT RETAINED

Many People Ruin Meat When Boiling it For Dinner

Thousands of pounds of good rich beef are ruined every day simply because those who prepare it for food do so understand the proper method of boiling it. Much of the sweetness of beef and other meats is lost, and it is no trouble at all to retain it, as the task is [illegible].

Any meat is more tender and much sweeter if [illegible] meat is put [illegible]. It begins to cook quickly [illegible] heat keeps the sweetness in the meat [illegible] allowing it to be drawn out by the gradual [illegible].

When meat is put in cold water and it is [illegible] has to be skimmed [illegible] the skimming is the very best part of the meat's flavor. [illegible] the accumulation as foreign matter but such is a wrong idea.

Meat placed in hot water at the beginning will not send [illegible] to the surface. The flavor is retained and the [illegible] cooks quick [illegible] but is much [illegible] in every way than meat put on to cook in cold water.

One absolute proof of this is found in steamed meats. All are found to be more tender and delicious than when boiled or roasted.

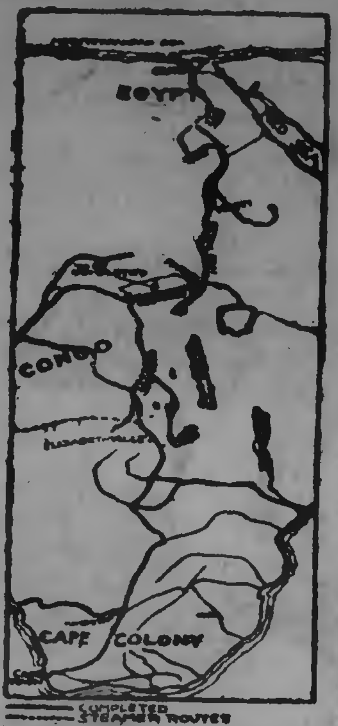
World's Wonder Railway Lacks But One Link of Completion

Another link to the project of the "Cape to Cairo" all-steam route was completed when trains were run to Bukama, 2,613 miles north.

But one strip, the 683 miles between Stanleyville and Mahagi, in the heart of the Soudan, remains to be completed and make possible the traversing of the continent from north to south by trains and ships.

The distance from Cape Town to Cairo is 6,944 miles. South from Cairo the line is completed to Kosti, where trains connect with steamers for a strip of 1,163 miles by water.



Map showing how steam has conquered desert and jungle.

Then comes the break in the line—the 683 miles of jungle still to be pierced by the iron rails.

When this is completed, and it is expected that it will be in two years, the traveler who embarks at Cape Town will travel 4,979 miles by train and 1,965 miles by steamer to reach Cairo.

Every mile of the road has been a battle. Hostility of natives at the beginning necessitated the bringing of an army to guard the engineers and workmen. When the benefits of the road turned the hostility to enthusiasm, there were still the dangers from disease, the terrible heat of the equator, the wild animals of the jungle.

One 77-mile strip near Stanleyville, where the equator is crossed, is estimated to have cost a man for every yard of construction.

Fighting tigers and lions has been as important as the building of bridges. At Combo, a hippopotamus has blocked [illegible] trains for a day. Great palisades were built at each camp to guard the workmen at night.

Elephants have torn up telegraph poles and carried away rails.

The worst enemy has been the white ants of the Congo, whose hills range from 20 to 30 feet high. These ants destroy anything but iron and steel, and it has been necessary to cover all telegraph poles with sheeting and to use steel cross ties.

Nurse Takes Baby Away

A [illegible] nurse girl named [illegible] serving at Dieren, became so [illegible] with the baby of the house that she decided to take the child to her own home at [illegible]. She got into the wrong train, however, and was found in a waiting-room at [illegible], with the sleeping infant in her arms. The parents of the child were communicated with by the police and the infant restored to its home.

PREYS ON MOSQUITOES

Queer Insect From China May Exterminate the Pests

Scientists are preparing to spread broadcast the results of investigations and experiments made in breeding the Praying Mantis to get rid of mosquitoes. This big bug comes originally from China and occasionally made trips to more enlightened countries attached to Chinese plants. It was found that he and his family are decidedly fond of mosquitoes and are specially built for catching and eating them.

The mantis is a member of the grasshopper family and grows to a length of from 2 to 3 inches. The forelegs are well adapted for holding the captured mosquito, as they are provided with sawlike teeth.

The insect gets its name from the fact that its forelegs are folded under in an attitude of prayer.

THE NEW, STRAIGHT LINED SKIRTS ARE CONSIDERABLY WIDER AT THE BOTTOM.

Unless all present indications fail skirts should be quite a bit wider at the bottom. Many of the new imported models are showing pleats at the sides; these pleats, of course, are very flat and usually tacked together, but it is cheering to know that they are there. At a recent opening there were many of these straight skirts, and it was noticed that on an average they measured at least two yards around. There seems to be a tendency to hike them up a trifle in front, which causes the skirt to fall in somewhat, giving a trousers-like appearance.

The frock illustrated in No. 8077 is suitable for afternoon or evening; it is fashioned of lavender satin veiled in lavender chiffon and banded with marabout. The design requires for size 36, 4⅝ yards of 36 inch material for the overblouse and tunic, with 4⅜ yards of satin for the foundation dress.

Very dainty and becoming for a summer afternoon is the costume shown in No. 7967-8237. One of the old fashioned looking Dolly Varden crepes is used with the fichu of plain white voile; the girdle is of white taffetas, and the oddly cut collar is also of the taffetas.

This effective frock may be copied in size 36 with 2⅝ yards of 36 inch crepe for the blouse (7967) and 3⅜ yards of 36 inch material for the skirt (8237).

No. 8077—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 7967—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8237—sizes 22 to 32.

THE NEW BUSTLE MERELY A MATTER OF CLEVERLY ARRANGED DRAPERY.

This new bustle is really not the fearsome thing we have conceived it to be; it is merely a slightly bouffant arrangement of puffs or ruffles. The size and number of these puffs or ruffles lies entirely with the wearer. In some instances the bit of drapery is attached to the girdle and falls gracefully into place. Taffetas lends itself very well to this style of drapery as it has just the necessary body, yet at the same time is supple. This afternoon dress, No. 8323, is developed in taffetas, has an inset vest and an unusually clever arrangement of drapery both on bodice and skirt. To copy this design in size 36, requires 5¼ yards of 42 inch taffetas or other material. Circular frills on skirt and sleeves give the novel touch to this dress for the girl of sixteen; No. 8289, a crinkly crepe in a soft shade of blue is the material with the guimpe or gathered tucker of a figured net.

This is an excellent model for afternoon and may quite as appropriately be developed in gabardine or a fine serge if desired for school wear. In size 16 this design requires 5 yards of 36 inch material.

No. 8323—sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8289—sizes 14 to 18.
Each pattern 15 cents.

Love

Love came at dawn, when all the world was fair,
When crimson glories, bloom and song were rife:
Love came at dawn when hope's wings fanned the air,
An murmured, "I am life."

Love came at even when the day was done,
When heart and brain were tired and slumber pressed;
Love came at eve, shut out the sinking sun,
And whispered, "I am rest."

—Wilfred Campbell

Old tablecloths of fine linen may be made into napkins, but napkins made of heavy table linen are neither good looking nor pleasant to use, but an old tablecloth made of heavy linen in fair condition will make hemstitched covers for the sideboard and serving table, or for bedrooms. If it is fairly heavy, the odds and ends can be used for plate and tumbler doilies, either scalloped on the edges or finished with linen lace or lace braid.

Allow from four to six eggs to each quart of milk in making custard to be turned from the mould.

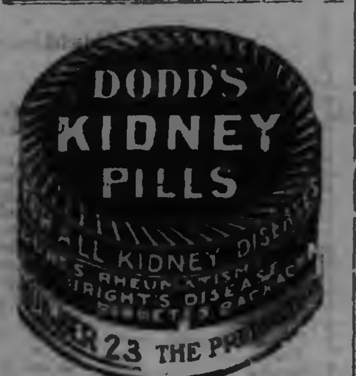
WATERWHEELS USED TO PRAY IN TIBET

[illegible] who live in Tibet are the [illegible] prayerful people in the world. [illegible] pray, and pray without ceasing. You retire at night, you rise early in the morning, but long after you are asleep and long before the sun has risen the voice of prayer has filled the air. They pray everywhere, [illegible] everything movable and immovable to help in their devotions. The wind waves their prayer flags in the air and the streams revolve their cumbersome prayer wheels such as those shown in the illustration. Entrances to villages are strewn with couplets of [illegible] prayers. Streamers of prayers are hung from tree to tree and from house to house. Bridges are pasted with them. Rocks and cliffs are chiseled with prayers.

Shelter For Water-Driven Praying Wheel

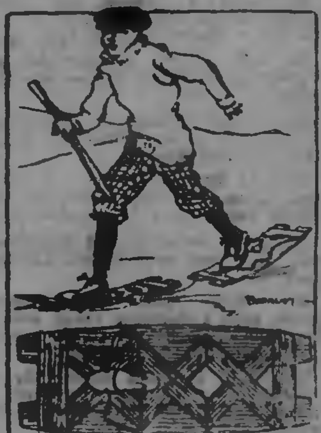
Praying at leisure, the ordinary spiritual Tibetan will get through four hundred words a minute, but at a push he can do much more. In his praying wheels, with the aid of a fairly rapid stream, he will accomplish in a very short time what would perhaps be a burden to him personally. Little strips of paper bearing orthodox prayers are affixed to the wheels, and at once they are revolved again and again by the grateful worshippers.



In the or[illegible] Tibetan village the Buddhist priestly population may be divided into three classes. First, the lama (or ordained priest) who has made the long journey to Llassa and there received ordination from the Dalai-Lama. Second, the Draba, an unordained priest who still lives in hope of going to Llassa. And, third, the Amcho, a private lama who has neither desire nor opportunity of ever seeing the sacred city. The lama is a respectable member of society, well housed and fed and clad generally. He spends his time almost wholly in the temple, accepting spiritual engagements only from the wealthy.

A pilgrimage to Llassa is an astounding undertaking. The pilgrim lies flat. While thus prostrate he makes a mark on the ground with his hand. He then rises, takes three steps to this mark and then prostrates himself again. This he does every step of the way between his home and Llassa, taking sometimes years to do the journey.

TO MAKE SNOW SHOES



Barrel staves make fine snow shoes if you know how to use them.

The staves should be sandpapered until they are smooth. Two staves are used for each shoe. They are fastened together as shown in the sketch.

The fitting for the foot is made from the sole and heel of an old shoe which is cut as shown, with strap to go over the ankle. The shoe [illegible] are nailed securely to the boards.

Such a pair of snow shoes will do as well as the very best kind for short tramps.

A moving picture theater in Leeds, Eng., is financed and controlled by the local trade unionists.

Our Egg Supplies

Canada, an agricultural country, imports eggs. Over thirteen million dozen eggs were purchased in the United States for consumption in Canada. These eggs were worth nearly three million dollars. Both the production and the consumption of eggs in Canada is increasing, but the consumption is increasing much faster than the production.

A few years ago less than a million dozen were imported, but each year since the quantity has practically doubled.

In using Catarrhozone you don't take medicine into the stomach— you just breathe a healing piney vapor direct to the lungs and air passages.

Lots Of Water

Bobcaygeon Independent : There has been a rapid rise in the lakes during the last week. Sturgeon lake is fairly well filled, and Pigeon lake though still low is filling. It is hoped by the timber people that there may still be water enough in the woods to enable logs to be brought down the creeks. The logs are now of small size as a rule, and take less water than formerly.

A Milkman's Frisky Horse.

On Saturday morning at 6 o'clock a horse drawing Lummitt's took fright and ran away as a 2.30 gait east on Charlotte Street. As it fled towards George Street, at the corner of Park Street a letter carrier made a brave but fruitless attempt to check the flying steed. He narrowly escaped being knocked down. The horse was eventually stopped and no further damage was done than a churning of the milk.

Will Sue For Damages?

On Saturday afternoon a resident of the fair tp. of Ennismore was driving home. Whilst in the city, the Ennismore man had made many calls. He was what the cowboy calls "lit up." About three miles west of the floating bridge he met an auto making for town. The horse took fright and ditched the waggon. A two gallon demijohn that did not contain vinegar was broken. The Ennismore man shook his fist at the passing car and yelled "I'll dam you for sewerage?"

A bet was made and the hungry on? polished off the additional hefruit. However when speaking of his gargantuan feast, his voice was so thick he remarked, "That's only a "bag-o-shell." (bagatelle).

Detective Newhall Called Down.

Shortly before noon on Saturday a Times scribe was walking on George street near the entrance to the old Bradburn Opera House. Here Detective Sam Newhall stood, not on the pavement, but in the doorway, looking for a suspect. License Inspector Stewart, whose office is in this building, emerged. He told the detective to "move on." Sam looked at him, smiled and stuck. Turning to a little short man, who stood beside Newhall, Mr. Stewart remarked, somewhat thusly, "You have heard me tell this man to move on. Now watch how long he stays after being told to move on." It is understood that the sawed-off man is a whiskey spotter.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $8,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 788, and the average assessed value was $4,[illegible] per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $8,349,460. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,688.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,[illegible].

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I., who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $600 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $600 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co., Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $600 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,600. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $[illegible] each dividends since and the pair bought for $3,600 could be sold for $25,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

REDMOND INSISTS THAT HOME RULE WILL PASS AS STANDS

Nationalist Leader in Opening Debate in Commons To-day Makes Issue Plain

London, April 6.—"I think, in the present circumstances, there is nothing for the House of Commons to do but proceed with the Home Rule for Ireland Bill as it stands."

This was the closing sentence of the speech delivered to-day in the House of Commons by John F. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, who made the final speech on behalf of the Nationalist party on the second reading of the Home Rule Bill. The vote of the House on the measure was arranged to be taken to-night.

Present Stage Critical.

The day's proceedings in the House were opened by Mr. Redmond, who pleaded that the present stage of the controversy was so critical that all energies must be devoted to facing a settlement of the realities. He continued:

"The country as a whole, is sick and tired of the Irish question, and it must be settled here and now."

Emphasising that it was impossible for the Irish Nationalists, by agreeing to the permanent exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the Home Rule Bill, to abandon the principle of "Ireland a nation."

THREE LADIES ARE TO LEARN TO FLY

Thirty Residents of Toronto Have Joined the Aviation School.

Toronto, April 6.—Three members of the fair sex in this city are about to start to qualify to fly, but it will be with the assistance of something less angelic than wings.

Thirty residents of Toronto have already enrolled themselves as members of the aviation school which is to be established here, and which, it is expected, will be ready to commence business on May 1. Only three of the number are ladies.

The place from where the schooling and then the flight into the empyrean heights, will take place will probably be Hanlan's Island, said Mr. William Archibald Dean, who is the principal director of the Canadian Aviation Company, Limited, a company which was incorporated last week at Ottawa, with a capital of $50,000.

BRITISH COLUMBIA INFLAMED BY ALLEGED FOUL MURDER

Celestial's Confession That He Butchered White Woman Stirs British Columbia

Vancouver, April 6.—"While the agitation against the employment of Orientals as domestic servants following this most revolting murder in the city's history has not yet assumed definite form, it will not be many hours before it will. There are many English and Scotch girls available for this work and I would not be surprised to see wholesale dismissals of Chinese and Japanese in this city within the next few days."

This was the opinion of a citizen to-day who is in close touch with the revulsion of feeling that has followed the confession of 17-year-old Jack Kong, slayer of Mrs. Charles Millard.

Whites Rough With Chinese.

This feeling is growing hourly and has spread to Westminster and Victoria with the details of the foul murder in which Kong now intimates that the small, slight woman attacked him and that he struck in self-defence is absurd.

Several assaults by whites upon Chinese have already occurred and many dismissals of Chinese servants in homes have taken place while many cafes have been urged by their patrons to dismiss their "Yellow" help. The Vancouver Chinese newspaper last night issued a special edition deploring the crime and pointing out that it would likely lead to hundreds of dismissals of Chinese servants.

Say Kong Was a Thief.

Chief of Police McLennan and Deputy McRae, attach little or no importance to the story of Kong, that his mistress was displeased with the quality of porridge he cooked for her and say their theory is that he was the guilty party in the robbery which took place some weeks ago and are also of opinion it was due to the fact that Mrs. Millard discovered him carrying out another robbery that she was butchered to death.

So strongly do they hold to this belief that every effort is being made to locate anumber of articles that are stated to be missing from the Millard home.

MEXICO BELIEVES TORREON NOT LOST

Remarkable Situation in Capital Where News of Reverse Has Not Been Told.

Mexico City, Mex., April 6.—A situation little short of remarkable has been created here by the repeated emphatic denials of the Government that Torreon has been lost and the failure of any newspaper to publish the news that the city has fallen into the hands of the rebels. From the National Palace to-day there came nothing but indignant protests against the assertions that Gen. Villa had captured Torreon, and Senor Postillo Y. Rojas, the Foreign Minister, even went so far as to send to all the legations here and to the Mexican legations abroad official assurances that the Government still holds Torreon.

The Government's denial is based on reports from Gen. Javier de Moure at San Pedro near Torreon and it is argued that Gen. de Moure must know the state of affairs at Torreon. Even Government officials holding minor posts appear wholly sincere in their acceptance of the Government's denial.

ALD. GORDON NOW CITY SOLICITOR, MR. E.H.D. HALL RESIGNS

City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall sent in his resignation to the City Council last night. Owing to the appointment as senior judge of Mr. L. M. Hayes, a member of the City Solicitor's legal firm, Hall Hayes & Hall. Mr. E. H. D. finds it impossible to give the necessary time to the city's business. This resignation was accepted with keen expressions of regret on every hand. His retirement is considered a great loss to the city.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Anderson, ex-Ald. G. N. Gordon, was appointed City Solicitor in Mr. Hall's place, at same salary of $1000 a year.

Ald. Gordon had previously resigned his seat on the Council Board, expressing his pleasure at the pleasant relations which had always existed between his colleagues and himself during his three years' aldermanic representation for the centre ward.

Ald. Gordon's resignation as alderman was generally conceded a loss and his appointment as city solicitor one in the city's interests.

An Aldermanic election in centre ward will be necessary to fill Alderman Gordon's seat on the Council Board.

WIELDED AN KNIFE ON HIS TANTALIZER

Cloakmaker Showed His Resentment at Being Called a "Scab."

Toronto, April 6.—The scornful appellation of "scab" applied to John Cummings, 107 Maria street, to Albert Mandella, 231 Maria street, at a Ward Seven meeting of the Hebrew cloakmakers' last night, resulted in Mandella's arrest on a charge of wounding, and in Cummings being conveyed to his home, suffering from several cuts on the head and face. Mandella resented the insinuation of Cummings, and in the row that followed he is alleged to have drawn a knife and slashed his tantalizer.

WOMAN WAS STRICKEN WHILE AT TELEPHONE

Mrs. Edward Jackson Succumbs to Attack of Heart Failure.

Toronto, April 6.—While telephoning an order to her grocer, from her home on Saturday night, Mrs. Edward Jackson, 661 Spadina avenue, was overcome by an attack of heart-failure. Before a doctor could be summoned she died. She had been in good health and her death was entirely unexpected.

Mrs. Jackson, who was 51 years of age, was well known. For several years she and her husband conducted the Brunswick Hotel. She is survived by her husband.

BARGAIN WEDDING THE LATEST MOVE

Salvation Army in Washington Is Fighting the High Cost of Matrimony.

Washington, April 6.—Following the bargain funeral has come the bargain wedding.

For $100 cash, the Salvation Army in Washington guarantees the following: A license, the ceremony, a two-weeks' honeymoon, a four-roomed flat furnished complete, one month's rent paid, honeymoon cigars for the groom and sachet power for the bride.

"And on that," says Major Parson George Ivings, in charge of the industrial department of the Army, "we'll make a profit of $10 for gospel work.

"I've been thinking for a long time that matrimony was becoming too costly. It should be placed within the reach of all."

The Financial End.

Sitting in his office at 121 Pennsylvania avenue, N.W., the Major gave statistics to show where he "gets off" financially.

First off, a marriage license in the District of Columbia costs $1: dog licenses are higher for some reason.

The ceremony fee is indicated by the algebraic symbol X.

The four-room-and-bath flat can be found in Washington for $22.50.

RATE OF TAXES IS 26 MILLS THE CITY'S DEBT AT PEAK LOAD

Cigarette License Reduced Form $40 to $15, The Mayor Cast His Vote in the Affirmative--The Rate for This Years Taxes is 26 Mills--Auctioneers License Reduced

The City Fathers met in regular monthly session last night, his worship Mayor Buller presiding. There were also present Aldermen McIntyre, Anderson, Johnston, Langford, Green, Duffus, Gordon, Stratton, Duncan and Saunders.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, W.P., wrote saying that the Minister of Public Works assures him that the erection of the new public building—post office and customs house—will be proceeded with at an early date. He regretted, however, that some delay will occur in the construction of the dry dock owing to the excessive price asked for the property expropriated for this purpose.

Rev. Mr. Price invited Council to attend the St. George's Day service to be held in St. John's church on April 20th. On motion of Ald. Johnston this invitation was accepted.

THE ASPHALT MIXER.

Mr. Geo. Hatton presented a petition from some 25 property owners claiming that the asphalt mixer operated by Messrs. Foley & Gleeson at the intersection of Bethune and McDonnell streets, is a nuisance, a menace to citizens' health, and promises a depreciation of adjacent property. The petitioners prayed that the mixer be removed to some more congenial locality, where it would not prove a nuisance.

Mr. Hatton was assured that this matter had already been given attention and contractors Foley & Gleeson had decided to remove the mixer as soon as the material on the ground is used up—in the course of ten or fifteen days. This was quite satisfactory to Mr. Hatton.

WANTS DAMAGES.

Mr. M. J. Hickey, who fell on the icy sidewalk at the corner of Murray and George streets, breaking his arm, on January 14th last, wanted to know what the city proposed to do for him in the way of damages.

Ald. Duncan—"Did you notify the Council of your accident?"

Mr. Hickey—"No."

Ald. Duncan—"Well, I think it is the duty of citizens in such cases as yours to immediately notify the city authorities of the accident, so that the ground and cause of accident may be at once enquired into. Such a course is only fair in the interests of the city in general. People who urge you to soak the city for damages seem to forget that they themselves will have to pay the costs and whatever damages are awarded, if any."

Mr. Hickey was notified that his claim will be acted upon in committee.

COAL BY-LAW.

Ald. Gordon submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your legal committee beg leave to report as foolows:

1. We directed the City Solicitor to prepare a by-law to amend By-law No. 1167 to provide that all coal sold in less than car lots in the city must be weighed and a record kept of the weights and a return made to the Chief Constable on the first day of each week of the weights of all coal sold in the previous week, the returns to be verified for the respective dealers by statutory declarations by the persons who did the weighing and also to provide that when coal is delivered in bags that the number of bags shall be stated on the ticket.

2. We recommend that Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., be informed that the Council is in favor of the Municipal Franchise being extended to include married women.

Ald. Duffus did not think the by-law at all necessary. There is already a by-law authorizing the weighing of coal by any police official ad libertum which he thought should meet all requirements. He inclined to the opinion that were coal dealers forced to submit a record of their weights each week, consumers will have to pay the cost of same.

Ald. Green concurred in this view and characterized local coal dealers as not more dishonest than those in any other city. He thought the proposed coal by-law altogether uncalled for. Ald. Anderson understood that in committee the coal dealers were willing that such a by-law should come into force.

Ald. Duffus replied that he could quite understand that. A dealer opposing the proposition would be characterized as having dishonest dealings to conceal.

The Mayor said the coal dealers are willing to subscribe to any demand made by the people. The dealers have nothing whatever to conceal.

The report was here adopted, although subsequently the proposed by-law, on motion of Ald. Duffus and Anderson went back to committee for further consideration.

GARBAGE COLLECTION.

A big deputation asked that East City be eliminated from the garbage collection system on the ground that most citizens have large gardens, keep fowls, etc. Consequently many opportunities are available for disusing of ashes and garbage.

The deputation was supported by Ald. McIntyre.

Ald. Anderson did not wish to impose any hardship upon any section of the community. He had endorsed Ald. McIntyre's contention, but since that time the snow had disappeared revealing many filthy yards. Should East Cast City be eliminated from the garbage cleaning system drastic measures should be introduced to make some East City residents clean up.

Ald. Johnston asked that the north west section added to the garbage collection area be also struck out; that portion of the city is comparative with East City.

Ald. Duncan could not see why East City should be eliminated. The garbage collection system is as much needed in East City as elsewhere, and so recommended by the Board of Health. An incinerator in which to burn up garbage has been installed at considerable expense, and East City had no right to shirk its responsibilities in regard to cleanliness any more than any other section of the community.

Ald. Langford here went back on his own report, recommending additional garbage collection area, and endorsed East City's petition to be excluded.

Ald. McIntyre contended East City to be cleaner than any other section; the people take pride in their properties and keep them clean.

Ald. McIntyre and Duffus moved that East City only be eliminated from the garbage collection area.—Lost.

Ald. Johnston and Green moved in amendment, that all the new districts be cut out and the area left the same as last year.—Carried.

Ald. Duncan and Gordon moved in second amendment that the report be adopted, and the new areas for garbage collection allowed to remain.—Lost.

Hence the garbage collection area remains exactly the same as last year.

Ald. Stratton thought it mighty funny that Ald. Langford, should after calling meetings of nis Property Committee and reaching a conclusion as to the garbage collection area, come to council and repudiate his own report and the decision of his committee.

AUCTIONEER'S FEE $25.

The by-law licensing and regulating auctioneers was passed. The license fee is reduced from $50 to $25 to accommodate outside auctioneers. An amendment by Ald. Stratton and the Mayor that tne fee be $50 as heretofore, in protection of residents, was lost, only the mover and seconder voting for it. No transfer of license will be allowed.

MUST SELL POULTRY BY WEIGHT

A by-law enforcing the sale of poultry on the market by weight passed its several readings to take effect May 1st. Any misrepresentation of weight will be a punishable offence.

GRANTS.

By-laws providing for a grant of $600 to the Agricultural Society and one of $900 to the Horticultural Society passed council.

A by-law authorizing the grant to the Salvation Army Band as previously reported passed its several readings.

A 26 MILL RATE.

A by-law fixing the rate for this year's taxes on last year's assessment at 26 mills passed criticism. Finance Minister Anderson regretted that shortness of time between Friday's meeting and that of last night did not permit of preparing a detailed statement of estimates. Ald. Gordon had hoped the rate could have been kept down to 25½ mills, but on going over the city's available assets and liabilities with the treasurer, the impossibility to strike a rate at less than 26 mills is generally admitted owing to increased demands previously referred to. A live question to-day is the assessment which is the 21st lowest of all the 24 cities in the province. If the rate is high the assessment is very low The assessor will, however, make an effort to put the assessment this year on a more equitable basis. Another thing, Peterborough this year is carrying the peak load of its debt. That is to say but few debentures are retiring. However some will mature in the next few years, including one in 1920 of $113,-006.

The Mayor regretted that the rate could not be kept at 25 mills. However, he complimented his committees upon paring down their estimates to the lowest possible notch. He concurred in Ald. Anderson's remarks.

THE CIGARETTE BY-LAW.

A large deputation of tobacco dealers waited upon Council and asked that the cigarette by-law be rescinded. It is claimed that the only effect the by-law fixing a license fee of $40 upon the sale of cigarettes would have would be to create a monopoly in favor of the big dealers and hotels. Mr. Bruce Patterson offered that the by-law would not stop boys smoking cigarettes, as they make them up from cut tobacco and cigarette paper.

Ald. Anderson said the object of this by-law is really to control the sale of cigarettes, the use of which is admitted by leading authorities to be injurious.

Ald. Gordon remarked that the centralization of the sale of cigarettes, a result of the by-law, would in fact create a monopoly. Admitting the injurious effects of cigarette smoking, he would favor a license fee, say $15.

Ald. Duffus concurred in these remarks.

Ald. Gordon contended that much time had been spent on the by-law. He voted for it and could see no reason to change his mind. It looked, he said as though the benches being filled with interested dealers, council was liable to change its mind.

Ald. Anderson and Stratton moved that the fee be reduced from $40 to $25—Lost on a vote of 4—6.

Ald. Duffus and Gordon moved in amendment that the fee be $15. This went down on a vote of 4—6.

This made a tie.

AYES AND NAYS

The ayes and nays on the amendment for a $15 license were here taken, resulting in the amendment being carried on the following vote:

Ayes—Ald. Stratton, Gordon, Duffus, Langford, McIntyre and the Mayor.

Nays—Saunders, Duncan, Green Johnston Anderson.

EAST BELFAST IRELAND WAS CARRIED BY ACCLAMATION

Col. Sharman-Crawford Returned Unopposed to Fill the Vacancy--No Contest in East Fife

Belfast, Ireland, April 6.—Colonel Sharman-Crawford was to-day returned unopposed to Parliament as Unionist member for East Belfast to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons caused by the death on March 25th of Robert James McMordie. Col. Sharman-Crawford is Vice-Commodore of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club.

Settled in the Dark.

Montreal, April 6.—"We believe that the whole Home Rule question so far as the present Parliament is concerned, has been settled behind our backs."

The foregoing is a statement attributed to one of the organizers of the Unionist demonstration at Hyde Park, London, on Saturday, by The London Daily Mirror and cabled to the Montreal Daily Mail.

Was There a Frame-Up?

The Mirror adds that remarkable rumors are in circulation, namely, that Premier Asquith went to Fife with guarantees rendering a contest impossible, which guarantees are the result of an agreement between the front-bench leaders that the Unionists shall withdraw their opposition to the exclusion of Ulster for six years on condition that the Government undertakes a large and comprehensive Federal scheme, and that, therefore, there will be no general election this year. There is no confirmation of this story and it is doubted in the best informed circles.

FIGHTING BILL TO PREVENT CHINESE HIRING WHITE GIRLS

It is probable That the Proposed Legislation Will be Withdrawn--Complaint Entered by Consul General

Toronto, April 6.—Yang Shu Wen, Chinese Consul-General for Canada, and G. F. Farguson, K.C., of Ottawa, have complained to Hon. James Duff, Minister of Agriculture, against the amendment to the factory act introduced last week which debarred Orientals from employing white girls in restaurants, laundries, factories, etc.

They pointed out that legislation of this nature had been passed in 1912 and representatives of the Chinese nation had appealed to the courts to have it set aside as unconstitutional on the grounds that it interfered with Trade and Commerce. The High Court of Saskatchewan gave a verdict in favor of the Province with Chief Justice Haultain dissenting. The case was then taken to the Supreme Court of Canada where the Chinese were again defeated, although once more the verdict was not unanimous. The case is now before the Privy Council.

The Treaties.

Yang Shu Wen asked that the measure now before the Ontario House be dropped until the constitutional question is cleared up. The passing of such a measure might also interfere with the rights conferred on the Japanese in the treaty between Great Britain and Japan. Then there is a treaty pending between China and Canada since the recent visit of Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Customs, which the passing of the proposed measure would undoubtedly imperil.

Likely to be Withdrawn.

The legislation will probably be withdrawn, according to information received at the Department of Agriculture, until the Privy Council has given its verdict. In the meantime it is suggested that an amendment might be made to the Municipal Act which would empower either factory inspectors or police chiefs to pass judgment on the Orientals before consenting to their employing white girls.

Norwich Town Council having decided to spend $64,000 on the provision of municipal offices, a poll of the city is demanded.

HUSBANDS QUOTED AT $1 AS DANCE PARTNERS

New York, April 5.—Husbands were quoted at from 75 cents to $1 at the suffrage fete in the Seventy-first Regiment armory here. This represents a rise from 25 cents, the opening quotations for the price of a dance partner, and as prices were advancing steadily it was expected quotations for a husband might reach the cost of some minor decorations of a woman's hat before the evening was over.

Mrs. J. Frederick Gillette was the first to put a price on her husband as a dancing partner. A young woman remarked that she would "like to charter a man for the next dance." Mrs. Gillette heard her and offered her husband for one dance for 25 cents, with the understanding, of course, that the charge for the lease of her husband would be donated to the funds of the [illegible]

When a dike is to be built—and they are still in places making dikes—it is first mapped out by the neatly sharpened stakes, a long straight causeway leading out from shore and widening into a rounded head which abuts on the red line of the channel. Then a ground sill or foundation mattress of willows is woven and sunk at this head and pinned down and held in place by the sharpened pegs. Then wattles are woven and sand filled in, and in places rock, and then, rounding up neatly out of the water and forming a tight covering to the whole, the hand squared blocks of stone are laid, as closely as a city pavement, all over the head and back along the neck to the old shore. It is as permanent and stable as the Harvard stadium, the dike so built, and the river, abandoning the space back of the tip to slack water or to be filled in with sand, flows on with entire grace in the restricted channel beyond the tip.

The care and exactness with which these dikes are made would be laughable if it were not so successful. In a land where hand labor is very cheap days are devoted to doing what in America would be roughly cast by machinery in a couple of hours. But the result is so admirable that one remembers regretfully the ugly pile dikes, the horrid fringes of the improved "off channel" banks of the Mississippi.

Where the dikes have accomplished their purpose and generally on the banks opposite to them the river is revetted above middle water. This, too, is done with the hand squared stones, and as a result the Elbe where completely finished resembles a broad canal between stone lined banks, the stone rising a few feet above the water, and above it the green slope of the fields or a fringe of willows. It is all peaceful, complete and generally beautiful, with at least the beauty of utility where it lacks that of ruggedness and wildness.

A Congregation of One.

In his younger days the Rev. Sir Cameron Lees, D. D., was a highland missioner in a scattered territory and passing rich on £40 a year. On one occasion on the Sabbath day the windows of heaven opened and there was a deluge on a small scale. The young minister of course was at his post, but only one member of the congregation had the courage to turn up, an old farmer. Cameron Lees suggested that in view of the terrible weather they should adjourn to his study and hold their devotions there.

"No, no," said the old highlander. "It is written, 'Where two or three are gathered together in my name there am I also.' You are one and I'm one, so there's the two, and we'll have the service as usual." And there was a service for a congregation of one.—London Globe.

Worrying Happiness.

The bishop of Manchester, speaking at a meeting at Church House, Westminster, said the secret of happiness was to have a sufficient multitude of worries.

The man who had only one worry, a blind that would not be pulled up straight by the servant or a coal scuttle the bottom of which was always coming out, found his way to the lunatic asylum, but the man who had no time to dwell upon his worries because he had to go from one to another and back again and round and round like a squirrel in a cage could be a perfectly happy man.—London Mail.

Glass Windows.

The first glass window in England was put up in an abbey about the year 680. Glass windows, however, did not become general for many hundred years, and as late as 1570 the glass casements at Alnwick castle, the Duke of Northumberland's seat, were regularly taken down when the family was away from home.

Individuality.

To each intellect belongs a special power. We belong to ourselves, and we lose control of our own when we try to be some one else. The original mind is a magnetic center for the attraction of other minds. But the lodestone loses nothing by attraction; it remains the same.—London New Age.

A Goal He Had Never Reached.

"You are the greatest inventor in the world," exclaimed a newspaper man to Alexander Graham Bell.

"Oh, no, my friend, I'm not," said Professor Bell. "I've never been a reporter."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Plain Talk.

"Shave," said the crusty person laconically.

"Close?" inquired the barber.

"No. I'm not close, but I'm not in the habit of giving tips if that's what you're driving at."

Hints on Beauty Culture

Seek Beauty Out of Doors In Long, Healthful Walks

By MAGGIE TEYTE

The Noted Prima Donna.

MAGGIE TEYTE

WITH the dawning of spring seek beauty out of doors. Walk, breathe, lift up your head and your heart and walk, one, two, three, five miles. Walk for sheer love of it. Set your mind in tune with the glorious song of the world awakening.

Let out your stays, let down your heels, put on a sweater and a short skirt—unless you have the courage to walk in your bloomers or your riding habit—take a cane in your hand and WALK.

Leave the city and strike out into the country, or, if you can't do that, keep in the parks. Get away from folks. Go where you can hear the birds carolling their glees, and watch the squirrels scampering about, and where the grass seems to grow while you are looking at it and the smells of the earth and the budding trees and the flowers almost intoxicate you with their exquisite freshness and sweetness.

Swing your arms, run and hop and skip, if you feel like it—out there in the open road where none may see. Lilt a merry tune. There'll be a bloom on your cheek and a sparkle in your eye that could never come out of a lotion jar or a beauty parlor.

The cobwebs will be whisked out of the corners of your brain by the wooing spring breezes. The kinks of your soul will be straightened. Your dearest enemy will look like your cousin, even if he does not seem your own brother. The wrinkles will be ironed out of your brow. There'll be hope in your heart and courage to finish the fight. The joy of your being will be reflected in the faces and smiles of every one you meet.

There is nothing in the world equal to a good walk to make one take a fresh grip on faith.

No exercise invented can compare with walking. You may search out athletic instructors with intricate systems and you may try all the various mechanical devices in the most elaborately planned gymnasiums, and you won't improve on walking as an aid to health and beauty.

Walking, however, is a much misunderstood word. It does not mean the dragging over the ground of unwilling feet nor a dawdling along apparently objectless.

It means to square the shoulders and expand the lungs and go along as if you were going somewhere and were glad of it, to get something which you really wanted to have.

It means breathing deep and full and regularly.

It means energizing every muscle in the body and concentrating the mind on the work in hand, for when one first learns to walk, like the child who can only toddle, one has to put the mind on each step in order to get the easy, swinging stride, with the body balanced in such a way that each foot, as it strikes the ground, becomes the centre of gravity. It will not be long before the swing will become rhythmically mechanical. Then will come the beginning of the joy of walking.

You will feel a delicious sense of lightness and exhilaration. You will forget the means of locomotion as the distances are covered and fatigue becomes unknown.

Tired nerves relax and burdens roll away. Problems grow less hopeless. Sleep is waiting for you when you lay your head on the pillow. Says Emerson of the delights of Nature as known to the walker: "The enchantments are medicinal, they sober and heal us."

Perhaps, when you take your first few tramps there will be lameness of feet and joints. When you prepare for bed after a long tramp add to the foot bath equal parts of alum, rock salt and borax to the extent of two teaspoonfuls. Then rub the soles and bones of the feet with almond oil, or plain olive oil, massaging them carefully and continuing the treatment to the knees, calves and thighs.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

By Leona Dalrymple

(Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

A Matter of System

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"I DON'T know what to have for dinner. Oh, Peter, I do wish you'd quit reading that horrid newspaper and think of something."

How tired I am of that eternal plaint. A woman who managed a country hotel most wonderfully told me once that there was absolutely no excuse for the woman who hadn't resources enough to think up attractive and varied meals.

"There are fully 20 tasteful ways of preparing potatoes on my list," she explained thoughtfully, "yet the average housewife has them boiled, baked, mashed and perhaps French fried, but her fertility of thought furnishes her there. She goes no further. She doesn't try. It's true."

"Mary," I said patiently, "why don't you make a systematic list of food things—all the different ways of preparing everything we have and keep a record of when we had a certain dish last. You won't find yourself repeating."

"The idea!" sniffed Mary. "Absurd! As if I couldn't remember what we have had and what there is to choose from. Do you think I haven't any brain? The trouble is there's so very little to choose from—"

"There's a lot," I insisted. "For instance, we had a bully fig pudding something like three months ago. Why has that been retired on the pension list? It didn't really work hard enough to deserve an honorable discharge."

"I forgot about it," faltered Mary, coloring.

"Somebody told you a bully fruit salad, and the Lord knows we need fruit salads to keep from getting fat," I said again very meekly. "But you tried that just once and forgot it the day after."

"Mamma," said Mary with dignity and a you're-a-man-what-do-you-know-about-it air, "Mamma never kept a list and mamma was an excellent manager, mamma was. I wish I was as good. And a girl never thinks of doing what her mother doesn't do."

That's painfully true. Mamma may have been the worst old hide-bound precedent in creation to follow, but the girl stumbles blindly along in her wake making the same old errors and the same old fuss. Why can't a girl forget her mother's ways unless they're worth remembering, and deliberately create a menage of her own with something of her own individuality in it? I remember asking Mary one night why we never had spiced red cabbage such as the Germans do so wonderfully.

"Why, why, mamma never had it at home, Peter," she said helplessly, "and I—I suppose for that reason I never thought of it. I make everything most that mamma had—"

I sighed and dropped the subject, but I waited guilefully again for the old, old cry.

"Oh, dear!" wailed Mary one morning at breakfast. "If I could only think of something new to have. There are so few things to choose from, Peter!"

"Why so few things?" I begged.

"Oh, the season, I suppose," said Mary with an air that said as plainly as words that this was by far the least food producing of the seasons. I had heard that this remark in each of the other three.

"It's the summer season," I said bluntly, "and every blamed thing nearly that grows is in the market—"

"Peter," put in Mary, "don't be vulgar and swear!"

Mary knows that annoys me—what man likes to be admonished about an altogether fictitious vulgarity in such a pettish tone?

"Why haven't we had any egg plant?" I snapped. "It's been in the market for weeks. I've seen it on the stands."

"I forgot about it. Why didn't you remind me?"

"It's up to you, Mary, to manage your own job," I hinted wrathfully. "If you would just gather your brain together and make a list of vegetables and meats and salads and desserts and use some intelligence plus some energy, maybe our dinners would have a little more originality. Nor would they be so troublesome."

But we haven't that list yet. Just why do women persistently ignore such a systematic suggestion as that? I know it would simplify the meal problem considerably.

GRACIOUSNESS A FINE ART

STELLA MAYHEW

How Personal Popularity May Be Won

By Cecile Manning

"THE fine art of being gracious is the secret of half the personal popularity in the world and a third of the success," said Stella Mayhew, greeting the interviewer as if she were really the one person in the whole world she most wanted to see.

"If I could whisper a little advice in the ear of every young woman who is starting out in life I would say, 'Be gracious, my dear; be gracious.' To my mind graciousness combines all such delightful qualities of mind and manner as tact and friendliness and courtesy and forbearance and encouragement. It is the most valuable asset, next to common sense, a woman can possess. It is the underlying principle which makes successful actresses, musicians, hostesses and business women.

"The day of the grouch being overlooked and forgiven on the ground of individuality or eccentricity is past. There is too much competition. Genius may be just as much of a rarity as ever, but either the standard is lower or the personal equipment finer, for there are lots of clever workers in every business. And it is the one who can do her work and meet her people with the most graciousness who gets the plums.

"How to be gracious? Well, that's not easy to give the rule which will fit all cases. To begin with, the gracious woman listens more than she talks. That gives her the opportunity to sense her surroundings and catalogue the persons with whom she comes in constant contact and learn how to get on the sunny side of their nature.

"It also gives them the chance to expound their views and theories of life, and nothing pleases the average individual more than to find a sympathetic listener when he has some whims which may meet with scant tolerance in the less formal mannered home circle.

"Then the personal interest note is strong in the attitude of the gracious person. 'How are you?' becomes more than a stilted question. It makes you feel that the questioner really has genuine interest in the state of your well being and the cockles of your heart—by the way, did you ever see the cockles of a heart?—warm to her at once. Perhaps the woman doesn't care any more how you are than does the one who passes with an abrupt nod, but she has the pleasing faculty of appearing to.

"Being well poised is another necessary quality in the blessed state of graciousness. It is more than I can do to give minute directions on how to attain poise. First, understand yourself and know what is expected of you. Then believe in yourself and your work—not blindly, but with understanding. Learn self-possession. Make your head save you from blunders. That will help others to be at their easeful best.

"Try to be restful in your manner even when most energetic. Perhaps this is not simple, but it can be acquired. So many of us think that to flurry means to be competent. It is fatal to continuous accomplishment. The girl who comes into the office with a sweet, radiant smile, who takes off her hat in silence, omitting to spend five minutes before the mirror waving her hands in foolish circles over her hair and with a powder puff, who opens her desk and dusts it out with few motions, and is ready to get right down to work with the air of being more interested in the outcome of that day's business for that one office than for anything else in the world is the competent girl, and she will see a dozen hurly-burly hustlers and bustlers come and go.

"Don't think you've got to get up and stand on your head to make the world know you're on earth. Make yourself fit into the picture so that there would be a big emptiness if you were removed, and try to blend with all the life and activity around you, so there shall be nothing but harmony. That is the art of being gracious.

"It works with the same charm the world over.

"It passes for cleverness and friendship and love. It makes you more distinctive than all the eccentricities you could copy, or invent, or cultivate.

"It is as far as the sun is from the moon from being wishy-washy. Deceit? What nonsense! It is finding your best foot and knowing enough to put it forward at the right time. It is bringing out your own best side and finding the best side of the ones you meet. It makes for courage and strength of character and helpfulness. And it is the best commercial asset a woman can have."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR SWEET SIXTEEN. So people say you're very pretty, do they?

What people, and why do they say it? And what if you are, or aren't?

Don't you catch cold when the wind is from the east, just as easily as if you were as ugly as a mud fence?

Is your coffee any better in the morning than that of the plain girl, who seems to fancy her's rather better than you do?

It's all right to be pretty, but being pretty is not going either to make or to mar the world for you, unless you allow the fact of your looks to make a goose of you.

Beauty isn't the only thing that counts—even in being a belle.

I've seen the plainest girl in a ballroom take all the partners away from the prettiest one, just because she was charming and the pretty one was dull.

Be pretty if you can, just as pretty as you can manage to be, and then stop thinking about it.

Get a steady, as you call it? At your age, you funny little thing? You ought not to begin to think seriously of a serious sweetheart till you're at least 20 years old.

This is the glorious spring-time of your life, all the flowers are blooming all the birds are singing. What do you want to turn it into summer for so quickly? The sooner it's summer, the quicker it's fall, you know.

"Steadied" at 16; married at 18; a mother at 19; a grandmother before you can turn around.

What slim little shoulders you have, Sweet Sixteen. Why in the world do you want to try to carry such heavy burdens on them—so soon?

Marriage isn't a tango, or even a hesitation waltz—though sometimes it appears to the lookers-on that it might as well be.

It's a serious business, a very, very serious business. What in the world do you want to walk right into it for—until you have to?

If you had a real sweetheart now, one that you really loved and could not live without, there might be some sense in your talking about a "steady" at your age. But you seem to be just "looking for some one."

Don't you know that the man who's looking for trouble is always sure to find it, and so is the girl.

Keep young, little girl, keep young as long as you can.

Youth is the one glorious blessing of the world; hang on to it with both hands; don't push it away; don't run down the road to meet responsibility and care and trouble.

They'll knock at your door soon enough. Wait till they do knock before you even think of them.

Have friends, little girl, dozens of friends; girls and boys and women—no, I don't believe I'd have very many friends among men just yet.

Mature men who care for little girls like you are not the sort of men who would be good friends to you—no matter what they say or do, or try to make you or themselves believe.

Keep away from the middle-aged man, and make him keep away from you. There are plenty of perfectly good widows and charming bachelor maids for him to admire.

Stay with your own age, girls and boys, and plenty of both of them.

Laugh, dance, sing and be happy—and good, and true-hearted, and gentle and kind, and some day HE will come around the corner of the road, and then you won't have to ask anybody's advice as to whether you love him or don't love him.

You'll know, and so will he, and everything else and every one else will be to you as the shadows in a passing dream.

Be sure that these dreams that pass will be pleasant ones for you and your real sweetheart to remember when the time comes for you to talk them over with him.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her care this office.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Sunshine Is Magic Food For Your Hungry Tissues

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

IN these days of pianos, violins and xylophones, every 6-year-old boy knows what an octave is. Sound is composed of octaves; light is made up of octave rays, and some women have an official perfumer, who arranges her scents and odors in octaves.

The seven colors of the spectrum, as seen in the rainbow, compose the visible light octaves. There are, nevertheless, an enormous series of other invisible octaves, both beyond the violet end of the spectrum and the red end.

The other rays from the sun and other luminous objects, such as a lamp, or even a firefly, which do not disturb your eye, are called ultra-violet rays, infra-red rays, wireless rays, electro-magnetic rays, heat rays, chemical rays, X-rays and many others yet to be labelled.

It was until recently thought that the ultra-violet rays were the only "actinic" or chemical rays. But it is easily shown that all of the visible, as well as the infra-red, heat waves may induce explosive changes in photographic plates, rocks and living tissues.

The sun contains all of the magic of such wizards as Edison, Marconi, Alexis Carrel, Roros, Wright and Maxim. It is a surgeon and an anarchist, a creator and a destroyer, a healer and a wicked Merlin.

According to Prof. Haeckel of Germany and Prof. Henderson of Harvard, the ooze of the sea may become life by the energizing touch of the sun. From the work of Prof. R. W. Wood of Johns Hopkins, invisible things can be made visible by the ultra-violet rays. Diseases, too, of the skin are cured by them.

Example of Plant Needs.

Dr. Thomas S. Blair of the Medical Council says this Apollo, this King of Day, is more necessary to those predisposed to cancer than food is itself. The human texture has an appetite, he says, for air, for water, for fodder and for light.

Nature intended the tissues to absorb sunshine; such baths of sunshine are a sort of food to the tissues. You insulate yourselves against the forces of nature at your peril. Why should not the deep tissues of an animal demand sunshine no less than does plant life? Is not sunshine actually a food or stimulant to the plant? You have no reason to believe that the animal, though probably to a less degree, is not dependent upon the same influence.

Prof. Daniel Berthelot of France declares that the skin of the modern human race differs much from that of your ancestors. While the skin of the darker races absorb the ultra-violet rays, they also absorb most of the other rays. Negro skin reflects no color at all. The skin of the red races absorbs all but the red and orange rays, and that of the yellow races absorbs all but the red, orange and yellow. The white skins of the races of today absorb none but the ultra-violet and possibly a little of the violet rays. They reflect almost all the visible rays.

Power of Sun's Rays.

Prof. Berthelot prophesies that the evolution of the human skin, if continued, will finally reflect even the ultra-violet rays, and thus develop an ultra-white race of people.

Phoebus, Angel of Light, according to Dr. Blair's statistics, sends out electrons much milder, it is true, than radium, X-rays, thorium and the other radio-active cancer "palliatives." But in its march through the heavens the sun does shoot forth rays powerful enough at least to aid in the prevention of cancer.

Great Novels in a Nutshell

Charles Dickens' "GREAT EXPECTATIONS"

Condensed by [illegible] S. GRAY

PHILIP PIRRIP, unable when a small boy to pronounce his name, called himself Pip, and the name stuck. When he was 6 or 7, an escaped convict made him promise secrecy and bring him some food and a file. Later he was captured.

Pip went occasionally to the home of Miss Havisham, a rich and eccentric woman, to wheel her about in a chair. He always found her in a white satin bridal dress and surrounded by wedding preparations moldering with decay. She had an adopted daughter, Estella, a remarkably pretty girl.

Pip worked four years as apprentice to a blacksmith, his brother-in-law, Joe. Then a lawyer, Jaggers, came and told him he was a young man of great expectations and was to be educated as a gentleman by a benefactor whose name was not to be made known at present. As she was the only wealthy person he knew, Pip supposed it must be Miss Havisham. He went to London to study under a tutor, a relative of hers. He and his tutor's son, Herbert, became intimate friends and took lodgings together.

One stormy night a rough man, Abel Magwitch, came from Australia to Pip's room and told him he was his unknown benefactor. Pip recognized him as the convict he had fed on the marsh. He told Pip and Herbert that he had served many jail sentences. Finally he fell in with a man named Compeyson, a swindler and forger. Compeyson was ringleader. Both were arrested. Compeyson put the blame on Magwitch. The former got a seven-year sentence, the latter, 14. Before Magwitch met him, Compeyson had defrauded a rich woman out of a large sum of money. Herbert told them the woman was Miss Havisham. She had loved a man with that name and had trusted him to the utmost. After he had gotten her money, he failed to appear on the day set for the wedding.

The next time he saw Miss Havisham, Pip reproached her for having let him think all these years she was his patron, just for the sake of making her relatives green with envy, and of having urged him to love Estella. He had loved her ever since he first saw her. Now she was accepting attentions from Bentley Drummle, a young man of wealth but stupid, mean and boorish. Estella replied that Miss Havisham had brought her up to be heartless; that she was soon to marry Drummle. She did.

From the resemblance Pip recognized Jaggers's housekeeper as Estella's mother. Jaggers's legal skill had saved her from a sentence for killing another woman in a fit of jealousy. From what Magwitch had told him of his life, Pip recognized him as Estella's father.

Pip received an unsigned note asking him to come that night to a certain place on the marsh if he wanted some information regarding Magwitch; to tell no one of his errand, and to bring this letter with him. He went and was bound hand and foot by a ruffian, Orlick, who had several grudges against him. Orlick intimated that he and Compeyson were hunting for Magwitch. Just as he was about to kill Pip, Herbert arrived with help. Pip had accidentally dropped Orlick's letter on the floor of his lodgings and Herbert had found it.

In trying to board a boat for the continent Magwitch was intercepted by officers led by Compeyson, who was anxious to have him out of the way for the sake of his own safety. In the encounter between the two men Magwitch was wounded and died not long after before he could be executed for returning to England. Just before he died Pip told him about Estella. His property was confiscated by the government. When he knew the circumstances Pip had been unwilling to accept it, but had not told Magwitch.

On his last visit to Miss Havisham her dress caught fire in the grate. Pip saved her by wrapping her in his overcoat, but got severely burned. He now had an illness just as he was about to be arrested for debt. Honest, loyal, kind Joe came and nursed him and paid the debt. Pip felt very much ashamed that he had never been to see Joe since he left home, except at the time of his sister's funeral.

Through Pip's influence Miss Havisham had given Herbert £900 to set him up in business. She left nearly everything to Estella, nothing to Pip. On his recovery, Pip decided to go back and marry Biddy, but found she had just married Joe. So he went into business with Herbert in the east and in time got his debts paid and repaid Joe.

Eleven years later on his return to England he met Estella. Her husband had treated her outrageously, and she regretted having thrown away Pip's affection. She was now a widow. So they were married.

Aunt Dorothy—How many Commandments are there, Johnny?

Johnny (glibly)—Ten.

Aunt Dorothy—And now, suppose you were to break one of them?

MEN WILL NOT BE DRIVEN

Father Phelan in the Western Watchman some time ago, uttered a very apparent but a very unpalatable truth in relation to Roman Catholicism in the United States when he said. "We boast of our wondrous progress in this country. We are building new churches and establishing new dioceses and multiplying priests, and we think we are doing wonders. We are doing less here than in any other country in the world. I tell you, because I know whereof Ispeak. We are making no real, lasting progress here. We are receiving the best that Roman Catholic nations of the world can send us, and immigration is making us strong; but we are losing hold of the men. The men are not interested in our sacraments. They salute us on the street; that is all. The men don't go ta mass."

"We are losing hold of the men!" A sad confession, but the fact is only too plain. Rome drives; and to-day men refuse to be driven.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio by F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free.

WHY J. C. MAPP PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

He Suffered from Kidney Disease, Lumbago and Rheumatism for Five Years—Now He is a Well Man Again

Boileau, P.O., Ponsonby, Que, April 6.—(Special.)— J. C. Mapp, a well-known farmer living near here, who sufferedf rom Kidney Disease for five years, is once more a well man, and in a statement given to the press he gives all the credit for his cure to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My trouble started with a cold about five years ago," Mr. Mapp states, "and developed into lumbago and rheumatism. I had a bitter taste in my mouth in the morning, and I was terribly nervous. I was depressed and low spirited and found it difficult to collect my thoughts, while at times I was troubled with stiffness in the joints. My appetite was fitful, and I had heart flutterings that added to my fears. My twin brother, who had used Dodd's Kidney Pills and got great benefit from them, advised me to use them. The first two boxes did me so much good that I got two more, and they completed my cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the right remedy for Kidney trouble."

Every person who has two or more of Mr. Mapp's symptoms, has sick Kidneys. The right remedy for sick Kidneys is Dodd's Kidney Pills. If you don't know it out of your own experience, ask your neighbors.

THE "MENACE"

Editor Morning Times.

Sir :—In your valuable columns I find an article on the ban of the Canadian post-office in stopping the newspaper, "Menace" going througo the mails. Now, I have been a subscriber of this paper for nearly two years, and just sent in another year's subscription for the Menace. Am I to be deprived of my paper, as well as thousands of other subscribers just because the editor of this paper charged a priest with being in the white slave business? Now, if he has, why not investigate and send Government detectives to find out and stop this white slave business and punish him? And if he has been charged with a crime that he is innocent of, why doesn't he go to the courts for justice, charge the Menace with a libel and punish the editor to the full extent of the law? If the priest is guilty, make him swallow his medicine. It is the Government's place to send all such cases to the courts. That is where all libel cases are tried and get justice. I am a supporter of this Government and helped to put it in power, and will help to put it out if it does not let this paper go through the mails. What right have the priests and bishops to apply to the post-office department to interfere with the mails or say what paper shall go through the mails? Do these priests and bishops run this Government? It looks mighty like it. I have seen several papers charged with libels, but none of them stopped going through the mails. All went to court for justice, and so should these priests and bishops. It is fully time for Protestants to demand their rights.

Thanking you for your space.

LAURIER, GRAFT AND PATRIOTISM

Editor Morning Times.

Sir :—Laurier the great statesman, the idol of the Canadian people. How are the mighty fallen! What an ignoble end to a life spent in the service of his country.

The recent exposures, of Graft on the N.T.R. and on the Trent Valley Canal, bring home to the electors of Canada, a knowledge of the rotten fabric of the late Grit Government.

Reputations limit on Graft, and corruption are always doomed to failure.

Laurier Graft and Patriotism (the three graces of the late Grit Government) and the greatest of these was graft. Patriotism was preached to a large extent, but now we can see it was only used as a cloak.

Sir Wilfred thought it would be impatriotic to give $35,000,000 for three dreadnoughts, which would have been used in the protection of Canadian interests; but evidently thought it most patriotic to squander $173,236,521 on the N.T.R., a railway that could not possibly have paid its way for years and years. Why was it? Was it because it afforded an opportunity for graft? Was it because it could make millionaires of a few contractors?

This $173,000,000 odd would have provided not less than fifteen dreadnoughts, and is over half the net national debt of Canada.

Is it any wonder, under the circumstances, now that these things have been brougnt to light, that Sir Wilfrid's own supporters, wish him to retire from the political arena.

It is useless for him to plead ignorance of Graft, for should he do so, it would only be setting the seal of incompetence on himself still firmer.

It is to be hoped at the next general election that the electors will show in a very marked degree their disapproval, all over the country, the results in our own constituency are a foregone conclusion, as local graft, under the late Government, is proved so conclusively, to the everlasting shame of our late member and Trent Valley Canal officials.

CENTRAL CANADA RAILWAY TO BE COMPLETED DEC 31-14

The settlers in the Northern part of this County, in fact the whole County, will be pleased to read the appended letter from Mr. J.H. Burnham, M.P. We might remind our readers, that this railway passing through the North portion of this County and Victoria County, passing through Fenelon Falls, goes to Midland. County Clerk Ed. Elliott has sent a copy of the letter to all the Peterborough County Councillors.

The letter reads as follows :

House of Commons,
Ottawa, April 2nd, 1914

County Council of Peterborough,

Dear Sirs :—You will be interested in learning that the Central Railway of Canada will be completed to Midland by Dec. 31st. 1915. Such are the terms of the contract and the work is proceeding rapidly. As instructed by you, I have kept in touch with this important matter and have been able to assist it materially.

BABIES SORES

Every mother should realize that the skin of her baby is so tender that the secretions of the body often lead to rashes, eruptions, etc., all of which may be removed by Zam-Buk. Scores of restless, crying babies, upon examination, are found to be suffering from some form of skin irritation or "heat." Don't let the little one suffer when Zam-Buk will cure!

Mrs. L. Hood, of 675 Alexander Avenue, Winnipeg, says: "I have proved the value of Zam-Buk when applied to children's sores. Some nasty sores broke out around my baby's mouth, and despite all the preparations used, they refused to heal. I took him to St. Boniface hospital and he remained there for two weeks. At the end of that time he was no better, and we again took him home. I was then advised to try Zam-Buk and obtained a supply. The effect of the first few applications was very gratifying, and I continued with the use of the balm. A little perseverance resulted in a complete cure."

Mrs. E. Cooper, of Yorkton, Sask., says: "My little baby girl had a bad running sore all over her little chin. A few applications of Zam-Buk healed the sore in such a perfect manner that no scar was left behind."

Scores of similar cases could be quoted. Zam-Buk is absolutely pure—contains no rancid animal fats, no mineral coloring matter, no astringent poisons. It is the ideal balm for baby.

Zam-Buk cures eczema, rashes, ringworm, chapped hands, scurvy, heat rashes, cuts, burns, ulcers, discharging sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Don't take the risk of using harmful imitations!

Magic "Nerviline" Ends Stiff Neck, Lumbago

Any Curable Muscular or Joint Pain Is Instantly Relieved by "Nerviline"

GET TRIAL BOTTLE TO-DAY

You don't have to wait all day to get the kink out of a stiff neck if you rub on Nerviline. And you don't need to go around complaining about lumbago any more. You can rub such things away very quickly with Nerviline. It's the grandest liniment, the quickest to penetrate, the speediest to ease muscular pain of any kind.

One twenty-five cent trial bottle of Nerviline will cure any attack of lumbago or lame back. This has been proved a thousand times, just as it was in the case of Mrs. E.J. Grayden, of Caledonia, who writes :— "I wouldn't think of going to bed without knowing we had Nerviline in the house. I have used it for twenty odd years and appreciate its value as a family remedy more and more every day. If any of the children gets a stiff neck, Nerviline cures quickly. If it is earache, toothache, cold on the chest, sore throat, Nerviline is always my standby. My husband once cured himself of a frightful attack of lumbago by Nerviline, and for a hundred ailments that turn up in a large family Nerviline is by far the best thing to have about you."

MENACE TO KEEP GOING

Noble Scott Says He Will Make It a National Fight Against Roman Church

Uurora, April 6.— "No, we have not yet received official notice of 'The Menace' being barred from the Canadian mails, nor do I think we ever will," said Mr. Noble Scott, owner of the Protestant journal, published at Aurora, which is reported to have been refused the use of the mails.

"What will be done if you get the official notice?" he was asked.

"We will continue to punish, and circulate, no matter what haupens, a journal, whether under the name of the 'Menace' or not, that will show the Roman Catholics that they cannot govern Canada as they have Ireland, Mexico, and Spain. Meanwhile we will send the 'Menace' through the mails at eight cents a pound. It is expensive, but we have the capital, and will make the fight a national one."

DANGER OF COERCING ULSTER

Bitter Feeling Would Be Aroused in Canada—Trade Unionists Wire Appeal to London

Belfast, April 6.—Ulster trade unionists wired an urgent appeal to the Hyde Park, London, demonstration for British trade unionists not to desert them. Home Rule would be a deadly blow to the Irish trade unionists.

The cruisers Attentive and Foresight have left the Lough, but several battleships are within easy distance of the Ulster coasts.

Danger to Empire

The Belfast News-Letter says that any attempt to coerce Ulster will arouse a very bitter feeling in Canada and shake the confidence of fellow-subjects in the stability of the mother country. The leaders of the seditious movement in India may also choose that time for rising for the overthrow of British authority.

Bishop's Appeal

Dr. Darcy, Lord Bishop of Down, in a special appeal says: "We have just escaped the most terrible danger to which any community could be exposed," and he appeals to the clergy to use their influence to restrain angry passions and avoid excitement.

Additional police spies are working in Ulster far evidence against "gun-runners."

DOZAL MURDERED, NO SUICIDE, MESSAGE OF MEXICAN FRIEND

New Orleans, April 6.—Genaro Dozal was of one of the finest families at Chihuahua, Mexico. This is the information in a letter to Sheriff Marrero of Jefferson parish, from Federico Gomez, intimate friend of Dozal, who met death in a mysterious manner at Bayou Defon, Feb. 26. Gomez letter was a reply to the sheriff.

Dozal was a member of the Masonic lodge of which Mr. Gomez is secretary and in the dead man's effects were a number of letters from Gomez, starting "My Dear Friend." Gomez' letter to the sheriff gave no particulars regarding Dozal's family, but requested the sheriff to furnish him with all the information possible. The family is believed to be at Chihuahua.

Gomez expressed the opinion that Dozal was murdered, discredited the suicide theory, but did not know any enemies. He requested that Dozal's effects be sent to the Mexican consul at El Paso, and this will be done. The consul will try to get them to the family.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It have the ears, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ¼ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale [illegible], or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

AN ARMY OF PEACE

Well Equipped Buildings Needed For Technical Education

Dr. F. W. Merchant in discussing "Technical Education, said there was a great deal of talk about conservation these days, but the loss to the nation in the matter of material things was nothing compared to the unrealized gift of its citizens, which had no chance to find an outlet for its genius. The present system of evening classes was not one conducive to the best results. Pupils came jaded to the classes after their day's work, and the speaker contended that the day school must be depended upon more for the support of vocational education. The ages best suited for the making of industrial efficiency were between fourteen and sixteen, and it was here that the nation lost a large number of young members who might be drafted into the ranks of the technical schools. He was afraid that they would eventually have to take the action of Germany in this regard and make technical education compulsory. A great movement was going on with regard to [illegible] halls were being erected all over the country, and Dr. Merchant declared that they wanted similar buildings equally well equipped for the training of what Lord Haldane calls "an army of peace to maintain industrial supremacy."

Umbrellas of Ancient Origin

As a shade from the sun, the umbrella is an implement of great antiquity, and can be seen in the paintings and sculptures of very ancient Egypt. From Africa it passed as an object of distinction to Greece and Rome.

During the Middle Ages umbrellas ceased to be used in Europe; but during the 16th century horsemen, [illegible] people, revived the fashion in Italy. And in the next century the umbrella found its way to Britain, but it did not become popular until, during the reign of Anne, a covering of oiled silk was substituted for feathers.

Even then, only ladies used umbrellas. The 18th century had half elapsed ere a man was seen carrying one in London, and that brave fellow bore the name Jonas Hanway.

RUNNING GOOD DEVELOPER

Billy Quest's Method at Any Rate, Produces Results

Dr. Borden, examining physician at Yale University, after an examination of the distance men trained under Coach "Billy" Quest, announced that the runners showed a remarkable improvement in the physical condition after a period of training. He found them stronger and hardier than before they took up the sport, which goes to show that distance running under the supervision of a competent trainer is very beneficial. Quest would never undertake to coach a man under eighteen years, and believes that it is foolish to work a man really hard before he is twenty. Experienced runners are sometimes apt to spoil and discourage a promising man by taking him out and breaking his confidence by running away from him just to "show off." It is not the really good runners who do this, but rather the fifth and sixth raters, who, with more experience and confidence, along with their better condition, are able to run away from the newcomer. The latter, after a few such heart-breaking experiences, stays away in the belief that he just can't "make good." Such methods are no more justifiable than it would be if a first class boxer beat up a man who has never had the gloves on before.

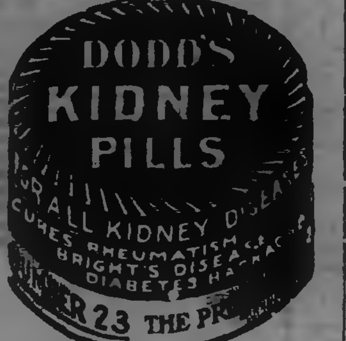
The Kaiser's Youth

A ruler of Kaiser Wilhelm's energy and vigor has the faculty of never appearing to grow older. At the respectable age of fifty-five he still wears his years lightly and serves as an example of the advantages to be gained by leading a busy life. With good care a constitution that was none too sound has been strengthened and made equal to bearing throughout a long reign the burden of a daily round of duties that would have exhausted the ordinary man.



Buffaloes in Captivity

Within the three National parks in which the Dominion Government maintains the buffalo in a state of semi-captivity there are 1,287 buffalo. The number of males is approximately the same as the number of females, a large number of the former being aged. The total number of calves successfully raised during last year was 231. An estimate of the number of wood bison in Mackenzie River territory and of those loaned by the Dominion Government to city parks, etc., makes the total number of pure bred bison in Canada about 1,600.

THE POTATO KING

Wonderful Yield of Tubers From One Acre of New Ontario Land.

Mr. Arthur Sitch of Hymers, a few miles west of Port Arthur, succeeded in growing 427½ bushels of "common No. 1" potatoes on a one-acre patch of New Ontario land. By his clever cultivating and careful management Mr. Sitch demonstrated to the world that no part of Canada is better adapted to potato growing than the district adjacent to Port Arthur, known as the Thunder Bay district. The following figures will show how, in comparison with other competitors, Mr. Sitch forged far ahead: Shelburne, Ont., raised 180 bushels to the acre; Rocklyn, 197 bushels; Dryden, 198 bushels; Burk's Falls, 255½ bushels; Allanburg, 250 bushels; Thunder Bay district, 427½ bushels.

Mr. Sitch moved to the Thunder Bay district about 14 years ago from Port Erie, Niagara district, having been born and spent his early years in Chelmsford, Essex, Eng., where he followed a good training in his father's profession, that of market gardening. With two of his brothers, Ernest and Arthur, he settled in the Niagara district, and after three years there decided to move west. They started for the Swan River district of Manitoba but got no farther west than Port Arthur, and they have no reason to regret that they changed their plans.

Speaking [illegible] in leading Ontario in potato growth Mr. Sitch [illegible] used. [illegible] during [illegible] I purchased eight years ago from the Ag[illegible] The [illegible] and seed. MR. ARTHUR SITCH of Hymers, near Port Arthur, Ontario, winner in the acre crop competition organized by the Ontario Government for the best yield of potatoes to a single acre. Mr. Sitch's record was 427½ bushels.

Muskrat in a Barber Shop.

Men, who have been out for a time, men who are local option voters, men who vote for 26 mills on the dollar for Peterborough, men who pay taxes on a hard earned home and want lower taxation in short every class of men, and sometimes a collie dog, enter a barber shop. Still, who would suspect a muskrat of going into a local barber shop? However, yesterday morning a muskrat evidently coming from the creek, wandered down the steps leading to the Snowden House barber shop, and seeing the door open slid from the tiled floor. It was caught alive put in a bag and taken away.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 28, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,892.58 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,369,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,602.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,600.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 900 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I. who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $500 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $500 made in this business three years ago.

The Rosemount Live Stock Co. Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $500 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $3,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $286,000 cash dividends since and the pair bought for $3,500 could be sold for $25,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

CATARRH NEVER STOPS IN SAME PLACE REACHES THE LUNGS--DEVELOPES CONSUMPTION

[illegible]

TO STOP A COLD QUICKLY AND PREVENT CATARRH, USE "CATARRHOZONE"

Nothing more serious than the common cold.

If it gains headway you can't stop it from running into Catarrh, deafness, or serious throat trouble.

Catarrh spreads very fast.

From nose to throat it goes in a day. Soon the Bronchial tubes are affected—and before you know it, unless very healthy the lungs are hit, and it's too late.

While you have the chance, drive colds and Catarrh right out of the system.

You can quickly do so by inhaling the rich piney vapor of Catarrhozone. Right to where the living germ of Catarrh is working will the healing fumes of Catarrhozone go in ten seconds.

No liquid medicine can penetrate to the deep recesses that Catarrhozone bathes with its soothing vapor—that's just why it proves so wonderfully effective.

The health-laden vapor of Catarrhozone cures the worst of coughs and hoarseness. The uttermost parts of the Bronchial tubes are reached. Bronchitis is cured—every cell in the head, throat and nose is treated by Catarrhozone's wonderful fumes.

You can't beat Catarrhozone for huskiness, weak throat, sore nostrils, catarrhal and bronchial trouble of any kind. Get the complete $1.00 outfit. Smaller size 50c. Trial size 25c., at dealers everywhere.

There will be a vacancy in the immediate future in the legal firm of Hall, Hayes, & Hall, the Hunter street lawyers. This is caused by the necessitated resignation of Mr. L. M. Hayes, owing to the latter being appointed senior judge of Wellington County. Mr. E. H. D. Hall, owing to increased private business, has resigned the position, he so ably filled, as City Solicitor. It is generally understood that Mr. G. N. Gordon will be appointed in his place. Should such appointment be made, it would seem that the city would make no blunder. Mr. Gordon is one of the bright young men of the local forensic fraternity who has shown his ability both in the courts and in the city council.

PRAISE FOR BUDGET FROM PROMINENT AUTHORITIES

Smaller Reduction on Farm Machinery Might Have Satisfied West

Toronto, April 7.—Mr. D. R. Wilkie, President of the Imperial Bank, in the course of an interview declared that he was very much pleased with the budget. The duty on agricultural implements had not been done away with, and although a reduction of 2½ per cent. instead of 5 per cent. might have satisfied the Westerners, he had no doubt that Mr. White had had opportunity to examine the situation and that the duties would permit the manufacture of these machines to be continued.

Any reduction, he said, that would have driven back to the parent companies the branches that had been established in Canada of American firms, would have placed the country under the control of outside corporations.

Does Not Like Bounties.

Mr. Wilkie said he did not like the system of bounties, and if the development of the iron and steel trades could be promoted by the adoption of a moderate tariff, and the iron deposits of the country could at the same time be developed, he was sure the country would not object to such a policy.

The hundreds of millions of dollars expended on railways east and west would be thrown away he declared, if the system was to be grid-ironed north and south. And the result would follow if the free wheat platform was adopted.

The reduction in the value of imports and the increase in the value of exports would bring about a healthy balance.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT

The Times extends congratulations to Mr. G. N. Gordon on his appointment as City Solicitor. Mr. Gordon, in the various courts, both here and elsewhere, has demonstrated that he is a skilful pleader, and possesses a wide acquaintance with forensic lore. His experience as an Alderman has made him thoroughly acquainted with local civic conditions, and admirably fits him for the post. The City has made a wise choice in this appointment.

LAW TO PROHIBIT BUYING WILD DUCKS

Limits the Number Any One Person Can Kill to a Hundred.

Toronto, April 7.—Dr. Anderson's bill to limit the bag of wild ducks which any one person may kill in a season, to one hundred, was not discussed by the Fish and Game Committee this morning. The bill also prohibits the sale or purchase of wild duck. The license fee to foreign trappers was raised to $50 and a fee will be imposed on fur dealers. These two changes in the act will be made at the instance of Dr. Reaume the Minister of Public Works.

Mr. Z. Mageau, Liberal member for Sturgeon Falls, produced a skin which he declared was the hide of a wolf which had been a member of a pack that had killed forty sheep. The bounty had been refused on the skin. After some discussion it was finally agreed that the skin was that of a brush wolf, on which no bounty was payable.

BOMB OUTRAGE BY MILITANTS

Much Damage Occasioned to Famous Church in London

London, April 6.—The famous church of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, on the north-east corner of Trafalgar Square, near the National Gallery and the National Portrait Gallery, was the scene of a bomb outrage by Suffragettes after the services last evening. The outrage was very much like the one perpetrated in the Church of St. John the Evangelist at Westminster on Sunday, March 1, when a bomb which had been placed under a seat near the pulpit was exploded by Suffragettes who had concealed themselves in the building and two stained glass windows were smashed.

The evening service at the Church of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields ended at 8.30 o'clock. The verger then made his customary rounds, and everything appeared to be normal. He locked the church at 9.30 o'clock and left. About an hour afterwards the neighborhood was startled by the noise of a big explosion. A policeman who was outside the church instantly sent in a fire alarm from a street box, and firemen and other policemen were soon on the scene. They entered the building which within a few minutes had become filled with thick smoke. An examination showed that a bench below the pulpit had been wrecked and the stained glass windows had been partly shattered. One of these was a memorial window to W. H. Smith, a member member of one of the Cabinets of the Marquis of Salisbury.

A tin canister identical with the one found in the Church of St. John the Evangelist was discovered by the police. The odor and the nature of the damage showed that the explosive used in the bomb was gunpowder. A candle which ignited the bomb was also found.

While Premier Asquith and his party were waiting for a train for London on the platform of the station at Cupar, Scotland, this evening, two Suffragettes appeared and started toward the Prime Minister. A detective who was in attendance on Mr. Asquith, pounced upon the women, who struggled violently, but were finally hustled off the platform. The women shouted at Mr. Asquith: "You torturer of women."

BRIDE STRUGGLES WITH NEGRO THEF AND WINS

Tears Away Clothing From Back In Alleyway Fight

New Orleans, April 5.—After a desperate struggle with a negro thief Mrs Harry L. Wesner, a young bride of 1934 Palmyra street, succeeded in wresting from him his plunder, consisting of her husband's clothing.

The thief, Willie Johnson, alias Happy Jack, entered the house at noon by the back, broke through a partition and gained access to the room where Mr. Wesner slept. He was not detected by Mrs. Wesner till he was leaving. In the alleyway she attackd thhhathhh thhhh thh thhhhh h tacked him and tore his coat from his back. Her screams attracted the neighbors and the negro was pursued At Claiborne and Tulane avenues, Detective Harry Gregson joined in the chase. He was unable to catch the thief till the latter had reached Robertson street.

Johnson was charged with being a well known thief, entering in the day time and petty larceny. The stolen goods consisted of a pair of shoes, a gray suit and an overcoat.

Mrs. Wesner is said to be prostrate from the shock.

CUT IN MAJORITY AS BILL PASSES

New York, April 7.—The London correspondent of The New York Tribune, cables: "After a debate that did not bring the contending parties any nearer to a settlement, the Home Rule Bill was for the third time given its second reading in the House of Commons last night by a vote of 356 to 276. This majority of 80 is smaller than the Government obtained at the two previous second reading divisions, the majority in 1912 going to 101 and last year to 98. In the division last night two Liberals voted against the Government, and another abstained from voting. The official Nationalist party, 73, voted for the bill. Onei Mr. Roche, was away. All the O'Brienites, eight in number, took no part in the division.

CHIEF REDUCTIONS ARE MADE BY CONSERVATIVES AT OTTAWA

Liberals Fifteen Years in Power Lowered Duty Two and a Half Per Cent

Ottawa, April 7.—General satisfaction is expressed by Conservative members to-day on the budget announcement and Hon. W. T. White is being congratulated on all sides both on the financial statement he presented and the tariff changes he made.

Ends "Blue Ruin" Cry.

His financial review of the past year, as well as his predictions as to the coming year, have already cleared the somewhat clouded air of the business world.

The feature of Mr. White's budget was his reaffirmation of the principles of the National policy as the main plank in the policy of the Conservative party. Reasonable and yet moderate protection for native industries, including protection for the basic industry of agriculture, was the principle outlined by Mr. White. Yet he pointed out that this did not mean that individual duties might not be lowered or abolished when the public interest required it.

Finally Means Free Trade.

Mr. White threw down the gage of battle to the Liberals on the policy and emphasised the fact that either free food or free agricultural implements meant in the end free trade. In making his tariff changes Mr. White has carried out the principles he enunciated.

AND THE SCHOOL BOARD SANG 'FOR HE'S A JOLLY GOOD FELLOW'

In Honor of L. M. Hayes, K. C. Now Senior Judge for Wellington County--Board of Education Met in Regular Monthly Session Last Night

The members of the Board of Education last evening indulged in vocal exercises, and rendered with commendable vim the stirring old chorus "For Hejs a jolly good fellow, and so say all of us," in honor of Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., who severed his 19 years connection with the Board necessitated by his recent appointment as Senior Judge of Wellington County.

Mr. Hayes had sent in his written resignation as member of the Board of Education early in the evening, and just prior to adjournment. Chairman Dr. Morrison rose and expressed his happiness at the recognition of Mr. Hayes' marked ability demonstrated in his appointment as Senior Judge for Wellington County, coupled with regret at his consequent severance from the Board after 19 years active and appreciated service in the peoples' interests. He felt sure he was only voicing the sentiments of his colleagues in wishing Judge Hayes good health and long life in the honorable position to which he has been elevated.

Mr. W. H. Hill spoke in a similar strain.

The Board here rose and tendered Mr. Hayes the following resolution of congratulations and regret, moved by Mr. W. H. Hill and seconded by Dr. Burnham:

"That this Board extends hearty congratulations to Mr. L. M. Hayes K.C., one of its members who has been appointed to the honorable and responsible position of Senior Judge of the County of Wellington. Mr. Hayes has been a member of this Board for over 19 years, Chairman of the Board, and for several years Chairman of the Finance Committee. And as a member and as chairman, and in other official positions on the Board, he has given valuable service to the schools of the city and to the people. We regret very much that Mr. Hayes will sever his connection with the Board, and will leave the city, as his excellent advice and aid have been of great service to the Board, and his thoroughly genial disposition and stirling qualities have made him a highly esteemed citizen."

The Board here united in singing with heart and voice "For he's a jolly good fellow," followed with three hearty cheers for the new judge. And this journal wishes to place on record its awakening to the fact that the Board must be taken as seriously in their vocal qualifications as in their capacity for business. Mr. John Crane led the choristers to very acceptable effect.

The retiring member, Judge Hayes, on rising to acknowledge his colleagues' graciously voiced congratulations, expressed his astonishment at learning at the eleventh hour of his 19 years' membership the marked vocal talent of the members of the Board of Education. From the bottom of his heart he thanked the various Chairmen and members for the fullest measure of kindness and courtesy extended him at all times; and

It's True

"Speaking of the harmful effects of baker's white bread, Dr. Edson Smith says:—'Baker's bread is an abomination to the stomach. Its fine flour, its yeast and its undextrinized starch make it largely undigestible. Only the well baked outer crust is fit to eat.'"
(Rutledge Rutherford in Nat'l Food Magazine, February, 1912.)

Some 17 years ago there was originated a food designed to avoid the objectionable qualities of white flour products.

That food is

Grape-Nuts

It established a standard of digestibility and food value hitherto unapproached in any cereal food.

This object was attained--

By building Grape-Nuts from the two greatest of food-grains — wheat and barley — and baking and rebaking it until the starchy parts were converted into dextrose (grape-sugar) or so thoroughly dextrinized as to require but little effort to digest.

Grape-Nuts digests usually in about one hour
(White Bread requires about 3 1-2 hours for digestion)

In the milling of white flour, nearly all the "vital" mineral salts of the grain (such as phosporus, lime, iron, sulphur, etc.) are thrown out with the bran-coat just to make the flour look white and pretty.

These phosphates or mineral salts, are positively demanded by Nature in order to build normal bodies, brains and nerves, and in their lack physicians find one great cause of impoverished blood, listlessness, nervous prostration, kidney disease, etc.

Grape-Nuts, on the other hand, retains ALL the vital phosphates so richly grown by Nature in wheat and barley, as well as ALL the other nutritive elements of the grains. It provides these well-balanced values in a convenient, appetizing food, ready to eat from the package, fresh, crisp, and untouched by human hand.

A ration of Grape-Nuts with regular meals supplies admirably what white bread lacks.

"There's a Reason" for Grape-Nuts

"Magic" Cloths.

Many housewives gladly pay 25 cents for so called "magic" cloths, as they are very useful for silver and other metals. Being dry, they do not soil the hands or clothing and do their work until the cloth itself wears out. To make such a cloth take one quart of gasoline, one-half pound of whiting and one-eighth ounce of oleic acid, mixing all together and shaking well. Soak pieces of woolen cloth in the mixture and hang them in the open air in a shady place to dry. When the cloths are dry the "magic" qualities have been given to them, and these they will never lose. The material must be wool.—New York Globe.

Marvels of India.

What a wonderful country is India! There is only one India. Its marvels are its own. There is the plague, the black death. India invented it. The car of Juggernaut was also India's invention. So was the suttee, and within the time of men still living 800 widows willingly and, in fact rejoicingly burned themselves to death on the bodies of their dead husbands in a single year. And 800 would do it this year if the British government would let them. Famine belongs especially to India. India has 2,000,000 gods and worships them all. On top of all this she is the mother and home of that wonder of wonders, caste, and also that mystery of mysteries, the Satanic Brotherhood of the Thugs.—Churchman.

Ere long at the dawn will go long from

But not without plenty of noise,
And some will exclaim as they listen,
"Alas,
Late napping has lost all its joys!"

NEW TENNIS STAR

Girl of Fifteen Who Plays a Remarkable Game

A new star has risen in the lawn tennis firmament, in the person of Mlle. Suzanne Longlen, a fair-haired girl of fifteen, who has had remarkable success against older players in recent International Tournaments on the Riviera. Mlle. Longlen won the Singles and the Doubles Provincial Championships of Picardy. Soon afterwards she took the Lille International Cup. She was the first French lady player to win the Le Touquet Cup and this year she has already won the Singles and Mixed Doubles Championships of the Nice Lawn Tennis Club and of the Carlton Club, with Mr. Wilding, the British amateur champion, as her partner; and also the Beau Site Cup at Cannes. She is described as a strong player with a sound return. Her volleying is well placed; her smash is first class; she is good at the net; her endurance is remarkable, as when she won a match which lasted 3½ hours against Mrs. [illegible], lady champion of Wales, at Wimereux.

LIFE IN AN ICE HOUSE

Frozen Champagne; Lard and Butter Eaten Like Apples

An enlightening glimpse of what life in the Antarctic is like was afforded by Surgeon Murray Levick, a member of Captain Scott's expedition, in the course of an address at the hall of the Royal Society of Medicine, London.

He told how his party lived for seven months in an igloo—a hut built out of a hard snow-drift, with walls of ice. They lived in a still atmosphere underground, where there was not sufficient oxygen to support the combustion of a lamp, or even a match. This was caused by a blizzard and snow-drift, which had clogged the entrance to the igloo, and proved that far less oxygen was required to support life in a cold atmosphere than in great heat.

In winter the air in South Polar regions was fairly still. At other times the seas were terrific, and great boulders were rolled up on the beach. Ice formed on the sea with great rapidity and when the temperature was fairly low a couple of days was sufficient to form ice eighteen inches thick. A bottle of champagne which was broken frozen, and crystals of coloring matter were formed which remained insoluble when the champagne was thawed.

The lecturer gave an amusing account of the satisfaction with which a hut was discovered with an abundance of biscuits, lard, butter, chocolate, and "hoosh" (pemmican and oatmeal), and the ravenous manner in which some of the party feasted upon the good things. They ate the frozen lard and butter as if they were apples, but none suffered from indigestion.

Cleaning Gas Mantles

A good way to clean gas mantles or gas burners that are blackened by carbon deposits is to sprinkle sodium chloride or "salt" upon them while burning. This causes the carbon to burn away and prolongs the life of the mantle and increases the efficiency of the light or burner.

When making blue-water for clothes, add a little salt to it. This distributes the color deeply and prevents "patches."

KITCHEN HELPS

To remove egg stains from silver apply table salt with a wet cloth.

To remove the odor of fish from silver knives or forks or from cooking utensils, allow to stand in cold water before washing.

When the lower ends of your window blinds get soiled and cracked, take them off the rollers, turn them the other end up, then tack on again nicely and they will last for a long time.

A few drops of turpentine on a woollen cloth will clean tan shoes very well. A drop or two of orange or lemon juice will give a brilliant polish to any leather.

A simple and quick way to clean knobs, lamps or other fixtures of brass is to use a mixture made by dissolving in one pint of vinegar four heaping tablespoonfuls of salt. This compound is harmless and leaves no scratches.

To prevent milk or foods cooked with milk from burning rinse the saucepan with cold water and rub with a little fresh butter or lard.

To remove egg from dishes, sprinkle with salt and rub well before washing.

When oil lamps are used they should be very carefully cleaned at least once a week. A lamp whose air ducts are clogged with dust becomes overheated and an explosion will follow. Lamp filling should be a part of the morning's work, and then it should be done as far from the stove as possible. Gasoline or oil stoves should be filled between meals, and not when the stove is warm from a recently extinguished fire.

Origin of Greenbacks

Few people, perhaps, are aware why the national American currency is printed with green backs. Ever since the adoption of paper currency it has been the constant study of bank-note engravers to get up some plan of printing bills that could not be counterfeited. In this they only partly succeeded till late in 1857, when a man named [illegible] invented a kind of green ink, which he patented June 30th of that year. It is called anti-photographic ink, because it cannot be photographed and cannot be dislodged with alkalies by counterfeiters to get a complete facsimile of the bills. And it is a secret known only to the American Bank Note Company and the inventor. It is impossible to counterfeit the greenback money.

Even if the composition of the ink was known, it would be of no use, as the work could not be copied from the genuine bills with any other kind of ink.

A Long Acquaintance

A celebrated actress tells an amusing story of a young "nut" who fell in love with a certain leading lady who was appearing in a provincial town. He sought out the manager of the company—a fine-looking, bearded man—and tried to get an introduction to the lady. "I expect you, who see her so often, are very fond of her?" he suggested. The manager admitted that he was; he had known her for a long time. "But it can't be so very long," protested the other; "she's little more than a girl." "Well, I've known her ever since I was born!" replied the manager. "You see, I'm her son!"

MAKING SHIRTWAISTS

The Home Dressmaker Can Find Many Aids in the Stores

The home maker of shirtwaists could gain [illegible] if she only knows how to go to work to get them. The woman who is teaching herself to sew, or who has never been able to teach herself to give the right finishing touch to the dressmaking she does, should go to the tulle and net frilling and [illegible] shops to make the shirtwaist she evolves look finished.

There are many good ways of finishing the neck line. The slightly pointed V line in the front is a good one to follow, because it is easy to manage—and, incidentally, becoming to most faces. And it is this neck line that is most easily finished with some sort of frill or ruche.

The home maker of shirtwaists should always avoid a tight appearance where the V-necked shirtwaist closes. Nothing is more ugly than a V-neck that pulls tightly about the neck and makes the neck bulge.

There should always be some sort of ruching or bow to finish the neck in the front. These finishes cover up any defects at the neck.

Never use a ball and socket fastener at the neck, or at any other point where there is a strain on the opening. A hook and eye is much better, because it holds securely.

If you are making a silk or crepe de chine or chiffon waist, you can gain time and style by buying a little net or lace vest or guimpe ready made. Little undersleeves can also be bought to fasten in silk or chiffon waists. Net, chiffon, and tulle shirred suitably for sleeves can also be bought by the yard. This net sleeve material simplifies the task of waist making, for next to the neck the sleeves come in importance.

Link With Dickens

There is living in Melbourne an old man named Woolcott, who when a boy was a "copy-holder" at Messrs. Chapman and Hall's when "The Pickwick Papers" were published as a serial story in monthly parts. Woolcott, who emigrated in 1851, says he carried Dickens's manuscript about a dozen times, and sometimes returned it for correction. "It was wrapped in brown paper, loosely tied with string. I remember on one occasion that I dared to untie the string and read the story. It was at that glorious scene between Sam Weller and his father, when Sam reads out his valentine."

A SOFT, FINE MUSLIN USED FOR MANY OF THE NEW COLLARS.

There is something unusually dainty and pleasing about the crisp, white materials that are so much used for collars this season; organdy, muslin, batiste, etc. They lend a becoming note to the most sombre frock and brighten its up quite wonderfully.

Some of these collars are starched slightly, especially for the more tailored frocks; others are wired at the corners, and still others fall softly over another collar of the material of the dress or suit.

Silks are much in favor for all dress purposes this season, but there are also some very attractive new tailleur-cloths, gabardine, chutedo, Dauville suitings, etc.

The costume shown in No. 8297 is developed in plain black taffetas with the overblouse of silk crepe in which there is a small colored figure; the underblouse is of plain net and the wired collar is of sheer muslin.

Taffetas may be purchased from $1.50 a yard and up and silk crepe averages about the same. This frock requires for size 36, about 4½ yards of 36 inch material. No. 8279 shows the effectiveness of one of the new checked serges trimmed with black satin. The vest is of fine batiste.

To make this dress in size 36 requires 6¾ yards of 36 inch material.

MANY OF THE NEW GOWNS FOR AFTERNOON ARE QUITE DRESSY ENOUGH FOR SMALL DINNERS.

Afternoon dancing has brought into vogue an afternoon frock entirely different from that worn a few seasons ago. Many fetching draperies are introduced to allow freedom for dancing, and materials are flimsy and light weight.

Taffetas lead, but there are many other charming silks that are also popular and attractive. Among the new Spring weaves are China and Indian silks, Divette satin and the numerous new art crepes which are being so much used in combination with plain silks.

This costume requires for size 36 5¾ yards of 36 inch material.

BEECHER'S FARM CREED

We believe that our soil loves to eat, as well as its owner, and ought therefore to be liberally fed.

We believe in large crops which leave the land better than they found it—making the farmer and the farm both glad at once.

We believe in going to the bottom of things, and, therefore, in deep ploughing and enough of it. All the better with a subsoil plough.

We believe that every farm should own a good farmer.

We believe that the best fertilizer for any soil is spirit of industry, enterprise and intelligence. Without this, lime and gypsum, bones and green manure, marl and guano will be of little use.

We believe in good fences, good barns, good farm houses, good stock, good orchards and children enough to gather the fruit.

We firmly disbelieve in farmers that will not improve; in farms that grow poorer every year; in starving cattle; in farmers' boys turning into clerks and merchants; in farmers' daughters unwilling to work, and in all farmers ashamed of their vocation or who drink whiskey until honest people are ashamed of them.—Henry Ward Beecher.

OUR POINT OF VIEW

The chronic knocker is also an optimist it seems, because nothing discourages him enough to make him stop knocking.

VANISHING ARMY OF THE UNEMPLOYED

A house to house canvass in the five boroughs of New York City has just demonstrated that the number of persons seeking employment there is about one-fourth as great as sensational reports of a month ago declared. At that time the army of unemployed was placed at 350,000 for New York City. The canvass referred to indicates that there are about 90,000 men and women actually looking for positions there.

There is reason to believe that what is left of the unemployment problem is being solved rapidly by the business revival taking place throughout the country. The agricultural districts, not only in the United States but also in Canada, are nearly ready to make their annual call for tens of thousands of workers, and reports from the manufacturing centres are to the effect that operations are fast resuming conditions peculiar to periods of great prosperity.

It appears that workers engaged in occupations the activities of which cease during the winter season, are the chief recruits to the present army of the unemployment. While their plight excites general sympathy it it no evidence of unusual industrial depression, and social experts are engaged in an effort to solve the problem presented by these seasonable occupations. It may be that before another winter comes we shall know better how to provide for the man whose job vanishes at the approach of bad weather.

Pleurisy Pains Vanish! Chest Colds Cured!

NERVILINE HAS NEVER FAILED TO CURE

Don't suffer!

Nerviline is your relief.

Nerviline just rubbed on, lots of it, will ease that drawn, tight feeling over your ribs, will destroy the pain, will have you smiling and happy in no time.

"I caught cold last week while motoring," writes P.T. Mallery, from Linden. "My chest was full of congestion, my throat was mighty sore, and I had the fiercest stitch in my side you could imagine. As a boy I was accustomed to have my mother use Nerviline for all our minor ailments, and remembering what confidence she had in Nerviline, I sent out for a bottle at once. Between noon and eight o'clock I had a whole bottle rubbed on, and then got into a perspiration under the blankets. This drove the Nerviline in good and deep, and I woke up next morning fresh as a dollar and absolutely cured. Nerviline is now always part of my travelling kit, and I will never be without it."

The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical, or you can easily get the 25c. trial size from any dealer.

SELF-STYLED WOULD-BE BRIDE GETS TWO YEARS

Chicago, April 6.—August Pajonk, who under the names of "Mrs. Anna Schwarts" and "Miss Eva Kline," masqueraded as a marriageable woman who would bring beauty and wealth to her husband, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for using the mails to defraud.

In addition to obtaining more than $3000 from men who believed they could marry the original of attractive photographs sent by Pojonk, the defendant obtained much money through mail orders for choice geraniums which never grew.

The matrimonial venture was staged in Pittsburg and the fictitious geranium bed was a suburb of Chicago, where Jajonk lived for a time.

ORLEANS DOCTORS TRY TO SAVE CHILD WITH BROKEN NECK

James Taylor, in Charity Hospital, May Survive Usually Fatal Injury

New Orleans, April 7.—Efforts to save the life of a 18-year-old child, who broke its neck Tuesday morning from a fall from a waggon are being made in the Charity Hospital with every chance, it is believed, of the surgeons winning out.

James Taylor, whose home is at 1022 Burgundy street is the child over which the fight is being waged. His neck is fractured at the 6th cervical vertebrae. The spinal cord is but slightly affected.

The relieve pressure on the vertebrae and permit the broken pieces to rest again in their regular position, heavy weights attached to cords at the foot and head of the bed draw upon the child's feet and head, the latter being placed in a sling.

SAWS THROUGH 7 IRON BARS OF JAIL; ESCAPES

Vidalia, La., April 7.—V.B. Hawthorne sawed through eight iron bars to freedom from the Vidalia jail some time yesterday, and officers are without a clue to his whereabouts.

A steel saw was smuggled into his cell. Chains from the wall cot were made into a rope on which he slid to the ground, a blanket being used to keep the chains from making a noise. Hawthorne left a letter to Jailer Cross and one to his wife and children. He was convicted of cattle stealing about six months ago and was awaiting appeal of his case to the supreme court.

THE SCHOOL BOARD SANG 'FOR HE'S A JOLLY GOOD FELLOW'

his best wishes will always be with them, in the future as in the past. Peterborough's Board of Education, his honor said, has always been composed of gentlemen best qualified to serve the educational interests of the city. This is generally recognized by citizens as a result of which recognition many are returned to office year after year. He was quite touched by the Board's flattering congratulations and hoped in time to come to meet its members on various occasions. In conclusion of a very appropriate response Judge Hayes looked for a continued connection with Peterborough and its citizens, at least during the summer months. (Applause).

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

The Board met in regular monthly session last evening at 7.40, Chairman Dr. Morrison presiding. There were also present Dr. Burnham, and Messrs. L. M. Hayes, John Crane, J. J. Turner Jr. J. Smith W. H. Hill V. Eastwood, B. F. Ackerman.

H. R. H. Kenner wrote that F. J. A. Morris, M.A., had presented a collection of 40 specimens of Canadian ferns to the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Wil, be acknowledged by tendering a vote of thanks.

In reference to the Peterborough Light and Power Company's claim that the school board should pay for the burning out of the transformer at the East City School, the company furnished affidavits from two of their employes to the effect that the transformer's burning out was due to connections for light having been improperly made by an employee of Board of Education, named Hicks—Referred to the Building Committee.

INSURANCE ON NEW SCHOOLS.

Mr. V. Eastwood reported that arrangements are in hand for placing an additional $10,000 on each of the two new schools and $2,000 on the contents of each school. This report was adopted.

TECHNICAL ASSOCIATION MEETING.

Mr. V. Eastwood was deputed to attend the meeting of the Technical Association in Toronto.

CONVENTION OF TRUSTEES.

As many of the members as possible will attend the annual convention of Provincial School Trustees in Toronto next week.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

The High School Inspector's report of his inspection of the Collegiate Institute was highly gratifying, reflecting great credit on Principal Kenner, his staff, the Board and all concerned, with but two minor exceptions all grading in the report is number one.

NEW TYPEWRITERS WANTED.

Mr. John Crane submitted that new typewriters are wanted for the Commercial Form in the Collegiate Institute. An offer is to hand from the Underwood people to take the 9 old machines now in use and furnish 10 new machines of the latest model at a price of $7.50 each.

Mr. Hill favored more than one type of machine being used in the Institute. He suggested that the Monarch people be invited to furnish 5 machines on the same terms and conditions as offered by the Underwood firm. This would provide 5 each of two different types of machine.

On motion of Mr. Hill and Dr. Burnham, this matter was referred to the chairman of the Supervision Committee for enquiry and to report. The Oliver machine was also advanced as a desirable one.

GRANT TO ART DEPARTMENT.

On motion of Mr. Crane, a grant of $15 was made the art department of the Collegiate Institute for supplies.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. J. J. Turner was granted a months' leave of absence

The Board adjourned.

Hustled By Working Girls.

Cork, April 6.—The girls working in the flax mills at Blackpool, in this county, yesterday mauled a crowd of militant suffragettes who were attempting to do some proselytising to the cause. The girls tore off the hats and coats of the Suffragettes and hustled them around in lively fashion. The militants were punched, pinched, and scratched, and were finally chased away from the mills. One Suffragette was so badly injured she had to be taken to the hospital.

MACKENZIE AND MANN SELLING OUT TO J.J. HILL, OTTAWA HEARS

Sensational Story Based on Presence of Sir William and Mr. Hill in New York

Ottawa, April 7.—There was a sensational story at Ottawa to-day that Mackenzie & Mann were negotiating with J. J. Hill, head of the Great Northern Railway, to take over their whole Canadian Northern System. Sir William Mackenzie was in New York to-day, and this was probably the cause of the rumor. The story was not given much credence in Government circles.

However, it was stated, there might be stranger things happen than the railroad wizard of the Western States coming to the rescue of the C.N.R. system and taking over the Canadian line. It is well known that for years Mr. Hill has cast envious eyes upon Western Canada.

Promised Western Line.

Several years ago, Mr. Hill visited Winnipeg and made a public announcement that he intended to build another system across the Western Prairies and through to the coast. However, his plans did not materialize. That he has never given up his ambitions is well known and in recent years he has built a number of branches in Western Canada, while he has an entrance into British Columbia. It is a question whether he would want the Eastern section of the C.N.R. system, as he has never endeavored to invade the Eastern field. Nothing is known of the story in official circles, and it is not taken very seriously.

TORREON CAPTURED WITH HEAVY LOSES

Greatest Battle Modern Mexico Has Seen Cost Fifteen Hundred Lives

Lorreon Mexico, April 3.—Torreon strewn with wounded and dead of a six day battle was occupied by the rebels last night on the heels of the fleeing Federals.

In all the fighting no foreigner was killed or injured. The taking of Torreon marks the climax of the first campaign of the revolution to oust Victoriano Huerta from Mexico City. It gives the Constitutionalists virtual control over the whole northern tier of Mexican States.

The fighting began last Friday and was almost continuous. At first Villa attempted assaults on the strong Federal positions in daylight, but these proved costly, so the days were spent in cannonading and the nights in assults.

1,500 Killed; 4,000 Wounded.

Positions were taken and lost time and again. Sevral night attacks sent the Federals scurrying from strong positions but at daybreak the captors would be compelled to abandon them by the strength and accuracy of the enemy's artillery fire, much of which is said to have been directed by French and German gunners.

Losses have not been compiled but Gen. Villa estimates his own losses at 500 killed and 1,500 wounded, and the Federal loss at 1,000 killed and 2,500 wounded, with an unknown number of prisoners.

100,000 Men Engaged.

Villa believes that Federals whom his cavalary is pursuing to the south forms but a remnant of the Federal force, whose loss, he says, probably is close to being total.

The battle line was four miles long and the field was determined by three great hills formed like a carpenter's square, as either end of which lay the towns of Gomez Palacio and Torreon.

There were about 50,000 men in each army. The Federals had fortified the hills with rifle pits trenches and barb wire entanglements. The nature of the ground made it difficult to recover the wounded and many of them died of thirst and hunger or lack of attention where they fell.

Hand to Hand Fighting.

Automobiles were used in rescue work, but they could not ascend the hillsides.

Some of the fiercest fighting occured in the hills south of Gomez Palacio, and west of Torreon. It raged with great fury in Canon de Huarache where the Federals made their last desperate stand and from which they finally filed, followed by column of Villa's horses. Twice the rebels took to the hills, only to lose them but all the taime the attack was becoming more formidable as the soldiers attacking from all sides except the west, fighting from house to house drew the circle closer about the enemy.

WAR AGAINST ORINENTALS SEPARATE SCHOOLS PROPOSED

Vancouver City Council Instructs Education Board to Segregate Yellow Pupils

Vancouver, April 7.—Prevailing feeling against the Orientals resulting from the murder of Mrs. Charles Millard caused the City Council to take action.

According to a resolution unanimously adopted the board of school trustees will be instructed to-day to make provision for the erection of a new school house for Oriental children, so as to obviate the necessity of the whites coming into contact with them and learning evil habits.

The case of the boy Jack Kong, murderer of Mrs. Millard, was given as an instance of a scholar attending one of the public schools and daily coming into contact with white children. At the same time a resolution was adopted pledging the City Council to give contracts for supplies only to those firms who employed white men, only provided that their terms were on a level with firms who employed Oriental labor.

The police have information to-day that Kong is nearer twenty years old than seventeen as reported, and it has been learned that while attending public school he was already one of the most active members in a secret organization of Chinese, the object of which was to promote anarchy and teach Communism.

He is said to have been a great admirer of exploits of White Wolf, the famous Chinese brigand.

A scheme is on foot for the acquisition of a common hall for the guilds over fifty in number that are not possessed of houses.

"Sill" Boxes for the Home Plant Lover

By Ann Marie Lloyd

ALL the world falls victim to the lure of the springtime. Sky-scraping piles of bricks and stones and mortar fail to shut out the call of Mother Nature, and when the brown earth awakens there comes a common yearning in the hearts of all humanity to go forth and make the waste places bloom. It is a longing for "something green and growing, something sweet and blowing."

In other words, we wish we could take a day off and make a garden. Unhappily, gardens do not thrive in the scheme of urban progress, and the city dweller has small chance to see the tiny brown seed which he drops in the carefully prepared soil spring up and put forth its tender leaves and grow through flowering to fruition. Still it is always possible, granted one window with a medium amount of sun, to have a window garden, and the garden may grow with the window space.

One naturally thinks of the familiar pot of geraniums when one has limited space, and for the woman who has also little time to give to window gardens the geranium proves most satisfactory. Perhaps for the average window box, combined with ivy it is the wisest choice. It is bright and cheerful. But there are many other plants which thrive and give generous return for care.

Nasturtiums can be grown in pots and boxes in the window, and if the blossoms are kept picked as one would do with plants grown out of doors there will always be enough for a bright bouquet on the table and more blooms on the way.

Nasturtiums are such sturdy, friendly flowers. For house culture one has choice of the climbing and the dwarf varieties. The former will cling to cords or wire netting and make an attractive frame for the window, but in most cases the dwarf varieties will give more pleasure.

During recent years the nasturtium has been brought to splendid perfection, and may be found in a wonderful range of colors, from nearly white, through the yellows to the deep orange and bronzes, and through rose to the deep rich maroons, that seem almost black, and with variegations of all the shades. There are also the dark-leaved and the ivy-leaved varieties which make the window boxes doubly attractive.

A light soil, and not too rich, is best for nasturtiums, and there should be plenty of water during the blossoming period.

Pansies, their dear, little, thoughtful faces seeming like real friends and companions, thrive well in windows, and do not require a great deal of sun. They are rather modest and like cool moist shade for their portion. The soil must be well enriched, and fine ground bone which is for sale in all seed stores is the best fertilizer. If one wishes to have pansies bloom during the summer then the plants must be bought. Seeds planted this spring will give forth autumn flowers.

Petunias are merry little blossoms with a pungent odor which is pleasing. They require little care. If one does not care for the ivy in the geranium boxes, petunias will form a border, but the artistic eye is apt to be disturbed by the clashing of colors.

Berry Delicacies

By May Eldridge

GOOSEBERRIES have not been generally appreciated by the average cook since the days of our grandmothers, when the gooseberry tart was a delicacy which inspired poets to sing its praises in rapturous metre.

There are several ways of making gooseberry preserves. Some of the recipes turn out most delicious concoctions, but they are too rich for the simple palate.

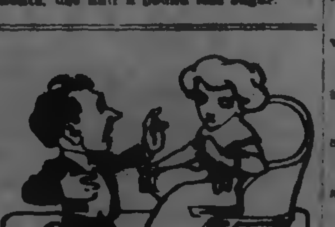
Here are two gooseberry sweets which have the merit of being "just right" for the average household.

Gooseberry Preserves.

Remove the outer yellow rind of three oranges, being most particular not to get any of the inner white skin, which is both tough and acrid. Cut the fruit in halves and squeeze the juice by means of a glass lemon squeezer. Pick over five pounds of gooseberries, which means to use only perfect fruit, and remove all the little stem ends. Take two pounds of seeded raisins and chop the orange peel, gooseberries and raisins fine. To this add the orange juice and four pounds of granulated sugar and simmer slowly until it is thick. Pour into jars.

Gooseberry Marmalade.

Carefully pick over three pounds of gooseberries which are not too ripe. Wash them and put on the fire with only sufficient water to keep them from sticking to the pan. After they have cooked about [illegible] minutes, add three pounds of granulated sugar and cook [illegible] minutes longer. If it is desired to have the marmalade more acid, and some persons like it to have an acid tang when it is to be an accompaniment of meats, use half a pound less sugar.



What She Demanded.

He—You are the incomparable Queen of Hearts. What can I do to win your love?

She—Agree to make me as incomparably the Queen of Diamonds.

THE HESITATION :: :: :: By Michelson

A LOVELY DANCE, the hesitation, with that eloquent and exquisite pause in it, adding a new grace to the old waltz. Sometimes there is an unintended and very clumsy hesitation in the dance, when dexterity is lacking. You may have been mixed up in this sort.

But the most painful hesitation continues to happen on the side lines. HERE is where you find hesitation and dexterity hand in hand.

O yes! She is HESITATING—and thinking quickly. For though the OTHER ONE will be there in a moment, this one is a very rich young man. He's worth millions and millions. Not that she would HAVE him for a billion. Of course not. But one is not rough with millions. One hesitates even when one finally suffers for the cause. It is all part of the trouble of being a girl.

THE doctor told me all about it yesterday, the Middle-aged Mania.

"Every man in the world has it," said the doctor; "some are decent enough to keep their heads comparatively steady, and some manage to get through the worst phases of them without letting any one know what's happening. But most men, when they get to be 40, are in line for an attack, and a violent, vicious attack, of the Middle-aged Mania! It comes on anywhere between 40 and 50, and it has ruined more lives and broken up more homes than any other form of insanity in the world—for it is a form of insanity, nothing more and nothing less.

"I had it when I was 42." The doctor took off his nose glasses, hung them on his thumb and fore-finger, leaned back in his chair and told me all about it.

"I fell in love," said the doctor, "with the girl who worked in my laboratory. She came up from the lower part of the town every day, and she wore, what I can see now, were the most outrageous clothes. She was little and squat and broad in the beam; she had a muddy skin, dreadful hands with fingers like sausages, and large, soulful eyes. There was a strange and haunting perfume about her that fairly intoxicated me. When I came out of my delirium I found that that perfume was made up of garlic, the smell of cooking, old clothes and various other like ingredients.

"I didn't know a thing except that I was in love with that girl. I followed her around like a dog. Her words were to me the inspired utterance of a prophet. Her stupidity I took for a kind of noble calm; her animal brutality I interpreted to mean the great primal forces working in a great primal nature. When she ate with her knife I called her my cave woman and wished I had never seen a fork.

"My poor wife was heart-broken. She begged with me, she pleaded, she tried to appeal to my sense of honor, to my sense of justice.

"I was a man, I told myself—a dominant male, and I was ruling my own roost in my own way; and I swaggered and strutted and bragged and made an absolute and complete idiot of myself for all the world to see.

"My poor wife almost died; it wasn't funny to her, it was a tragedy. Finally my father came to the rescue.

"'Don't grieve over this,' he told my wife, 'the poor fellow is crazy, that's all; he can't help it—any more than he could help the measles. Just humor him in his delusions; ask the girl to dinner; don't scold him when he sits and hangs on every word she utters. When you get so mad you can't stand it another minute come to me and explode.'

"They had the girl to dinner, and two or three times during the meal somebody at the table would have to get up and go into the other room—to laugh.

"My attack lasted over a year; the last symptom was the most terrible part of the whole thing. I hated my wife. She stood between me and my adored one. So I wouldn't live in the house with her. I wouldn't tolerate the companionship of one so sordid and so lost to all understanding of true romance.

"And then, one day—I awoke. The girl said something to me about my wife. She had said worse things—but this time it was different.

"My seizure was over. 'My girl,' I said, 'I am through with you—I'm going home.'

"And home I went, and my wife was there to meet me, bless her faithful heart. And since that day we have never known an hour's unhappiness."

When the doctor had gone I thought about what he had said.

The Middle-aged Mania—was that what made the man I know fall in love with a slab-sided, loose-jointed, absolutely unattractive young person who worked in the office with him? He wrote her poetry and he wrote her love letters; and finally he forced his wife, his good, faithful, loving little wife, to divorce him and take his three children and go away. He couldn't bear the sight of her, he said—and he seemed to love to say it.

But he was not a particularly well-to-do man, and the slab-sided girl had ambitions of her own; and when she found that she could marry the man if she wanted to, she didn't want to, and he came to out of his Middle-aged Mania and married his wife again, and they have been happy and contented ever since.

I'm glad my friend, the doctor, told me about the Middle-aged Mania. I wish he would sign up an engagement with the Chautauquas and go through the country and tell his story from coast to coast.

I believe it is more needed than any information on radium or on the true method of the treatment of hydrophobia.

Peculiarities of Genius

By Maggie Teyte

DEBUSSY is the most unreliable man when it is a question of public appearances. When engaged to play accompaniments at the piano, or to lead the orchestra, he is always late, and nine times out of ten he does not come at all. In Paris it is the invariable rule to have another accompanist or orchestra leader engaged in case Debussy should not turn up.

By some, Debussy is thought conceited, but this is not true except concerning his own music. In public he is the most modest and timid of men. His timidity and sensitiveness have made some people call him a poseur. He always refuses to take a curtain call and, almost childlike, he cannot be induced to budge from his corner, no matter how great the applause.

Debussy is a severe critic of those who interpret his works. I remember, at a concert given by the Cercle Musical in Paris, a pianist, who had been playing a number by Debussy quite acceptably, came out on the stage and expected a compliment from the master. Debussy remained silent and, not satisfied with his silence, the performer asked him if he was satisfied. Debussy replied that the interpretation was "impossible." I shall never forget the disconsolate expression on the face of the pianist as he heard his doom from the master.

Mme. Debussy always accompanies him to all his rehearsals and seems to have a sort of inspirational power over him. He always insists on being able to see her during both his rehearsals and performances, and very frequently the madame sits near enough to make suggestions. At times this is very hard on the chorus and orchestra. When they were rehearsing the "Chanson de Francois Villon" they were obliged to repeat a certain number of bars seven times before both the Debussys were entirely pleased.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Impulse to Healthy Life Strongest in May Days

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins)

DR. HIRSHBERG

WINTER is once more cradled in the third floor back. May, new born, leaps soon into oriental splendor from April's lap. Radiant with youth, voluptuous in her golden glow, sweet May will wave her magic charms over all.

Sobbing April, with her inflammatory fevers, her humid aches and pains, will be no more. The healthful bridal paths of June are soon to be trod.

Among the changing months, which turn a man's head and a maid's health, May stands confessed the sweetest and the healthfulest. Daisies peep from every field and violets yield their happy odors. Purple blossoms paint the thorns, lads tan and lassies blush.

The slow, sleepy, housed-up human inhabitant of the earth emerges like the bear, the insect and the groundhog from his stuffy germ-ridden winter home. He frees himself from the closely packed multitudes, the stale air of indoors, the steam-heated, coal-laden atmospheres and hies him forth to pastures green and open in sun-splashed air.

The day's harbinger, the morning star, tangoes from the eastern blue to lead the flowers of May across the green sward. Golden cowslips, pretty primroses, hail the health of bounteous May.

Inspired swains woo trembling maids, youth and mirth and warm desire fill the glens and forests, mountains and valleys, towns and villages.

May is the birthday of physical well being. Teeming vigor, masculine barbarity and girlish modesty were all born in May. The very air is redolent with the perfumes so enticing to youths of both sexes. Rainbow showers, crimson blossoms, blue buds and white woodbine fairly dazzle the healthful senses.

Why does order and perfection rule anew in May? How does it come about that the senses take in the world's objects and the product of human thought is greater and purer at this time of the year than at other times?

Plainly the answer lies in the observation that children see more clearly and with more accuracy, as well as less confusion than their elders.

The stirring physical stimulation and tonic which courses violently in your veins in May is analogous to the vigor of youth and the clear vision of childhood. Perhaps you are a bit less spiritual. None the less you are all the better physically, all the sounder in your senses of color, fragrance, tone, feelings and movements.

The bird soars more unerringly, the fisherman fishes more patiently, the lass allows her languishing eyes to linger more longingly, the athlete runs, jumps and throws the discus more skilfully, the laborer works more efficiently, now than at other seasons because the May-time elixir of youth is in his blood.

Mating and loving, the beating of two healthful souls with but a single flowery thought are the characteristic impulses of May.

S. T. V.—You say that linens and napkins are disease breeders. Please tell me what to use as substitutes.

Little tissue envelopes of absorbent cotton are now used in place of handkerchiefs. These are cast away after use. Paper napkins of softer texture and larger than those now in use are cleaner and more sanitary than the linen ones.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Miss Laurie:

I have had to quarrel with my friend, and really there is no reason for the quarrel. I was standing talking to another friend of mine when he came up to us and said the most insulting things he could say for no reason whatever. What do you think of a fellow like that? Do you suppose he is jealous, or what is the matter? Do you think I should write and ask him what is the matter or just let him stay mad?

ENQUIRER.

TIE up your hair on the tippy top of your head and tie it good and strong, little Enquirer. Tie up your trotty boots and go somewhere and have the finest dance you know. Sing, too, and shout for joy, for you are well rid and easily rid of the unbearable nuisance—for that's what the sensitive person always is.

What do I think of a fellow like that? Why, I think he's an impossible person, that's all, and a very rude and unpleasant one at that. If he's going to act like this before you're even formally engaged to him, what on earth would he do if you were married to him?

He'd have you locked up somewhere like a criminal and carry a stick to beat you into submission as if you were just a dog or some other sort of slave to him.

He isn't civilized. Maybe he can read or write, but that's just about as far as civilization has struck in with him.

Let your cave man go, little sister, back into his cave. He'll find some poor half-wit to go with him and live there cowed and terrified and trying to make herself believe that she is happy. You keep away from him and see that he keeps away from you—far, far away. There is such a thing as a policeman, you know, and one of the things a policeman is for is to take charge of just such people as that. The policeman is used to it; he arrests two or three dozen of them every day down in the tough parts of town where these primitive people live.

The next time the cave man tries to speak to you, pretend that you don't even see him. If he persists, tell him quite calmly that you do not like him and that you find him a great nuisance, and if he annoys you again you will call upon the police to protect you.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will [illegible] her, care this office.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

"WE are going to have more snow," said Mrs. Squirrel to Mister Squirrel one evening as she looked out of the window.

"How do you know?" asked Mr. Squirrel, as he joined his wife by the window.

"There is a big ring around the moon," said Mrs. Squirrel, putting her arms around her husband's neck.

"How observing you are!" exclaimed Mister Squirrel. "I should never have noticed the moon or the ring around it."

"I love to watch the moon," began Mrs. Squirrel. "It sails away high up in the sky, playing hide and seek with the clouds, and when the moon wishes to tell us of rain or snow it simply smiles and that makes a big ring around the moon, like you see tonight."

"Why does the moon smile when we are going to have snow?" asked Mister Squirrel. "Some people don't like snow."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Squirrel, "but the snow is very necessary. It makes a warm bed for the little seeds in the ground, and it nourishes them, too. The snow gathers all the strength from the air and gives it to the plants."

"What a wonderful wife you are!" exclaimed Mister Squirrel.

"You should study nature more," laughed Mrs. Squirrel.

"How do you know all those wonderful things?" asked Mister Squirrel, seating himself by the window and looking out at the moon.

"I have two eyes to see and a mind to understand," answered Mrs. Squirrel.

"I am going to keep my eyes open after this," said Mister Squirrel, as he [illegible] his good wife.

DO WOMEN TALK LESS

French Scientist Claims They Are Growing Silent

M. Dubudout, a French scientist, reported some startling facts which appear to show that the tendency of woman to talk is actually growing less, and that if this alarming decline keeps up the woman of a thousand years from now may be man's silent partner, speaking seldom and only when words are absolutely necessary.

"This strange change," he says, "can be explained in several ways. For that there has been a change I have no longer any doubt, after my extended observation, not only in France, but in England and America, Italy and Spain.

"Take, for instance, women in restaurants and at public places of all kinds, where they are seen freely moving about with men. Everywhere you see the men taking not only their own share in the conversation, but even leading it in many cases. At receptions, too, and at public dinners the fair sex seems, for some time now, to be letting the reins of conversation slip from their hands.

"One explanation of this queer state of affairs is that women, with their growing interest in outside doings, in business, and politics, and in the strenuous pursuit of careers independent of men, are becoming more and more self-absorbed. A woman whose mind is occupied with some burning question of the day, or who is greatly concerned over the success of her next business venture, or the popular approval of her latest book or picture, or song, is not nearly so likely to keep up a running fire of light conversation as her more care-free sister of twenty years ago.

"If the man she is with shows an inclination to talk, she is more than willing to let him. It gives her greater opportunity to follow out her own train of thought, while outwardly she pretends to drink in every word that he says."

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. MODERN WOMEN

Lecturer Declares That Sport is a Bad Marriage Market

Women will not be altogether flattered by some of the things that Dr. T. Claye Shaw had to say about them in the course of a lecture on "The Nervous Factor in Women's Health," at the Institute of Hygiene, London, England.

Dr. Shaw, who was formerly medical director of Banstead Asylum, said the type of woman had changed; she had become harder in feature and more wrinkled; her complexion was effected by her outdoor life; she was more independent; she had less reverence for authority, fewer home interests, and was less of a stay-at-home. If as seemed to be the case the women's desire was to be what men were, and to do what men did, then he thought he could see some reason for the present style of dress in women. Women seemed to be more indifferent than men to cold; anyhow, they went about in much thinner attire in cold weather and at night, and wore openwork stockings in the coldest and wettest weather!

"Sport is a bad marriage market," said Dr. Shaw; "the sporting girl becomes too like the man, and exposes her character to him too much. Besides, as a rule, she neglects her home. I am struck with the enormous number of 'beauty preservers.' Well, I see no harm in them, but it all points to vanity."

It had been said that suffragists who had done violent acts were insane or hysterical. Nothing of the kind. On the contrary, they had in a great measure got what they wanted. They had gone in for hunger-striking, and had been successful in obtaining their freedom. Did that look like insanity? It was, he added, of no use asking women to stay where they were, for the knowledge of success gave them thirst for more.

Oldest Canadian Papers

The oldest Canadian newspaper is the Quebec Chronicle, which was founded away back in 1764, just 150 years ago; next in order being the Montreal Gazette, founded in 1778. These two were older than the New York Globe, which comes third on the continent. Some other Canadian newspapers have reached the interesting age which requires three figures to record it, such as the Kingston Standard, founded in 1810; Montreal Herald, 1811; and the Acadian Recorder, 1813, of Halifax. The Kingston Standard is therefore the third oldest paper in Canada, and the oldest in the Province of Ontario.

OIL FOR FUEL

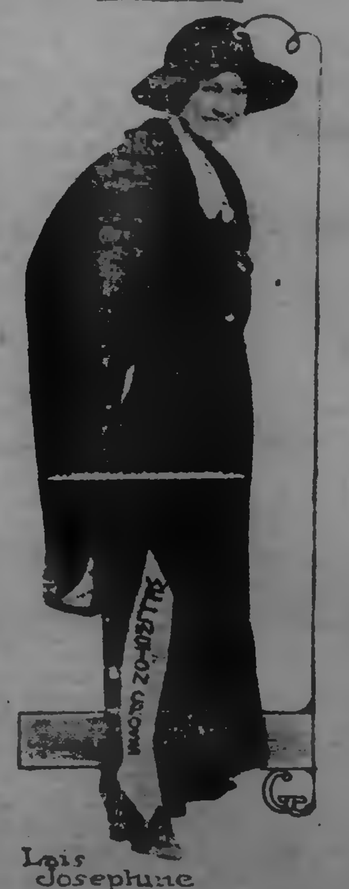
Speedily Replacing Coal on Pacific Coast Craft

That oil for fuel is speedily replacing coal on British Columbia harbor craft is a fact that is daily becoming more noticeable. Practically all the government vessels plying in and out of Canadian ports on the Pacific coast are using oil burners. The Marine Department was the first to make the change, while now the tug-boats, dredges, snag scows, tenders, etc., operated by the Department of Public Works in Vancouver and Victoria harbors, and on the Fraser River line, are experiencing a similar conversion.

It has been found that this is a change for greater efficiency and particularly in the operation of dredging machinery. A reduced payroll is noticeable in the hold of the vessels that have adopted the new system, about half the number of firemen being required as when coal was the steam producer. Of course, the adoption of oil has advanced its price. At the present time merchants are maintaining but a slight difference in the matter of cost between coal and oil. Nevertheless the marine yards at Esquimalt are doing a rushing business in the conversion into oil burners of a veritable fleet of dredges, tugs, and the like.

HOW TO BRING DOWN THE COST OF LIVING

In a book just issued, the problem of reducing the cost of living to families of small incomes, is discussed in a novel and very intelligent way, and the author proposes a solution at once practical and helpful. His scheme is based on careful study of conditions in the United States and in Europe, and he holds can be used with good results in any city, large or small. In brief, he suggests that the greatest possible freedom to use the city streets and open spaces should be permitted to open-air traders. These, he insists, are what citizens of small incomes need in order to be delivered from the burden of intolerably high prices. His call is for: (1.) Abundant street vending, free to all comers, limited in range only by necessary health laws and any higher social exigencies of traffic. (2.) Open-air markets to be held for a few hours semi-weekly or tri-weekly, in street or park or other public space, in any quarter where bodies of consumers may demand them; free to all venders of foodstuffs or manufactured articles of household or personal use. (3.) Existing public markets to be used to the fullest extent through all modern methods, auctioning, licensing the market commission man, selling by sample, ordering from producers for direct delivery and encouraging the attendance of local producers.



FIANCE'S NAME ON STOCKINGS

This freak of fashion reached this country from London via the vaudeville stage. The fad is for young women to have the name of their fiance or husband done in bright colored embroidery on their white silk stockings. Louis Josephine was one of the first to try to popularize the innovation.

PROBLEM OF FUTURE THAT OF PRODUCTION

Power of Credit One of the Greatest Forces in Industrial Life

Sir Edmund Walker, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in an address [illegible] system, said the frequent changes in the construction of the system have been made to secure a perfect system rather than for the sake of a more profitable franchise. "To my mind, no addition has meant added profits to the banks except that the better the bank act for the people the more business may be done under it," he said. "Not merely because modern democracy demands it, but because, from any point of consideration the wisest course, bankers in the study of whatever reforms are necessary in the respective systems under which they work think of their business as a more or less public service for the conduct of which they are responsible to the community in which they live, as well as to their shareholders." Sir Edmund alluded to the forces at work in the past ten years to build up a greater Canada, and stated that while their transportation had been the problem of the past, that of production would be the problem of the future, if Canada was to justify the money spent in developing the country. Aside from steam and electricity the greatest force that tended to improve the industrial side and to some extent the ethical side of the community was the power of credit.

Lemon Foam

Three eggs, whites only; two cups boiling water; the juice of two lemons; one cup sugar; two tablespoons corn starch and a pinch of salt.

Bring the water and sugar to the boil, add the corn starch after blending it in water, and the salt. Boil for five minutes, then add the juice of the lemons. After the mixture cools somewhat add the whites of the eggs, well beaten. Stir occasionally while cooling, and then pour into a mould. Make a boiled custard with the yokes of the eggs and serve with the foam. You can use the rind of the lemons in the custard if you like, but it would require to be strained.

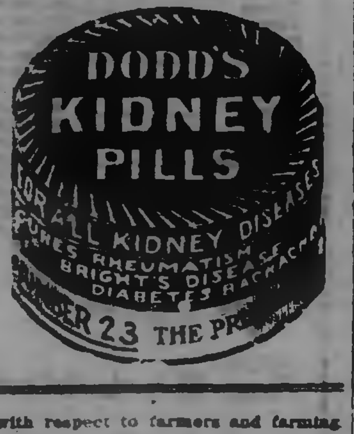
Steamed Pudding

Two eggs; small half cup of sugar; one half cup butter; three-fourths of a cup of flour; one small teaspoon soda. Beat the butter to a cream, add the sugar and soda, then the beaten eggs, afterwards a dessert spoonful of jam of any kind, and lastly the flour. Steam in a buttered mould for two and a half hours. Be sure and mix as directed.

FARM AND CITY

A Contrast of the Lives of Farmer and Citizen

Only those who have been reared on a farm, and who subsequently have entered commercial life, can properly appreciate the important difference between the mercantile and the agricultural methods of doing business. It is this very inability which leads to so many to erroneous conclusions with respect to farmers and farming. The ordinary business man lives two lives—one at his home, the other at his office. Practically all his daylight hours are spent at the factory, at the office or the store. These are remote from his home, and other activities all little known and less understood, in most cases, by those who comprise his family group. The home of the farmer, on the other hand, is his office, his laboratory, his club. All his activities centre round it and radiate from it. His plans are familiar to all his family and their progress watched with appreciative interest by every adult member of it. Details are discussed freely around the evening lamp, and thus from earliest childhood the members of the household become identified with parental plans in a manner impossible in any other calling. To this may be attributed in large measure that sober sense of responsibility which, more than mere physical fitness, gives the country boy pre-eminence in the larger sphere he may subsequently enter. It further explains, in some measure, the gratifying response to reputable advertisements in the farm press, for these are read and discussed, together with the problems with which the paper deals, and receive a sympathetic audience possible in few other publications.



PAY DAY ON A RAILWAY

An idea of the extent of the operations of a big railway may be gathered by a glance at pay day on the C.P.R., where is paid out over $6,000,000 in cheques, distributed over the system. By actual count this number with the growth of the system and the consequent need of more men, ever grows. A decade ago the total number of employes was something like 65,000. To-day it is over 120,000 in all grades of activity. It might be said that over 500,000 persons are directly interested in, and look forward to, the monthly pay day.

SAVING THE FRUIT TREES

Economy and Common Sense Will Keep up the Orchard

All old fruit trees when they cease to bear good crops of fruit should be grubbed and burned. To keep up the stock of fertile fruit trees there should always be young ones in course of preparation to take the place of those that are worn out, then when an orchard tree fails to bear, the young one can at once take its place. It should be understood, however, that when the old tree has been grubbed up, the soil in which it has been growing should be renewed, and if need be some rough material in the way of broken bricks, etc., put into the bottom to assist drainage if the subsoil is at all heavy and inclined to hold water. Those who like to do home grafting need never to be without young healthy trees. It may be pointed out that old trees must not be condemned until one is quite sure that they are past renewing, as many suffer from pure neglect in the way of food. Orchards in which cattle and sheep are allowed to graze are not so likely to fail, but when the grass is converted into hay and nothing in the shape of food is brought back then the trees must suffer and fail to crop. Orchard trees that are past recovery should be allowed further trial and rich top dressings given. In many of our farmyards drainings from the cowshed and stable are often allowed to run to waste, whereas these, if saved and diluted applied to such old trees, will work wonders. Sewage from the house and the soapsuds from the laundry may be profitably utilised in the same way.

MARVELOUS BALSAMIC ESSENCES CURE CATARRH NO DRUGS TO TAKE--A DIRECT BREATHING CURE

STATISTICS PROVE NINETY-SEVEN PER CENT OF CANADA'S POPULATION IS INFESTED WITH THE GERMS OF CATARRH

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence Catarrhal disease has become a national curse. Science is advancing every day and fortunately a remedy has been discovered that not only cures, but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhozone" has sufficient power to kill the germs of Bronchitis Catarrh and Asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of the nose, throat and lungs, carrying health-giving medication to every spot that is tainted or weak. You don't take Catarrhozone like cough mixture—you inhale its healing vapor at the mouth and it spreads all through the breathing organs, soothing and curing, wherever Catarrh exists. This is nature's way of supplying the richest balsams the purest antiseptics known to science.

A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes. A harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system.

For Asthma and Bronchial irritation nothing can equal Catarrhozone— every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment if suffering from any winter ill. The complete outfit costs $1.00, medium size 50c., at all dealers.

A Word in Season

123 leading doctors of London, Eng. have decided that "swatting" the fly is useless. They advocate rather destroy the fly's breeding places. This is good advice. Let every bald headed man in Peterborough who objects to flies playing tag on his cranium hunt up and report to Inspector Spence every spot they see where the pesky fly may breed.

Mr. Sandy Soon to Leave

Mr. Frank Sandy, local G.T.R. Agent, who has been transferred to the Lindsay branch, begins a week from to-day for the scene of his new activities. J.H. Burnham, M.P., of Peterborough will introduce the deputation.

A Steamboat Transfer.

Yesterday Mr. Elijah Windover, of Hall's Bridge, was in the city on business. In conversation with The Times he noted that a few days ago he purchased the trim little steam launch "Irma" from Mr. Thomas Sadler, of Fenelon Fal,s. This craft which is 31 feet long with 9 feet beam, will be used by Mr. Windover for towing purposes. She will be taken from her winter quarters at Fenelon Falls to the north country, as soon as the ice is out at Buckhorn lock.

A Progressive Englishman

Yesterday a man arrived in the city from dear old "Lunnon." A Times scribe, recognizing the man as a newly arrived 'immigrant, interviewed him. This recent addition to Peterborough's population quote somewhat thusly "Yes, Sir, I'm just from Lunnon. I drove a hansome there for years." "Was there any money in that business?" our scribe asked. "Why yes, if you use your wits. You know on a 'ansome we sits on a perch be'ind the conveyance. I pide 16 bob a dy for the ry. In the top of the 'ansome is a window fitted with 'inges. I used to take a piece of cloth and put it where the window opened so as to drawned all sound when I opened or closed it. On the Strand or fleet street I would meet me'chants buyers, etc, that I knew, accompanied by lydies from the 'alls." In every caise a'most the man would say, "Kebby I want to go to such or such a destination. Do you know 'oo I am?" "No Sir," I would sy!" I would then open the window and keep watch. When I brought them back, I would sy "thanks Mr. so and so." The passenger would then tip me a quid to keep me quiet.

THE REAL CAUSE OF MOST BAD COMPLEXIONS

It is a stern fact that no truly beautiful complexion ever came out of jars or bottles; the longer one uses cosmetics the worse the complexion becomes. Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must expel, through the pores, its share of the body's effete. Creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing. If more women understood this ,there would be fewer self-ruined complexions. If they would use ordinary mercolized wax instead of cosmetics, they would have natural healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin also unclogging the pores. Result: The fresher, younger under-skin is permitted to breathe and show itself. An exquisite new compl?xion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggist's and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream, for a week or so, washing it off mornings.

To eradicate wrinkles, here's a marvelously effective treatment which also acts naturally and harmlessly: Dissolve 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel and use as a wash lotion.

Some Important Facts about the Silver Black Fox Industry

The Motto of Every Canadian Should be "What We Have, We INTEND to Hold"

In so far as it applies to Canada's national wealth, our forests, and more particularly the protection of our fur-bearing animals, which, however, would soon become but evidence of a great past unless husbanded by the foresight of man.

To the foresight of Prince Edward Island's practical men two of the most famous of Canada's fur-bearing animals, the Black and Silver Fox, have been saved to future generations—and as a consequence Canada will unquestionably furnish the world's great demand in future, for this princely fur exceeds its weight in gold!

Concerted action by shrewd Canadians now engaged in this industry in Prince Edward Island will shortly control all the available Black and Silver Foxes wherever found on this continent, a fact generally conceded by persons in authority—consequently this announcement is of great interest to the careful investor and believer in Canada's vast Fur Wealth.

The first island ranch was started with two pairs of Anticosti Silvers, bought from a trapper for experimental purposes solely, and same proved so successful that the fox industry started to be developed.

In the year 1910 a pair of breeders could be bought for $4,000.00; in 1911 the price went to $6,000, a pair, during 1912 a pair at $10,000.00 was considered high but not unusual and at the time of writing (January 26, 1914) live breeders can bring any price from $15,000.00 to $35,000.00, according to fecundity, and options on the unborn of next year are selling for $12,000.00 a pair.

About $10,000.00 is said to be invested in the fox industry on Prince Edward Island, showing a gain of over $3,000,000 inside a year.

Official returns for the present year show that the 277 fox ranches on the Island contain 899 silver breeding foxes (441 males and 458 females). The total number of silver offspring for 1913 was 703, and the average assessed value was $4,592.52 per fox.

The total valuation of the young silver black foxes for the current year is $3,249,449. The total number of silver foxes in the ranches for 1913 is 1,603.

Pelts from ranch-bred Prince Edward Island silver black foxes have sold at the London auction sales as high as $2,600.00.

ASSETS OF THE COMPANY

The Company has TEN PAIRS of high-grade PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND silver black foxes, EIGHT PAIRS are now on the ranch and two pairs of breeders under option all are eligible for registration under the select class "A" of the FOX BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION. These foxes have been selected with special regard to parentage, and consist of the following well known strains:

Gordon, Dalton, Tuplin, Oulton, Raynor and Champion. These names are conspicuously prominent in the Fox Industry ranches which in 1913 paid from 45 per cent to 900 per cent.

THE INDUSTRY

No industry in recent years has made such wonderful strides as the Black-Silver Fox Industry, and the reason is that it offers larger financial returns than any other business in the Dominion. Moreover, its future possesses unlimited opportunities, as the demand is constantly increasing, while the supply has reached almost a minimum until a few companies undertook the breeding and rearing of these valuable animals. Everyone who is alive to the opportunities of enormous profits without risk will readily appreciate the advantages of investing in the R. J. McNeill Black and Silver Fox Company, Limited. It is a fact that every bona fide fox company organized within the Province of Prince Edward Island has paid dividends of from 45 per cent to 300 per cent and some companies have even done better than this.

ONLY ONE CLASS OF STOCK

There is only one class of stock fully paid and non-assessable. Every shareholder participates pro rata in all dividends paid by the Company, and the latter has no authority to issue either Preferred Stock or Bonds.

FUTURE POLICY

The Company expects to earn large profits from the sale of these rare black and silver foxes for breeding purposes, while each year a percentage of the production will be retained, placing the company in a position to pay large dividends from the sale of furs alone. The object of this policy is to place the fur farming industry on a substantial commercial basis.

THE COMPANY'S RANCH

The Company owns outright a fine 211-acre farm with complete farm buildings—one of the most up-to-date ranches on the Island. It has an experienced and highly skilled keeper whose services have largely contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the business.

Clerks in the employ of Sinclair and Stewart, a big dry goods house at Summerside, formed a silver fox company in 1912. This company is popularly referred to as the "Widows" Fox Company, as nearly all the stockholders are women, a dividend of 300 per cent was their reward.

Three sisters of Alberton, P.E.I. who were employed in the United States, sent their spare earnings home two years ago to be invested in the fur farming business and their profits have averaged $15,000 yearly since.

A bookkeeper in the employ of Mr. Fred L. Rogers, the Governor's son, of Alberton, invested $300 three years ago, and is now worth $45,000 directly from this source.

Mr. Frank Hall, clerk at Holman's, Limited, received $25,000 from an investment of $300 made in this business three years ago.

The Beaumont Live Stock Co. Limited, of Alberton, P. W. Turner, treasurer, has paid a dividend of 1,000 per cent this year.

Seven clerks and managers in Summerside pooled $300 each in 1910 and purchased a pair of silver foxes for $2,500. The seller, feeling that he had driven a splendid bargain, cared for the pair for a year. The first litter consisted of seven pups. The seven owners have received $225,000 each dividends since and the pair bought for $2,500 could be sold for $25,000 to-day. Mr. Austin Scales, of St. Eleanors, is a member of this Association.

HOW TO FREE THE SKIN OF UGLY, UNSIGHTLY HAIRS

The woman who values a beautiful complexion will not tolerate hairy or fuzzy growths on her face or neck — and she doesn't have to, for a paste made with some powdered delatone with water and spread on the offending hair about 2 or 3 minutes, when removed, will take every trace of hair with it. After this treatment the skin should be washed to remove the remaining paste. Be sure, however, that it is delatone you get.

Meridian, Miss., Police Suspect a Prominent Man—No Charges Made Yet

Meridian, Miss, April 7.—Miss Ruth Smith, apparently not over eighteen years old, of Bogalusa, La., is being detained by police, though not under arrest. Efforts are being made to find relatives.

Captain Hague Wood and Depot Policeman McGee rescued the girl from a house in the restricted district and she was put in charge of the management of the local hotel.

Miss Smith is described by the officers as a brunette, strikingly beautiful and intelligent. They say she looks to be about 16 years old, but that she claims to be 18 and declares her parents are dead.

LIBERAL SENATORS, MEMBERS, MUTINY OVER TARIFF PUZZLE

Failure to Announce Party's Position in Commons is the Talk of Ottawa

Ottawa, April 8.—Failure of the Liberals to agree upon any fiscal policy so as to be able to move an amendment to the budget is the talk of Ottawa to-day.

It has been known for some time that there has been a serious cleavage in the ranks of the Liberal party. There has been a bitter fight in progress between the Free Traders and Protectionists. For the time being at least the free trade wing has been in the ascendancy and they have forced the party to stand behind two free trade amendments this session, one in favor of free wheat and the other advocating free agricultural implements.

Party Panic Looms Up.

However, the defection of Sir Lyman Melvin Jones, the threat of other Liberals to follow, including some members of the House of Commons as well as Senators, if the party insist on adopting an out and out policy of free trade created a panic amongst the party leaders. An attempt was made to formulate a compromise amendment and announcement to the effect that Mr. A. K. Maclean would move an amendment was given out from Liberal headquarters. However, the tension was so acute and there was such difficulty in formulating a compromise that no amendment was moved.

AIRMEN HACKED TO DEATH ON DESERT

Moors Overcome Two Officers Who Had Alighted When Motor Gave Out.

Rabat, Morocco, April 8.—Captain Herve, a French Military aviator, and a lieutenant he was carrying as a passenger, were hacked to death today by insurgent Moors after they had escaped uninjured from an aeroplane accident in the desert.

Accident High in Air

The two officers were engaged in reconnoitring flight near Zemmour, when their motor became disabled while they were high in the air. The captain, however, piloted the machine safely in a gliding flight to earth.

Tortured, Then Slain.

Both alighted safely and were endeavoring to repair the defective motor when a band of Moors surrounded and seized them and after torturing them cut them up with swords and spears. The Moors also destroyed the aeroplane.

MR. GOODERHAM ADMITS THAT BILL IS AIMED AT 'PURCHASE'

Willing That Vote Should be Taken if Three-fifths of the Council Wish it

Toronto, April 8.—The Gooderham Bill to prohibit cities of one hundred thousand population or over from voting on money by-laws on any day except that on which the municipal elections are held, aroused considerable discussion in the municipal committee of the Legislature this morning. The question was not finally settled although all those interested were given a hearing. Hon W. J. Hanna, the chairman, adjourned the meeting on the understanding that the members of the committee would consider the bill before the next meeting and be ready then to say what was to be finally done with it.

Mayor Hocken, Controller McCarthy, Ald. Maguire and Ald. McBride and Corporation Counsel Geary appeared on behalf of the city.

Was Aimed at "Purchase."

The Mayor asked Mr. Geo. H. Gooderham if the bill was not aimed directly at the proposed purchase of the Toronto Street Railway and Toronto Electric Light Company, and the member for South Toronto admitted it was the suggestion that this question would be put to a vote of the people during the year, and not at the elections on New Year's Day that had influenced him in introducing his amendment to the Municipal Act. He did not want to tie the city's hands altogether, and suggested that an amendment might be made permitting a vote to be put to the people at a date other than on that on which the municipal elections were held if a three-fifths majority of the Council wished it. The member for South Toronto suggested also that the bill be generally applicable to all municipalities, no matter what their population.

NEGLIGENT LAWYER MAKES BIGAMIST OF WOMAN

New Orleans, April 8.—An example of what appears to be unconscious bigamy came to light on Saturday morning when Valle Carter complained to Superintendent Agnew of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, declaring that his wife had married another man without getting a full divorce from him. Carter said that he had been prevented from seeing his eleven year old son who is in one of the schools here.

Carter's former wife was brought into Superintendent Agnew's office. She brought with her a decree from Judge Theard, issued Jan. 7, 1909, giving her separation from bed and board, which is not full divorce. She said that she thought she was divorced from Carter.

"I am now married to Arthur Destor, a druggist, of 124 N. Carrollton avenue," she declared.

She said that she had married Destor in Mississippi.

Lawyer Fails to Get Divorce

Investigation into records of the Civil District Court show William B. Stringfellow, the attorney sent to penitentiary for embezzlement in juggling divorce fees, acted for Mrs. Carter-Destor when she obtained her decree of separation. The attorney was convicted shortly afterward and did not complete the necessary steps to get her an absolute divorce. Only an absolute divorce would carry with it the right to remarry.

When the papers were presented to Superintendent Agnew neither he nor the first husband of Valle Carter recognized the fault in the court decree.

Carter expressed surprise and told the authorities that he did not know that any proceedings had been brought against him by his wife, much less those of total divorce.

$600,000 DIVIDEND PAID BY ONE BANK

Pittsburg, April 8.—In order to avoid large participations in the federal reserve bank, soon to be organised under the new currency system, the German National Bank of Allegheny, today divided among its stockholders a dividend of 300 per cent, amounting to $600,000.

The bank had accumulated a surplus of $900,000 and as every national bank must subscribe to the stock of the federal reserve bank in proportion to its capital and surplus, it was decided to reduce the surplus. F. N. Hoffstot of New York is president of the bank.

FELL SEVENTY FEET TO SCHOOL BASEMENT

Accident at Ryerson Building May Have Fatal Consequences.

Toronto, April 8.—Injuries, that will probably prove fatal were sustained to-day by Jeremiah Gemmell, aged 52, married, of 28 Geneva avenue, when he fell a distance of about 70 feet from scaffolding at Ryerson school, St. Patrick street. Gemmell was employed by Marsham and Ireland, contractors, and was crossing the scaffold when a plank gave way and he fell to the main floor of the school, where he struck another scaffold and rebounding, crashed to the basement below.

Fellow workmen immediately ran to his assistance and extricated him from the planking. He was unconscious, and was removed to the Western Hospital. His injuries consist of a fractured hip, both legs broken and various minor cuts.

HAVE NO TIDINGS OF MISSING SEALER

Bellaventure Captain Saw Oars and Planks Not Off Southern Cross.

St. John's Nfld., April 8.—There was no news to-day of the Southern Cross and her crew of 173 men, Flotsam is occasionally sighted but it cannot be connected with the missing sealer.

Captain Parsons of the sealing steamer Bellaventure, said that oars and planks seen by him yesterday were at the entrance to this harbor and because of the adverse winds and currents of the past week could not have come from the Southern Cross, and he did not take the trouble to examine them. Similar pieces were thrown overboard by ships of the northern sealing fleet, with which he cruised.

THE GANNON'S NARROWS BRIDGE AND HOW IT HAS BEEN BUNGLED

"The Reeve of Harvey, Mr. Shaw, was in today," said the Times to Mr. Burnham, M.P., "Any new developments in the Gannon's Bridge? Mr. Burnham said that there were and that he was very much astonished that Mr. Shaw had not acted more in the interests of Harvey and the general public than he had. The case of the Gannon's Narrows Bridge is a simple one. This bridge has, by lapse of time, become a rotten and dangerous structure. It is 1650 feet long and is divided into two parts. The southern part is owned by the Dominion Government and used by them for a swing. The Northern part was built by contribution from the various municipal bodies and from probably other sources as well. It was thought a couple of years ago, that it was high time a new bridge should be built and the Dominion Government was asked to help. Subsequently a deputation composed of Messrs. Clarkson, Weir and Elliott interviewed the Minister with respect to it, and Mr. Burnham was able to assure them that the Minister promised them consideration. From that day to this, no notice was given to the Dominion Government or to Mr. Burnham of any plan being adopted for the building of the bridge. The whole thing might have been abandoned for all these people were informed. Mr. Shaw however, went to the County Council and got a large grant from them to repair the bridge. Mr. Burnham got a promise this Spring, from the Dominion Minister to put a respectable sum in the estimates towards a new bridge at this point. He wrote the Township of Harvey and was informed that the Council of Harvey had nothing to do with it. So far as any other body, besides the County Council, was concerned they were not notified of any plan for the construction of a bridge. Mr. Shaw has, however, saddled the County with a large sum for the repair of the bridge, which is an entirely useless operation.

If he had not been so keen to keep the Dominion Government and the Provincial Government and the local Tories from getting any credit for the erection of a large permanent structure at this point something would be doing now instead of nothing. He has handled this question much as he has handled the Buckhorn bridge question. He is too much inclined to be clever, and it doesn't always work out. If there were less politics in the management of these affairs the public would derive a great deal more benefit, and it cannot be said that the loss to the northern part of this County from the bungling of this bridge matter is anything else than a calamity, and when confronted with this statement and in his own lack of business ability in handling the matter, Shaw cooly replies that there is nothing else to do than to go on and repair the bridge with the County's money. A good live man is badly needed in this matter.

BRIDE-TO-BE BURNS MARRIAGE LICENSE

Dover, Del., April 8.—Robert E. Raughley, of Harrington, Del., and Miss Mary C. Short of the same place, came near not getting married, because the bride accidentally burned the marriage license. The document was entrusted to her by the prospective husband. Just before the wedding Miss Short burned several love letters and other papers. Inadvertently she included the license.

When the young woman learned her mistake she notified Raughley, and he hurried to the county seat here out of breath, a distance of 17 miles, for a duplicate. When this was procured he rushed back and arrived soon after the time originally set for the nuptials. Then the ceremony was performed.

NEW HAZELTON QUITS WORK FOR MAN HUNT

New Hazelton, B. C., April 8.—Man-hunting was the principal industry here early to-day following the escape of at least one of the gang who held up the Union Bank here yesterday, but who were decimated in a pitched battle with citizens led by cowboys.

Two were killed on the spot, two were probably fatally shot and a fifth was hard hit. He may recover. Since bank hold ups have almost become a habit the Government will be asked, it was decided to-day, to grant New Hazelton and district better police protection.

The bank which is a substantial building of log construction, standing by itself apart from other business houses, had opened for business only a few minutes when the robery was pulled off. Two men armed with rifles, walked up the road, two others appeared in the bush at the rear of the bank, while the last two came from another direction. The first two jumped inside the door of the bank and with rifles raised, called out hands up!

The other four appeared almost at the same instant, taking up positions outside the bank.

The only customer in the bank was John Gaslin, manager for Lynch Brothers, a contracting firm. Gasling had a stack of currency and postal orders in his hands, and less than $50 in cash. While his companion covered the employes with his rifle, one robber stepped forward and relieved Gaslin of his cash, also reaching over the tellers desk to the drawer and taking all the currency within reach.

The robbers were not more than half a minute in the bank. As they backed out the clerks began to reach for their guns, and in reply to this movement the robbers fired several shots only man hit was Fenton, a ledger keeper who suffered a scalp wound from a splinter knocked out of his desk. Fenton is an Ottawa man.

The shooting alarmed the town and several cowboys who happened to be in the hardware store, got their guns into play at once. They were backed up by citizens, and within a few moments the fusilade was general.

Shooting from cover the pose did such effective work that two of the robbers fell dead in their tracks as they raced along the road towards the bush.

As the men came out of the bank citizens who had assembled, picked them off. Two dropped in their tracks and three others were wounded. Two of the wounded were captured latter and the only man not shot was caught after he had sprained his ankle while running through the bush. The last man was still at large to-day and a pose was keeping up the chase.

The condition of those shot to-day was: Two dead two seriously wounded, one slightly wounded.

Two men are in jail, one of them being the man who injured his leg and the other a suspect. One of the robbers was shot through the heart another through the right lung a third through the arm, both of which he is likely to lose; one through the stomach and hips, and one had a leg shattered by a bullet.

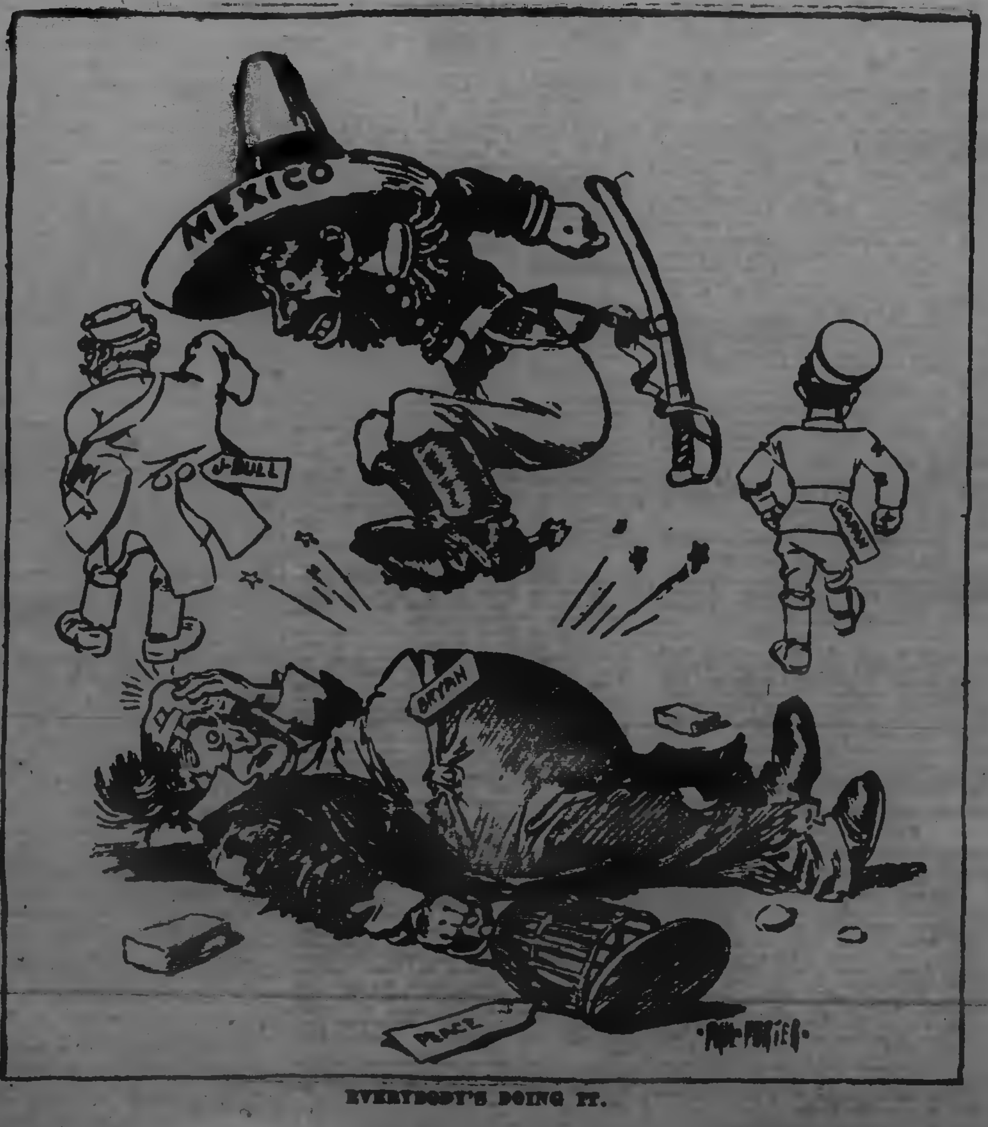
GOVERNMENT GIVES $10,000 TO WIDOWS

Ottawa, April 8.—Premier Borden announced this afternoon that the Government had decided to make a grant of $10,000 towards a fund for the relief of the widow and orphants as a result of the catastrophe in the Newfoundland sealing fleet.



EVERYBODY'S DOING IT.

ASQUITH BACK IN SADDLE AFTER BRIEF BUSINESS REST

Herbert Henry Asquith Once More Member for East Fife by Acclamation

London, April 8.—Premier Asquith again became a member of the House of Commons to-day, when he was returned unopposed, by his old constituency of East Fife, Scotland. At noon, as no other candidates had put in an appearance, the returning officer of the constituency declared Herbert Henry Asquith duly elected once more for the constituency he has represented in the Lower House since 1886.

An interesting coincidence in connection with Mr. Asquith's return is that to-day is the sixth anniversary of his assumption of the Premiership.

Took an Office for Profit.

Premier Asquith had resigned his seat in the House of Commons on March 30th, when he established a precedent by taking the Secretaryship for War as well as the Premiership. According to the British custom a member of Parliament on accepting an "office of profit under the Crown" is compelled to give up his seat in order to seek the approval of his constituents for his acceptance of office.

RELICS LOST IN $500,000 FIRE

St. Augustine, Fla., April 8.—Historic St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States, was swept by a half-million fire that destroyed five tourists' hotels and burned records and curios dating back to the days of Spanish rule in the 16th century. Two persons were seriously injured. Two persons were seriously injured.

Guests in the hotels fled into the streets before day, many leaving valuables and personal belongings behind. Several escaped clad only in their sleeping apparel.

Rescue work by the employes of the Florida House, where the fire originated, is believed to have saved many lives.

IRISH NATIONALIST ARMY IS NOT RELIABLE AS YET

Force in South of Ireland Loyal Only to Own Interests, Says Writer

London, April 8.—The development of the Nationalist Volunteers in Ireland is beginning to attract the attention of Unionist journalists.

After a tour of the Nationalist Ireland, one capable observer declares that the movement is "big with danger." The force has been organised since December by Sir Roger Casement, the Consul who exposed the horrors of the slave traffic at Putumayo, and John McNeill, a professor at the Irish Nationalist University, who have spread the net so well that cities, towns and hamlets in all parts of Ireland are within its mesh. No simulation can hide the fact that their object is in case of need to coerce Ulster or make Government beneath the old regime impossible.

Loyal Only to Selves.

The writer draws a distinction between the Ulstermen and the Nationalist Volunteers and concludes by saying: "Two years ago the Government might have suppressed the Ulstermen. To-day they cannot. The Ulster Volunteers are loyal to British rule, but the Southern Volunteers are loyal to themselves. The time for the Government to act is now, not six years hence."

STRUGGLES IN VAIN WITH WOMAN TO PREVENT HER TAKING OWN LIFE

Constable at Niagara Falls Loses Grip--Woman Wades Into Current--Sinks

Niagara Falls, N.Y., April 8.—An unidentified woman successfully fought the efforts of a reservation constable who endeavoured to-day to prevent her from taking her own life at the Third Sister Island.

Tried a Pike Pole.

One reservation constable, Charles Martin, pulled her from the water but she eluded him and waded in again. This time Martin got a pike pole, caught her clothing, and then followed a struggle in which the woman fought desperately, sinking time and time again under the rapidly moving water.

Body Soon Recovered.

Help arrived from the mainland in about ten minutes and the body was brought to shore, and a physician was summoned, but the woman was dead. The body awaits identification at a local undertakers and Coroner Walter Scott is in charge.
